

List of activities – Inter Faith Week 2023

This list contains information about activities known to have taken place to mark Inter Faith Week 2023 in England, Northern Ireland and Wales. It has been compiled by the Inter Faith Network for the UK, which leads on the Week, based on information it listed on the www.interfaithweek.org website. It retains a combination of future and past tense descriptions which reflect the times at which events were added.

The list begins with activities that were online only. It is then ordered alphabetically by town, then chronologically by start date.

A small number of activities have been counted separately but not listed, for example where details could not be shared publicly. Additionally, Interfaith Mitzvah Day activities are not listed but have been counted based on numbers provided by Mitzvah Day.

There'll be time to mingle and chat and everyone is welcome to join us for lunch afterwards (dietary needs are catered for). The meeting will take place in the family room at The Towers from 11:00am until approx. 3:00pm. This is a private space inside the pub where we can chat in a safe environment. The room is accessible for anyone with mobility issues.

The event is free but you'll need to book your space via our Facebook group as there's limited capacity. Please only book a ticket if you're definitely attending this event. We'd love to get people from as many faiths as possible to attend.

In a world where religious conflict is front page news and the number of people who identify as religious is declining, is the chasm of understanding between people of different faiths and atheists and agnostics growing wider? Can people of diverse religious affiliations find shared values and build partnerships for the common good, or are our disagreements too vast? In this event, professor, author, and activist Chris Stedman will share his story of seeking common ground with the religious as an atheist. Then, in conversation with University of Sussex Lead Chaplain James Croft, he'll discuss what theists and nontheists can gain from being in dialogue, the differences between the interfaith movements in the United States and United Kingdom, and how people of different faiths and those of nonreligious beliefs can work together to improve the world we all share.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Arts Student Union

Short description:

How do you feel about being part of something bigger than yourself? Some people discover this through faith and a connection to God, while others find it in the vast universe, like the skies and the oceans. This can stem from our desires to look outside the borders of self and find well-being, solace, purpose, and inspiration. Art therapy during Inter Faith Week aims to bring students with diverse perspectives to use art as a means of self-expression and exploration. Attendees may choose to share their art and discuss what it means to form a personal connection with something greater than themselves, be it through faith, an appreciation of nature, or other pathways.

This one-off therapeutic group session is scheduled for the first day of Inter Faith Week and is for students who are curious about religious belief, faith, the theme, or art therapy in general. All UAL students welcome.

Faith for the Climate

Short description:

The climate crisis continues to wreak havoc disproportionately in the global south, often resulting in devastating losses to livelihoods and even life itself. In a bid to mitigate the impacts of the climate crisis, communities are constantly forced to adapt to their changing environments. Anjana, Sreejith and Dipika are from vastly different regions of India, but all have one thing in common: they are having an invaluable impact on the lives of the people they share their communities with and beyond, by communicating and implementing low-cost and low-tech solutions to adapt to this unjust crisis.

Film #1: Mangrove Family - In Kerala, a family continues their father's extraordinary mangrove conservation legacy, resulting in greater protection for coastal communities from extreme weather events.

Film #2: Harvest Mother - In Maharashtra, Anjana dedicates her life to protecting her fellow farmers' harvests from worsening droughts, with ingenious low-tech adaptation solutions.

Film #3: Climate Guardians - In Gujarat, Dipika travels door to door in her slum settlement to teach others how to be more resilient to the climate crisis, including how to cope with the increasingly brutal heat of the summer months.

The screenings will be followed by an interfaith panel discussion, featuring Vibhati Bhatia, Dr Moiz Bohra, Sunita Ramani and Mike Rumsey

'Home' is a fundamental concept that transcends borders and cultures. It's a place of safety, belonging, and community. In the United Kingdom, housing justice is a pressing concern. Skyrocketing housing prices, a shortage of affordable housing, and systemic inequalities have left countless families facing homelessness, displacement, and insecurity. It's a crisis that demands our collective attention and action. In this enlightening Scriptural Reasoning event, we invite you to engage in a thoughtful exploration of the theme of 'home' through the process of Scriptural Reasoning, an inter faith dialogue method that brings together individuals from diverse religious backgrounds to study and discuss sacred texts. Organisation(s) holding the event:

Tower Hamlets Inter Faith Forum

Short description:

Are you or those you support struggling with the cost of living crisis? As this crisis continues into another long winter, join us to hear about the support on offer, and to find out how groups in the borough are helping people and families that would otherwise go hungry. Tower Hamlets remains one of the poorest boroughs in London, with one of the highest rates of poverty in the country. Come along to our Inter Faith Week event to find out about help that is available from the council, faith based and community groups, including warm spaces, emergency help and foodbanks.

With great speakers and a panel discussion on food insecurity, join us for some delicious food, discussion and browse the stalls held by local organisations. We will also be joined by Fair Future UK for an activity.

Our panel discussion will ask:

- Can the council do more to empower local grassroots organisations through grants, food, and equipment?
- How can there be better collaboration and communication between all stakeholders?
- How can services be equipped to offer a wraparound service
- Has collaboration with the private sector improved?
- How can small faith settings be supported to start their own foodbank?

Panellists included Joanna Reid, CEO of Bow Foodbank, and Sister Christine Frost of Neighbours in Poplar - more TBA

Have your say too! There will be space for open discussion and to put your questions and comments to the panel and speakers. Do you have ideas for how cost of living services can be improved? What are your experiences of using food services? What does true partnership working mean to you? All are welcome to our event - we hope to see you there!

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Norwich Interfaith Link

Short description:

A chance to prepare for input to a meeting being held by the Religion and Media Centre at Norwich Cathedral on 30 November on Creating Connections: Religion and the Media. At that event there will be meeting with journalists to find out about what kind of stories mainstream media is looking for: 'the weird and controversial?', 'human interest?', 'out of the ordinary?', not dog bites man but man bites dog ?, not 'feel-good stories about volunteers doing good things'? If so, is that likely to appeal to how religious groups - is it how they would want to appear? Helen Baldry, who regularly reports on Christian groups in Norfolk, will help us discuss what sort of stories from religions can appeal, without distorting how people perceive religious people and practices. Join us to give us your views, share your stories, then we can go together better prepared to the event on 30 November.

Religions have different origins, developmental pathways, belief systems, and spiritualities. Yet there remains the possibility of a family resemblance between them. This talk ties the reality of religious experience to the demands and outcomes of interreligious dialogue. The speaker is Revd Canon Dr Alan Race who is Chair of the World Congress of Faiths and the editor of its journal 'Interreligious Insight'. He is a retired Anglican priest-theologian, and the author of books and articles on the themes of theology of religions and interreligious dialogue.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Centre for Muslim-Christian Studies Oxford

Short description:

Online and in-person event hosted by the Centre for Muslim-Christian Studies Oxford - Drawing on his recently published book, The Muslim Difference (Yale 2022), Youshaa Patel explores the vexing Islamic discourse of reprehensible imitation (tashabbuh), a discourse that enjoins ordinary believers to embody and display their religious difference from Christians, Jews and others in public life. Moderating cross-cultural imitation and assimilation was as crucial to the construction of Muslim identity and alterity during Islam's formative period as it is today. This lecture situates the religious discourse within Islamic scripture and tradition, casting new light on a long history of how small differences have defined Muslim interfaith encounters.

Short description:

This event will be held in the Anglican (Church in Wales) tradition, but is open to all including those who are faith curious. The Eucharist (also known as Holy Communion, the Mass, or the Lord's Supper), is celebrated by Christians around the world. The Eucharist can take many different forms across Christian traditions, and it may be understood by Christians in different ways, but at the heart of the celebration there is always a special prayer of thanksgiving, or 'Eucharistic Prayer'. This is offered at the service in the name of all who are gathered, giving thanks for all that God has given us in Christ.

Advent is a traditional season when Christians prepare for Christmas. A powerful custom at this time is lighting candles as a symbol of light shining in darkness and of good overcoming evil in the world. We reflect on the past while gaining hope for our journey still to come. This year Cornwall Faith Forum invites you to an early Advent Spiral Reflection for Peace to coincide with Inter Faith Week. People from all faiths and age, beliefs or none, and anyone seeking peace, are invited to light a candle on our spiral, sharing a thought, reflection, reading or prayer on our theme a 'Pathway to Peace'. We will be making the Advent Spiral together and you might also want to bring with you a LED candle, some evergreen foliage and other Autumn natural items such as fir cones and leaves (make sure you leave our insect/invertebrae friends behind where they live!) We can also bring vegetarian food to share, affirming our common ground as we learn and build peace together.
