FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Faith and inter faith responses to events in France and elsewhere

Attacks in a number of places around the world have continued to reverberate here.

A copy of the statement made by IFN's Co-Chairs and Vice-Chairs in response to the Bastille Day attack in Nice on 14 July can be seen at <http://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/statements-and-messages/387-bastille-day-attack-in-nice>. Many faith and inter faith groups in the UK responded to that attack and also to the murder of Fr Jacques Hamel, a Catholic Priest, during Mass in Normandy on 26 July. A number of the responses to the attack on Fr Hamel, including a message to member bodies from IFN's Co-Chairs, can be found at <http://www.interfaith.org.uk/news>.

In the context of such impacts and also other recent events, the All Party Parliamentary Group of Faith and Society issued, in July, a 'Statement of Hope'. This can be found at <http://www.faihandociety.org/news/2016/07/statement-of-hope/>.

Continuing work with refugees

The Government has launched a new scheme under which community and faith groups will be able to sponsor Syrian refugee families who are being resettled in the UK. Further information about this can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/community-sponsorship-scheme-launched-for-refugees-in-the-uk>. The scheme was launched by the Home Secretary and the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth Palace in July. Guidance for prospective sponsors can be found at https://www.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment\_data/file/538794/Full-Community-Sponsorship-guidance-for-prospective-sponsors.pdf.

An online service has also been set up by the Government at <https://www.gov.uk/help-refugees>. This enables people to note any support that they are able to provide to refugees, such as housing, fostering or donations of goods such as clothes and toys. It is initially being piloted in 9 local authorities and has been designed to enable local authorities to specify the type of donations they most require to support refugees in their area.

Faith and inter faith groups around the country are continuing to work to support refugees through projects, such as the Cooking Together initiative in Nottingham. This is a programme of the Rainbow Project, funded by a grant from Near Neighbours, which is aimed at improving self-confidence, employability and health and wellbeing. The initiative provides refugees and asylum-seekers with Level 2 Food Safety training as well as healthy cooking skills and nutritional and healthy eating advice. Upon completion of the training, participants are offered work experience in preparing, cooking and facilitating weekly meals at various kitchens and communities across the city. More information can be found at <http://www.nottinghampost.com/cooking-up-a-future-for-nottingham-s-asylum-seekers-and-refugees/story-29655727-detail/story.html#AILRkJeeTFW6EUFr.99>

Report on Public Faith and Finance

The Centre for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship and Public Spirit, both at the University of Bristol, have, with the support of the Barrow Cadbury Trust, published a report entitled 'Public Faith and Finance: Faith Responses to the Financial Crisis'.

The report is based on research carried out by Dr Therese O'Toole and Dr Ekaterina Braginskaia. The first, ‘Prejudice and Unlawful Behaviour: Exploring Levers for Change’, has chapters on each of the different protected characteristics, as well as a section on ‘intersectionalities’. The section on Religion and Belief (chapter 6) makes a number of observations about the nature of prejudice and its relationships with behaviour. It also notes that “interventions focusing on education through [inter-religion] contact may provide a means of reducing prejudice and discrimination based on religion.” The full report can be found at

The second, ‘Causes and Motivations of Hate Crime’, draws on evidence to explore the causes and motivations of Hate Crime linked to the five protected characteristics currently protected by hate crime law. It can be found at

IFN meeting for local inter faith practitioners

IFN held a day event for local inter faith practitioners in Coventry on 28 July. This event was for practitioners from local inter faith groups anywhere in the UK to share their experiences, discuss issues of common interest and concern and have focused learning opportunities about practical aspects of developing successful inter faith programmes.

Mehru Fitter MBE, of Coventry Multi Faith Forum, welcomed participants to Coventry. The Rt Revd Richard Atkinson OBE, Co-Chair of IFN, spoke about how local inter faith organisations are a vital resource in our communities; Narendra Waghela of Leicester Council of Faiths and an IFN Trustee gave a picture of how Leicester came together in the days following the EU Referendum outcome; Sally Sealey OBE, Senior Policy Adviser on Hate Crime, Integration and Faith Directorate, Department for Communities and Local Government, spoke about how local inter faith groups can respond to tensions and hate crime and encourage unity; Mohamed Omar, Project Officer at Interfaith Glasgow gave an overview of the Weekend Club set up by Interfaith Glasgow as their response to the social isolation experienced by asylum seekers, refugees and new migrants; and Rabbi Dr Robert Ash from Preston Faiths Forum talked about how the Forum had been using week long programmes for Inter Faith Week and other routes to expand involvement in inter faith activity in Preston. Reflections on themes of the day were offered by the Revd Andy Williams of Faiths Network For Manchester, Sean Finlay of Wisbech Interfaith Forum and Jaskiran Kaur Mehmi of Leeds Concord Interfaith Fellowship.

Six workshops took place during the day, with participants each taking part in two of these. The workshop topics were 'Working for united communities - tackling prejudice, tensions and hate crime' with opening reflections from Alistair Beattie and Duncan Struthers of Bristol Multi Faith Forum; 'Working in partnership for the common good' with opening reflections from Dr Peter Rookes of Birmingham Council of Faiths; 'Religious literacy' with opening reflections from Jatinder Singh Birdi of Warwick District Faiths Forum and Pat Stevens of Harrow Interfaith; 'Change and opportunity' with opening reflections from Reynold Rosenberg and Valerie Skottowe of Welwyn Hatfield Interfaith Group and Canon Andrew Pratt of Lancashire Forum of Faiths. There were also workshops on Social Media run by Social B and on Funding and resourcing by Coventry Voluntary Action.

In 2015 IFN held two day events in Sheffield and London for local inter faith practitioners. Reports from those events can be found at <http://www.interfaith.org.uk/publications/all-publications/all-publications>. A report on the Coventry event is also being produced.

Beaches – safety and attire

This summer has seen a number of deaths and narrow escapes along Britain's coastline. People from faith groups in urban areas often go for day trips to the beach, either as faith groups or on inter faith outings. The responsibility for safety on individual beaches is devolved to local councils but the NHS has a page on beach safety on its website - <http://www.nhs.uk/Livewell/Healthyholidays/Pages/Beachsafety.aspx> and there are other helpful short guidelines such as <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-37152592>.

Beach attire has also been in the news recently with bans in some French cities of the 'burkini'. The Telegraph newspaper reported on 26 August that a spokesperson for the Government Equalities Office said: "The Government sees no need for measures restricting what people can wear in public places" and that "We support the rights of individuals in keeping with Britain's tradition of freedom and fairness." The full article can be found at <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/08/26/britain-will-not-introduce-a-ban-on-women-wearing-burkinis-says/>.

Big Lunch Extras Community Camp

Many faith communities and inter faith groups took part in this year's Big Lunch in June. The organisers behind the Lunch know that afterwards many people involved start thinking more about projects or initiatives for helping their local communities or their environment. The Big Lunch is therefore running a Big Lunch Extras Community Camp for three days in Cornwall from 23 to 26 September for people at the start of their journey in setting up a community initiative, and for those who want to take existing projects to the next level. The Camp offers a mix of practical activities, facilitated sessions and networking opportunities with like-minded people.

Applications are currently open for this year's camp. The focus this year will be on food and community. For further information, visit <http://www.biglunchextras.com/events/feeding-community-spirit-future-food-community-0%20>.

Remembering World War One soldiers of all faiths

Soldiers from many faith backgrounds fought during World War One and a number of initiatives have been set up to profile these during the centenary commemorations.

The India 1914 website is part of the 'Remembering Indian Soldiers' project supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund and the GoldenTours Foundation. The project is looking at Indian soldiers from all communities and regions regardless of their race or religion. One of its primary aims is to share the heritage with the various ethnic communities, in particular with Buddhist, Hindu, Jain and Zoroastrian communities in the UK. In September a symposium took place in the Houses of Parliament entitled 'The Meeting of the Minds – Reconnect', which was attended by academics, presenters, and historians. A further symposium is planned for October. More information about the project can be found at <http://www.india1914.com/>.

The Forgotten Heroes 14-19 Foundation is a non-profit, non-governmental, non-political, non-religious organisation, which "hopes to foster dialogues which are truly transnational, multicultural and interfaith, between peoples of different nations, religions, languages and identities, with the aim of finding a common humanity based on universal values”. The Foundation has been researching how soldiers from different religious backgrounds fought united, side-by-side during World War One; sharing their experiences in accommodating each other’s cultures, music, gastronomy and religious practices, despite the difficult conditions in the trenches. ### Faith Network for Manchester Report

The Faith Network for Manchester (FN4M) has launched a report entitled ‘Understanding Needs and Improving Services for Minority Communities in Manchester’.

The findings of the report covered the following 5 themes: Demographics; Worries and Needs; Demographic Change; Racism; and Barriers to Accessing Services. It concludes with 24 recommendations for Statutory Services, Training and Development, Faith and Voluntary Sector Innovation, FN4M and Further Research. The report is based on the responses of 312 people in to a questionnaire survey carried out last year in partnership with two other organisations, the Women’s Solidarity Forum and Saheli, as part of research towards which FN4M received funding from the Equalities Programme of the City Council. It presents a picture of needs of different communities in Manchester; views on the City's changing demographic make-up; an understanding of the issues that impact on different groups; and perspectives on why BME women do, or do not, access specialist services. The latter issue will be covered in more detail in a separate report being developed by research partners. It also makes recommendations on improving community relations, with a view to influencing service design and delivery in Manchester City.

Electronic copies of the full report are available on request from Faith Network for Manchester. For further information contact mail@fn4m.org or telephone 0161 833 8822.

CALLS FOR INFORMATION, COMPETITIONS, AND NOMINATIONS

House of Lords Call for Evidence on charity sector sustainability

In May this year a House of Lords Select Committee on Charities was established to consider issues relating to sustaining the charity sector and the challenges of charity governance. The Select Committee has now published a Call for Evidence.

The Committee is looking to understand the pressures faced across the sector by charities. Recommendations will be made to the UK Government, and to others, which the Committee hopes will help ease these pressures, and make sure that the charitable sector in England and Wales is sustainable for many years to come. The Committee considers sustainability to be charities having the appropriate resources available to them to meet their charitable purposes. As the regulation of charities is a devolved matter in Northern Ireland and Scotland, the Committee will be focusing its inquiry on the experiences of charities in England and Wales. It also, however, wants to learn about the experience of charities in Northern Ireland and Scotland, as well as in other countries.

The inquiry is intended to be an opportunity to engage positively with charities and the voluntary sector. The Committee is looking for examples of best practice, innovation and ideas to bring the sector together to make sure that it can thrive. Further information on the Call for Evidence, including how to respond, can be found at <http://www.parliament.uk/business/committees/committees-a-z/lords-select/charities-committee/news-parliament-2015/call-for-evidence/>. The deadline for responses is 5 September.

FaithAction survey on out of hospital care

FaithAction is researching the role that the faith sector plays in what the health system calls 'out of hospital care'. This includes every kind of care that takes place outside of hospitals. In particular this means social care or support that takes pressure off hospitals – either because it prevents people from needing hospital care in the first place, or because it supports their transition from hospital to the community. This could be formal types of care such as residential social care or very informal types of care such as befriending, ‘dementia cafés’ and help with shopping.

For further information and to complete the short survey, contact Faith Action on 0845 094 6350, or email rodie.garlan@faithaction.net.

There is a dedicated public page where anyone can contribute their thoughts and views on community cohesion. This includes space to include stories or examples of work which support community cohesion. This can be found at <https://openforum.westminster.gov.uk/community-cohesion-commission>.

The Queen’s Award for Voluntary Service

In 2002, to celebrate HM The Queen's Golden Jubilee, the Queen’s Award for Voluntary Service (QAVS) was established. The Award acknowledges outstanding work undertaken by voluntary groups in their own communities, recognising commitment, dedication and unselfishness, resulting in public service for the benefit of others, normally of a social, welfare, economic or environmental nature.

Any UK based group, consisting of two or more volunteers, can be nominated, so long as they have been in existence, carrying out the same voluntary work, for at least three years. The group must be nominated by an external person who has first-hand knowledge of the voluntary organisation and of the beneficial work undertaken; and two other people prepared to support the nomination in writing.

Award recipients are entitled to use the Queen's Award emblem on their website, stationary and other printed material. It is a benchmark of outstanding achievement in the voluntary sector.

Nominations must be submitted online by 30 September in any year for consideration at the next meeting of the Awards Panel. Details, including how to register in order to proceed, can be found at <https://qavs.direct.gov.uk/>.

Near Neighbours grants programme

The Near Neighbours programme offers small grants of between £250 and £5,000, as seed funding for local groups and organisations working to bring together neighbours, and to develop relationships across diverse faiths and ethnicities to improve their communities.

As part of the criteria, projects should:

- Work locally. We want to see people who are living very locally (ie in the same street, estate or neighbourhood) come together.
- Work sustainably. We want to see long term and natural relationships grow, that will last beyond the period of funding.
- Work to improve the community. We want to see people working to make their communities a better place to live.

Continuing work with refugees

Faith and inter faith organisations and communities are continuing to respond to the refugee crisis.

As noted above, this was a key item on the Agenda of a meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum on 8 November. At that meeting a short opening reflection was given by Rabbi David Mason on bases within the Jewish tradition for responding to refugees and a presentation was made by Hannah Gregory, Head of Partnership Team, Resettlement Programmes, Home Office, on the Government's response to the Syrian refugee crisis and the development of the community sponsorship programme. This included information about the Government's refugee resettlement programme; the 'Help Refugees' website <https://www.gov.uk/helprefugees>; and the Community Sponsorship Scheme <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/apply-for-full-community-sponsorship> which enables community groups, such as faith groups and charities, to directly support refugees arriving locally.

During Inter Faith Week the Joseph Interfaith Foundation launched an initiative for young refugees entitled 'Introduction to Social Culture of Britain'. The project will begin in January 2017 and is aimed at refugees aged between 16 and 26. "Many of our young refugees come from war-torn countries where either they have witnessed or been personally affected by horrific violence. When they arrive in this country they don't have necessary language skills or knowledge of our laws and social mores. The aim of this project is to inform these young people and offer them support from various professional and religious bodies to help them build resilience to being misled, and help them to integrate more easily into the community and society." For further information, to participate, or recommend individuals, visit <http://www.josephinterfaithfoundation.org/forthcoming.php>.

The Multi Faith Centre at the University of Derby has partnered with the British Red Cross and Upbeat Communities to deliver a project supporting refugees and asylum seekers in Derby called 'Survive and Thrive'. More information about the project is at <http://multifaithcentre.org/projects/>. One of its aims is to give refugees and asylum seekers increased opportunity to belong and to find purpose within the community. As part of this project the Centre is offering free training on 'Getting the Story Straight: Refugees and Asylum Seekers'. Further information is below.

Equality and Human Rights Commission materials on Religion or Belief

The EHRC will shortly be concluding its three-year programme of work - Shared understandings: a new EHRC strategy to strengthen understanding of religion or belief in public life – by publishing three final products. These are: Religion or belief – is the law working? (an evaluation of the effectiveness of the religion and belief legal framework); online guidance for employers on key religion or belief topics including a user-friendly step-by-step guide to handling employee requests; and online training modules on religion or belief for line managers (developed with ACAS) and trade union representatives (developed with the TUC).

For more information, view the EHRC website after Friday 2 December at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en>.

BBC review of religious affairs coverage

It has been reported that a review of religious affairs coverage at the BBC will be taking place and that the Director General of the BBC, Lord Hall, will head discussions with faith leaders in the New Year with the aim of making religious affairs programming more reflective of modern, multi-faith Britain. This will include a drive to produce high quality content on a wider variety of faiths and beliefs, including Islam, Hinduism, Sikhism, Judaism and Humanism. For further information, see <http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/bbc-christian-bias-plans-diversify-faith-programming-a7416141.html> and <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/11/28/bbc-coming-short-religious-broadcasting-does-not-take-faith/>.

The BBC has announced that the former Labour minister James Purnell will assume responsibility for religious affairs programming and that Religious affairs correspondent Martin Bashir has been promoted to the more senior role of 'religious editor'. This is reported at <https://www.theguardian.com/media/2016/nov/23/james-purnell-to-head-bbc-religious-affairs-programming>.

Caste discrimination consultation

In September the Government announced that it will be undertaking “a full public consultation on the issue of caste and the Equality Act 2010”. Further details and timings for the consultation will be set out in due course. The announcement can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/caste-discrimination-consultation>.

On 27 October a question was raised in Parliament about the consultation process: <https://hansard.parliament.uk/commons/2016-10-27/debates/2EEDAD3B-164B-448B-AE4F-A7918E044974/CasteDiscriminationConsultation>.

Religious Education Commission

As noted in the August-September E-bulletin, the Religious Education Council of England and Wales – which shares reciprocal membership with IFN – launched a new Religious Education Commission in July. The Commission was established by the REC, which set its Terms of Reference and provides its secretariat. However, it is independent, and has responsibility for its own reports and recommendations. It now has its own website at <http://www.commissiononre.org.uk/> and Twitter account @CommissonOnRE and those interested in engaging with the Commission are advised to follow these. The website includes an email sign-up form. It is envisaged that the Commission will launch public evidence-gathering consultations in due course, but the website also includes the ability to make contributions ahead of that.

Update on places of worship security funding scheme

Further to the Government’s announcement of funding for security at places of worship in July, the Rt Hon Amber Rudd MP, Home Secretary, has awarded a total of £700,000 to 9 community projects and 59 places of worship. The community projects will receive £300,000 pounds between them to fund ‘innovative schemes’ to tackle hate crime. The 59 places of worship will benefit from over £400,000 to assist with the installation of security measures, such as CCTV cameras or protective fencing. The Home Secretary said that “this funding is the latest step in this government’s mission to stamp out all types of hate crime, which has absolutely no place in a Britain that works for everyone.”

For further information, visit <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/government-awards-700k-to-tackle-hate-crime>.

A second round of bids for the fund is due to open in Spring 2017 - <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/places-of-worship-security-funding-scheme>.

EHRC letter to political parties

On 25 November the Chair and Chief Executive of the Equality and Human Rights Commission published an open letter to all political parties in Westminster encouraging them to engage with the Commission and calling upon them to do more to heal divisions which have emerged following the EU referendum earlier this year and states "Politicians of all sides should be aware of the effect on national mood of their words and policies, even when they are not enacted." The letter can be read at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/our-work/news/letter-all-political-parties-westminster>

Inter faith friendship theme for latest Amazon advert

In consultation with the Church of England, Christian Muslim Forum and Muslim Council of Britain, Amazon UK launched an advert, during Inter Faith Week in November which takes inter faith friendship as its theme. The advert shows a vicar and an imam in friendly conversation before exchanging gifts.

A spokesman for Amazon said that they wished to portray the figures accurately and sensitively: "Our casting reflects this: the gentleman playing the vicar is a practising vicar in London, the gentleman playing the imam is a devout Muslim and the principal of a Muslim school. We used an actual church and mosque for our scenes within the places of worship." Harun Khan, Secretary General of the Muslim Council of Britain, said: "The video from Amazon Prime is a brilliant advert highlighting an example of the strong friendships that exist between many Christians and Muslims across the country. The symbolism of gift-giving adds to the advert's power, especially during seasonal festivities." A Church of England spokesman said: "Fostering interfaith dialogue and community cohesion is a daily part of our work. In many parts of the country the Church of England is the guarantor and convenor of much interfaith dialogue, and this advert reflects that reality."

New £5 banknote and animal products

Following a question from a Twitter user on 28 November, the Bank of England confirmed that the new polymer £5 banknotes contain 'a trace' of tallow, a product derived from animal fat. The news has sparked concern among vegetarian and vegan groups, and it is likely that this will have relevance for those who avoid animal products for religious reasons. A Hindu temple in Leicester, for example, is encouraging people not to bring the notes into the temple as charitable donations - <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-leicestershire-38156650>. This is a breaking story, and more information is likely to become available in due course. News coverage can be found at <https://www.theguardian.com/business/2016/nov/29/bank-of-england-urged-to-make-new-5-note-vegan-friendly> and <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/11/29/new-5-notes-contain-animal-fat-says-bank-england-drawing-anger/>. A Change.org petition calling upon the Bank of England to use alternatives has already attracted over 100,000 signatures, and mentions religious objections to animal products in its leader text. It can be found at https://www.change.org/p/bank-of-england-remove-tallow-from-bank-notes?recruiter=12006801&utm\_source=share\_petition&utm\_medium=copylink

Inter Faith Week in England, Wales and Northern Ireland and Scottish Interfaith Week both drew to a close on 20 November.

The Inter Faith Network for the UK leads on the Week in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, and its Co-Chairs, Bishop Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi have said:

“The 500+ events that have taken part around the UK have sent a powerful signal about people of different faiths and beliefs working together for the good of our shared society and about the importance of positive inter faith relations. The Week has also highlighted the enormous contribution that those of all faith and belief communities make – in most cases through volunteering – to their local communities.”

The Week saw an astonishing range of events and activities: multi faith remembrance events; faith trails and open door days; conferences and seminars on topics from tackling hate crime, to health and faith, and different faiths’ and beliefs’ understandings of particular issues; social action initiatives from help for refugees and the homeless to river cleaning and tree planting; football matches; music, dance, poetry and arts and craft workshops; school activities; quizzes; the launch of new initiatives; cookery sessions; exchange visits between places of worship of different faiths; a youth 'Interfaith Summit'; blog series; exhibitions; photographic and art competitions; campus programmes; dialogues on a wide range of topics; celebrations; and more.

Faith communities took part across the UK. They hosted those of other faiths, journeyed with each other to visit each other’s places of worship; discussed responses to the challenging issues of the moment; contributed to social action projects to help their local communities; and taken active roles in civic and other markings of the Week. Locally, an increasing number of churches, gurdwaras, mandirs, mosques, synagogues, temples and viharas have thrown open their doors. People of non-religious beliefs were also actively involved in many events.

Inter faith organisations also played a significant role in the Week, from the UK's 250+ local inter faith groups, through to national inter faith bodies. A special event held at the Houses of Parliament by the All Party Parliamentary Interfaith Group with the Inter Faith Network for the UK on 15 November explored local inter faith work and the importance of local inter faith bodies with inputs from Interfaith Glasgow, Faith Network for Manchester and the Redbridge Faith Forum. There was cross-party participation in the Week at both national and local levels. Both Communities Secretary Sajid Javid and Communities Minister Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth attended events.

This year saw many public agencies getting involved in the Week: from local authorities, to emergency services. It also had energetic involvement from a range of organisations from other sectors such as Sporting Equals and participation from many youth bodies such as Girlguiding and the Scouting Association. It saw wide-scale involvement from schools, colleges and universities, museums and libraries, youth organisations, other voluntary and community bodies, and many more. A list giving examples of the range of events that took place can be found at https://www.interfaithweek.org/uploads/Selection\_of\_events\_held\_for\_Inter\_Faith\_Week\_2016.pdf.

Many event organisers and participants tweeted about the Inter Faith Week activities they took part in, and tweets about the Week have had a potential reach of over 5.5million Twitter users with over 18.5million impressions. Many tweets linked to the Week can be seen on the @IFWeek twitter feed.

To assist people who have attended an Inter Faith Week event and would like to get more involved, the Inter Faith Network published a new booklet at the end of Inter Faith Week, Inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation: Next steps. Further information is below.

This year Scottish Interfaith Week, which has taken place since 2004, took place on the same dates as Inter Faith Week. It, too, has had a very high impact week, with over 50 events taking place. Inter Faith Week, which owes its inspiration to Scottish Interfaith Week, was represented at its launch and Interfaith Glasgow took part in the APPG and IFN event at the Houses of Parliament.

Frances Hume of Interfaith Scotland gave an address on 15 November at the Time for Reflection in the Scottish Parliament opening with the words "I am particularly delighted to be able to address you during Scottish interfaith week, for which more than 50 events have been organised by local people, faith communities, interfaith groups, educational bodies and organisations, to promote and celebrate the multifaith and multicultural nature of Scottish society." In her speech she refers to the important meeting of the First Minister Nicola Sturgeon with faith leaders which had taken place in the preceding week in the run up to Inter Faith Week.

New IFN resource – Next Steps

The Inter Faith Network for the UK has published a new resource to help people to get involved in inter faith activity: Inter Faith Learning, Dialogue and Cooperation: Next Steps.

During Inter Faith Week, and at other times in the year, many people will have engaged with inter faith activity for the first time, either by meeting others of different faiths, or learning more about those with whom they share their communities. Some people's experiences prompt them to want to get further involved in inter faith learning, discussion and practical cooperation.

Next Steps is designed to help those wanting to get involved, or further involved, in inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation. The booklet includes information and pointers about the different ways people can engage with those of other faiths and beliefs.

The resource can be downloaded from the Inter Faith Network and Inter Faith Week websites at www.interfaith.org.uk and www.interfaithweek.org respectively, and hard copies are available on request.

IFN National Meeting

IFN held its National Meeting on 19 October in Peterborough.

The National Meeting was on the theme of 'Faith and Cohesive Communities'. The question of how communities 'cohere' and what common values and expectations they share has come increasingly to the fore in recent months. Partly, this has been triggered by the impact upon communities in this country of international terrorist attacks and persecutions and the refugee crisis. Other factors have included the increase in hate crime in some areas following the EU referendum. There also continue to be many other reasons that faith and cohesion are a focus of attention: the positive contribution of faith communities to community wellbeing; the role of educators about religion (and nonreligious beliefs) and the manifold community affirming dimensions of inter faith engagement. The meeting was an opportunity to explore a wide range of aspects of what makes for 'cohesive communities' in the most positive sense of that term.

Participants were welcomed to the day by IFN's then Co-Chairs, the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson and Vivian Wineman, and also by Jaspal Singh, Chair, Peterborough Inter-Faith Council. During the plenary session Bishop Dr Joe Aldred, Multicultural and Pentecostal Relations, Churches Together in England, spoke on 'What are the signs of a 'cohesive community' and what role do faith communities play in this?'; Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State, Department for Communities and Local Government offered reflections in his role as Minister with responsibilities including cohesion and faith; Councillor Saima Mahmud and Canon Steven Saxby, Waltham Forest Faith Communities Forum, spoke about the work of the Forum; Gillian Merron, Chief Executive, Board of Deputies of British Jews, spoke on 'Supporting a faith community in creating and contributing to cohesive communities'; Trupti Patel, President, Hindu Forum of Britain, spoke on 'Mutual respect and understanding as a keystone of cohesive communities'; and Reflections on themes of the day were offered by Dr Norman Richardson, Executive Member, Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum and Abid Khan, Chair, North Lincolnshire Multi Faith Partnership.

Discussion groups were held on: 'Cohesive communities: compassion and social action' with presentations from Jaspal Singh, Sajjad Jivraj and Rajni Reddi, Chair and colleagues, Peterborough Inter-Faith Council, and Keith Bishop, Interfaith Advisor, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; 'Cohesive communities: a place for those of all abilities and disabilities' with presentations from Christine Hardy, Advocacy, Rights and Awareness Manager, DeafBlind UK, and Dr Dale Dishon, Principal Inspector of Historic Buildings & Areas, Historic England; 'Cohesive communities: creating connections across generations' with presentations from Aishah Mehmood, Graduate of Near Neighbours' Catalyst Programme and now Communications and Media Officer, Near Neighbours, and Lynsey Wilkinson, Redhill Academy Nottingham and Coordinator of the RE Ambassadors Programme of the RE Council of England and Wales and Qaa'Sim Uhuru and Laura Norris, RE Ambassadors and students at Redhill; 'Cohesive communities: equality within society as a vital dimension' with a presentation from Jamie Spurway, Religious Equality Officer, Interfaith Scotland; 'Cohesive communities: diversity and commonality' with presentations from Ngakma Nor'dzin Pamo, Buddhist member, Inter-faith Council for Wales, and Fazal Rahim, Project Coordinator, Oldham Inter Faith Forum; 'Cohesive communities: the importance of learning and dialogue' with presentations from Dr Avijit Datta, Chair, York Interfaith Group, and Dr Jane Clements, Director, Council of Christians and Jews; and on 'Cohesive communities: the impact of the web and social media on cohesion' with presentations from Natasha Blank, More Tea Less Hate campaign, 'Worrying Signs' and Dr Harshad Sanghrajka, Deputy Chairman, Institute of Jainology.

A report on the Meeting will be published in due course.

IFN governance update

IFN has been undertaking a review of its governance structures across the last two years. Following agreement on a new governance structure at the 2016 EGM in May, this was implemented at the 2016 AGM, held in Peterborough on 19 October following the National Meeting.

One of the major changes that has taken place is a streamlining of the Board from 35 to 22 Trustees. The new Board of Trustees was elected at the AGM. This is co-chaired by the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi. A number of longstanding IFN Trustees, including Dr Natubhai Shah and Vivian Wineman retired at the AGM and presentations were made to them.

Another change is the introduction of Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum, comprising 2 Co-Moderators and 8 Vice-Moderators. The Moderators have been elected by the National Faith Community Representative Bodies in IFN membership. The Co-Moderators for the coming year are the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson and Malcolm Deboo of the Zoroastrian community.

IFN Faith Communities Forum meetings

In the wake of recent concerns about a rise in hate crime and of the publication of the Government's Hate Crime Action Plan, arrangements were made for a meeting of the Faith Communities Forum on 27 September with this as a key item on the agenda. A short opening reflection was given by Acharya Modgala Duguid on Buddhist bases for responding to crimes motivated by hate. A presentation was made by Sally Sealey, Senior Policy Adviser on Hate Crime, Integration and Faith Directorate, Department for Communities and Local Government. This included reference to the Plan – entitled Action Against Hate – copies of which were distributed. Lord Singh of Wimbledon also made a formal contribution about the need for the Government to reflect adequately the problem of hate crimes targeting Hindus, Sikhs and other members of non-Abrahamic groups, including to the issue of attackers mistaking their religious identity. Wider discussion covered aspects of possible reasons for, and responses to, hate crime.

A meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum was also held on 8 November. This included items on the resettlement of refugees and social action days and inter faith cooperation. A short opening reflection was given by Rabbi David Mason on bases within the Jewish tradition for responding to refugees. A presentation was made by Hannah Gregory, Head of Partnership Team, Resettlement Programmes, Home Office, on the Government's response to the Syrian refugee crisis and the development of the community sponsorship programme. For the item on Social action days, Ms Vinaya Sharma, General Secretary of Vishwa Hindu Parishad UK, spoke about Sewa Day, which took place most recently on 16 October and Ms Daniella Pears, Interfaith Chair, Mitzvah Day, spoke about Mitzvah Day, on 27 November, and Mitzvah 365.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Sewa Day and Mitzvah Day

Two major days of faith-based social action took place in October and November, either side of Inter Faith Week. Both saw people of different faiths and beliefs coming together to do good in their communities.

People across the UK came together for Sewa Day on Sunday 16 October to volunteer at a range of social action projects. The term 'Sewa' equates to 'selfless service', and the day saw people of different backgrounds planting trees, litter picking, cooking for the homeless and collecting for food banks among many other things. This year, Sewa Day also featured in Diwali celebrations on Trafalgar Square, where hundreds of people gathered to mark the festival. Sewa Day said that "2016 has been a massive success with projects leaving a lasting legacy in their communities".

Mitzvah Day took place on Sunday 27 November. This Jewish-led day of faith-based social action encourages an inter faith dimension, and brought together people of many backgrounds to do good in their local communities. 'Mitzvah' translates as a good deed or act of kindness, and people responded by visiting care homes, holding sporting events, working in schools and improving public spaces just to name a few. A number of special early events were held to coincide with Inter Faith Week.

Sadaqa Day, another day of faith-based social action, led by the Muslim community, takes place on Sunday 26 March 2017.

Chief Rabbi and Archbishop of Canterbury launch inter faith project

The Archbishop of Canterbury was joined at Lambeth Palace during Inter Faith Week by the Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis to launch a new inter faith project, 'In Good Faith'. The project hopes to further Jewish-Christian dialogue by encouraging priests and rabbis to work together over the coming year to address matters of common concern. Topics discussed during the day included religious extremism. Rabbi Mirvis said that "it is in the everyday conversations, the grassroots initiatives and the building of local bridges between Christians and Jews, our synagogues and churches, that we will see real change and the hope for a divided world and nation."

Interfaith Scotland Media Guide

The theme for Scottish Interfaith Week this year was 'Religion and the Media'. The media plays an increasingly important role in people's lives, whether through newspapers, TV, radio or social media and many people are influenced by what they read, see and hear. Media reporting can have a powerful effect on people of different faiths, both positive and negative. The theme provided an opportunity to explore complex relationships with the media, how positive stories of faith and interfaith work can be shared and how some of the negative reporting and stereotypes about people of different faiths in the media can be challenged.

One of the resources produced by Interfaith Scotland for the work was a 'Media Guide' to assist groups in promoting their good stories via social and traditional media. It includes tips on using Facebook, Twitter and the web; as well as press releases, letters and TV and radio.

An electronic copy of the Guide can be downloaded from <http://www.interfaithscotland.org/scottish-interfaith-week/religion-and-the-media-resources-for-scottish-interfaith-week-2016/>.

Report of the Casey Review into integration and opportunity

In 2015, at the request of the then Prime Minister and Home Secretary, Dame Louise Casey was asked to undertake a review into integration and opportunity in the UK’s most isolated and deprived communities. On 5 December a report setting out the findings of that review was published. This can be downloaded from <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/the-casey-review-a-review-into-opportunity-and-integration>.

Although commissioned by government, the Review was an independent one. It makes a number of recommendations, including to Government.

The Department for Communities and Local Government has a lead on faith and integration issues for Government and its Secretary of State, Sajid Javid MP, was reported as having said he would study the report's findings and outline policies in response to it in the Spring. <http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/politics/sajid-javid-integration-louse-casey-review-integration-immigration-a7459006.html>

The House of Commons Communities and Local Government Select Committee, ahead of its session on the report, summarised thus: “The report found that segregation and social exclusion are at worrying levels and fuelling inequality in some areas of the country. Public bodies were accused of ignoring and even condoning divisive religious practices for fear of being called racists. But critics said the review was too critical of Britain's Muslim communities, exaggerated the lack of loyalty and English language skills among migrants and did not focus enough on factors such as poverty, poor housing and limited access to good education and skills training.” The Select Committee examined some of Dame Casey’s conclusions and recommendations and sought her view of how the Government has responded to the findings so far and what more she would like to see happen. It also put to her some of the criticism of her review, including concerns that it focuses too much on Britain's Muslim communities and that it overlooked wider social problems. <http://www.parliamentlive.tv/Event/Index/7eb156b3-e651-461f-b705-552221c4d341>

A number of IFN member bodies have offered initial responses to the report, such as the Muslim Council of Britain <http://www.mcb.org.uk/casey-integration-review-muslim-council-of-britains-initial-response/>; Board of Deputies of British Jews <https://www.bod.org.uk/board-of-deputies-welcomes-general-direction-of-casey-review/>; Catholic Bishops’ Conference of England and Wales http://www.catholicnews.org.uk/Home/News/2016/Casey-Review/\(language\)/eng-GB/eng-GB;); and Christian Muslim Forum <http://www.yorkshirepost.stfi.re/news/opinion/toby-howarth-and-qari-asim-it-is-the-duty-of-all-of-us-to-help-build-cohesive-society-1-8278844?sf=vwxayzv#aa>. Lord Singh of Wimbledon, Director of the Network of Sikh Organisations, made comments in the context of a Parliamentary debate, which can be read at <https://hansard.parliament.uk/Lords/2016-12-06/debates/A3DD98D0-7182-4810-9DA0-5467BC97F261/CaseyReport#contribution-070455D1-08B3-4E7F-B115-03749518B441>.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Many faith and inter bodies around the UK have been taking part in Holocaust Memorial Day events and projects. This year’s theme is ‘How can life go on?’ The UK HMD event took place on 26 January in London with contributions from Holocaust and other genocide survivors, as well as others, including Communities Secretary, Sajid Javid.

Work on such events is a significant part of the year of many local groups such as Bedford Council of Faiths, Harrow Interfaith, Faiths in Lancaster and Interfaith Wolverhampton. In Scotland, Interfaith Scotland worked in partnership with East Dunbartonshire Council to arrange the Scottish National Holocaust Memorial Day commemorative event and IFS's Director, Dr Maureen Sier, gave a special reflection. A recording of her presentation can be seen at http://www.scottishparliament.tv/20170117\_reflection. ### Prince of Wales speaks on reaching across boundaries of faith

On 30 January the Prince of Wales spoke at the Annual Dinner of World Jewish Relief. He spoke of how people of faith had shaped his life and expressed concern that “the horrific lessons of the last War seem to be in increasing danger of being forgotten”. He said “I have always thought that our own particular Faith is something that empowers and liberates us, not something that constrains us. That is why, in my own life, I have always tried to reach across the boundaries of faith and community; to extend a helping hand wherever one might be needed.” The full text of his speech can be found at <http://www.princeofwales.gov.uk/media/speeches/speech-hrh-the-prince-of-wales-the-world-jewish-relief-dinner>.

US President Executive Order with repercussions globally

An Executive Order issued by US President Trump on 27 January halted the entire US refugee programme for 120 days, indefinitely banned Syrian refugees, and suspended entry into the United States for 90 days of those from countries of particular concern referred to in the Immigration and Nationality Act (section 217(a)(12)). There has been concern within the UK about the impact on those affected and there have been a number of demonstrations <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-us-canada-38790629> and statements, nationally and locally, such as those of the Muslim Council of Britain, the Board of Deputies of British Jews and Birmingham Faith Leaders' Group: <http://www.mcb.org.uk/trumps-muslim-ban-time-for-our-government-to-stand-up-for-british-values/>; <https://www.bod.org.uk/board-of-deputies-president-condemns-trump-bans-on-refugees/>. The Order was issued on 27 January which is Holocaust Memorial Day and a number of genocide charities also made statements: <http://www.srebrenica.org.uk/news/genocide-charities-condemn-president-trumps-muslim-ban/>.

Equality and Human Rights Commission materials on Religion or Belief

As foreshadowed in the last issue, in December the Equality and Human Rights Commission published a report and guidance from its 3-year programme of work on religion or belief – ‘Shared understandings: a new EHRC strategy to strengthen understanding of religion or belief in public life’.

The report, ‘Religion or belief: is the law working?’ looks at how well the law in Great Britain protects individuals with a religion or belief, or lack of religion or belief. It focuses on four areas: definitions of religion or belief; exceptions in the Equality Act; the law protecting employees; and the law protecting service users and service providers. It can be found at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/advice-and-guidance/religion-or-belief-frequently-asked-questions>.

The religion or belief guidance material includes ‘Religion or Belief: A guide to the law’, which provides an overview of the protections offered by the Equality Act 2010 and the Human Rights Act 1998 of people with or without a religion or belief. It answers commonly asked questions such as those about what is indirect discrimination and can it ever be justified, and how much employers are expected to know about religion or belief in order to fulfil their legal obligations. The guidance can be found at www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/religion-or-belief.

There is also a section on ‘Religion or belief: how do I handle employee requests?’ which provides a decision-making tool for employers; and a section on ‘Frequently asked questions’ which focuses on some of the common questions facing employers today.

The EHRC has also produced a training module for line managers, which can be found at <https://elearning.acas.org.uk/course/> and a training course for trade union representatives, which can be found at <https://www.tuceducation.org.uk/mod/page/view.php?id=51438>.

Increasing support for anti-hatred and anti-prejudice work

On 26 January Communities Secretary Sajid Javid announced £375,000 of new funding to further encourage the reporting and prevention of hate crime. The extra support will build upon work the government is already doing to reduce hate crime, increase reporting and improve support for victims.

The new package is targeted at a range of existing organisations, working with faith and minority communities that have historically faced challenges in reporting hate crime. This includes funding to True Vision, the police reporting portal for hate crime, which will help encourage groups that face challenges in reporting hate crime including Sikh and Hindu communities and recent arrivals from Eastern Europe; True Vision will also work with National Churchwatch, an organisation which works to counter hate crime against the Christian community. Additional funding will go to National Hate Crime Awareness Week that takes place each October to develop the scope and depth of the programme and to encourage collaboration between anti-hate crime charities across the country.

Anti-Prejudice Interventions - Building Capability and Evaluating ‘What Works’

In July 2016, the Equality and Human Rights Commission published a report called ‘Prejudice and unlawful behaviour: exploring levers for change’, setting out how prejudice relates to unlawful discrimination, harassment and identity-based violence. The report (<https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/cy/node/5696>) identified a need for better evaluation on which anti-prejudice interventions are effective and why.

In late 2016, the Commission asked the Coalition for Racial Equality and Rights (CRER) to develop guidance and training which will focus on identifying a minimum or ‘good enough’ standard of evaluation that allows organisations to evaluate interventions in a way that is proportionate and realistic, taking into account the various barriers to evaluation that some organisations may encounter.

Capacity building sessions on evaluating anti-prejudice work will take place on 16 February in Glasgow, 21 February in London and 22 February in Cardiff. These sessions will focus on developing effective, proportionate approaches to evaluating anti-prejudice projects or interventions, and will be especially useful for organisations with more limited experience of evaluation. Feedback from participants will be used to inform the detailed content of the guidance. Booking is available through <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/o/coalition-for-racial-equality-and-rights-12665798278>.

To ensure that that the guidance and training is appropriately informed, CRER also wish to learn from organisations with experience of evaluating (including self-evaluating) interventions that are intended to tackle prejudice, discrimination, identity based harassment and violence. Anyone with experience of this should contact carol@crer.org.uk.

Extra funding boost to community projects

Minister for Faith and Integration Lord Bourne announced on 24 January a £210,000 funding boost to be shared among Near Neighbours community projects in England.

Near Neighbours funding brings together diverse communities and different faiths, through a range of activities that improve their lives and the local community in which they live. The first projects to benefit from the new funding include those improving employability through basic literacy and numeracy classes, and those bring communities together in unique ways to build personal skills like sewing classes and hospitality training to improve local relationships. ### Faith leaders call on Government to make the Istanbul Convention law in the UK

On 5 December a number of leaders from Christian, Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Sikh communities came together at the House of Lords to launch a public call for the UK Government to make the Istanbul Convention on violence against women law in the UK. As part of their statement, faith leaders also called on MPs to support a Private Members Bill which would require the Government to ratify the Convention. The event was organised by IC Change, Faith Action and Restored, and was hosted by Lord McColl. A copy of the statement made by faith leaders is at <http://icchange.co.uk/faithcall>.

APPG on RE

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Launch of Religions for Peace UK Interfaith Youth Network

In December the Religions for Peace European Interfaith Youth Network's annual summit took place in Buckinghamshire. The theme of the weekend was 'Welcoming the Other: Multi-religious Youth Unite Against Extremism'.

A number of youth faith organisations from UK present at the Summit, including Soka Gakkai-UK, Coexister London, Focolare UK, Guru Nanak Nishkam Sewak Jatha, National Hindu Student Forum UK, Pandava Sena and UK Students Christian Movement, held two separate meetings during the Summit. During these they discussed the need for a country-based youth interfaith network in UK, building on some previous work on this. A strategic plan has been initiated and a core planning group and a UK Interfaith Youth Network was launched. ### Multi faith projects in Wales

The Betsi Cadwaladr Health Board aims to provide a comprehensive spiritual care service which encompasses those of different faiths as well as the spiritual needs of those of no faith. Pivotal to this service is the development of multi faith centres within its main hospitals. As part of this, a new development in its planning stage is the building of a multi faith centre at Ysbycy Glan Clwyd Hospital in partnership with faith groups within the community. It is hoped that the new centre will be of pastoral and spiritual use to the diverse community.

The multi faith chaplaincy centre at Ysbycy Gwynedd in Bangor is working with a number of local schools in developing and understanding both the similarities and differences between world faiths. As part of this, the chaplaincy centre is running a series of visits for local schoolchildren to the chaplaincy, where they are welcomed by representatives of both the Christian and Muslim faiths. The children get to experience some of the main beliefs and practices of both faiths and develop an understanding of some of the common features which unite us on our particular faith journey. The project is also open to local community groups.

For more information about either project, contact the Rev Wynne Roberts at wynne.roberts@wales.nhs.uk.

RESOURCES AND STUDY/TRAINING

Inter Faith Learning, Dialogue and Cooperation: Next Steps

In November the Inter Faith Network for the UK published a new resource to help people to get involved in inter faith activity: Inter Faith Learning, Dialogue and Cooperation: Next Steps.

During Inter Faith Week, and at other times in the year, many people will have engaged with inter faith activity for the first time, either by meeting others of different faiths, or learning more about those with whom they share their communities. Some people's experiences prompt them to want to get further involved in inter faith learning, discussion and practical cooperation.

Next Steps is designed to help those wanting to get involved, or further involved, in inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation. The booklet includes information and pointers about the different ways people can engage with those of other faiths and beliefs.

The resource can be downloaded from the Inter Faith Network and Inter Faith Week websites at www.interfaith.org.uk and www.interfaithweek.org respectively, and hard copies are available from the IFN office on request.

EDUCATIONAL AND ACADEMIC BODIES IN IFN MEMBERSHIP

Cambridge Inter-Faith Programme (CIP)

CIP was founded in 2002 to explore the relationship between Jews, Christians and Muslims and to pursue research and public education projects that would:

- bring together Jewish, Christian and Muslim participants, and others;
- be responsible to the religious communities, to society more generally, and to the academic disciplines;
- embed long-term inter-faith learning, collaboration and collegiality into Cambridge University and other institutions; and
- emphasise face to face discussion and joint study and research, including study of each other's scriptures.

Its four priorities are described as: Scriptural Reasoning, Public Education, Research and Resources. Key to its work is enabling the development of participants 'critical love for their own traditions'. Part of its work is drawing together and initiating academic research in relevant fields and making resources available to other academics and the wider public.

It works closely with Coexist House, is describes as a sister project. For further details see: <http://www.interfaith.cam.ac.uk/>

Community Religions Project (CRP) University of Leeds

CRP was established in 1976 with a remit to conduct research into religion in locality in Leeds and beyond. Since 2014 it has moved its emphasis to learning and teaching, supporting undergraduate courses and postgraduate programmes at the University. This includes engaging undergraduate students in research, as can be seen from the Religious Mapping of Leeds project, the reports of which can be found on the Project's website.

CRP retains a research archive that can be accessed through its website. An interesting part of this is a photographic archive which was started in the 1970s, with a focus on five prominent traditions within the city of Leeds: Sikhism, Judaism, Islam, Hinduism and Christianity. Photographs from the 1970s and updated in 2011 show the changes that have occurred over nearly half a century in Leeds.

For further details see: <http://arts.leeds.ac.uk/crp/>

Institute of Jainology (IoJ)

The IoJ has its origins in the 1980s when it became apparent that there was a need to coordinate Jain affairs across the Jain diaspora. Its objects are described as to:

- Provide a platform for interaction between different Jain communities and organisations, where all traditions jointly promote the faith and engage in discussions amongst themselves.

- Promote inter faith relationships to create a better understanding of the Jain faith and to acquaint the Jain community with other faiths.
- Create an awareness of the history, art, philosophy, and practices of Jain faith, including its relevance to today's world, particularly with regard to the respect for all living beings and environment.
- Provide opportunities for study of the faith, both at the community level and at institutions of higher learning. Offer lectures in Jainism, on request.
- Facilitate scholarly research on Jainism through the establishment of scholarships.
- Undertake the cataloguing and digitisation of Jain manuscripts and artefacts

Companies House recognises the organisation formally as an 'Institute'.

The Institute has a number of projects, of which two are Ahimsa Day and Jainpedia <http://www.jainpedia.org/>.

For further details see: <http://www.jainology.org/>

Islamic Foundation (IF)

The Islamic Foundation established in 1973, specialises in research, education and publications on different aspects of Islam, including contemporary issues. In the year 2000, the Islamic Foundation established The Markfield Institute of Higher Education specialising in graduate and post-graduate education, operating as an independent entity. (www.mihe.org.uk)

Part of the Foundation's mission is 'to act as a bridge between Muslim communities and non-Muslims' and it has regularly engaged in inter-faith dialogue. Its inter-faith work involves hosting conferences and seminars on inter-faith relations and dialogue including topics, such as, Islam and religious pluralism.

The IF has a policy research centre and conference centre at Markfield, Leicestershire. It runs courses for those who want to learn more about Islam, especially Islam in Britain. It has previously published the peer reviewed journal: Encounters: Journal of Inter-Cultural Perspectives which 'promotes a spirit of dialogue and mutual understanding between people of different religions and persuasions.'

For the last thirty-seven years IF has regularly published a quarterly journal entitled The Muslim World Book Review. The Foundation's unique library of 40,000 plus books and journals also provide facilities to access e-resources.

The National Association of Standing Advisory Councils for Religious Education (NASACRE)

NASACRE was founded in March 1993 in the context of the changes to SACREs brought about by the 1988 Education Reform Act. It exists to support and strengthen SACREs and to represent SACREs on bodies such as the RE Council of England and Wales, as well as liaising directly with parliamentarians through the All Party Parliamentary Group on Religious Education, Department for Education and others.

Membership is open to SACREs in England (Wales having its own body and Scotland and Northern Ireland not having SACREs). It has a website with an area accessible to the public but many of its resources are restricted to paid-up member SACREs. NASACRE has an annual conference in May for SACREs.

NASACRE also collaborates with the Westhill Trust in mounting an annual programme of Awards to SACREs for projects educating pupils into diversity, as can be seen on its website. Projects should promote the skills needed to live in an increasingly diverse society, and help young people “to be able to encounter and talk with those who have beliefs and views different from their own, to break down barriers constructed through ignorance and fear of the unknown, and to challenge the resulting stereotypes which emerge in popular culture.”

For further details see: <http://www.nasacre.org.uk/>

Religious Education Council of England and Wales (REC)

The REC was established in 1973 to represent the collective interests of a wide variety of professional associations and faith and belief communities in deepening and strengthening provision for Religious Education in England and Wales. It provides a forum where national organisations with an interest in supporting and promoting Religious Education in schools and colleges can share matters of common concern. As such it does not have individual members.

The RE Council has a programme of political engagement and develops resources to support religious educators. It also seeks to be an advocate for religious education and engages with the media to promote the subject.

One of the REC’s projects is its Young Ambassadors Scheme, which ‘gives students aged 11 - 18 opportunities to share their enthusiasm and interest for RE’.

In 2016 the REC established an independent Commission on RE, which aims to review the legal, education and policy frameworks for RE in English schools and colleges. The Commission will report in 2018 on its findings and make recommendations to Government about the future of RE.

For further details see: <http://religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/>

Shap Working Party on World Religions in Education (Shap)

In the spring of 1969 a conference on 'Comparative Religion in Education' was held at a hotel in the Cumbrian village of Shap. From that meeting the Shap Working Party of World Religions in Education developed. Of particular concern to it is accurate representation of beliefs and practices and how these relate to the lives of people of faith.

Shap is committed to:

- promoting excellence in the study of religions at all levels and in all types of education
- bringing together people who have expertise in both religious studies and religious education
- working with all in education
- supporting those in other spheres of professional life who work with different religious communities

Shap's best known contribution to supporting religious educators and others is through the eighteen month Shap Calendar of Religious Festivals. This can be purchased through its website.

The Working Party also offers an Advisory Service through its website and works with its contacts to provide answers.

Until 2009 Shap published a journal, all editions of which are freely available through its website.

Sion Centre for Dialogue and Encounter (SCDE)

SCDE, located in the heart of London, provides a setting for study and growth in mutual understanding between Christians and Jews, as well as between other faiths and cultures. It is a place to listen to 'the other', to learn, reflect and respect. We offer a wide range of courses and lectures, as well as times for reflection and prayer. There is the opportunity to read and do research in our specialist library. We are also pleased to welcome outside groups who can use our conference facilities for their own seminars, training and meetings. SCDE is run by the Sisters of Our Lady of Sion, a Roman Catholic Congregation whose main task is to foster good relations between Christians and Jews as well as those of other faiths.

For further details see: www.sioncentre.org

The Woolf Institute (WI)

The WI was established in 1998 and is located in Cambridge.

The Institute studies how relations between Jews, Christians and Muslims can ‘enhance understanding of concepts of public life: community and identity, mutual respect, personal responsibility, and social solidarity. Combining theology with the social sciences and the humanities, it seeks to strengthen the ethical framework that is needed for political, economic and social life.’

The Institute engages in research with practical implications, post-graduate teaching and study, and offers a wide variety of tailored public education programmes, including leadership training, end-of-life courses (specifically for healthcare sector) and faith literacy programmes. It also offers e-learning packages, details of which are on its website. WI has recently engaged in the area of policy, including convening and supporting the independent Commission on Religion and Belief in British Public Life, chaired by Lady Butler-Sloss (see: <http://www.corab.org.uk/>) which produced the report: Living with difference: community, diversity and the common good. Students are culturally, religiously diverse and international.

The WI has a staff team of 15 as well as a number of affiliated tutors, lecturers, researchers and professors.

Wales Association of SACREs (WASACRE)

WASACRE was founded in 1995 to support the twenty-two SACREs in Wales in helping them fulfil their role as a result of the Education Reform Act 1988 and the Circular for Religious Education and Collective Worship in 1994 (published in Wales as Circular 10/94). It fulfils its remit by:

- member SACREs sending representation to the termly meetings of WASACRE
- organising relevant national initiatives and projects in the areas of religious education and collective worship
- speaking on behalf of all SACREs in Wales through engaging with relevant bodies and agencies, including the Welsh Government
- collating relevant key SACRE documents
- maintaining working relationships with equivalent bodies in England

WASACRE undertakes a number of projects and has contributed to the development of the curriculum by engaging with the Welsh Assembly Government. It provides a single point of reference for SACREs.

WASACRE also provides support for individual SACRE members through resources that it publishes. All of WASACREs publications and minutes are freely available through the website, as is relevant guidance that has been developed over the years by the Welsh government. Also available through its website are individual SACREs’ annual reports

Westminster attack and faith and inter faith responses

On 22 March a terrorist attack took place on Westminster Bridge and at the Houses of Parliament.

A number of faith and inter faith organisations issued statements or came together to hold vigils or ceremonies to remember all those affected by the attack and to show solidarity.

A list of a number of these can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/westminster-attacks-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>. Many also took part in We Stand Together events on 29 March which were arranged with the lead of the Metropolitan Police.

On 23 March IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the terrorist attack in Westminster the previous day: "Yesterday's attack at Westminster on police and members of the public exemplified the cowardly and destructive nature of the actions of terrorists. We hold in our prayers all whose lives have been lost or forever changed through the murderous acts of its perpetrator. Terrorism is profoundly at odds with the values of our faith traditions and of the values at the heart of British society. We deplore and condemn it.

Attacks of this kind are designed to disrupt our society and to undermine the relationships within it. Let us resist this at all costs and stand together in unity.

Let us also watch out for the wellbeing of any groups who may be targeted because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them. There is no place for prejudice and hatred of that kind and where it is found, let us redouble efforts to combat it."

A copy of the statement is on the IFN website at

Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities

Looking after one another: the safety and security of our faith communities has today been published by the Inter Faith Network for the UK in partnership with the Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Fire Chiefs' Council and the National Police Chiefs' Council.

IFN's Co-Chairs, the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi, said "These guidelines give practical guidance to faith communities on preventing and responding to hate motivated attacks and also send a strong signal of faith community solidarity and commitment to mutual support at times of difficulty."

The document contains guidance on responding jointly to attacks on places of worship; working for calm at times of tension; and working to build on and strengthen existing good inter faith relations. It contains material about how and where to report hate incidents, cyber attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity; where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings; and where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally. These practical pointers for responding in solidarity have particular resonance at the present time when there is a need to watch out for the wellbeing of any groups who may be targeted because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them.

Faith and Integration Minister, Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, said: "This week we saw people of all faiths make clear in a moving act of solidarity that hate and intolerance is entirely unacceptable in this country. This practical guidance will give people of all faiths confidence to stand up to the perpetrators of hate crime. We need to work together to tackle all forms of prejudice." Cdr Mak Chishti, National Police Chiefs' Council, said: "Looking After One Another is an excellent guide to ensuring that we all look after each other and all stand together."

Sarah Newton, Minister for Vulnerability, Safeguarding and Countering Extremism, said: "Hate crime is not and never will be acceptable. It has no place in a Britain that works for everyone, and this Government is determined to stamp it out. Last year we published a new action plan which focuses on reducing hate crime, increasing reporting and improving support for victims, and we have committed £2.4 million to protect places of worship from hate crime attacks. It is important that Britain's many communities work in partnership, particularly in times of difficulty such as after a terrorist attack - so the Inter Faith Network's timely advice is very welcome."

Development of a new integration strategy

A new integration policy is understood to be in early stages of development, for which Secretary of State for Communities, Sajid Javid MP, has responsibility. Government will be responding to the Casey Review Report as part of that process. Among the questions which officials are advising faith communities to consider are:

- How can faith communities and faith leaders promote shared British values and challenge attitudes and behaviours of those who promote inequality and intolerance?
- How can there be a reaching out through faith to isolated individuals and communities?
- How can Government promote the values of tolerance and equality in a way that is compatible with faith communities' freedom of belief?
- Are there examples of projects, etc which work in helping communities tackle difficult conversations?

These questions were considered by IFN's Faith Communities Forum when it met on 7 March and also by a number of faith leaders at a roundtable on 13 March hosted by Lord Bourne, Minister for Communities and Local Government

European Court of Justice preliminary rulings on wearing of religious articles of faith

On 14 March, the European Court of Justice (ECJ) issued two judgements concerning the wearing of religious articles of faith. The judgements were made in response to separate requests for preliminary rulings from the national courts of Belgium and France. References for preliminary rulings allow tribunals and courts within EU member states to refer questions to the Court of Justice about the interpretation of EU law or the validity of a European Union act. The ECJ does not decide the cases itself, but the referring court must dispose of the case in accordance with the ECJ's decision, which also binds courts within other member states. The ECJ is an instrument of the European Union, and is distinct from the European Court of Human Rights, which is not.

Both cases involved women who were dismissed from their jobs for wearing a Muslim head scarf. The thrust of the ruling in the Belgian case was that workplace regulations which prohibit the wearing of visible signs of all political, philosophical or religious beliefs are not directly discriminatory as they treat all employees the same, noting that there was no evidence that the employer applied the rule differently to employees of a particular political, philosophical or religious belief. The ruling also noted that such regulations may constitute indirect discrimination if "the apparently neutral obligation it imposes results, in fact, in persons adhering to a particular religion or belief being put at a particular disadvantage.” Indirect discrimination may be lawful where it is considered an appropriate and necessary means of achieving a legitimate aim, “such as the pursuit by the employer, in its relations with its customers, of a policy of political, philosophical and religious neutrality.” The Belgian court will need to apply these tests when considering the case.

The French case differed in a number of respects, chiefly that the employee was dismissed because a customer of the employer complained that their account had been assigned to an employee who wore a head scarf, and it was unclear to the ECJ whether there was an internal rule which regulated the wearing of visible signs of all forms of political, philosophical or religious beliefs. It noted that if such a rule existed, then the same tests as in the Belgian case would need to be applied by the French court. The ruling also stated “the willingness of an employer to take account of the wishes of a customer no longer to have the services of that employer provided by a worker wearing an Islamic headscarf cannot be considered a genuine and determining occupational requirement within the meaning of the directive.”

A copy of the ECJ press release about both rulings can be seen at <http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/upload/docs/application/pdf/2017-03/cp170030en.pdf> it includes links to the full judgements.

A transcript of the Parliamentary question which took place in the UK Parliament following the ruling can be found at <https://www.theyworkforyou.com/debates/?id=2017-03-15c.408.10&s=speaker%3A10958>.

Public consultation on Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law

On 28 March the Government Equalities Office (GEO) launched a public consultation on ‘Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law’.

The consultation is described as seeking views on how best to ensure that there is appropriate legal protection against caste discrimination. The consultation website notes that “This ban could be applied: a) by formally making caste an aspect of race in the Equality Act 2010 or b) through developing case law in the courts and employment tribunals. In either case, businesses and public authorities would have to consider caste discrimination in the same way they consider other aspects of race discrimination when dealing with employees, customers or service users.”

Full details of the consultation and how to respond are at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/caste-in-great-britain-and-equality-law-a-public-consultation>. The consultation closes on 18 July.

Bank of England consultation on new bank notes

The November/December issue of the IFN e-bulletin reported that a number of faith communities were concerned that the new polymer £5 bank notes issued by the Bank of England contain a trace of tallow, a product derived from animal fat. On 15 February the Bank of England issued a statement about the matter - <http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/publications/Pages/news/2017/024.aspx> and a document setting out the key factors behind its decision to continue to use the new £5 notes, and to continue with production of the new £10 note due for release in September - <http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/publications/Documents/other/polymerassessment.pdf>

The tender for production of the £20 note has been put on hold to accommodate a decision on the future composition of the polymer used. ## Brexit

On 30 March, the Prime Minister May wrote formally triggering Article 50, beginning the formal process of withdrawal from the European Union by the UK.

Faith communities and inter faith bodies have been among those encouraging conversation about life 'post Brexit' including 3FF dialogue training on Brexit, faith and identity and St Ethelburga's intergenerational dialogue event on Envisioning a post-Brexit future together. One example is a recent joint prayer developed by five faith representatives who “are encouraging their communities to love, rather than fear, the differences we find in our country”. ## INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

The Great Get Together

The Great Get Together is a project inspired by Jo Cox MP, who was killed on 16 June 2016. It is being organised by the Jo Cox Foundation with the backing of the Big Lunch, the Big Iftar and a number of other organisations. It takes place on 17 and 18 June when communities across the UK are invited to get together with their neighbours to share food and celebrate all that they hold in common. Material for the project notes that “Jo’s killing was meant to divide us and we think the best response is to show how united we are. We believe there is a groundswell of people who reject divisive politics and simply want to bring our communities together and celebrate all that unites us. This is our chance.”

Equality and Human Rights Commission materials on Religion or Belief

As noted above, at the meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum on 7 March there was a presentation from the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) on its workplace guidance on religion or belief. Details of the guidance were included in the January/February issue of IFN's e-bulletin. The EHRC is keen for them to be distributed to faith and inter faith organisations and they are therefore included again here for ease of reference.

The report, 'Religion or belief: is the law working?' looks at how well the law in Great Britain protects individuals with a religion or belief, or lack of religion or belief. It focuses on four areas: definitions of religion or belief; exceptions in the Equality Act; the law protecting employees; and the law protecting service users and service providers. It can be found at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/advice-and-guidance/religion-or-belief-frequently-asked-questions>.

The religion or belief guidance material includes 'Religion or Belief: A guide to the law', which provides an overview of the protections offered by the Equality Act 2010 and the Human Rights Act 1998 of people with or without a religion or belief. It answers commonly asked questions such as those about what is indirect discrimination and can it ever be justified, and how much employers are expected to know about religion or belief in order to fulfil their legal obligations. The guidance can be found at www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/religion-or-belief.

There is also a section on ‘Religion or belief: how do I handle employee requests?’ which provides a decision-making tool for employers; and a section on ‘Frequently asked questions’ which focuses on some of the common questions facing employers today.

The EHRC has also produced a training module for line managers, which can be found at <https://elearning.acas.org.uk/course/> and a training course for trade union representatives, which can be found at <https://www.tuceducation.org.uk/mod/page/view.php?id=51438>.

FaithAction and LGA report on faith and health

FaithAction and the Local Government Association have jointly produced a report entitled Working with faith groups to promote health and wellbeing. The report website notes that “Faith groups make an important contribution to this work through their commitment to service, both with their own members and with wider communities. In particular, faith groups are often able to utilise the enthusiasm of their members as volunteers. Also, some faith groups have members who face health inequalities through a higher risk of some diseases or through difficulties in accessing healthcare. These groups are, therefore, well placed to have an active role in tackling health problems in the communities they serve.”

A copy of the report can be downloaded from http://www.local.gov.uk/web/guest/publications/-/journal\_content/56/10180/8220302/PUBLICATION.

SUPPORT THE INTER FAITH NETWORK'S WORK TO INCREASE INTER FAITH UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION

THE IMPORTANCE OF YOUR SUPPORT

We need your help to ensure that the Inter Faith Network for the UK's work to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation continues and grows, helping people of all backgrounds to live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Please consider making a gift today to support the work of the Inter Faith Network. Gifts at all levels are valued and make a difference. You can donate by credit card or PayPal online at www.interfaith.org.uk/donate or by sending a cheque to The Inter Faith Network for the UK, 2 Grosvenor Gardens, London SW1W 0DH.

REMEMBERING A FAMILY MEMBER OR FRIEND

From time to time we receive an 'in memoriam' gift after an individual has passed away, funded from a collection following their death or through a donation from their heirs. Such gifts provide a living memorial to a loved one, supporting inter faith understanding in this country – for now and for the future. If you would like to make a gift in memory of a loved one, please get in touch by emailing remember@interfaith.org.uk or call us on 0207 730 0410.

A GIFT IN YOUR WILL

By leaving a gift in your will to the Inter Faith Network for the UK, you can leave a living inheritance to help deepen and strengthen inter faith understanding and cooperation in this country – for now and for the future. If you are thinking about making a will, the best thing to do is to get in touch with a professional will writer, such as a solicitor or advocate; they can help to ensure it is legally correct and that your wishes are met. If you have already made a will, you can still make an addition or amendment in the form of a codicil. If you would like to pledge a gift, please provide our name and address, along with our registered charity number 1068934.

Please get in touch with us if you have any queries. You can call Hannah Cassidy, on 0207 730 0410 or contact us at remember@interfaith.org.uk.

Every gift, however large or small, makes a difference.

Thank you!

FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Manchester Arena terrorist attack and faith and inter faith responses

On the evening of 22 May 22 people were killed and over 100 people injured in a terrorist attack at the Manchester Arena.

Manchester and Greater Manchester's faith and inter initiatives have played a very significant part in the city's response including in the vigils in Albert Square and St Ann's Square.

Around the UK, many other faith and inter faith organisations have been among those who have responded through messages, statements vigils, services, prayers and silences; and in some cases responding with offers of practical help. A list of responses by faith and inter faith bodies of which IFN is aware can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/manchester-arena-attack-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>.

On 23 May IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the bombing:

“Our thoughts and prayers are with those who lost their lives or were injured in last night's terrorist murders at the Manchester Arena, as they are with their families, all others affected and those responding with assistance.

We deplore and condemn this wanton, brutal and cowardly taking of the lives of young and old.

Let us stand together to oppose terrorism and the ideologies that promote it. Let us also uphold and strengthen the unity of our society and work to ensure that it is a positive and harmonious one where all children and young people can grow up safely and without fear.

It is vital that we all – of every age and background - work to build bridges and positive relationships and to enable difficult issues to be addressed and worked on – always seeking to avoid the use of violence to resolve issues.

We know that each time a terrorist attack occurs, groups within society become the target of abuse or even attack because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them. We must stand, likewise, against this. An attack on one is an attack on all.

We remember at this time, in this context, particularly the many in the Greater Manchester area working for good relations.”

A copy of this statement is also on the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/manchester-arena-attack-statement>.

The Muslim community condemned repeatedly the atrocity and the actions of the attacker. Statements were issued by the British Muslim Forum (<http://www.britishmuslimforum.co.uk/2017/05/23/manchester-attack-the-bmf-condemns-act-of-cowardice/>), the Muslim Council of Britain (<http://www.mcb.org.uk/manchester-attack-muslim-council-of-britain-statement/>), the Islamic Society of Britain (<https://twitter.com/BritIslam/status/866950172177289216>) and the British Muslim Scholars (<https://www.facebook.com/1487320954821958/photos/a.1514903692063684.1073741829.1487320954821958/1774314242789293/?type=3&theater>). A number of local Muslim groups also issued statements (<http://www.mcb.org.uk/collation-of-responses-to-manchester-attack/>) and a group of 30 imams gathered in St Ann’s Square (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-manchester-40076591>).

A statement by the Prime Minister, Theresa May, can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/pm-statement-following-terrorist-attack-in-manchester-23-may-2017>.

The Department for Communities and Local Government issued advice, in the wake of the Manchester attack, for community leaders on managing tensions. A copy of this can be found online at: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/advice-and-support-for-community-leaders-on-managing-tensions>.

Advice was also issued about safe giving to Manchester related appeals which can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/generous-public-should-make-sure-donations-go-to-genuine-charities-supporting-the-victims-in-manchester-says-charity-regulator>

The Daily Mail newspaper, with Carphone Warehouse, is running an appeal called Mobiles for Manchester. The appeal says: “The bulk of the money raised will go to support victims of the attack. But the Mail also believes that if the social dislocation which can lead to extremism is not tackled, the problem will never go away. So we aim to give some of the money to local inter-faith youth initiatives. Bishop Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi, co-chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, said: ‘Local inter-faith initiatives play a vital role in bringing people of different faith backgrounds together, tackling prejudice and hatred. Young people are a vital part of that.’ The Inter Faith Youth Trust, a registered charity which provides small grants to local voluntary organisations, will receive some of the money. Trust chairman Neil Martin said: ‘We help bring young people together through community projects so they realise how much they have in common.’”

People can drop off old mobile phones – whether working or not – at branches of Carphone Warehouse (<https://www.carphonewarehouse.com/store-locator.html>). Carphone Warehouse will donate all money raised from the donations to the Daily Mail appeal. Even a very old phone raises a £15 donation.

General Election – manifestos, hustings and campaigning

A number of faith bodies have been holding Hustings. Examples include a ‘Hustings in the City’ event held in London by the City Hindus Network and City Sikhs Network, in association with the Association of Asian Women Lawyers, Emerald, the Association of Muslim Lawyers, Faiths Forum for London, the Hindu Lawyers Association, the National Hindu Students’ Forum (UK) and the Society of Asian Lawyers (<http://faithsforum.com/events/hustings-in-the-city/>).

A number of faith bodies have been publicising and updating their own manifestos including the Board of Deputies of British Jews (<https://www.bod.org.uk/board-of-deputies-launches-revised-and-updated-jewish-manifesto-to-boost-communal-advocacy-around-the-country/>) and the Muslim Council of Britain (<http://www.mcb.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2015/03/fairnessnotfavours-MCB.pdf>).

Churches Together in Britain and Ireland has set up a website for the General Election at <https://www.churcheselection.org.uk/>. This provides: information on how Christian organisations are responding to the Election; details on local hustings being held throughout the UK; and a number of resources including how to hold hustings and possible questions for candidates.

A ‘Values Manifesto’ has also been launched, which has been supported by a number of leading individuals from a range of communities. More information on this can be found at <http://www.valuesmanifesto.org.uk/>.

On 15 May the Department for Communities and Local Government organised a day long ‘Tweet Storm’ during which faith leaders/organisations/individuals were invited to tweet to encourage voter registration. The hashtag to take part was #MyFaithMyVote and IFN took part in this.

There are a number of rules regarding campaigning during General Elections. IFN has produced a document entitled ‘The law relating to General Elections, charities and undue spiritual influence’, which is available at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/charities-elections-law>. If your organisation is a charity, the following may be relevant:

Tributes to Rhodri Morgan

Rhodri Morgan, former First Minister of Wales, died on 18 May. Mr Morgan played a key role in establishing the Faith Communities Forum of the Welsh Government and his significant contribution to inter faith relationships in Wales has been remembered in a tribute by the Church in Wales: "We are particularly grateful for his commitment to interfaith relations. He set up the Faith Communities Forum in response to 9/11 and that has been pivotal in nurturing today's strong relationships both between Wales' diverse faiths and between those faiths and the Welsh Government."

Public consultation on Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law

The public consultation on 'Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law', launched by the Government Equalities Office (GEO) in March, is still open. The deadline for responses is 11.45pm on 18 July.

The consultation is described as seeking views on how best to ensure that there is appropriate legal protection against caste discrimination. The consultation website notes that "This ban could be applied: a) by formally making caste an aspect of race in the Equality Act 2010 or b) through developing case law in the courts and employment tribunals. In either case, businesses and public authorities would have to consider caste discrimination in the same way they consider other aspects of race discrimination when dealing with employees, customers or service users." Full details of the consultation and how to respond are at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/caste-in-great-britain-and-equality-law-a-public-consultation>.

Report on Hate Crime

The House of Commons Home Affairs Committee published a report on 25 April entitled ‘Hate crime: abuse, hate and extremism online’. The report is the outcome of an inquiry launched by the Committee in July 2016, which invited written submission of evidence. The Committee limited the scope of the report to the issue of online hate because of the calling of an early election, but notes “we hope that our successor committee in the next Parliament will return to this highly significant topic and will draw on the wide-ranging and valuable evidence that we have gathered in this inquiry to inform broader recommendations across the spectrum of challenges which tackling hate crime presents.”

The report is available at <https://www.publications.parliament.uk/pa/cm201617/cmselect/cmhaff/609/609.pdf>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

The Great Get Together

As noted in the March/April issue of the IFN e-bulletin, on the weekend of 16-18 June, the anniversary weekend of the murder of Jo Cox, former MP for Batley and Spennings, the Jo Cox Foundation is organising what it hopes will be the biggest street party since the Jubilee: The Great Get Together (GGT).

Organisers say “Jo’s killing was meant to divide us and we think the best response is to show how united we are. We believe there is a groundswell of people who reject divisive politics and simply want to bring our communities together and celebrate all that unites us. This is our chance.” Their hope is that this weekend of community events will demonstrate how united people are.

The GGT is being supported by the Big Lunch, the Big Iftar, the Eden Project, the Inter Faith Network for the UK, the Church Urban Fund, and organisations of a range of different faiths and beliefs as well from across the broad spectrum of society.

The GGT gives faith communities an opportunity to celebrate their work and to meet with others in their community. If you are a faith or inter faith organisation interested in getting involved and supporting the Great Get Together, here are just a few ideas that you might like to consider:

- Encourage your members to get involved or, if you are a local organisation, plan an event together
- Open your church, gurdwara, mandir, mosque, synagogue, temple, vihara or other place of worship, inviting in people of different faiths and beliefs
- Hold a special Great Get Together breakfast, lunch, or supper for guests of different backgrounds
- If you're fasting for Ramadan you could hold an interfaith Iftar
- Take part in other Great Get Together events near you – meals, sports events, bake-offs, and more
- Work with other faiths or a local inter faith group to write a Great Get Together message of unity for use in local media

Your event can be held at any time over the three days. For further information visit <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/the-great-get-together> and to take part, visit pledge.greatgettogether.org. You'll then be sent an information pack. You can also email Mike Buckley at the Jo Cox Foundation at mike@moreincommon.co.

Inter faith iftars

The period of Ramadan observed by Muslims began on the evening 26/27 May. Throughout the UK many Muslim communities are inviting their neighbours and people of other faiths to join them as they break their fast at the end of the day at an inter faith iftar meal.

A number of mosques and Muslim organisations and some other faith communities are hosting inter faith events as part of the Big Iftar and the Great Get Together. Lots of these are listed on the Big Iftar's Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/TheBigIftar/>. Local inter faith organisations, such as Building Bridges in Burnley, are also hosting inter faith events including iftars throughout June. Cardinal Vincent Nichols is inviting young people to Archbishop's House in Westminster for an inter faith iftar, with the Chief Rabbi and the Mayor of London Sadiq Khan, in partnership with the Naz Legacy Foundation. More on this can be found at <http://dowym.com/voices/archbishops-house-interfaith-iftar/>.

Another example is the Ramadan Tent Project, an initiative founded by students at SOAS, University of London, which aims to participate in social change by creating bridges between individuals, bringing together communities and fostering inter faith dialogue through its project Open Iftar - <https://ramadantentproject.wordpress.com/>.

Strengthening Faith Institutions, together with the International Centre for Integration & Cohesion, is offering grants for faith bodies to organise a Big Iftar event in their community. (See below.)

The Grand Trunk Project

2017 will mark 70 years since the independence of India and the creation of modern day Pakistan and Bangladesh. The Grand Trunk Project has been developed in partnership with faith leaders, community activists and facilitated by the Faiths Forum for London. Seeking inspiration from the ancient and unifying Grand Trunk Road which runs across the subcontinent, it aims “to build common ground and open up a much needed dialogue”.

The project’s website notes that “The happenings of 1947 are an important part of the cultural memory of the faith communities disproportionately affected, yet very little has been done to explore the impact. Despite being a divisive and emotional time for many, stories of altruism, bravery and courage have often been underrepresented. Living in one of the most diverse societies in the world, much has been done to build bridges and develop lasting inter community relations. However, the historical, political and religious divides in the British Asian Faith communities have not yet been explored in a relevant manner. The Grand Trunk Project is about opening up dialogue, rediscovering crucial stories of coexistence and developing lasting relationships in our communities that have been fractured.”

Remembering Srebrenica

11 July is the designated international day that marks the Srebrenica genocide. This year the theme is ‘Breaking the Silence: Gender and Genocide’, and the charity Remembering Srebrenica is focusing on the stories of women and the atrocities perpetrated against them that occurred in Bosnia. Remembering Srebrenica hopes that 2017 will be an opportunity not only to remember the impact that conflict has on women, and continues to do so, but also to think about how women are vital contributors to society at all levels.

Resources have been developed for groups to reflect on the impact of war on women and these can be found at: <http://www.srebrenica.org.uk/resources/gender-and-genocide-resources/>.

There are a number of resources on the website and inter faith groups may be interested in the ‘interfaith speech’ link on the Faith Resources page:

<http://www.srebrenica.org.uk/resources/faith-resources/>. There are also three case studies that can be found at: <http://www.srebrenica.org.uk/category/case-studies/remembering-through-faith/> which may prove useful for planning inter faith events to mark the Bosnian genocide.

Let’s Talk: Practical pointers for inter faith dialogue

The March/April issue of IFN’s e-bulletin noted that IFN was publishing a new resource entitled Let’s Talk: Practical pointers for inter faith dialogue. This is now available to download at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/publications>.

The resource draws on existing IFN materials and contributions from member bodies to provide tips and ideas for productive dialogue and conversation between people of different faiths and beliefs in a range of different contexts. Hard copies can be supplied by the IFN office. If you would like a copy, please contact ifnet@interfaith.org.uk.

Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities

Looking after one another: the safety and security of our faith communities was published, as previously reported, in March by the Inter Faith Network for the UK in partnership with the Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Fire Chiefs' Council and the National Police Chiefs' Council. The guidance has been drawn to the attention of a range of bodies, including in the wake of the Manchester attack.

The document contains guidance on responding jointly to attacks on places of worship; working for calm at times of tension; and working to build on and strengthen existing good inter faith relations. It contains material about how and where to report hate incidents, cyber attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity; where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings; and where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally. These practical pointers for responding in solidarity have particular resonance at the present time when there is a need to watch out for the wellbeing of any groups who may be targeted because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them.

Faith Festivals – guidance on sending greetings

In the UK today a range of festivals are celebrated by different faith communities. The Inter Faith Network office often receives enquiries about the most appropriate festivals on which to send greetings and the form of greeting to use and a guidance document has been produced with the IFN's Faith Communities Forum which can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/faith-festivals-guidance-on-sending-greetings-2017>. Each faith community has many different festivals but has chosen two festivals on which greetings from those of other faiths and none would be particularly appreciated. These are included in a table with greetings that the faith community bodies suggest.

London Bridge and Finsbury Park attacks - Faith and inter faith responses

On the evening of Saturday 3 June 8 people were killed and 48 people injured in a terrorist attack on London Bridge and nearby Borough Market. Later, on Monday 19 June, another terrorist attack occurred outside Finsbury Park Mosque in London, in which one person died and a further 10 were injured.

Faith and inter faith organisations played a significant role in responding to both events in a variety of ways.

Around the UK, faith and inter faith bodies offered prayers and messages of support. Vigils were organised following both incidents and ‘services of hope’ were held at Southwark Cathedral on 16 June following the London Bridge attack and at Finsbury Park Mosque on 3 July following the attack nearby.

A list of faith and inter faith responses to both incidents of which IFN is aware can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/london-bridge-attack-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies> and <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/finsbury-park-attack-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>, respectively.

On 4 June IFN’s Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN’s Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the London Bridge attack:

“We hold in our thoughts and prayers those who have lost their lives or been injured in the attacks at London Bridge, and also their families and friends.

We give thanks for the bravery and commitment of all who went to their assistance.

This was a further brutal attempt to undermine the stability of British society and to sow suspicion and fear – one that must be met by continuing to stand resolutely together as people of all faiths and none to uphold the values of an open democratic society.

We must continue to work together for a respectful and positive society where people feel valued and included and safe and where all can flourish free from fear.

Attacks such as these can bring scapegoating and acts of hatred in their wake. Let us work to try and prevent that and respond together to assist whenever necessary.

We know that, just as following the recent attack in Manchester, inter faith organisations in London will be playing an important role in the days and weeks to come. They are also in our thoughts at this time.

Two weekends from now the anniversary of the murder of the late Jo Cox MP by an extremist of a different kind will be marked by the Great Get Together. People around the UK will be coming together in their communities in a spirit of neighbourliness to highlight and celebrate what unites. Let us seize that moment to strengthen our bonds of friendship and create new relationships and to remember and affirm that we have, in her words, “far more in common with each other than things that divide us”.

On 19 June IFN’s Co-Chairs and the Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum also issued a statement in response to the Finsbury Park attack:

“Our thoughts and prayers are with the victims of the horrific terrorist attack in the early hours of this morning at Finsbury Park and with their families and all others involved.

The attack took place just outside Muslim Welfare House where, this weekend, a Great Get Together event was held, like other GGT events, “celebrating all that we hold in common”. That event, like the mosque open days, other cross-communal events at Muslim Welfare House and nearby Finsbury Park Mosque and active engagement in the Islington Faiths Forum, has highlights the extensive work of those bodies to create positive links, as well as the good relations that others locally have with them.

Where terrorism seeks to wear the face of religion, or where innocent people connected to mosques or other places of worship are the subject of hatred and attack because of perceived links to terrorism, we must stand up for their safety and their right to live free from prejudice, suspicion and hatred.

We must continue to stand together, support each other and work together for the common good.

Earlier this year IFN, with Government, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Police Chiefs Council and the National Fire Chiefs Council published short guidelines: Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities. As we say in this “As faith communities we ... have a role in responding to emergency situations and to inter-community tensions, both as individual communities and – very importantly – together. In our shared society we are deeply interconnected. An attack on one is an attack on all.”

We close, as we began, with thoughts and prayers for those affected and remember also those killed, injured and bereaved in other recent attacks.”

These statements can also be found on IFN’s website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statements-and-messages>.

Statements from the Prime Minister on both attacks can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/pm-statement-following-london-terror-attack-4-june-2017> and <https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/pm-statement-following-terror-attack-in-finsbury-park-19-june-2017>, respectively.

Battle of Passchendaele - Centenary

Monday 31 July marked the centenary of the beginning of the Battle of Passchendaele in which British soldiers fought alongside soldiers from Australia, Canada, India, pre-partition Ireland, Newfoundland, New Zealand and South Africa and from France and Belgium.

The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge were joined by the Prime Minister and many others to mark the occasion with a special service at Menin Gate in Ypres. (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-40669719>).

The service marked the beginning of a three month-long programme of events linked to the centenary of the Battle, including commemorations to remember forty-three soldiers who were awarded the Victoria Cross for bravery during the battle. ## Grenfell Tower Fire - Faith and inter faith responses

In the early hours of 14 June a fire engulfed Grenfell Tower, a residential tower block in Kensington, West London. The Metropolitan Police has estimated that around 80 people died in the fire.

Faith and inter faith bodies have played a major role in responding to the tragic events of the fire. This has included offering prayers and organising services and vigils. It has also included responding on the ground, both in the immediate aftermath of the fire and during the weeks that have followed.

Services and vigils were held in the wake of the fire including a special service of prayer at St Peter's Church Notting Hill and a multi faith vigil at Westway Sports Centre.

A range of local places of worship close to the site of the fire opened their doors to survivors and local residents, providing food, shelter and other urgently needed items, as well as offering emotional and spiritual care (<https://lbfm.org/tag/grenfell-tower-fire/>) and faith based agencies such as Caritas Westminster and local churches and other places of worship played a vital role, as well as faith groups visiting and sending support from further afield.

A number of national faith based bodies launched or supported appeals to aid victims of the fire, such as the Salvation Army (<http://news.salvationarmy.org.uk/salvation-army-grenfell-fire-emergency-response-london>) and the Muslim Council of Britain (www.mcb.org.uk/support-and-donations-needed-for-grenfell-tower-victims).

Inter faith organisations such as Faiths Forum for London and the London Boroughs Faiths Network also offered practical support to victims.

Many faith and inter faith organisations also issued statements and messages, such as those that can be seen at: <https://ctbi.org.uk/appeal-and-prayers-after-grenfell-tower-fire>; www.hinducounciluk.org/2017/06/15/hindu-council-uk-statement-on-the-grenfell-tower-fire-in-north-kensington-london/; <http://faithsforum.com/response-grenfell-tower-fire/>; and <http://www.ccj.org.uk/response-from-bishop-michael-to-the-grenfell-tower-fire/>.

Faith communities have also been involved in mediating between local residents and authorities in the weeks since the fire - <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2017/jul/19/grenfell-faith-groups-step-in-to-mediate-between-officials-and-community>.

Continuing faith and inter faith work with refugees, asylum seekers and migrants

On 19 July a new £1 million funding pot to help community groups support refugees fleeing the war in Syria to settle in the UK was announced. The funding was announced by the Home Secretary to mark the one year anniversary of the Community Sponsorship Scheme. This scheme, which was launched by the Home Secretary at Lambeth Palace last year, enables community groups to take on the role of supporting refugees who have been resettled from the camps in the countries surrounding Syria in the UK.

Since the scheme launched last year, 53 refugees have been welcomed by 10 community groups across the UK. Community sponsors, including charities and faith groups, provide housing for the refugee families, as well as helping them to integrate into life in the UK, access medical and social services, arranging English language tuition and supporting them towards employment and self-sufficiency. The new 2 year £1 million fund will provide training and support for groups signing up to the scheme.

Those responding to the scheme are not just from areas of high diversity. For example the Fishguard Refugee Sponsorship Group was one of the first to respond to the UK scheme: <https://www.opensocietyfoundations.org/voices/message-wales-refugees-people-are-very-keen-help>.

Further information can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/home-secretary-announces-1-million-to-help-communities-support-refugees>.

Faith and inter faith organisations and communities are continuing to respond to the needs of refugees, asylum seekers and migrants.

Churches Together in Britain and Ireland (CTBI), in conjunction with the National Justice and Peace Network and Christians Aware, has produced a leaflet entitled 'Facts about refugees' to assist churches and others in offering responses. The leaflet sets out the 1951 United Nations Convention definition of a refugee, points to the most recent facts and figures about refugees, links to stories of refugees and gives pointers as to action that can be taken, as well as providing follow-up contacts. The leaflet can be downloaded from the CTBI website at <https://ctbi.org.uk/facts-about-refugees-leaflet/>. In April, CTBI also organised a fact-finding trip to Italian refugee projects. For more information about the trip, and CTBI's other work with refugees, migrants and asylum seekers, visit <http://focusonrefugees.org/>.

An Edinburgh Weekend Club for refugees has started. It is based on a successful model run by Interfaith Glasgow (reported on previously) and is run by Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees. The project tackles social isolation to support integration and is also an opportunity to demonstrate the shared values of different faith traditions. For further information about Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees, visit <http://www.sfar.org.uk>.

Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees organised an inter faith pilgrimage to the mountain of Ben Ledi near Callander. The pilgrimage was held on the theme of ‘Sanctuary and Refugees’.

The Joseph Interfaith Foundation is running an initiative for young refugees entitled ‘Introduction to the Social Culture of Britain’. As part of its aim to assist young refugees with realising their full potential whilst living in the UK, the Foundation has released nine short videos. The videos are on such themes as ‘Women’s Equality and Domestic Abuse’; ‘The Rule of Law and Equality before the Law’; and ‘Accessing the National Health Service and Mental Health Issues’. The videos contain advice from professionals in these fields. The videos are free to access on the Joseph Interfaith Foundation website at <http://www.josephinterfaithfoundation.org/ongoing.php>. To find out more about the project, or to participate or recommend someone for participation, email info@josephinterfaithfoundation.org.

St Ethelburga’s Centre for Reconciliation and Peace ‘People of the Earth’ project has a refugee related dimension, reflected in an event it held this month on the theme of ‘People of the Earth: sowing seeds of human connection’. The event brought together refugees, asylum seekers, organisations and Londoners for a day of connection, community and fun. More information about St Ethelburga’s ‘People of the Earth’ project can be found at <https://stethelburgas.org/projects/people-of-the-earth/>.

Locally, faith and inter faith groups continue to raise funds and develop practical forms of support. For example, this month the community at Ealing Liberal Synagogue raised over £5,000 at a special fun day event, with the money going to the Abraham’s Tent Project to turn a former caretaker’s flat at South London Liberal Synagogue into a home for a refugee family. A Faiths in Action showcase, held earlier this month at Bradford’s Faith Centre in Oakwood Court, City Road, aimed to show how faith and non-faith groups are all pitching in to help and encouraging more people to join them. Further information is at http://www.thetelegraphandargus.co.uk/news/local/localbrad/15414303.Refugees\_speak\_of\_their\_experiences\_as\_faith\_groups\_unite\_to\_help/.

Migration Exchange has commissioned a piece of work looking at the role of faith networks in service delivery and advocacy for refugees, migrants and asylum seekers. The report is due to be launched this Autumn. For further information, contact mike@mikebuckley.org.uk.

Note: Other initiatives have been reported on in earlier issues of the e-bulletin.

Hate Crime

Figures from the Community Security Trust show an increase in the number of reported anti-Semitic incidents between January and June 2017 by a third compared to the same period in 2016. This reflects the highest number of incidents recorded for a January to June period since records began in 1984 (<https://cst.org.uk/news/blog/2017/07/27/cst-antisemitic-incidents-report-reveals-record-number-of-antisemitic-hate-incidents-in-first-six-months-of-2017>).

The number of Islamophobic attacks in Manchester went up fivefold in the week after the Arena bombing on 22 May, with 139 incidents reported to Tell Mama, the group recording Islamophobic crimes, compared to 25 incidents the previous week <https://www.theguardian.com/society/2017/jun/20/anti-muslim-hate-surges-after-manchester-and-london-bridge-attacks>. Figures released in June by Greater Manchester Police showed hate crimes linked to religion had leapt from 92 to 366 since the arena attack <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2017/jun/22/islamophobic-attacks-manchester-increase-arena-attack> There was also a spike in anti-Muslim attacks following the London Bridge and Finsbury Park Mosque attacks.

Members of other faith and ethnic groups also continue to suffer hate attacks.

In this context, the work of faith communities, inter faith organisations and all who work to bring together people of different backgrounds to grow in understanding and build relationships is vital. Issues around hate crime and tackling prejudice have been prominent on the agendas of recent IFN meetings for local inter faith practitioners, meetings of IFN's Faith Communities Forum and on IFN's National Meetings, as well as through highlighting relevant items within e-bulletins.

The Government announced last September funding to support community projects that prevent hate crime. Details can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/preventing-hate-crime-funding-for-community-projects>. The deadline for applications is 15 September 2017.

Vulnerable Faith Institutions Scheme

The Home Office announced on 7 July the opening of a new funding scheme for places of worship that require extra security to protect themselves from attacks on racial, religious or ideological grounds. This was announced following the terrorist attack near Muslim Welfare House and Finsbury Park Mosque.

The Vulnerable Faith Institutions Scheme, which is an extension of the Places of Worship Security Scheme, will pay for places of worship to install security measures such as CCTV cameras, alarms, bollards or strengthened fencing. Applications close on 17 August. Further information can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/vulnerable-faith-institutions-scheme>.

As noted in the March/April e-bulletin, IFN recently published relevant updated and expanded guidance: Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of Our Faith Communities. This can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after->

Extension of public consultation on Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law

The public consultation on 'Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law', launched by the Government Equalities Office (GEO) in March was extended, following the General Election for a further 8 weeks until 18 September.

The consultation is described as seeking views on how best to ensure that there is appropriate legal protection against caste discrimination. The consultation website notes that "This ban could be applied: a) by formally making caste an aspect of race in the Equality Act 2010 or b) through developing case law in the courts and employment tribunals. In either case, businesses and public authorities would have to consider caste discrimination in the same way they consider other aspects of race discrimination when dealing with employees, customers or service users." Full details of the consultation and how to respond are at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/caste-in-great-britain-and-equality-law-a-public-consultation>.

Srebrenica Memorial Week

Events took place across the UK between Sunday 9 and Sunday 16 July to mark Srebrenica Memorial Week. The theme for the week, which marked the 22nd Anniversary of the Srebrenica Genocide, was 'Breaking the Silence: Gender and Genocide'. The theme explored the gendered nature of the genocide in Bosnia and remembered its hidden victims, particularly victims of sexual violence. The week also explored the untold stories of women's acts of courage during and after the Bosnian war and the genocide and the contributions of those women seeking truth and justice for the victims of the genocide, and challenging denial.

An event was held at the Guildhall in London, which included addresses from survivors, Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith and Integration at the Department for Communities and Local Government and Nicola Sturgeon, First Minister of Scotland. A National Commemoration for Wales was also held at The Pierhead in Cardiff, as well as a commemoration for Northern Ireland at Belfast City Hall. People of many faiths and beliefs, and many IFN member bodies, were involved in marking the anniversary in some way. Srebrenica Memorial Week is coordinated by Remembering Srebrenica. To find out more, visit www.screbrenica.org.uk.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

The Grand Trunk Project

The Grand Trunk Project, launched on 4 July, seeks inspiration from the Grand Trunk Road, which runs across the Indian subcontinent. 2017 marks 70 years since Indian independence and the partition that led to the creation of Pakistan and later Bangladesh, and the project will also seek to explore the legacy of these events among faith communities in the UK. 11 events will be held across the UK during the summer of 2017 as part of the project, and an exhibition will also tour the country.

The project aims to bring together British Asian faith communities to build bridges and develop lasting inter community relations. It has been developed in partnership with faith leaders and community activists, and is facilitated by the Faiths Forum for London. Other faith organisations, such as the City Sikhs Network, are also involved.

Sacred Sounds concerts

Throughout the summer and autumn of 2017, Alchemy and South Asian Arts, in association with the Network of Sikh Organisations, are touring the UK with a special concert on the theme of ‘Sacred Sounds: Sikh music traditions and the First World War’. The concert tells some of the stories of Sikh soldiers that fought in the First World War, and showcases the music that these soldiers took with them to the battlefield. The concert includes vocals, music, spoken word, visuals and animation. A number of seminars and conferences are also being held as part of the project. The final performance will take place in Leeds on Wednesday 15 November.

The Women’s Interfaith Network is developing an educational film aimed at children and young people on the theme of ‘All of us’. The short animated film is being created as a resource for a wide reaching campaign to promote religious and cultural tolerance. The project aims “to create a vision of how different belief systems, cultural and racial diversities could positively co-exist” and will be promoted nationally and internationally to schools, communities and members of the public.

Inter faith walks

The summer months are a time when many organisations choose to hold faith walks, trails and pilgrimages. These events enable members of the public to visit places of worship in their neighbourhoods, to increase religious literacy, to meet people of different faiths and beliefs, or to unite in support of a common cause, such as expressing solidarity or working for peace.

Examples of recent faith walks, trails or pilgrimages include those held by: Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees <http://www.sfar.org.uk/shoulder-to-shoulder/>; Hounslow Friends of Faith <http://www.hounslowfriendsoffaiith.org/2017/06/walk-of-peace-and-friendship/>; Medway Inter Faith Action <http://www.kentonline.co.uk/medway/news/peace-walk-aiming-to-unite-127969/> Oxford Council of Faiths; http://www.oxfordtimes.co.uk/NEWS/15382958.Hundreds unite for interfaith walk with 39 friendship at its heart 39 /; and West Cheshire Interfaith Forum (<http://www.chesterchronicle.co.uk/news/chester-cheshire-news/ellesmere-port-stages-historic-walk-13379149>)

Friday, Saturday, Sunday

Friday, Saturday, Sunday is an architect-led proposal to create a unique building: a single place of worship containing a church, a synagogue and a mosque. Three architects, one Christian, one Jewish and one Muslim – are exploring the possibility of bringing these three faiths together physically, but serving each of them distinctly. The shared space would function as a mosque on a Friday, a synagogue on a Friday evening and Saturday and a church on a Sunday, and would contain all of the practical functions of each.

The architects are exploring whether such a building can be built, and if so, where, along with discussion of the theological, social and aesthetic questions that the project raises. A steering group has been established to discuss how the project might be realised, possibly in the context of a temporary space. ## The Great Get Together

The GGT was widely marked and the organisers are now considering how to build on its success. Stories, comments and ideas welcomed at: <http://www.greatgettogether.org/join-in/>.

Ethical finance project

The Church of Scotland and the Islamic Finance Council UK are running an ongoing project to produce a financial product which would help to tackle financial exclusion based upon the shared values of faith communities. The creation of ethical financial services will draw on how the Christian and Muslim communities have supported ethical finance in the past. A series of inter faith workshops have taken place, including at the House of Lords, to determine the direction of the project, which is now entering a phase of research and development. The final product will be open to members of all faith communities to use.

The project most recently presented to the 13th Edinburgh Ethical Finance Round Table on 15 June this year, which was held on the theme of faith-based finance and faith-based perspectives on ethical investment. For further information, contact the Islamic Finance Council UK at info@ukifc.com or the Church of Scotland Church and Society Council at churchandsociety@cofscotland.org.uk.

the four cities, in particular where faith and minority communities have responded to crisis situations, whether social, political or economic.

The report includes a series of recommendations, primarily to faith communities and institutions themselves, as well as a call to local government to play a “more important role in building social cohesion”, and some “key areas for action” by central Government.

Involvement of faith communities in World War One and Remembrance Sunday

IFN's Board of Trustees agreed earlier this year that Inter Faith Week will continue to begin on Remembrance Sunday and run for 8 days, finishing on the following Sunday, until agreed otherwise. The overlap with Remembrance Sunday enables greater coming together of people of different faiths to remember at that time.

It is planned to prepare some materials about faith communities' involvement in World War One and in Remembrance Sunday. Links to relevant materials or initiatives would be welcomed. Please send to ifnet@interfaith.org.uk marked 'WW1 and Remembrance'.

Vulnerable Faith Institutions Scheme

The Home Office has announced the opening of a new funding scheme for places of worship that require extra security to protect themselves from attacks on racial, religious or ideological grounds.

The Vulnerable Faith Institutions Scheme, which is an extension of the Places of Worship Security Scheme, will pay for places of worship to install security measures such as CCTV cameras, alarms, bollards or strengthened fencing.

The scheme is considering bids from places of worship in England and Wales, such as mosques, gurdwaras, temples, churches and associated faith community centres. Faith schools, educational institutions, general community centres, NHS establishments (including chapels and prayer rooms) are not eligible to apply. The Jewish community will be exempt from this scheme as a similar commitment was made to fund Jewish community sites through a grant administered by the Community Security Trust.

Applications close on 17 August. For further information, visit <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/vulnerable-faith-institutions-scheme>.

Near Neighbours grants programme

The Near Neighbours programme offers small grants of between £250 and £5,000, as seed funding for local groups and organisations working to bring together neighbours, and to develop relationships across diverse faiths and ethnicities to improve their communities.

As part of the criteria, projects should:

- Bring together peoples of two or more different faiths and/or ethnicities, to build friendships and develop relationships of trust.
- Work locally. We want to see people who are living very locally (ie in the same street, estate or neighbourhood) come together.
- Work sustainably. We want to see long term and natural relationships grow, that will last beyond the period of funding.
- Work to improve the community. We want to see people working to make their communities a better place to live.
- Involve diverse people in planning and implementation. People from more than one faith group and/or ethnicity are involved in planning and implementing the proposal.

The closing date for applications is 17 November. The full criteria, information on areas in which the grants are available and information on how to apply can be found at <http://www.cuf.org.uk/near-neighbours-grants>. (It is not available in Northern Ireland where carrier bag money is managed centrally.)

Three local community projects will be voted on in Tesco stores each month across Tesco regions throughout England, Scotland and Wales. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Responses to terrorist attacks

On Friday 15 September 30 people were injured in a terrorist attack on a train at Parsons Green underground station in London during rush hour. Local residents from many different backgrounds came to assist those affected by the attack and at national level a number of faith bodies responded including the President of the Board of Deputies of British Jews <https://www.bod.org.uk/board-of-deputies-statement-on-terrorist-attack-at-parsons-green-station/> and the Muslim Council of Britain <http://www.mcb.org.uk/parsons-green-attack/>. IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued a statement in response to the attack, which concluded:

"We re-state in the strongest terms our condemnation of terrorism, noting the toxicity of spurious justifications by terrorists on the basis of religious beliefs which they claim to espouse.

In recent months, people of all faiths and none have stood together in the face of this kind of cowardly aggression. Let us continue to do so, and let us work with vigour to counter narratives of hatred and also to resist division and support all those who face hatred and the fear of discrimination due to ignorant or prejudiced minds linking them with terrorist attackers."

Last month, on 17 August there was a major terrorist attack in Barcelona and a related attack in Cambrils the following morning. IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued a statement in response to these in the context of UK inter faith relations. The following day 2 people were killed and 8 wounded in a knife attack in the Finnish city of Turku. IFN's Co-Chairs included a message about this in a Circular to member bodies. The statements and messages can be seen at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statements-and-messages>.

Hate crime

In the July/August edition of IFN's E-Bulletin it was noted that there had been an increase in reported hate crime attacks in the wake of terrorist attacks in Manchester and London in the preceding months.

Levels of hate crime remain at very concerning levels affecting Jewish, Muslim and other communities such as the Hindu and Sikh communities. On 24 September there was a knife attack on lay imam Dr Nasser Kurdy near the Altrincham Islamic Cultural Centre. This is still being investigated but is being treated by the police as a hate crime. A multi faith vigil was held at the mosque that evening and there were expressions of support from around the UK.

In August, the Crown Prosecution Service published new public statements on how it will prosecute hate crime and support victims in England and Wales. This follows consultation with community groups and criminal justice partners. In addition to the public statements the CPS has also published revised legal guidance that sets out how prosecutors should handle hate crime cases in court and make charging decisions.

To mark the publication of the documents, the CPS has also launched a social media campaign, #HateCrimeMatters to encourage people to come forward and report hate crimes. The new documents can be viewed on the hate crime homepage of the CPS website at http://www.cps.gov.uk/news/latest\_news/cps-publishes-new-public-statements.

Also in August, the Community Security Trust in partnership with the Crown Prosecution Service and Tell MAMA, and supported by the Department for Communities and Local Government, published 'Hate Crime: A guide for those affected'. The guide provides victims of hate crime with guidance and advice on reacting to and reporting hate crime, as well as navigating the criminal justice system and understanding the UK courts. The guide can be downloaded on the Community Security Trust website at <https://cst.org.uk/news/blog/2017/08/23/hate-crime-a-guide-to-those-affected>.

National Hate Crime Awareness Week takes place from 14 to 21 October. For information about the Week, events taking place to mark the Week, and to find out about other ways to get involved, visit <https://www.stophateuk.org/hate-crime-awareness-week/>.

The ceremony of the National No2H8 Crime Awards 2017 takes place on Tuesday 10 October. The awards aim to highlight the work of those combatting hate crime, and are supported by a range of national hate crime agencies. The theme for 2017 is 'Upstanders not bystanders'. More information about the awards can be found at <http://no2h8crimeawards.org/>.

The Inter-faith Council for Wales has been looking at the challenges faced by faith communities. One of these was that many people were too scared to report hate crimes. IfCW will be holding a meeting to show religious communities what they can do when they face hate crime.

Bank of England decision on polymer bank notes

The March/April issue of IFN's e-bulletin noted that the Bank of England had launched a consultation on the new polymer £20 and future print runs of polymer £5 and £10 note in the light of concerns by a number of organisations, including Hindu and some other faith community bodies, about the manufacturing methods which contained trace amounts of chemicals derived from animal products.

The consultation ran until 12 May and the Bank of England published its response on 10 August. It said that "after careful and serious consideration and extensive public consultation there will be no change to the composition of polymer used for future banknotes. The new polymer £20 note and future print runs of £5 and £10 notes will continue to be made from polymer manufactured using trace amounts of chemicals, typically less than 0.05%, ultimately derived from animal products."

The full response can be found at <http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/banknotes/Documents/consultationdecision.pdf> and the press release at <http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/publications/Pages/news/2017/052.aspx>.

National Association of Teachers of RE report expresses concern about state of RE

On 17 September the National Association of Teachers of Religious Education, in collaboration with the RE Council of England and Wales and RE Today Services, published its annual 'State of the Nation' report.

The report focuses on the provision of RE in England's secondary schools against the backdrop of increased 'academisation' of schools – making them independent of their local authorities. All state-funded schools, including academies and free schools, are legally required by the 1998 School Standards and Framework Act to provide Religious Education as part of a balanced curriculum. Whilst community and voluntary controlled maintained schools have to follow the locally agreed syllabus, schools that have become academies do not. Academies, though, do have to provide RE in accordance with their funding agreement.

The report has twelve key findings which highlight a number of issues. These can be summarised under the following headings: Provision - pupils in schools with a religious character are likely to have more RE than those in schools or academies without a religious character. Pupils in academies are least likely to have RE as part of their curriculum; Teachers - in schools and academies with a religious character teachers are more likely to be qualified to teach RE. Those in academies without a religious character were most likely not to be qualified to teach RE; and Qualifications - the number of schools not offering GCSE Religious Studies has risen on the previous year's figures. Those not following an accredited course in RS at Key Stage 4 are unlikely to have any RE at all.

The report makes a number of recommendations for the Department of Education, school leaders, including headteachers and governors; Ofsted and one for Parents and Carers. The key recommendation is that schools should be held to account by the Department for Education and that this should be supported by Ofsted. Schools should ensure that they have suitably qualified teachers and that all pupils should have a meaningful entitlement to RE in both key stages. Parents and carers should be more proactive in holding their children's schools to account if RE appears to be missing from their curriculum.

The full report can be found, with the press release at <https://www.natre.org.uk/news/latest-news/800-000-secondary-pupils-lose-out-on-religious-literacy/>.

Commission on Religious Education – Interim report

In July 2016 the Religious Education Council of England and Wales established an independent Commission on Religious Education (RE) to review the legal, education, and policy frameworks for RE in England. Its aim is to propose a new settlement for RE.

On 20 September the Commission published its Interim Report entitled 'Religious Education for All'. Among its recommendations are that there should be a national entitlement statement for RE which sets out clearly the aims and purpose of RE and what pupils should experience in the course of their study of the subject. A draft statement for consultation is included in the report.

There are three ways to respond to the Interim Report:

- An online consultation process will run from mid-October to mid-December 2017. Details will be published at www.commissiononre.org.uk and on Twitter at <https://twitter.com/Commissiononre>.
- A consultation event will take place in late November or early December 2017. Further details of this event will be publicised in due course.

- Views can be emailed to evidence@commissiononre.org.uk throughout the next year up until the publication of the final report.

There is also a call for case studies in paragraphs 273 to 275 which may be of interest to inter faith groups and practitioners.

The Interim Report can be found at <http://www.commissiononre.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2017/09/Commission-on-Religious-Education-Interim-Report-2017.pdf> and the Executive Summary of the Report at <http://www.commissiononre.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2017/09/Executive-Summary-FINAL.pdf>

Equalities updates

Rt Hon David Lammy MP has published his final report following his independent review into the treatment of, and outcomes for, Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic individuals in the criminal justice system. The report can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/lammy-review-final-report> in both English and Welsh.

The Equality and Diversity Forum, on which IFN has Observer status, has produced a number of briefings on the possible impact of Brexit and the European Union (Withdrawal Bill) on equality and human rights law in the UK. The Briefings emphasise both the positive aspects and areas where change may be helpful to ensure that relevant protections are not undermined. The briefings can be found at <http://www.edf.org.uk/our-policy-work/brexit-equality-and-human-rights/>.

Lord Bourne tour of places of worship

Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at the Department of Communities and Local Government, this month completed, with a visit to Canterbury Cathedral, a year-long tour of England's 42 cathedrals, which he began last October.

Throughout his tour, Lord Bourne noted that he had found many faith communities working in partnership. Just some examples were: Peterborough Cathedral, which has been working collaboratively with Peterborough Interfaith Council; Liverpool Metropolitan Catholic Cathedral's engagement with Inter Faith Week, hosting part of a faith tour of Edge Hill University students; and Coventry Cathedral, which hosted a Big Iftar in 2016. The Minister also met faith leaders of Manchester in the city's Cathedral following the terrorist attack earlier this year. The Cathedral has been a key place where different communities and faiths have met to discuss how to move forward together as part of the process of response and healing.

Lord Bourne will shortly be starting a new tour of other faith community places of worship. If communities have suggestions for places to visit that are doing good inter faith work, particularly in rural areas, they can contact: philip.davies@communities.gsi.gov.uk.

Inter Faith Week 2017 will run from Sunday 12 to Sunday 19 November.

- Inter Faith Week begins on Remembrance Sunday and run for 8 days, finishing on the following Sunday. The overlap with Remembrance Sunday enables greater coming together of people of different faiths to remember at that time.
- The map showing activities taking place is now live at www.interfaithweek.org/map and more activities are being added regularly. If you are organising an activity to mark the Week, you can add it to the map at www.interfaithweek.org/submit or send details to the IFN office.
- A ‘2 months to go’ press release was circulated on 12 September, which included quotes of support from IFN’s Co-Chairs and Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at DCLG (both repeated below). The press release can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/2-months-to-go-press-release>
- IFN’s Co-Chairs, Bishop Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi say:

“Amid challenging times, the Week is a powerful opportunity to create and demonstrate friendship and solidarity and to continue to work towards a society rooted in shared values and cooperation.”

We invite you to hold an activity for the Week – large or small. Be part of making new connections and friendships, learning about the faiths and beliefs of other people you share your daily life with, or volunteering with people of other faiths on a project to help your local community.”

- Minister for Faith Lord Bourne said:

“In recent months we have seen how faith communities have come together to offer help to people caught up in appalling incidents and tragedies – literally throwing open their doors to offer sanctuary. They have been superb.”

“Inter Faith Week gives us an opportunity to celebrate the contribution that faith communities make and show how that can be strengthened by working together.”

- The Inter Faith Week Toolkit provides ideas for activities. It can be found at: www.interfaithweek.org/resources/toolkit.
- You can connect with the Week on Twitter at www.twitter.com/IFWeek or on Facebook at www.facebook.com/IFWeek. IFN will again be using the hashtags #IFWeek and #InterFaithWeek across all social platforms it is using. Tagging our accounts and using the hashtags helps us to find and share what you are doing.
- The homepage of the Inter Faith Week website has been updated to include an image of two of IFN’s Faith Communities Forum members – Julie Jones of the Inter-faith Council for Wales and Smita Oza of BAPS Swaminarayan Sanstha – holding a card with a message about the Week. The IFN office has produced a series of these and will be posting them on Twitter and Instagram (www.instagram.com/ifweek) in the run-up to the Week. If you would like to join in, print-at-home cards will be available on the website soon.
- Flyers about Inter Faith Week can be downloaded from www.interfaithweek.org/flyer. If you are holding an activity, or would like to raise awareness of the Week, please contact us and ask for some flyers and we will be happy to post some to you!

Arts and culture profiles

In August-September IFN published a series of Facebook profiles on the theme of ‘Arts, culture and inter faith encounter’. These highlighted recent examples of the work of member bodies that have used arts and culture to help people develop inter faith understanding and cooperation, and to engage with one another. The profiles can be seen at www.facebook.com/IFNetUK.

Scottish Interfaith Week (SIW) this year has as its theme ‘Creativity and the Arts’. More about SIW is at <http://scottishinterfaithweek.org/>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Sexuality, Gender Identity and Belief: The Leicester Approach

Trade Sexual Health and the St Philip’s Centre Leicester have concluded a year-long project: ‘Sexuality, Gender Identity and Belief: The Leicester Approach’. The project, launched in November 2016, explored the intersection between faith and issues of sexuality and gender identity, and aimed to bring individuals and communities together to discuss these subjects and build bridges. Several shared conversations have taken place, along with one-to-one conversation with faith leaders from a range of faith communities in Leicester. The project culminated in the launch of a guidance document, on which there is more below in the Resources section.

The project hopes to be a platform for further work in this area. For more information, visit www.tradesexualhealth.com/ or email info@tradesexualhealth.com.

Interfaith Scotland Rwanda exchange and youth programme

Interfaith Scotland has been working in partnership with the Church of Scotland on a Muslim/Christian youth exchange to Rwanda. In September five young Muslim and five young Christians along with four Church of Scotland and Interfaith Scotland leaders travelled to Rwanda to engage with young Rwandan Christians and Muslims. A full programme of inter faith learning took place and the young participants are now back in Scotland where they are continuing their inter faith dialogue work over the next year. 2018 is the Year of Young People in Scotland and so there are many opportunities for inter faith engagement for young people. The Rwandan participants will be undertaking many engagements including;

- In October 2017 engaging with Scotland's Religious Leaders Forum, sharing with the Leaders what they learnt from their trip
- In November 2017 they will assist with the launch of Scottish Interfaith Week, host an event at the Al Maktoum Institute in Dundee and speak to 20 European Youth workers on a learning exchange to Scotland
- In January 2018 at the Holocaust Memorial National Scottish event, two of the young people will share their experience of visiting the Rwandan Genocide Museum
- In April 2018 they will assist with the organisation of, and will speak at, the National Interfaith Youth Conference taking place in St Andrews. This conference is co-organised by Interfaith Scotland and the St. Andrews Co-existence team of young people.
- In May 2018 they will speak at the Church of Scotland Youth Assembly

Many other engagements are planned and the above is just a flavour of what these young people have committed to for the Year of Young People and in commitment to inter faith dialogue and engagement.

Local authorities and local faith communities

The relationship between local authorities and local faith communities is an important one. A number have been exploring and agreeing new methods of joint working, in some cases using the term Faith Covenants. The idea of a 'Faith Covenant' was the fruit of the All Party Parliamentary Group on Social Action and Faith Action. These 'covenants' are designed to enable a joint commitment between faith communities and local authorities based on a set of principles that guide engagement, aiming to remove some of the mistrust that exists and to promote open, practical working on all levels. More information about faith covenants is at <http://www.faithandsociety.org/covenant/>.

This month Blackpool Council together with key faith leaders across the town met to sign up to a new partnership framework. The idea is to work to promote better partnership between the Council and Faith groups. The process has been led by Together Lancashire, which has coordinated initiatives to map the extensive day to day work that local faith groups do to help serve need in their communities. A copy of the partnership agreement can be seen at <http://www.faithandsociety.org/wp-content/uploads/blackpool-faith-partnership-agreement.pdf>.

A proposal for Basildon to sign up to the Essex Faith Covenant signed by Essex County Council last year can be seen at http://www.echo-news.co.uk/news/local\_news/15515492.Different\_faith\_groups\_to\_work\_together\_to\_reduce\_isolation/.

Local resources

Three new resources have been added to the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/local-1>. These are part of a series of planned items looking at different themes in inter faith engagement. They are primarily focussed on local activity, but some will be of interest more widely.

The first three are 1) Inter faith engagement in social action; 2) Standing together; and 3) Local inter faith organisations and schools. ## Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities

As previously reported, earlier this year IFN published Looking after one another: the safety and security of our faith communities in partnership with the Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Fire Chiefs' Council and the National Police Chiefs' Council.

Looking After One Another gives guidance on:

- responding jointly to attacks on places of worship;
- working for calm at times of tension; and
- working to build on and strengthen existing good inter faith relations.

and contains material about:

- how and where to report hate incidents, cyber attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity;

- where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings;
- and where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally.

These practical pointers for responding in solidarity have particular resonance at the present time when there is a need to watch out for the wellbeing of any groups who may be targeted because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them.

Faiths responding to the needs of the homeless

In the Autumn Budget statement, on 22 November, the Chancellor pledged to invest £20m in schemes to support people on the brink of homelessness and end rough-sleeping by 2027. Communities Secretary Sajid Javid, on 30 November, set out details of a new Rough Sleeping Advisory Panel that will help develop a national strategy as part of the government's commitment to halve rough sleeping by 2022 and eliminate it altogether by 2027.

Throughout the year, faith communities and faith-based bodies work to address homelessness through their own programmes as part of their commitment to social justice and to service. The winter months bring increased hardship for many who are homeless and faith communities and their members respond accordingly.

Churches in many parts of the UK run winter night shelters – often ecumenically – and there are many denominational initiatives such as those of the Salvation Army. A number have volunteers from other faiths or none.

The Merton Winter Night Shelter is now in its seventh year, operating with various faith groups in the area. It is led by YMCA London South West (LSW) and supported by Wimbledon Foundation and Merton Council. <https://www.ymcalsw.org/merton-winter-night-shelter-3/> Many who use it are referred through the Merton Faith in Action Homeless Project which also provides drop in support throughout the year. There are also a number of initiatives involving two or more faith communities that run year round, such as the Hope for Southall Homeless project with Christian and Sikh involvement.

<http://www.hssh.org.uk/who-we-are/>

The Leicester Winter Night Shelter is a multi-faith night shelter organised by One Roof Leicester. It rotates around seven places of worship in the city. Open from December until January, the shelter provides emergency accommodation and food to homeless people in the city during the winter period. The shelter is run by volunteers from diverse faith backgrounds. www.oneroof.org.uk/2-uncategorised/194-about-the-winter-shelter

Faith groups are also involved in other winter linked initiatives to support people who are homeless, as well as other groups such as the elderly. For example, the Independent reports on Human Appeal, a Muslim faith-based charity which has been collecting clothing and donating it to homeless people living on the streets of Manchester, Birmingham and Glasgow as part of the Wrap Up Campaign. Coats will also be donated to rough sleepers in London via the organisation Hands On London, who launched the annual Wrap Up campaigns, starting in London. <http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/muslim-charity-human-appeal-homeless-thousands-coats-winter-london-manchester-wrap-up-campaign-a8058366.html>

Muslim Aid is holding a UK Winter Campaign, helping to feed the hungry and homeless with their Food Drive programme, distributing essential items to the homeless with the Rucksack Challenge, and also helping the elderly in the UK to keep warm. For more information, visit www.muslimaid.org/uk-winter-campaign.

Mitzvah Day, a Jewish-led 'day of good deeds' on 20 November saw hundreds support the elderly and homeless, as well as refugees and others from poor or vulnerable backgrounds. For example, as part of their activities, members of St Albans Masorti Synagogue knitted woolly hats and scarves, cooked an evening meal at a local homeless shelter, and collected household and baby items for Syrian refugees and baked biscuits. At a Mitzvah Day activity in conjunction with Scottish Interfaith Week, volunteers from Glasgow Reform Synagogue helped out at the Kagyu Samye Dzong Buddhist Centre soup kitchen on Sunday evening, preparing food and distributing it to the homeless in Glasgow City Centre <http://www.grs.org.uk/2017/11/>. Greek Orthodox Christian, Jewish, Muslim Sikh and Zoroastrian, and volunteers from across London came to JW3 in North London to prepare a meal for those in need at Ashford Place in Cricklewood. <http://mitzvahday.org.uk/a-taste-of-mitzvah-day-at-cooking-event>

Volunteers from other faith linked charities have also been contributing through many different routes. For example, connected to Sewa Day, volunteers from City Hindus Network worked in partnership with three other charities at Lincoln's Inn Fields in London to serve hot food to London's homeless and also collaborated with Wrap Up London to sort 4,816 donated coats, of which 1,600 were delivered to those in need within 24 hours.

Faith communities and refugees

On 1 November A £1 million fund for organisations and communities wanting to support refugees coming to the UK opened. The fund is for the community sponsorship scheme which enables community groups to take on the role of welcoming and supporting refugee families in the UK. Sponsor groups can include charities, businesses, local authorities, community groups and third sector organisations. The fund is designed to give experienced organisations the resources to provide training and support to groups who want to sponsor refugees. It aims to bring people together from across society to support vulnerable refugees through community sponsorship. Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/1-million-community-sponsorship-capacity-building-fund-opens-for-bids>. The closing date for applications is 15 December 2017.

Citizens UK, which has a wide range of faith organisations involved in its work, continues to run its Refugees Welcome campaign and to encourage people to welcome refugees in their local community.

http://www.citizensuk.org/save\_lives\_by\_helping\_resettle\_refugees

The City of Sanctuary is an ongoing project, which began in Sheffield in 2005 and now has a network of groups across the UK. Many different faith groups are involved <https://cityofsanctuary.org/by-theme/faiths/ideas-to-support-asylum-seekers-in-your-congregation/>

Churches Together in Britain and Ireland carries information about Church and other refugee related news and initiatives, including the Churches Refugee Network, on its website at <https://ctbi.org.uk/how-the-churches-are-responding-to-the-refugee-crisis/> and through <http://focusonrefugees.org/>. A recent one is Welcome Churches <https://www.welcomechurches.org/> which provides training and resources to churches to help them provide help and support to refugees arriving in their neighbourhood. Another recent initiative is Church Response for Refugees <http://www.forrefugees.uk/about-us/>.

Within other communities there are also resources for engagement. For example, the Muslim Council of Britain carries information about relevant initiatives <http://www.mcb.org.uk/refugee-aid-and-relief-information/> and the Jewish Council for Racial Equality continues its work in this area, recently launching Coats4Calais, an appeal for warm coats for refugees sleeping rough in Calais www.jcore.org.uk/news. UK faith based bodies also continue to work around the world in support of refugees, for example Khalsa Aid's work to help Rohingya refugees <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2017/11/16/sikh-volunteers-give-aid-rohingya-muslims-fleeing-persecution/>.

Many individual places of worship around the UK continue to offer support. For example, since March 2012 volunteers from the Alyth Synagogue in London have been running a monthly drop-in for refugees who have recently arrived in the UK. It now regularly welcomes over 60 refugees each month. It was recently recognised for its work in 3FF's awards for faith and belief groups in London which make London a welcoming place for all <http://www.3ff.org.uk/blog/2017-awards/>.

A number of UK faith leaders joined together on a multi faith basis during Inter Faith Week to urge action to end statelessness as part of a new initiative calling for improved rights and better support for 'stateless' people. Their statement urged the UK Government to do more to welcome those who no longer have a country to call their home and to review its policies towards stateless people. 'Stateless' people without legal status cannot leave the UK because no country will accept them but do not have permission to work in the UK. Signatories called for alternatives to detention and better support for access to rights and advice and help with integration. The move is part of the #LockedInLimbo campaign which is led by the European Network on Statelessness and seeks to end the detention of people who end up locked in limbo because they have no country that they can return to. The statement, which remains open for signature, is at <https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdPu1UIrSnqBZc84RQ-iH-9xopdvknow9bEwoaTF51lGQwFg/viewform>.

The St Ethelburga's Centre for Reconciliation and Peace held a roundtable event in November, 'Multifaith Approaches to Refugee Integration in the UK', with the University of Winchester Centre of Religion, Reconciliation and Peace and with Faith in Society.

Inter Faith Week saw a number of refugee related events, for example Together We Grow taking 50 refugees to visit the Jamia Mosque Madni in Halifax and the Halifax Minster. <https://www.halifaxcourier.co.uk/news/a-tour-around-different-places-of-worship-for-group-of-refugees-1-8885295>

Impact of US Government policy change on status of Jerusalem

The Trump Administration's change of foreign policy to recognise Jerusalem as the capital of Israel has been followed by strong statements from different perspectives, both there and in many places around the world.

In Europe there have been some protests. In Amsterdam a man with a Palestinian flag yelling 'Allahu Akbar' (God is great) was detained by police after smashing the windows of a kosher Jewish restaurant. <http://metro.co.uk/2017/12/08/jewish-restaurant-vandalised-religious-attack-trumps-jerusalem-declaration-7142432/> There was a firebombing of a synagogue in Sweden and violently anti-Semitic chanting at one protest in that country. <http://www.itv.com/news/2017-12-10/three-arrests-after-synagogue-in-sweden-firebombed-by-masked-attackers/>

The Scottish newspaper The National reported that an unnamed leader of Scotland's Jewish community had expressed fears about the consequences for inter faith relations

Faith Leaders' Declaration on Female Genital Mutilation

A Faith Leaders' Declaration on Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) was signed as part of the 'Girl Summit' in 2014 to reinforce the message that FGM is not a religious requirement. This is currently being updated ahead of a reaffirmation of commitment to end this practice which is illegal in the UK.

As part of this process, which is being supported by the Department for Communities and Local Government, views are being sought, including on how best to spread the message that FGM is not tolerated in the UK. Views can be contributed through the following DCLG survey: <https://www.surveymonkey.co.uk/r/GDL6H2H>. The deadline is 29 December.

Religious dress and symbols

The wearing of religious dress and symbols in contexts such as the workplace has been something which has received increasing attention in the last few years. The Inter Faith Network's Trustees produced, in 2007, a briefing note on the wearing of religious dress and symbols which can be downloaded from

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/wearing-of-religious-dress-and-symbols-briefing-note>. IFN, alongside national faith community bodies and others, was represented on the advisory group which contributed to the Equality and Human Rights Commission's guidance to Employers on Religion or Belief in the Workplace which contains material about a number of aspects of religious dress and symbols in the workplace:

<https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/religion-or-belief>.

On 5 December, the European Court of Human Rights press service published a new fact sheet, Religious Symbols and Clothing, as part of the ongoing series of factsheets which cover themes in the Court's case law and pending cases:

In November a woman customer entering a North London branch of McDonalds was told by a security guard to remove her hijab <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-london-42242272>. McDonalds made it clear that this was contrary to its policy.

At its meeting on 5 December, IFN's Board of Trustees noted with concern the continuing impact of religious illiteracy and prejudice on people from different faith backgrounds, including incidents such as demands for removal of items of clothing or symbols worn for religious reasons. Also noted was that its Briefing on Religious Dress and Symbols (see the first paragraph above) has relevance, as, sadly, because prejudice sometimes spills over into hatred, was the document <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2017>.

Development of Government's integration strategy

In 2015 the then Prime Minister, David Cameron, commissioned Dame Louise Casey to carry out an independent review on “how to boost opportunity and integration in isolated and deprived communities”. The report of that Review was published at the end of 2016. In April 2017 a General Election was called for June and the Conservative manifesto included a commitment to bring forward a new integration strategy. That integration strategy is now under development by the Department for Communities and Local Government. The Casey Review report made 12 recommendations and these are being considered alongside other factors in the development of the Government's new integration strategy. As noted below, Ms Penny Hobman Deputy Director, Integration Strategy, DCLG, came to speak to IFN's Faith Communities Forum about the developing strategy at its meeting on 9 November.

Lord Bourne begins Faith Tour

During Inter Faith Week, Minister for Faith at the Department for Communities and Local Government, Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, began a Faith Tour to highlight England's diverse landscape of faith communities and places of worship. The new tour follows on from his tour of all 42 Anglican cathedrals in England, “which highlighted their success in adapting to the modern world in addition to championing their role as custodians of England's rich Christian heritage”. Over the next year, Lord Bourne plans to visit 42 places of worship that support the many other denominations and faiths in England. The tour will highlight the role of these places of worship in the community and especially their work in bringing people of different faiths and backgrounds together. Many of the places of worship the Minister will visit were suggested by members of those local communities.

Ensuring strong equalities legislation after Brexit

In February 2017, the House of Commons Women and Equalities Committee published a report on ensuring the continuation of strong equalities legislation after the UK leaves the European Union. This relates to all protected characteristics, including religion or belief. The Government issued a response to this report in October, including to four key recommendations:

- That the Government should bring forward an amendment to the Equality Act 2010 to allow Parliament and the Courts to make judgements on the compatibility of new legislation with UK principles of equality
- To amend the 'Great Repeal Bill' to include a clause affirming a commitment to present levels of equalities legislation after the UK's exit from the European Union
- To develop a cross-departmental strategy for taking action on equality, as well as consolidating links with civil society organisations
- To take measures to ensure that research on equalities continues uninterrupted after the UK's exit from the European Union

New national online hate crime hub

In October, the Home Secretary announced the creation of a new national hub to tackle the emerging threat of online hate crime. The creation of the hub is intended to offer better support for victims, and to help increase the number of prosecutions by streamlining current processes and allocating resources more effectively. The hub will be managed by the National Police Chiefs Council (NPCC). Home Secretary Amber Rudd said:

“Online hate crime is completely unacceptable. What is illegal offline is illegal online, and those who commit these cowardly crimes should be met with the full force of the law. The national online hate crime hub that we are funding is an important step to ensure more victims have the confidence to come forward and report the vile abuse to which they are being subjected.”

It is expected that the new hub will be operational by the end of the year. More information can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/home-secretary-announces-new-national-online-hate-crime-hub>

APPG on Hate Crime

A new All Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on Hate Crime was launched on Wednesday 6 December at the Houses of Parliament. The APPG will explore the challenges and impacts of all forms of hate crime, including those involving religion and belief. The APPG will also work with key anti-hate crime organisations across the public and voluntary sectors to achieve its aims.

For further information about the work of the APPG, including the beginning of its first enquiry in the New Year, email info@appghatecrime.org.

Home office statistics

In October the Home Office published its annual statistics on hate crimes and racist incidents recorded by the Police. The statistics cover the extent and trends in levels of hate crime for all police forces in England and Wales. Hate crimes are recorded using five centrally monitored strands, one of which is 'religion and beliefs'.

The official statistics, and the accompanying report can be downloaded at <https://www.gov.uk/government/statistics/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2016-to-2017>.

CPS annual report

The Crown Prosecution Service has published its 'Hate Crime Annual Report 2016-17'. The report is an analysis of the key prosecutions across a number of classified 'strands' of hate crime offences, including race and religion. With regard to religiously aggravated hate crime, a number of key findings emerged:

- The volume of religiously aggravated hate crime referrals from police to the CPS decreased in 2016-17
- The volume of completed prosecutions decreased significantly in 2016-17
- The conviction rate and guilty pleas remained steady
- The proportion of successfully completed prosecutions with an announced and recorded sentence uplift increased significantly

It was also announced that in 2016-17, the CPS provided prosecutors with mandatory training on racially and religiously aggravated hate crimes which focused on developing strategies to obtain a recorded sentence uplift. The full annual report can be downloaded at http://www.cps.gov.uk/publications/docs/cps\_hate\_crime\_report\_2017.pdf.

National hate crime awareness week

The September/October edition of IFN's E-Bulletin looked ahead to National Hate Crime Awareness Week. The Week took place from 14 to 21 October, with events and activities taking place across the country. More information about the Week, including the dates for 2018, can be found at: <http://www.stophateuk.org/hate-crime-awareness-week/>.

Tell MAMA annual report

In November, Tell MAMA published its annual report: 'A Constructed Threat: Identity, Prejudice and the Impact of Anti-Muslim Hatred'. Among the key findings highlighted in the report is a significant rise in recorded anti-Muslim hate crime incidents at 'street-level' or in public places. The report also highlighted the increasingly gendered nature of anti-Muslim hate crime in the UK. The full report can be downloaded at: <https://tellmamauk.org/wp-content/uploads/2017/11/A-Constructed-Threat-Identity-Intolerance-and-the-Impact-of-Anti-Muslim-Hatred-Web.pdf>.

In December Faith Matters published ‘From antisemitism to anti-Muslim racism: the evolving face of the far-right in Poland’, which it describes as highlighting how extremist groups like Britain First have continued to sow division by exploiting the religious sentiments of Poles in Britain to further their anti-Muslim agenda. <https://www.faith-matters.org/2017/12/08/changing-face-hate-poland-antisemitism-anti-muslim-hatred/>

Law of marriage in the UK

The Government has confirmed that it does not currently support a full review of the law of marriage in the UK. An initial scoping report carried out by the Law Commission and published in December 2015 identified key issues and questions to be considered in a full review. These included how the ability to solemnise marriages might be extended beyond religious groups and the state; whether the current rules could be made more coherent; and what the process of registration of marriage should entail.

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week is the Inter Faith Network’s largest programme, and this year it took place from 12 to 19 November. Over 600 activities took place in England, Northern Ireland and Wales to mark the Week – more than ever before.

Strong support was offered from within national faith community bodies with messages from leading figures such as Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis and from many faith and denominational bodies. Key public figures showed their support, including Prime Minister Theresa May; Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at the Department for Communities and Local Government; other MPs; Mayor of London Sadiq Khan; and mayors and councillors across the country.

The Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, which leads on the Week, the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi, said:

“Inter Faith Week 2017 has seen an incredible array of activities taking place, involving many thousands of people of different backgrounds. These have contributed to developing even stronger inter faith relations in local communities and in our shared society.”

Prime Minister Theresa May said:

“Inter Faith Week 2017 was an inspiring effort across all neighbourhoods and faiths across the United Kingdom, in building understanding, tolerance and a sense of community. These sentiments are so important as we build a country where everyone has the chance to succeed and where no one suffers discrimination because of their background, ethnicity, religion or belief.”

Faith communities have contributed in ever-increasing numbers. They opened their doors and welcomed others in, discussed commonalities as well as challenging and difficult issues, celebrated with their neighbours, took part in joint social action projects, and have been active in civil society in existing and new ways. Inter faith organisations have also played a vital role in the Week, highlighting and providing a focus for the important work that they do year-round.

More activities took place than in any previous year since Inter Faith Week began in 2009. The hundreds of organisations that took part have included: faith communities and inter faith bodies; non-religious belief bodies; local authorities; schools, SACRES, universities and FE colleges; businesses; youth organisations; sports organisations; police and other emergency services; the Armed Services; hospitals and hospices; Government departments, and many more.

IFN has a long-standing relationship with Mitzvah Day, a day of social action and volunteering led by the Jewish community. The Day fell within the Week again this year (having, for the first time, come slightly outside of it in 2016) and over 70 ‘interfaith Mitzvah Day’ events were held jointly to mark both. These events were also listed on the Inter Faith Week website.

The geographical spread was huge: Bangor, Belfast, Bristol, Carlisle, Durham, Exeter, Fermanagh and Omagh, Great Yarmouth, Leeds, London, Manchester, Medway, Oxford, Penryn, Northampton, Newcastle, Waltham Forest and Wolverhampton, are just a few of the places that took part. Week-long programmes took place in a number of cities and towns such as Birmingham, Bolton, Kendal, Leicester, Preston, and York. The Week’s activities can be seen at www.interfaithweek.org/map.

The Week is timed to begin on Remembrance Sunday, remembering the service of soldiers and civilians of many faiths and beliefs. That was reflected in participation in civic commemorations and a number of moving events. Across the Week there were: sporting events; school activities; social action projects such as meals for the homeless and tree plantings; dialogues; cultural events; open door days held by faith groups around the country; faith trails; talks; women's events; events for young people; events bringing religious and non-religious people together; and many more.

The Week saw many new partnerships and launches of a number of new projects as well as signalling the start of a tour of faith communities' places of worship by Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at the Department for Communities and Local Government.

The Inter Faith Network for the UK held a joint symposium with Sporting Equals UK: 'The Power of Sport to Build Good Inter Faith Relations'. See below.

Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum held an event on 'Human rights, Pluralism and Freedom of religion' and one on 'Faith in the Environment – Caring for our Common Home'. The Inter-faith Council for Wales held an event entitled 'Hate Crime – What it is and how to report it' and the Muslim Council of Wales held its annual Inter Faith Week dinner earlier this month.

The Near Neighbours Programme of the Church Urban Fund and the Inter Faith Youth Trust supported a number of events during the Week.

The impact of the Week also spread further than ever before on social media, with many organisers, participants and supporters tweeting about the Week. Tweets about the Week have so far had a potential reach of 12.6 million Twitter users with over 40 million impressions.

Reporting on the Week

The Inter Faith Week team of staff and volunteers at the IFN office has been posting photos of events on our Inter Faith Week Facebook and Twitter accounts, sharing many of those that activity holders posted. If you organised or were at an event and have good photographs the team would love to see them. Please email them with any details to Interfaithweek@interfaith.org.uk or post them and tag us either on Instagram (www.instagram.com/IFWeek) or Twitter (www.twitter.com/IFWeek), or both.

It is important for IFN to learn what worked well about the Week and what worked less well, so that we can keep developing Inter Faith Week. Activity organisers have been asked to complete a short survey. This can be found at <http://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/InterFaithWeek2017/>.

Scottish Interfaith Week

This year Scottish Interfaith Week, which has taken place since 2004, took place on the same dates as Inter Faith Week in England, Wales and Northern Ireland. Its theme for 2017 was 'Creativity and the Arts'; it was also a very high impact week.

Day event in Manchester for local inter faith practitioners

In October IFN held a day event in Manchester for local inter faith practitioners from inter faith groups across the UK to share their experiences, discuss issues of common interest and concern and have focused learning opportunities about practical aspects of developing successful inter faith programmes.

This was an opportunity to share experiences and news; discuss issues of common interest and concern; share tips for developing successful inter faith programmes; hear about some projects being run by local groups; and to take part in discussion groups about supporting RE and inter faith engagement in schools; developing programmes with impact; getting to grips with Facebook and Twitter; and women and inter faith engagement.

The day opened with a presentation from Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chair of IFN and Chair of Warwick District Faith Forum, about the importance of local inter faith work and its UK context and a welcome to Manchester from the Revd Charles Kwaku-Odoi on behalf of the Faith Network for Manchester. During the morning session there were presentations by Rabbi Warren Elf of Faith Network for Manchester and Elinor Chohan of Altrincham Interfaith Group and Altrincham Muslim Association. ### UK's first 'Mayoral Faith Summit' in Birmingham

On 27 November the University of Birmingham hosted the first UK 'Mayoral Faith Summit', bringing communities together to shape and advance the priorities of the new City Region Mayor, Andy Street. The University's College of Arts and Law and its Edward Cadbury Centre for the Public Understanding of Religion worked with community stakeholders to design the process of the event in the weeks leading up to it. Its aim was to provide a space for a wide range of voices to be heard, and to build towards a shared action plan to address social and community issues, such as building new leadership networks for young people, reducing homelessness and social need, keeping communities safer by mitigating hate crime and discrimination, and finding concrete ways of working together to make the economy work better for the whole community.

Following the event, Francis Davis, Professor of Religion, Communities and Public Policy, Director of Policy at Edward Cadbury Centre and co-chair of the Faith Summit, will be developing a special edition of an international journal. He will also carry out more research to support emerging themes of focus and produce a pamphlet with think-tank Localis, which will assess the West Midlands' progress in these areas in an international context. ### Invest in Peace Board of Deputies and CTBI initiative

Invest in Peace is an ongoing joint initiative of the Board of Deputies of British Jews and Churches Together in Britain and Ireland. The initiative invites Christian and Jewish communities in Britain to come together in support of Israeli-Palestinian peacebuilding projects. Three events took place in May in London, each being locally led by a church and synagogue partnership. Christians, Jews and others sat alongside one another to hear from two bereaved parents, one Israeli and one Palestinian, who promote reconciliation as an alternative to revenge. Speakers Robi Damelin and Bassam Aramin, members of the Parents Circle – Families Forum, travelled to London especially for the three events. A further three similar events were held during Inter Faith Week in November in Glasgow, Leeds and Manchester. For further information about the project, contact CTBI Deputy General Secretary the Revd Peter Colwell peter.colwell@ctbi.org.uk or Board of Deputies Interfaith and Social Action Officer, Anthony Silkoff anthony.silkoff@bod.org.uk.

Hindu Christian dialogue resources under development

A number of meetings have taken place this month to develop further some resources that will equip Hindus and Christians to engage in Scriptural Reasoning together. Working in partnership with the Oxford Centre for Hindu Studies, the St Philip's Centre in Leicester has been engaged in a dialogue project throughout 2017 with a view to building sufficient trust between the different parties so that meaningful scriptural reasoning can take place. The work has been funded through grants from the Spalding and Teape Trusts and has enabled it to develop a pocket guide for those engaged in first encounters between Hindus and Christians, as well as some "text bundles" on themes such as "divine descent," "what happens after death" and "food and drink." The Centre will be using these resources in its work in 2018, including in a major conference planned for June 2018. ## 3FF projects – Pizza & Plays and Amplify 3FF is launching a new project for people aged 18 to 35 as part of a two-year partnership with the National Theatre. 'Pizza & Plays' will involve weekly workshops led by a professional writer and director from the National Theatre. Participants will read and discuss some of the past century's most iconic plays, focusing on themes of faith, belief and identity, all whilst sharing pizza. There will also be opportunities for participants to write their own plays, inspired by their life stories and experiences. Following the workshops, there will be a chance to rehearse and perform a brand new play at the National Theatre in the summer of 2018, alongside leading professional actors and community performers from all over London. No experience is necessary and further information is available from 3FF at <http://www.3ff.org.uk/blog/pizza-plays/>.

Amplify is an arts-based youth-led programme of 3FF for Sixth Forms and Further Education colleges that creates and strengthens safe spaces within educational institutions, for exploring issues relating to faith, belief, identity, belonging, social trends and community in the increasingly globalised and interconnected world. A pioneering group of 'Amplifiers' from Westminster Academy have come together to combine creative forces, challenge divisive narratives and amplify their vision for a better world. Further information and the video manifesto is available here <http://www.3ff.org.uk/blog/amplify/>.

Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery – Finding Faith

Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery, in partnership with the British Museum, launched in November a project on the theme of 'Finding Faith'. This will feature a programme of performances, live debates and panel discussion exploring the role that faith plays in the world today. These will include a discussion on being a young person of faith in Birmingham today; a talk on faith and disability; arts installations; and ‘The Birmingham Conversation’, a series of panel discussions between faith leaders in the city.

‘Finding Faith’ will celebrate the positive role that faith communities play in Birmingham, as well as encouraging visitors to learn more about faith and belief around the world and to reflect on their own beliefs. The project will run until March 2018, and further information can be found at <http://www.birminghammuseums.org.uk/bmag/whats-on/finding-faith-launch>.

RESOURCES AND STUDY/TRAINING

A new resource from CTBI

Churches Together in Britain and Ireland has published a new guide, Acting in God’s Love: Christian Witness in a Multi-Religious World. Using real-life case studies, the guide builds on recommendations for conduct published by the Pontifical Council for Interreligious Dialogue, the World Council of Churches and the World Evangelical Alliance and aims to foster a ‘practical understanding towards the application of the guidelines, provide a wider UK context, and develop deeper theological reflection on interfaith engagement’. As well as the case studies, the guide also includes questions for reflection that can be used to prompt discussion, and links to other recommended resources. It is available for download from <https://ctbi.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2017/10/Acting-in-Gods-Love-Christian-Witness-in-a-Multi-Religious-World.pdf>.

BBC Religion and Ethics review

In December the BBC published a review of its Religion and Ethics programming and output, with the aim of re-assessing its role and strategy in this area, and reconsidering how best to deliver its public service mission in this respect. This includes a new commitment to reflect better the diversity and plurality of faith and belief in the UK today. Among its key recommendations are:

- to help the public develop its religious literacy;
- to expand coverage of religion in News output; and
- to broaden the reach of Religion and Ethics content to diverse audiences, including those aged under 45.

The report also says that the BBC will partner with other organisations to host a summit discussing the role that belief plays in British society, to be held every two years, and that it will be designating 2019 'A Year of Beliefs' when special programming and content will be featured.

The full report of the review can be downloaded from http://www.bbc.co.uk/aboutthebbc/insidethebbc/howwework/reports/religion\_and\_ethics\_2017.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Many faith and inter bodies around the UK marked Holocaust Memorial Day on 27 January with events and projects. This year's theme is 'The Power of Words'.

The UK HMD event took place on 25 January in London with contributions from Holocaust and other genocide survivors, as well as others.

Interfaith Scotland, together with the HMD Trust and Glasgow City Council, organised the national Scottish annual Holocaust Memorial Day event on 24 January at Glasgow Caledonian University.

Government report on Cathedrals and their communities

In December the then Department for Communities and Local Government published, 'Cathedrals and their Communities: A report on the diverse roles of cathedrals in modern England'. This followed a tour during 2017 of all 42 English Anglican cathedrals by Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith and Integration.

The report aims to highlight the positive contributions that cathedrals make to their communities in a range of ways. Inter faith work is among those aspects of cathedrals' contributions prominently highlighted. Examples include the holding of inter faith events, collaboration with other faith communities on social issues, and participation in programmes of inter faith work, such as Inter Faith Week.

The Sussex Hate Crime Project – final report

The Sussex Hate Crime Project, carried out by the University of Sussex and funded by the Leverhulme Trust, has published its final report. The project examined the indirect impact of hate crimes, including “how hate attacks on members of a community affect the thoughts, emotions and behaviours of other members of that community.”

Across 2013-2018 the project worked with individuals and organisations from two commonly targeted groups, Muslim people and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Trans (LGBT) people, in an attempt to understand how indirect experiences of hate crimes impact on individuals, communities, and society in general. Among key findings in the report are: an increased sense of vulnerability in communities whose members had been affected by hate crimes; a build-up of anger and frustration; and a distrust of the criminal justice system. It also notes that the effect of hate crime goes beyond those who suffer directly, including in faith communities.

The report can be downloaded at <http://www.sussex.ac.uk/psychology/sussexhatecrimeproject/>.

2021 Census

The Office for National Statistics organised a 'Census, Population & Public Policy Forum' on 13 December to gauge views in the areas of ethnicity, gender identity and sexual orientation ahead of the 2021 Census. Among the topics discussed was whether the question about ethnicity should include tick-box options for Sikhs and/or Jews – with views offered in both directions – and the importance of ethnicity and religion data being collected by service providers across central and local government to ensure that the needs of different communities are met at all levels.

Further information about the forum event can be found in a blog post by Iain Bell, Deputy National Statistician and Director General for Population and Public Policy, at <https://blog.ons.gov.uk/2017/12/14/reflecting-views-on-the-2021-census/>.

The Office for National Statistics is carrying out a wide range of activity in preparation for the 2021 Census. This includes a range of consultative exercises alongside ongoing meetings of its Census Advisory Groups.

‘Opt-out’ consent for organ donation

People who donate their organs and tissue after they die help save many lives in England each year. However, 3 people die a day because of a lack of suitable organs.

There has been significant work with and by faith communities about organ donation, including development of materials about this and campaigns to raise awareness of the importance of donation.

In 2013 a ‘Faith Action Plan’ was launched <http://www.nbta-uk.org.uk/2013/12/all-major-uk-faiths-come-together-to-promote-new-organ-donation-strategy/> and further work has been done on this issue.

IFN has highlighted the issues in various contexts, most recently the inclusion of a dedicated workshop at its National Meeting last July with Angela Ditchfield, Diversity Lead Nurse, Organ Donation & Transplantation, NHS and Kirit Mistry, Co-Chair, National Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic Transplant Alliance and NHS Blood and Transplant used Inter Faith Week 2017 to campaign to raise awareness

<https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk0/news-and-campaigns/news/nhs-blood-and-transplant-encourages-people-to-talk-about-organ-donation-during-interfaith-week/>

Although 8 out of 10 people say they would want to donate their organs and tissue after their death, most people never register to be organ donors. Under current rules in England, a person who has died can only be an organ donor if they have agreed to it when they were alive or has appointed a person to make a decision after their death. This is called giving consent. The government believes that it would increase the number of organs donated and save more lives if the law was changed so that people who do not want to donate their organs after their death would have to opt out. It plans to change the law in England.

On 12 December the Department of Health launched a consultation to find out what people think about proposed changes in which people are considered willing to be an organ donor after their death, unless they have ‘opted out’. It is particularly interested in views on:

- how much say families have in their deceased relative’s decision to donate their organs;
- when exemptions to ‘opt-out’ would be needed, and what safeguards would be necessary; and
- how a new system might affect certain groups depending on age, disability, race or faith.

The consultation notes, at Section 4.3, that the Organ Donation Taskforce considered the attitudes of different faith and belief groups towards an opt-out system of consent and that its work highlighted significant reservations from people of certain faiths about the impact of moving to an opt-out system of consent, particularly for people less comfortable with the prospect of the change. It includes a question about whether the intended change could have a negative impact on people from some religious groups or ethnic backgrounds.

The consultation can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/introducing-opt-out-consent-for-organ-and-tissue-donation-in-england>.

The deadline for responses is 6 March. To submit a response, go to https://engage.dh.gov.uk/organdonation/?utm\_source=DHTwitter&utm\_content=Launchtweetwithanimation.

In Wales, an ‘opt out’ system has been in place since 2015. <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-wales-42213813>

Scotland is also planning to move to an ‘opt out’ system, with the next step being for the Scottish Parliament to consider legislation in the coming parliamentary year <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-scotland-42521772>

Following a detailed examination of all aspects of soft opt-out systems the Northern Ireland Assembly decided in 2016 not to proceed with specific legislation to introduce a soft opt-out system as a possible means of increasing levels of organ donation in Northern Ireland. However, the Assembly in recognition of the importance of promoting organ donation, passed legislation which places a statutory duty on the relevant Department to promote transplantation and increase awareness about transplantation and the donation of human organs.

Faith and Mental health

A number of faith and inter faith organisations are also involved in work relating to mental health issues, including dementia. Some examples of this work are included here.

South London Inter Faith Group, with the assistance of Faith in Society, launched a 3 year faith-based mental health project at an event in November. <http://faithinsociety.org.uk/faith-based-mental-health-project/>

FaithAction has collated studies about how faith communities are becoming ‘dementia friendly’ and produced resources for faith communities to use to help support those suffering from dementia. <http://www.faithaction.net/portal/our-projects/dementia/>

Thrive LDN campaign is working with faith communities to improve mental health for all Londoners. It is holding an inter faith event on 15 February to discuss this <http://thriveldn.co.uk/events/thrive-together-interfaith-event/> and has also produced an information pack. <http://thriveldn.co.uk/wp-content/uploads/2018/01/Thrive-Together-conversations-information-pack.pdf>

The Dementia Trust has produced a guide to helping people with dementia in local churches, which can also be used by other places of worship. ## INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week 2017 took place between 12 and 19 November, and featured the largest number of events and activities to date. The last edition of this E-bulletin contained a substantial report on the 2017 Week and can be found at

An illustrated report on the Week is being produced, timed as usual to also point forward to the coming Week. If you have any photographs or stories from activities you were involved with, please do keep sending these to the IFN office.

Inter Faith Week 2018 will take place from 11 – 18 November.

Last year for the first time, IFN made available Inter Faith Week branded pin badges to buy via the Inter Faith Week website. These proved to be popular, and it is planned to do this again in 2018. If there are other items which you think would be particularly helpful in spreading the word and raising awareness about the Week, please let the IFN office know and we will explore it.

Connecting across the generations: inter faith engagement of young people

This Inter Faith Network programme was begun in October 2017 and will lead in July 2018 to publication of a new edition of IFN's youth inter faith action guide Connect: Different Faiths, Shared Values <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/connect-different-faiths-shared-values>. It will also feed into a special youth-focused National Meeting of IFN in July.

The programme is being carried out with the help of an Advisory Group, co-facilitated by IFN Trustee Padideh Sabeti and youth co-facilitator, Jaskiran Kaur Mehmi.

The new guide will be full of ideas and case studies to inspire young people wanting to get involved in inter faith activity – or to deepen their existing involvement. It will cover a wide range of activity: from dialogue and social action to sport, arts and culture and more.

Key to the programme will be hearing the views of young people. IFN will be holding small focus group sessions in Birmingham, Leeds, Glasgow, Cardiff and London for young people aged 16-25. If you or someone you know are in that age range and may be interested in taking part, please contact Ashley Beck at the IFN office for more information (Ashley.beck@interfaith.org.uk). The sessions will take place between 20 February and 31 March.

IFN is also keen to hear from organisations which run inter faith initiatives – large and small – with young people. If you have ideas, best-practice examples or resources to share, please take a moment to complete the short questionnaire at <http://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/3556485OWI8> Printable versions can also be provided if helpful for consultation or discussion.

HMCTS consultation - Fit for the future: transforming the Court and Tribunal Estate

Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunal Service began a consultation on 18 January about the transformation of the court system. The consultation is called: Fit for the future: transforming the Court and Tribunal Estate and closes on 29 March.

There are ten questions over all and one that specifically relates to people of religion and belief. Question 9 asks: "What is your view on how these proposals are likely to impact on groups of court and tribunal users with particular protected characteristics as defined in the Equality Act 2010? Are there any sources of evidence or research that you think we should consider?”.

Communities or individuals may respond to this as part of the wider consultation to ensure that where members of their faith communities have to go to court their religious requirements are met appropriately and with sensitivity. This may include, for example, access to an appropriate Sacred Text when it comes to taking an oath or access to facilities for prayer.

More information about the consultation can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/calls-for-views-on-transforming-court-estate> and the online survey at <https://consult.justice.gov.uk/digital-communications/transforming-court-tribunal-estate/>.

Integration

Government Green Paper on Integrated Communities Strategy

On 14 March Communities Secretary Sajid Javid announced the publication of a Green Paper consulting on the Government's proposed Integrated Communities Strategy.

The Green Paper invites views on the Government's vision for building strong integrated communities "where people – whatever their background – live, work, learn and socialise together, based on shared rights, responsibilities and opportunities". It sets out a programme of actions that it is proposed to take across Government to deliver this vision at the local and national level.

Key proposals in the Green Paper include:

- identifying priority policies and services to review across government to determine how they can drive integration;
- testing a package of information for recent migrants to support them to integrate into their communities and to build understanding of life in Britain;
- addressing the segregation of schools along ethnic or faith lines that exists in some places, even where the local population is very diverse, for example by promoting mixing and twinning arrangements between schools in areas of high segregation;
- developing a new strategy for English Language in England, to improve the coordination of provision to learners and help improve their outcomes;
- trialling new approaches through Jobcentre Plus to break down the barriers to employment and support people from isolated communities into work; and
- empowering marginalised women, including exploring the legal and practical challenges of limited reform of the law on marriage so that civil marriages are conducted before or at the same time as religious ceremonies.

The Green Paper also sets out "a new localised approach to delivering these policy priorities". It says that this approach recognises that integration challenges are not uniform throughout the country so tailored local plans and interventions are needed to address the issues that are specific to a particular place. This local approach will be trialled initially in five Integration Areas: Blackburn with Darwen, Bradford, Peterborough, Walsall and Waltham Forest.

In the Paper, the Government says that it will "engage directly with individuals, communities, businesses, voluntary and faith organisations and local government" to "shape and deliver" its proposals. It notes that "Religion has played an important role in our society for many hundreds of years and has contributed to the formation of many of our shared values. The government is firmly committed to the principle of freedom of religion and belief. More than this, we understand that faith communities make a valuable contribution to our society by creating strong social networks, supporting vulnerable people, undertaking charitable work, and providing education". Faith communities religious organisations and inter faith engagement are mentioned at a number of points in relation to such issues as community cohesion, schools, marriage law and balance between freedom to practise religion and the rights and freedom of others.

The document makes reference to inter faith engagement, saying "We support interfaith work as a means of breaking down barriers between communities, building greater trust and understanding, and removing the conditions which can allow intolerance and unequal treatment to flourish" and gives a number examples of inter faith engagement, including the Inter Faith Network for the UK

The strategy is for England and the majority of the policy proposals set out in the Green Paper are in areas where responsibility is devolved to Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. There are some proposals on the immigration system, which are reserved matters. The Government has said that it will work closely with the devolved administrations to share learning about the integration challenges and our learning of what works in tackling them

The Green Paper can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/integrated-communities-strategy-green-paper>. The consultation period will end on Tuesday 5 June.

Mayor of London's Social Integration Strategy

On 16 March Mayor of London Sadiq Khan launched a new social integration strategy for London. He emphasised the need to tackle divisions along lines of social class, age, gender, sexuality and employment status.

The strategy focuses on a number of areas, including bringing together families from different backgrounds through the London Family Fund; incentivising volunteering; using sport to build relationships between different communities; addressing the underrepresentation of different groups in the workforce; improving accessibility to English for Speakers of Other Languages courses; and exploring new ways of measuring social integration in the capital.

The full press release is available at <https://www.london.gov.uk/press-releases/mayoral/sadiq-launches-the-london-family-fund>.

MCB report on Muslims and integration in the UK

On 14 March the Muslim Council of Britain launched a report entitled 'Our Shared British Future: Muslims and integration in the UK'. The report includes a collection of diverse voices on integration in Britain and sets out a number of expectations for the Government's approach to integration.

Commonwealth

During the week of 16 April, the UK Government will be holding the biggest meeting of Heads of Government the country has ever hosted. Up to 53 leaders from across the Commonwealth and thousands of people from across business and civil society will be attending the summit, which will be attended by the UK Prime Minister and members of The Royal Family. It will take place across a range of venues including Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle. The week begins with four forum events - a Youth Forum, a Women's Forum, a People's Forum and a Business Forum - across three days, bringing together representatives from the worlds of business, civil society and government. The forums will offer an opportunity for Commonwealth dialogue and provide a platform for wider debate of some of the key issues and challenges, in advance of discussions by leaders during the summit.

The summit's overall theme is 'Towards a common future', which is focused on building on the strengths of the Commonwealth to ensure that the organisation is responsive to global challenges and can deliver "a more prosperous, secure, sustainable and fair future for all its citizens, particularly its young people".

Parliamentarians and religious leaders from around the Commonwealth will gather at Lambeth Palace to discuss ways to strengthen religious liberty. Details of the event were given by the Bishop of Rochester, James Langstaff, during a debate in the House of Lords – on 22 March. <http://www.anglicannews.org/news/2018/03/lambeth-palace-gathering-to-strengthen-religious-liberty-as-commonwealth-leaders-meet.aspx>

Across the last month there have been a number of disturbing incidents and the level of reported hate incidents, more generally, continues to be high.

IFN's Co-Chairs sent the message below to member bodies on 12 March:

“The last few days have seen a number of disturbing incidents, from hate-filled letters to a number of Muslims headed 'Punish a Muslim Day', to a Sikh being asked by a venue in Nottingham to remove his turban or leave, and racist chanting outside a student's room at Nottingham Trent University. There was also recently a report of a Sikh having their turban dislodged while waiting for a meeting outside Portcullis House, Houses of Parliament, apparently by someone who thought the Sikh was Muslim. The level of reported hate incidents, more generally, continues to be high.

The climate is a disturbing one and responding to hate and religious illiteracy will be on the agendas of both the IFN local inter faith practitioner day in London next Monday and the Faith Communities Forum's meeting this week.

These circumstances underline the importance of effective prevention and response, including, very significantly, that of faith and inter faith bodies. You may wish to circulate or recirculate to your members the document Looking after One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2017>. If you are among the bodies which are working with their local authorities on protocols for preventing and responding to hate crime, or if you are involved in other faith-based or inter faith responses to this issue, it would be helpful if you could let the IFN office have details.”

Bishop Richard Atkinson and Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chairs, Inter Faith Network for the UK

The Punish a Muslim letters have been strongly condemned and police forces have been taking action to reassure communities in their areas. In some areas counter action is taking place, such as a solidarity gathering being organised by the North Kirklees Inter-Faith Council on Saturday 30 March outside Dewsbury Town Hall

<https://www.examiner.co.uk/news/people-faiths-stage-show-solidarity-14461731>

Hindu and Sikh communities and some Christian groups have expressed concern about attacks on members of their communities and their premises – in some cases due to mistaken identity. Conversation is ongoing between them and the Government about availability of relevant data.

The NSPCC noted on 20 March that: ‘Recent figures from UK police forces show 5,349 hate crimes were recorded against under-18s with a racial, religious or faith-based element, a 14% increase in 1 year’ and has launched a new programme in response.

<https://www.nspcc.org.uk/what-we-do/news-opinion/childline-discrimination-understand-me/>.

There has also been growing concern about the rise of extreme voices on the far right. Recently release figures to March 2017 show that while the majority of referrals to Prevent, continue to relate to Islamist extremism, the number of people referred to a UK government counter-extremism programme because of concerns about right wing extremism has risen by more than a quarter, official figures show. 968 such individuals were referred to Prevent, an increase of 28% from the previous year. The proportion of referrals for right wing extremism rose in the year to 16% of all referrals, up from 10% in the previous period. <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2018/mar/27/far-right-referrals-prevent-programme-up-by-more-than-a-quarter-counter-extremism>.

Anti-Semitism

The Community Security Trust, a charity that protects British Jews from anti-Semitism and related threat, published last month its report on anti-Semitic incidents in 2017. The report notes that it recorded 1,382 anti-Semitic incidents in 2017, the highest annual total CST has ever recorded and a 3% increase on 2016. It also notes that there was a 34% increase in the number of anti-Semitic incidents recorded in the category of Assaults. The full report can be found at <https://cst.org.uk/data/file/a/b/IR17.1517308734.pdf>.

On 26 March the Board of Deputies and the Jewish Leadership Council presented an open letter to the Parliamentary Labour Party Chair John Cryer, expressing their strong concerns about anti-Semitism within the Labour Party. A protest gathering took place on Parliament Green that evening to protest against the stance of the Labour Leader, Mr Jeremy Corbyn. The full text of the letter and Mr Corbyn's response can be found at <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-43540795>.

Commission for Countering Extremism

On 15 March the Lead Commissioner for Countering Extremism, Sara Khan, set out her plans to engage and consult, produce a comprehensive study and make recommendations to government. She will spend the coming weeks sharing her plans in a series of meetings, visits and roundtables.

Commission plan for 2018:

- The Commission will be seeking input to its work from the full range of voices required to tackle a problem that affects so much of society. This will include public consultation, discussions with government bodies, and insights from experts, academics and think tanks. The Commission will publish a regular update which will summarise its engagement activity.

- The Commission will produce a comprehensive study that exposes the scale and consequences of extremism in this country alongside the great work already being done to tackle it.
- The Commission will challenge the whole of society on what more can be done, and publish recommendations to the Home Secretary by the end of its first year on what the future structure and priorities of the Commission should be.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/extremism-commissioner-confirms-plans-for-2018>

Also on 15 March, the Home Office published the Charter for the Commission which sets out the Government's commitment to the Commission for Countering Extremism including its purpose, priorities, accountabilities, and its outputs in its early months of operation. The Charter also confirms how the Government will work with the Commission. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/charter-for-the-commission-for-countering-extremism/charter-for-the-commission-for-countering-extremism>

Safeguarding

Charities have responsibilities to ensure that they safeguard children and young people as well as vulnerable adults. Information from the government on how charities can protect children and adults at risk can be found at:

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/charities-how-to-protect-vulnerable-groups-including-children>. The Strengthening Faith Institutions programme, supported by the Ministry for Housing, Communities and Local Government, provides training on this issue for faith communities: <http://faithsforum.com/strengthening-faith-institutions-3/>.

More widely, sexual abuse of young people continues to draw focus. The Truth Project was set up for victims and survivors of child sexual abuse to share their experiences in a supportive and confidential setting. It is part of the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA) which was set up in 2015 to investigate organisations and institutions that have failed to protect children from sexual abuse, see: <https://www.iicsa.org.uk/>. By sharing their experiences, victims and survivors make an important contribution to the work of the Inquiry and their experiences will feed into and influence IICSA's findings and recommendations.

IICSA is examining institutional failures in the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches and considering whether to conduct a separate investigation into the Jehovah's Witnesses UK. <https://www.theguardian.com/world/2018/mar/08/child-sex-abuse-inquiry-considers-separate-jehovahs-witnesses-uk-investigation>

The problem of grooming by gangs has been again in the news. Further arrests have recently been made as part of the National Crime Agency's investigation into child sexual exploitation in Rotherham. The investigation is continuing and IICSA will be holding sessions in Telford in the next few months about abuse since the 1980s. These, and other similar, cases have caused great concern.

The different background of the victims (predominantly white working class) and of the majority of the male perpetrators (predominantly of Pakistani or Bangladeshi heritage) in the particular grooming cases mentioned has become the focus of at times Islamophobic material and campaigning in some quarters, including the far right. There has also been concern expressed within the Hindu and Sikh communities about young women from their communities and grooming.

Sport and inter faith relations

In November the Inter Faith Network for the UK, in partnership with Sporting Equals, held an Inter Faith Week event on 'Using the power of sport to build good inter faith relations'. The report on this has been published this month and can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/publications>.

One of the projects that presented at the event was an inter faith sports programme for women in Manchester, linked to FODIP, and with early support from Near Neighbours and the Council of Christians and Jews, and this was the winner of the BEDSA Connecting Communities Award - Spirit of 2012 .

At the BEDSA awards BEDSA announced a £1.8 million programme Breaking Boundaries, set to bring together young people, their families and communities through regular engagement in cricket: as players, fans and volunteers. Breaking Boundaries is a three-year project (2018 – 2021) developed in partnership with the English Cricket Board, Professor Ted Cante and the Institute of Community Cohesion (iCoCo). The programme will be delivered by the Youth Sport Trust and Sporting Equals, and will make the most of cricket's potential to bring different ethnic and faith communities closer together, fostering mutual respect and friendships. <http://www.sportingequals.org.uk/news-blogs/launch-of-breaking-boundaries-project-at-the-2018-bedsa-awards.html>

The Mayor of London announced on 21 March a new flagship community sports programme, Sport Unites. This will invest in initiatives that use sport to bring people from different backgrounds together, strengthen local communities and improve the physical and mental health of all Londoners. ## Places of worship

In December, Historic England published the latest edition of Places of Worship Selected Listings Guide <https://historicengland.org.uk/images-books/publications/dlsg-places-worship/>. This selection guide provides first a summary historical overview of the various Christian churches down to the end of the nineteenth century – Anglican (Church of England), Catholic and Nonconformist (Dissenting) – and collectively churches and chapels of the twentieth century. Then follows a section of the buildings of Judaism, the mosque in England and buildings of other faiths. A final section sets out some general principles guiding the listing of places of worship concerning - among others - group value, fixtures and fittings, alteration and degree of survival, churchyard structures and grading.

Historic England has been working with partners over recent years to develop and deepen an understanding of the landscape of faith buildings in 20th century England, including the long-standing traditions of Christianity and Judaism. An event this month focused on those faith groups which arrived in the UK in the late 19th and 20th centuries, and have since made a significant contribution to the heritage of a modern and multicultural historic environment. Historic England and Public Spirit brought together at that a new body of research on Buddhist, Hindu, Jain, Muslim, Sikh, and Zoroastrian places of worship with heritage practitioners, researchers and theorists for a discussion on issues of heritage practice and heritage discourse in the field of multiculturalism, multiple identities and the historic environment. Talks from the day are available at <https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PLGOCpw7BaRwW8IgJAY4fCaxxH9FFIV-gx>.

Jewish Armed Forces chaplains with multi faith role

The Armed Forces all have multi faith chaplaincies and have developed this work across the last decade. Earlier this month the historic Bevis Marks Synagogue hosted the instalment of the Army's first Jewish commissioned Padres as Chaplains with a multi-faith role. The event coincided with the 350th anniversary of Jewish military service to the Crown and 126 years of Jewish Chaplaincy in the British Armed Forces.

Day event for local inter faith practitioners

On 19 March IFN held a day event in London for local inter faith practitioners from inter faith groups across the UK to share their experiences, discuss issues of common interest and concern, and provide focused learning opportunities about practical aspects of developing successful inter faith programmes. This followed on from similar meetings held in Bristol, Coventry, Manchester and Sheffield in recent years.

The day opened with a presentation from Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chair of IFN, followed by reflections on the importance of local inter faith organisations and local authorities working in partnership by the Revd Alan Green, Chair of Tower Hamlets Inter Faith Forum and George Ballantyne, Voluntary and Community Sector Engagement Manager at Leicester City Council. During the rest of the morning session there were presentations by Santosh Kundi of Warwick District Faiths Forum about the Forum's religious literacy work and Ryad Khodabocus of Luton Council of Faiths with a focus on that Council's work with schools. Speakers in the afternoon included Elliot Steinberg, Policy Officer at the Ministry for Housing, Communities and Local Government, who talked about the work of the Faith and Integration Team at MHCLG on tackling hatred and tensions and its Hate Crime Action Plan, Sister Elizabeth O'Donohoe of Islington Faiths Forum, who spoke about the response of the Forum to the attack at Finsbury Park Mosque and the importance of building local links and Chris Wood of Norwich InterFaith Link who spoke about the Link's Inter Faith Week activities. Closing reflections were offered by Narendra Waghela, IFN Trustee and member of Leicester Council of Faiths, and Dr Harriet Crabtree, IFN's Executive Director.

There was an opportunity to take part in discussion groups on working with schools to enhance the learning and inter faith experience of students; using social media to increase the impact of local inter faith work; developing successful programmes and widening the circle of engagement; initiating new local inter faith bodies and reviewing the work and direction of existing ones in changing times; increasing engagement with and by young people; and partnership working with other bodies such as local authorities in pursuit of common aims such as inter faith understanding, cooperation and integration.

Local inter faith Twitter campaign

IFN is running a short Twitter campaign across the end of March and early April, with an #localinterfaith hashtag. The aim is to raise the profile of local inter faith organisations, highlight positive stories about local inter faith initiatives and share good practice and ideas.

If you are a member of a multi faith local inter faith organisation which is undertaking activity such as meetings, dialogues, festival celebrations or school visits during one of the weeks, or which has current projects that you would like to be considered for inclusion, please email ifnet@interfaith.org.uk with 'Local inter faith tweets' in the subject line. ## Young people and inter faith engagement

IFN is continuing its programme of work on youth inter faith engagement, entitled 'Connect: the inter faith engagement of young people'. This will lead to publication of a new edition of IFN's youth inter faith action guide Connect: Different Faiths, Shared Values <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/connect> and also feed into a special youth-focused National Meeting of IFN in July. The programme is being carried out with the help of an Advisory Group, co-facilitated by IFN Trustee Padideh Sabeti and youth co-facilitator, Jaskiran Kaur Mehmi.

IFN has been consulting in a number of ways. Key to the programme is hearing the views of young people. IFN has therefore held focus group sessions in Birmingham, Cardiff, Glasgow, Leeds and London for young people aged 16-25 across February and March. For further information about the project, please contact Ashley Beck at the IFN office (Ashley.beck@interfaith.org.uk).

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week 2018 will take place from 11 – 18 November. It will be the 10th Inter Faith Week.

Inter Faith Week begins on Remembrance Sunday each year and runs until the following Sunday. The Week begins on Remembrance Sunday and many people of different faiths and beliefs will be marking that in some way. The additional Sunday provides the opportunity for other weekend events to take place.

Civic remembrance activities are often held on a multi faith basis, recognising the contributions made by people of all faiths and beliefs during armed conflicts – whether through military service or work for peace. This year, Remembrance Sunday will also be Armistice Day, and the centenary of the end of World War One.

Inter Faith Week is a week about respect, understanding, relationship building and genuine discussion about issues - about 'living well together'. It is a tremendous opportunity to reach out, learn, make new connections and develop friendships and working partnerships which help make for greater neighbourliness and more integrated and cohesive communities. It is also a great platform for all who want to increase religious literacy and understanding of diversity.

Last year for the first time, IFN made available Inter Faith Week branded pin badges to buy via the Inter Faith Week website. These proved to be very popular, and it is planned to do this again in 2018. If there are other items which you think would be particularly helpful in spreading the word and raising awareness about the Week, please let the IFN office know and we will explore these.

Scottish Interfaith Week's dates will also be 11 to 18 November. Further information from admin@interfaithscotland.org.

Religious festivals and calendars

The pattern of religious festivals in different faith communities changes throughout the year. A number have recently taken place such as Naw Ruz (Baha'i) and NoRuz (Zoroastrian), and Rama Navami (Hindu). Others are taking place now or shortly, including Mahavira Jayanti (Jain); Good Friday and Easter (Christian) and Pesach/Passover (Jewish).

The Shap Working Party on World Religions in Education, an IFN member body, produces a calendar of religious festivals, which is available in electronic format, and also a wallchart which can be purchased in hard copy.

<http://www.shapworkingparty.org.uk/calendar.html>

A number of local inter faith organisations produce calendars each year. Examples include Warwick District Faiths Forum (<http://www.wdfaithsforum.org.uk/faiths-calendar/faiths-calendar-2017-2/>) which produces a desk top calendar, Islington Faiths Forum (http://www.islingtonfaithsforum.org.uk/?page\_id=132) which produces a wall calendar populated with artwork created by schoolchildren, and the Royal Borough of Kingston-upon-Thames Inter-Faith Forum which has supported Kingston Race Equalities Council in producing a wall calendar.

IFN has also produced, in consultation with its Faith Communities Forum, guidance on greetings for different religious festivals. Each faith community chose two festivals on which it would be pleased to receive greetings. A list of the dates and greetings for these is available at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/faith-festivals-guidance-on-sending-greetings>.

The guidance notes "We recognise that faith-based organisations undertake valuable work in supporting disadvantaged and marginalised communities both in the UK and internationally, and we are able to support their work. We would expect these organisations to be able to evidence the practical implementation of their diversity policy, so that people from all faiths or none can become a member of staff, board member, volunteer, or benefit from the work.” For further information, visit <http://www.comicrelief.com/apply-for-grants/open-grants-initiatives/core-strength-local-communities>.

Remembering the Manchester Arena attack – standing together one year on 22 May marked a year since the terrorist attack at the Ariana Grande concert in the Manchester Arena. Among the events held to mark the anniversary was a service at Manchester Cathedral. HRH Prince William and Prime Minister Theresa May joined families of victims in remembrance. The Dean of the Cathedral spoke of how people of all faiths and none had come together and there were also short addresses from Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Sikh leaders and from a Humanist. This reflected the strong multi faith response to the attack and in supporting those affected.

The BBC reported that a multi-faith group holding banners reading "Manchester City United" and "Total Love" were met with applause by those outside the cathedral.
<http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-enWgland-manchester-44197949>

Among the speakers at the Cathedral Service was Rabbi Warren Elf, whose reflections on the multi faith response to the attack have been offered at IFN meetings in London and Manchester and can be read at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/moving-forward-together-report-of-the-30th-anniversary-national-meeting-of-> and https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/ifn-day-event-for-local-inter-faith-practitioners-a-short-report-manchester.

Integrated Communities Strategy consultation

The consultation on the Green Paper on the proposed Integrated Communities Strategy that was launched in March by the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government remains open for another week until Tuesday 5 June. As noted in the March/April issue of the e-bulletin, the Green Paper invites views on the Government's vision for building strong integrated communities "where people – whatever their background – live, work, learn and socialise together, based on shared rights, responsibilities and opportunities". It sets out a programme of actions that it is proposed to take across Government to deliver this vision at the local and national level.

Key proposals in the Green Paper include:

- identifying priority policies and services to review across government to determine how they can drive integration;
- testing a package of information for recent migrants to support them to integrate into their communities and to build understanding of life in Britain;
- addressing the segregation of schools along ethnic or faith lines that exists in some places, even where the local population is very diverse, for example by promoting mixing and twinning arrangements between schools in areas of high segregation;
- developing a new strategy for English Language in England, to improve the coordination of provision to learners and help improve their outcomes;
- trialling new approaches through Jobcentre Plus to break down the barriers to employment and support people from isolated communities into work; and
- empowering marginalised women, including exploring the legal and practical challenges of limited reform of the law on marriage so that civil marriages are conducted before or at the same time as religious ceremonies.

The Green Paper can be found at

Minister's 'faith tour' continues

Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government, is completing the second part of his 'Faith Tour'. The tour aims to highlight the UK's 'diverse landscape of faith communities and places of worship'. This part of the tour has included visits to Manchester to a mosque for an Iftar meal to mark the beginning of Ramadan, a gurdwara and a Chinese Buddhist temple; Bradford, to the Hindu Cultural Society; and to Blackburn, with a meeting with local authority and community leaders. The tour has a link with the Government's Integrated Communities Strategy consultation (see above).

New guidance for coroners – respect for religious and cultural wishes

At the end of April, the High Court ruled illegal the 'cab rank' system of burials operated by North London Coroner Mary Hassell. Following this judgement, in R (Adath Yisroel Burial Society & Anor) v HM Senior Coroner for Inner North London, the Chief Coroner, HHJ Mark Lucraft QC, issued in May guidance for coroners: <https://www.judiciary.gov.uk/wp-content/uploads/2018/05/guidance-no-28-report-of-death-to-the-coroner-2010517.pdf>.

Guidance No. 28, 'Report of death to the Coroner: decision making and expedited decisions' is "intended to be a practical guide to assist coroners in situations where (a) a bereaved family has made a request to the coroner for urgent consideration of the death of a loved one and/or early release of the body or (b) the coroner or coroner's officers otherwise become aware of features of a particular death which may justify treating it as especially urgent".

The guidance underlines that proper respect should be given to representations based on religious belief including wording that "The Chief Coroner understands and is sensitive to the fact that some faith groups, particularly Jewish and Muslim, have religious and cultural wishes about treatment of a body and burial following a death. Coroners should pay appropriate respect to those wishes, within the framework of their legal duties and in the context of their other responsibilities."

Humanism and SACREs in Wales

The Welsh Government's Cabinet Secretary for Education, Kirsty Williams AM, wrote to Directors of Education in Wales' 22 local authorities saying that "It is the view of the Welsh Government that: to ensure compatibility with the Human Rights Act 1998 the provisions relating to the constitution of SACREs [Standing Advisory Councils on Religious Education] and ASCs [Agreed Syllabus Conferences]... are to be interpreted as permitting the appointment of persons who represent holders of non-religious beliefs in the same way as they permit the appointment of persons who represent holders of religious beliefs." The letter also said that that the new guidance supersedes paragraph 103 of Circular 10/94 which precluded humanist membership on the same basis as membership by religious representatives.

This followed a legal challenge after Vale of Glamorgan Council would not admit humanist representative Kathy Riddick to its SACRE group on the grounds only religious representatives could join. The local authority later withdrew its decision after Humanists UK was granted permission for a judicial review.

The National Association of SACREs, an IFN member body, has made a statement in response. This can be seen at <http://www.nasacre.org.uk/file/nasacre/1-659-response-to-welsh-guidance.pdf>.

Inter faith participation in launch of new Hindu temple

There is a growing trend for faith community places of worship to invite other communities at special moments such as opening of new places of worship and key festivals.

An example of this was the launch of North Kent's first Hindu temple in May. This reflected the inter faith engagement of the Gravesend Hindu community with guests from many faiths and the local inter faith body as well, of course, as leading figures from their own community and civic leaders. <http://www.gravesendreporter.co.uk/news/first-hindu-temple-in-north-kent-opens-1-5513262>

Taylor Review Pilot for Places of Worship

The Taylor Review was commissioned in 2016 to examine the funding and sustainability of listed Church of England buildings and ensure that they are conserved for future generations. The Review's report was published in December and it has now been announced that the Taylor Review Pilot, administered by Historic England on behalf of the Department of Digital, Culture, Media and Sport, will run in Greater Manchester and Suffolk from September 2018 until March 2020.

The pilot will fund: a project manager (based in Manchester, Cambridge or London); 2 x fabric support officers (one each in Manchester and Suffolk); 2 x community development advisers (one each in Manchester and Suffolk); and a minor repairs fund in the two pilot areas. It aims to test the impact of fabric support officers focussing on maintenance and repair of historic fabric and community development advisers helping to increase engagement beyond the worshipping community in both an urban and rural context.

It is open to all faith groups who manage listed places of worship and meet the eligibility criteria. For further information, visit <https://historicengland.org.uk/advice/caring-for-heritage/places-of-worship/churches-sustainability-review/>.

Faiths invited to mark 10th Anniversary of the Climate Change Act

The 10th anniversary of the Climate Change Act will be marked in November. The Act made the UK the first country to set legally binding targets for reducing carbon emissions.

The Committee on Climate Change, an independent committee created by the Act, is encouraging organisations to celebrate this milestone as a chance to talk about the decarbonisation of society, and the importance of the UK continuing to lead on climate change internationally. It has particularly reached out to encourage faith and inter faith organisations to get involved.

West Midlands Faith Action Plan

Diverse faith communities in the West Midlands are supporting an action plan launched in early May by West Midlands Mayor Andy Street to tackle key issues like youth unemployment and homelessness. This follows a number of months of engagement between the Mayor and different communities.

Action Plan recommendations include:

- Offering faith communities the opportunity to bid for social programmes tendered by the West Midlands Combined Authority (WMCA), such as skills contracts
- Rolling out the Mayor's Mentors programme through faith groups to provide young people with mentoring in and around places of worship
- Working with faith organisations to prevent and deal with homelessness, providing ideas and practical advice for those who want to help but are not sure how

One proposal under the plan is to work with the West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner to explore proposals for an anti-hate crime campaign similar to the successful 'Kick it Out' initiative used to tackle racism in football.

The Faith Action Plan is a result of the Mayor and Faith Conference, staged at the University of Birmingham in November, which saw more than 400 individuals from different faiths come together to discuss issues like reducing hate crime, increasing job opportunities and tackling homelessness.

Campaign honouring WWI soldiers of different faiths

The Jewish News reports that a campaign to honour First World War soldiers of different faiths in synagogues, mosques, temples and churches has had a £2 million boost from a Government fund. ‘There But Not There’, an initiative led by Lord Dannatt, former Chief of the General Staff, and backed by Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis, includes artistic silhouettes placed throughout places of worship in the UK.

<http://jewishnews.timesofisrael.com/campaign-honouring-first-world-war-soldiers-of-different-faiths-gets-2m-boost/>

Venues where the silhouettes had already been installed at the time of the article were Arundel Cathedral; Alyth Synagogue, Gurdwara Sri Guru Singh Sabha and Palmers Green Mosque in London; a Belfast classroom; a Welsh church; and the Indian Army Memorial Room at the Royal Academy Sandhurst.

The £2 million in extra roll-out money, from the Armed Forces Covenant Fund, will be made available to faith schools, community centres and places of worship in the form of £500 micro-grants, with application accepted until 30 June.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week – 6 months to go!

This year Inter Faith Week takes place from 11-18 November. We hope that all our readers will take part and encourage their organisations to do so.

The 6 months to go press release is at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/press-release-inter-faith-week-2018-6-months-to-go>. The flyer for the 2018 week can be downloaded from www.interfaithweek.org/resources/flyer.

This year’s is the 10th such Week. www.interfaithweek.org Inter Faith Week has grown steadily ever since its launch. It is a fantastic opportunity for people of all faiths and beliefs to mix and learn; visit places of worship of your neighbours and find out why their faith matters to them; get past stereotypes and misunderstandings and increase religious literacy; celebrate; dialogue; and volunteer together to help their local community.

Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith at the Ministry for Housing, Communities and Local Government, said, in the press release: “Inter Faith Week is a great way to recognise the amazing contributions of communities of all faiths and none from across the country. It’s important that we celebrate the great efforts of those who come together and build valuable relationships to the benefit of British life.”

In May IFN published a report on last year's Week, Stories from 2017, Inspiration for 2018 www.interfaithweek.org/resources/inter-faith-week-stories-from-2017-inspiration-for-2018. Many illustrated examples from IFW 2017 can be found in this.

IFN's Inter Faith Week Toolkit is packed with suggestions for marking the Week and examples and illustrations drawn from the many successful activities held for the Week to date by faith and belief bodies, local inter faith organisations, community and voluntary organisations, businesses, local authorities, emergency services, SACREs, schools, colleges, universities, chaplaincies, sports organisations, and others. It also includes practical guidance and links to further information. The Inter Faith Week team at the Inter Faith Network Office will be happy to assist.

Inter Faith Week is timed to begin on Remembrance Sunday, which this year is the Centenary Armistice Day. This supports and encourages remembering of the service of soldiers and civilians of different faiths and beliefs. It is also an opportunity for events focussing on peace.

Sunday 18 November will be Mitzvah Day (www.mitzvahday.org.uk) - a Jewish-led day of social action involving people of all faiths and none working together in their local communities. Many events are being jointly held to mark both Inter Faith Week and Mitzvah Day and these will form a part of Inter Faith Week.

Inter Faith Week is a programme of the Inter Faith Network for the UK (www.interfaith.org.uk), which manages the Inter Faith Week website: www.interfaithweek.org, working with the Inter-faith Council for Wales (<http://interfaithwales.org.uk>), and the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum (<http://niinterfaithforum.org>) in relation to Wales and Northern Ireland.

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Inter Faith Week (SIFW) has taken place with great success since 2004 and is led by Interfaith Scotland (www.interfaithscotland.org). The dates of SIFW 2018 are 11 to 18 November. More details are at <http://scottishinterfaithweek.org>.

The Scottish Government has declared 2018 the 'Year of Young People'. One of the main aims of the Year is to develop better understanding, co-operation and respect between generations. The fact that faith communities have an important role to play in providing opportunities for people of different generations to dialogue and engage in activities together is reflected in the theme for this year's SIFW which is 'Connecting Generations'.

A joint category meeting for National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic Bodies was held on 28 March. The two main Agenda Items were: Youth Inter Faith Engagement and Tackling Hate Crime and Prejudice. In the first of these there were presentations from Ashley Beck about IFN's youth inter faith engagement programme and from Phil Champain of 3FF about its youth engagement. In the second of these there were reflections on the hate crime related section of the Integrated Communities Strategy Green Paper and on the role of inter faith organisations and educational and academic bodies in providing resources and skills for tackling hate and prejudice and how they are currently engaged with these topics. There were also round table updates on member bodies' current inter faith work and issues of concern to them and a number of IFN matters including membership fees and ways of working.

Working for solidarity

IFN's Co-Chairs wrote to IFN's member bodies on 18 May underlining the importance of standing up for each other saying, "The significance of faith communities standing up for each other to oppose prejudice and hatred has been underlined in a number of contexts this week. In a context where events here or overseas can have impact on inter faith relations, solidarity and continued extending of the hand of neighbourly friendship are particularly important. IFN member bodies' work in this regard continues to be vital" and drawing attention to some IFN's publications with particular relevance, especially Looking After One Another <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2017> and <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/lets-talk-practical-pointers-for-inter-faith-dialogue>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Sport and inter faith relations

In recent e-bulletins there has been information about the event that IFN held with Sporting Equals on ‘Using the Power of Sport to Build Good Inter Faith Relations’ in Inter Faith Week last year. For the report on this event, see <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/using-the-power-of-sport-to-build-good-inter-faith-relations>.

Sport and physical activity are enjoyable and important in their own right. They can also be valuable tools for creating and deepening understanding between people of different Backgrounds – young and old. During May IFN has been profiling some of the many ways that sport and physical activity can help build inter faith understanding and cooperation on Twitter and Facebook. www.twitter.com/ifnetuk www.facebook.com/ifnetuk

The IFN office, in consultation with Sporting Equals, circulated member bodies in May with ideas for using sport as a catalyst for building bridges and supporting greater integration. These can be seen at www.interfaith.org.uk/activity/sport.

Faith and Belief Inclusion Charter

The Three Faiths Forum relaunched at the beginning of May as the Faith and Belief Forum. It has produced a new Faith and Belief Inclusion Charter intended to “establish a supportive network of those who believe in a diverse society which is welcoming to all people, of all backgrounds and beliefs”. Its principles are outlined thus:

- “We believe in an inclusive society where people of different faiths and beliefs have strong and positive relations. We believe that intolerance has no place in our communities or workplaces, and that diversity adds value to our society.
- By connecting people of different faiths and beliefs, we can create a society which is fair to people of all backgrounds – religious and non-religious. We encourage people to engage more across differences and learn to understand each other better.
- We recognise the need to create a more positive conversation about faith and belief in our communities and in all of the UK. We will have these conversations in a spirit of mutual respect and curiosity, and be open to different perspectives.”

Signatories of the Charter will commit “to working together in a spirit of partnership to promote good relations between people of different beliefs in our communities, workplaces and wider society.” To read more, including how to sign up, visit <https://faithbeliefforum.org/>.

Inter faith iftars

The period of Ramadan observed by Muslims began on the evening 16/17 May. Throughout the UK many Muslim communities are inviting their neighbours and people of other faiths to join them as they break their fast at the end of the day at an inter faith iftar meal. For example, Christian, Hindu and Sikh guests and others joined Muslims in breaking the fast at the invitation of the Maidenhead Mosque. <https://www.maidenhead-advertiser.co.uk/gallery/maidenhead/131720/people-of-different-faiths-gather-to-break-ramadan-fast.html>

A number of mosques and other bodies are hosting inter faith events as part of the Big Iftar. Many of these are listed at <http://www.thebigiftar.org/events/> Some places of worship of other faith communities are also holding iftars with their Muslim friends, such as the Alyth Synagogue in London which is holding a 'kosher iftar' for the fifth year in a row, <http://www.thebigiftar.org/event/alyth-synagogue/>.

Local inter faith organisations, such as Barnet Multi Faith Forum and Epsom and Ewell Inter Faith Forum, are also hosting inter faith events including iftars throughout June. This is as part of their overall programmes which also see marking of other key faith community periods and festivals such as Diwali.

This year, Ramadan and the Jewish festival of Shavuot coincided and a special joint gathering was held by young Jews and Muslims at Moishe House in London. <https://faithbeliefforum.org/moishe-house-shavout-iftar/>

The Church Times, British Muslim TV and Jewish News, together with Coexist House, have launched a competition to find 21 young inter faith leaders who have worked to break down barriers between Christians, Muslims and Jews. The project hopes to highlight the value of inter faith dialogue and activity, and the winners' work will be showcased in print and on air across the three media organisations. The project will conclude with an awards ceremony hosted by the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth Palace during Inter Faith Week in November.

For more information, and to nominate a person aged under 35 to become one of the 21 young leaders, visit <https://21421.co.uk/>. Nominations close on 29 June, and will be selected by a panel of faith leaders, inter faith practitioners and others from across the three faith traditions.

Watford Interfaith Association's Peace Garden has been opened to the public by the Mayor Dorothy Thornhill, who is a patron, at a multi faith ceremony. It contains a labyrinth with grassed seating, flower beds, special trees and a specially donated bench. It was initiated by the Watford Interfaith Association (WIFA) five years ago starting from a half acre plot of rough ground in the Orchard. Volunteers from various faith groups and others have worked hard to create the labyrinth from scratch and dug flower beds and mowed the long grass. Last Autumn many members of different faiths came together over two days to plant 2,000 bulbs in the garden.

GEO guidance on workplace dress codes

The Government Equalities Office (GEO) has published a guidance document, Dress codes and sex discrimination: what you need to know, for employers who set dress codes and employees and job applicants who may have to abide by them.

Among its findings, the report notes that employers should be flexible and not set dress codes which prohibit religious symbols that do not interfere with an employee's work; and that if an employer wants to implement a dress code or uniform policy, it must ensure that this does not directly or indirectly discriminate against employees with a particular religion or belief or no religion or belief. ## Prisons and the role of faith-based organisations

‘What works in prisons? Contributions of the Faith and Voluntary Sector to Prisoners and their Families’, was launched this week at an event in Parliament with the All-Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on Faith and Society and the APPG on Penal Affairs. The report highlights the different kinds of support that faith-based organisations provide for prisoners, whether by supporting them with their individual faith, or with other practical and emotional needs. It illustrates the often innovative approaches they take – approaches which also offer considerable value for money. And it also considers the important work of the wider voluntary sector.

The report was produced by FaithAction for the APPG on Faith and Society, which is chaired by the Rt Hon Stephen Timms MP, and for which FaithAction provides the secretariat. It will again be offering small grants of between £250 and £5,000, as seed funding for local groups and organisations working in a number of areas of England to bring together neighbours, and to develop relationships across diverse faiths and ethnicities to improve their communities.

As part of the criteria, projects should:

- Bring together peoples of two or more different faiths and/or ethnicities, to build friendships and develop relationships of trust.
- Work locally - the programme wants to see people who are living very locally (ie in the same street, estate or neighbourhood) come together.
- Work sustainably - the programme wants to see long term and natural relationships grow, that will last beyond the period of funding.
- Work to improve the community – the programme wants to see people working to make their communities a better place to live.

- Involve diverse people in planning and implementation. People from more than one faith group and/or ethnicity are involved in planning and implementing the proposal.

Government response to consultation on Caste in Great Britain and equality law

The Government published on 23 July its response to the public consultation on Caste in Great Britain and equality law.

As the result of a 2013 amendment to section 9 (5) (a) of the Equality Act 2010, a duty exists to introduce specific legal protection against discrimination because of caste, by making caste an aspect of race for the purposes of the Act. However, the subsequent judgment of an Employment Appeal Tribunal [EAT] in the Tirkey v Chandhok case in 2014 established that many of the facts relevant in considering caste in many of its forms might be equally capable of being considered as part of a person's ethnic origins, which is already part of the existing race provisions within the Act.

The consultation invited views on whether suitable legal protection against caste discrimination is better ensured by exercising the duty or by relying on emerging case-law under the Act as developed by courts and tribunals. Following the consultation, which received over 16,000 responses, the Government's response concludes "Having given careful and detailed consideration to the findings of the consultation, Government believes that the best way to provide the necessary protection against unlawful discrimination because of caste is by relying on emerging case-law as developed by courts and tribunals. In particular, we feel this is the more proportionate approach given the extremely low numbers of cases involved and the clearly controversial nature of introducing ‘caste’, as a self-standing element, into British domestic law”.

“The duty that currently appears in section 9 (5) (a) of the Equality Act 2010 requires Government to take action to include caste as an aspect of race for the purposes of the Act. The decision to rely on emerging case-law renders that duty redundant and we will identify the most suitable legislative vehicle that can be used to repeal it at an early opportunity.”

Political parties, Anti-Semitism and Islamophobia

The importance of respectful and fair engagement of political parties with people of all backgrounds has relevance to good inter faith relations in the UK.

The March-April edition of the e-bulletin noted that the Board of Deputies of British Jews and the Jewish Leadership Council had expressed strong concerns about anti-Semitism within the Labour Party, through both an open-letter to the Chair of the Parliamentary Labour Party and a public protest in Parliament Square.

Debate about anti-Semitism within the Labour Party, and how allegations have been handled, has continued. The Labour Party’s ruling National Executive Committee adopted a Code of Conduct on Anti-Semitism in early July which adopted the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (IHRA) working definition of anti-Semitism, but omitted from the list of examples of what might constitute anti-Semitism four that had been in the IHRA’s definition. Party spokespersons said that these were covered in the Code in a different way and that the Code went further than the IHRA definition.

68 rabbis from across the spectrum of the Jewish community published an open letter on 16 July condemning the Party’s decision to omit the 4 IHRA examples and what they saw as its mis-handling of anti-Semitism. Separately, Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis issued a statement.

The inclusion in the Code of Conduct of the full IHRA definition, including all of its examples, was backed unanimously by Labour MPs following a vote on an emergency motion on 23 July, and the full Parliamentary Labour Party will be balloted on this in September. The Labour NEC has pledged to consult the Jewish community on its Code of Conduct, which in the meantime will be used in its present form.

The Jewish Chronicle, Jewish News and Jewish Telegraph issued the same front page on 25 July, saying that a Government led by Jeremy Corbyn would pose an ‘existential threat to Jewish life’ with a joint editorial ‘United we stand.’

Further issues have arisen surrounding the suggestion of Mr Peter Willsman, a member of Labour’s National Executive Committee, that Jewish "Trump fanatics" were behind accusations of anti-Semitism in Labour ranks and reporting of Mr Corbyn’s hosting of a 2010 event at which a Holocaust survivor compared Israel to Nazism, following which an apology was issued.

On 31 July, the Campaign Against Antisemitism referred the Labour Party to the Equality and Human Rights Commission.

Baroness Warsi and Lord Sheikh, Conservative Party peers, have called for an inquiry into Islamophobia within the Conservative Party. The Muslim Council of Britain, Tell MAMA and the Runnymede Trust have made similar demands, with the MCB writing to party Chair Brandon Lewis on 31 May and again in June in the absence of a formal response. As reported in the Independent, Baroness Warsi said some of her party’s own campaigning had relied on promoting anti-Muslim rhetoric. She highlighted the 2016 London mayoral campaign, during which the Conservatives were criticised for portraying Labour’s Sadiq Khan, who is Muslim, as “extremist”.

In response to a question at Prime Minister’s Question Time, Prime Minister May said the party was taking action, adding: "Anti-Muslim discrimination is wrong. There is no place for it in our society." In response to a question from Afzal Khan MP, she said "Within the party, we've introduced a new code of conduct ... we investigate any allegations of Islamophobia that are made relating to members of the party.”

"Those are investigated, action is taken, and in some cases members have been suspended or expelled from the party as a result."

Dr Edie Friedman, Executive Director of the Jewish Council for Racial Equality, said JCORE welcomed the call for Islamophobia to be investigated within the Conservative Party. “In the same way as there is a focus on combatting antisemitism including within the Labour Party, it is incumbent on all groups and communities to come together to look at how we can be more effective in combatting hate speech and behaviour across the entire political spectrum.”

2021 Census

The Office for National Statistics is currently engaged in a testing and development phase for the 2021 Census questionnaire. It is planned that the religion question will be the same as in 2011, but consideration is being given to the ethnicity question, including possible inclusion of additional response options such as ‘Jewish’, ‘Roma’, ‘Sikh’ and ‘Somali’. This follows extensive public consultation.

Part of the testing and development process includes testing terminology and presentation of response options, and redesigning questions for use online on different devices. The 2021 Census will be the first where online response is the default response mechanism.

It is anticipated that a Census White Paper will be considered by Parliament and that a Census Rehearsal will be carried out, both during 2019. The White Paper will include the ONS’ recommendation on Census questions, including the ethnicity question. Following these, legislation will be passed for the carrying out of the 2021 Census.

The Government previously met with a number of individuals and organisations with links to affected communities, including representatives of faith communities, as part of an earlier call for evidence.

Full details of the consultation and how to respond are available at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/windrush-compensation-scheme>. The consultation closes at midday on 11 October.

All Party Parliamentary Groups

Recent years have seen an increase in the number of All-Party Parliamentary Groups (APPGs) with relevance to inter faith engagement.

There are a number of APPGs about individual faith communities such as: Baha'i Faith; Hindu; Jain; Jewish; Muslim; Sikh; and Zoroastrian, mainly with a British focus. These are often involved in raising the profile of individual faith communities in the UK. This is sometimes done through holding events at the Houses of Parliament to mark festivals, for example the events held by the APPG on Jainism with the Institute of Jainology to mark Mahavir Jayanti. It is also done by holding events on themes, such as those held recently by the APPG on Hindus, with the Hindu Forum of Britain, on 'Dharma, the Individual and Society'.

There are also APPGs which focus on subjects such as: Counter-Extremism; Faith and Society; Hate Crime; Inter-Faith; International Freedom of Religion or Belief; Social Integration; and Religious Education.

The APPG on Inter-Faith, for example has as its purpose “To raise awareness amongst parliamentarians of the religious dimension to current issues.” It was with the APPG on Inter-Faith that IFN held an event in the Houses of Parliament during Inter Faith Week 2016 on ‘Sharing local inter faith experience and good practice’.

APPGs are informal cross-party groups run by and for Members of the Commons and Lords, though many choose to involve individuals and organisations from outside Parliament in their administration and activities. <https://www.parliament.uk/about/mps-and-lords/members/apg/> They do not have an official status and the rules state that groups must be transparent about their nature, membership and funding. In particular, they must avoid presenting themselves in a way which could lead to confusion with Select Committees.

Hate crime and security

On 22 July Tell MAMA published its 2017 Annual Report - <https://tellmamauk.org/tell-mamas-annual-report-for-2017-shows-highest-number-of-anti-muslim-incidents/> - which shows a rise in anti-Muslim incidents since the last reporting period. Secretary of State for Housing, Communities and Local Government, the Rt Hon James Brokenshire MP, spoke at the launch of the report the following day.

The Community Security Trust has just published its report on anti-Semitic incidents from January to June 2018. <https://cst.org.uk/data/file/e/5/Incidents%20Report%20January-June%202018.1532518541.pdf> This reports a small fall in the number of incidents compared with the same period in 2017, but notes that it was still the second highest ever-recorded in a 6 month period.

The Home Office Places of worship: security funding scheme remains open for bids until 10 August. The scheme is one of the main commitments contained within the Government Hate Crime Action Plan. It provides funding for protective security measures to places of worship that are vulnerable to hate crime. Places of worship can submit bids for projects costing up to £70,000 for protective security measures and are required to contribute at least 20 percent of the total cost of the project. The Home Office will award funding on a discretionary basis up to a maximum of £56,000 per place of worship. Funding is not available for improvements, lead theft, security upgrades or measures to tackle anti-social behaviour or other criminality unconnected with hate crime.

Commission for Countering Extremism

On 11 July the independent Commission for Countering Extremism launched a period of evidence gathering as part of a study into all forms of extremism. It wants to hear from victims, their families and all those that counter extremism. Further information is at -

It was announced on the same day that the Commission for Countering Extremism had formed a new Expert Group. ### Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Inter Faith Week (SIFW) has taken place with great success since 2004 and is led by Interfaith Scotland (www.interfaithscotland.org). The dates of SIFW 2018 are 11 to 18 November. More details are at <http://scottishinterfaithweek.org>.

The Scottish Government has declared 2018 the 'Year of Young People'. One of the main aims of the Year is to develop better understanding, co-operation and respect between generations. ## IFN National Meeting 2018 – ‘Young People and Inter Faith Engagement: Making a Difference Together’

IFN’s 2018 National Meeting took place at Derby County Football Club on 4 July. Its theme was ‘Young People and Inter Faith Engagement: Making a Difference Together’. The meeting focused on young people’s engagement in activities which promote inter faith cooperation and understanding. It was the culmination of a programme of work across 8 months looking at: different ways that young people are taking part in inter faith activities; what the key questions and challenges are in developing this; ideas and perspectives of young people about inter faith activity and how this contributes to a more harmonious and just world; new approaches that could be valuable; and what youth-related strand IFN should consider including in its 2019-2021 Strategic Plan. The meeting also provided the occasion for the launch of the expanded and updated edition of IFN’s youth inter faith action guide, Connect (see below).

A short report on the day can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/ifn-national-meeting-2018>. A full report will be produced in due course.

The annual meetings rotate between Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. The 2018 meeting took place in late June, hosted by Interfaith Scotland at its Inter Faith Dialogue Centre in Glasgow.

Issues on the agenda included: Inter Faith Week, in particular the forthcoming 10th Inter Faith Week and 15th Scottish Interfaith Week and the roles of the different national bodies; the planned update of The Local Inter Faith Guide; matters of interest and concern, such as the Integrated Communities Strategy Green Paper in England and possible developments in the devolved nations, hate crime and Brexit; and a brief round-up of key developments within each organisation since the last meeting.

‘A New Settlement Revised: Religion and Belief in Schools’

Charles Clarke and Linda Woodhead have published a policy pamphlet entitled ‘A New Settlement Revised: Religion and Belief in Schools’.

This policy pamphlet, which updates an earlier one published by the same authors in 2015 as part of the Westminster Faith Debates, examines Religious Education in the school curriculum, the act of collective worship and faith schools. It argues that the current legal relationship between religion, belief and schools is outdated in such a way that the law itself has become a barrier to schools’ ability to help their children understand their own situation and the world in which they are growing up. It calls for a reform of the law that undergirds the way religion is handled in schools and makes 16 detailed recommendations about the curriculum, collective worship and faith schools. ## Report - Manchester Commission on Preventing Hateful Extremism and Promoting Social Cohesion

On 30 July the Manchester Commission on Preventing Hateful Extremism and Promoting Social Cohesion published its report.

The report said that the evidence was that there is no single cause of individuals becoming radicalised, but the behavioural patterns caused by situation or emotional changes can be an early indicator. It said that there is a need for people to have the opportunity and safe places to have difficult and challenging conversations. In their response, the Mayor and Deputy Mayor of Manchester have pledged to adopt the Commission’s analysis and findings into the development of a new Greater Manchester approach to tackling extremism and promoting social cohesion. They have called on all communities and parts of society to play a part in developing new solutions. ## CALLS FOR INFORMATION, COMPETITIONS, AND NOMINATIONS

Honours List nominations

The Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government is keen to ensure that individuals from the full breadth of society who are making a significant contribution to public life are properly recognised through the Honours system, and is therefore seeking nominations for the Queen's Birthday honours list. It is particularly keen that individuals be recognised who have contributed to building integrated communities and notes that nominees can come from all levels; being in a junior role is not a barrier to a nomination.

All nominations must be made on an official citation form and nominees should not be informed that they have been nominated. Citation forms, as well as further information, can be obtained from Abdul Ghaffar at abdul.ghaffar@communities.gsi.gov.uk. ### Inspirational Women of faith in the Suffragette Movement

The Religions for Peace UK Women of Faith Network, in partnership with Interfaith Scotland, has secured funding for a multi-faith project which seeks to explore the role of women of faith in the Suffragette Movement. In 2018 and 2019 they will be celebrating both the anniversary and the significance of women's suffrage to all women, from all religion and belief backgrounds. There is currently no easily accessible information on the role that women from ethnic minority and faith communities played in the movement. The project aims to gather stories that demonstrate the diversity of women involved both nationally and internationally, and to bring people together to celebrate women's suffrage through research and dialogue events.

Faith groups' participation in Remembrance Sunday

In the centenary year of the end of World War I, the Government is seeking to make faith and belief representation at the National Remembrance Service more reflective of modern Britain, both now and in the future.

In his or her capacity as Dean of Her Majesty The Queen's Chapels Royal, the Bishop of London leads the National Service of Remembrance at the Cenotaph in Whitehall in London. Other faith leaders are also present. There are currently 15 faith and belief denominations represented at the Remembrance Service (Anglican, Catholic, Church of Scotland, Methodist, United Reformed Church, Unitarian, Free Christian Churches, the Salvation Army, Baptist, Greek Orthodox Church, Jewish (United Hebrew Congregations), Jewish (Reform), Islam, Hindu and Sikh. These representatives attend the service to pay their respects on behalf of their communities, but do not lay a wreath.

This year the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government has asked Faiths Forum for London to run an open application process inviting organisations representing different faith/denomination and belief groups across Great Britain, who are not currently represented, to be part of the annual commemoration service.

Political parties – modelling respectful engagement

In the last issue of the IFN e-bulletin there was an item on ‘Political Parties, Antisemitism and Islamophobia’. A copy of this item can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/ifn-e-bulletin-july-august-2018#1.2>.

On 7 September IFN’s Co-Chairs and Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement on ‘Political parties - modelling respectful engagement’.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/political-parties-modelling-respectful-engagement-statement>

“As the party conference season approaches, we call on all political parties to model and encourage through their words and actions an open, fair and respectful engagement with people of different faiths and beliefs.

The last few months have seen concerns expressed in relation to the processes of political parties about Antisemitism and Islamophobia and perceived slow or limited response to handling allegations about this.

This comes in the context of concerns within wider society about extremism and hate incidents which have affected, among others, a number of faith communities.

Freedom of speech and the parameters of UK law permit a wide spectrum of views to be voiced. At the same time, principles of respect and tolerance are vital, as is finding ways to deal well with disagreement.

We commend the principles in the Inter Faith Network's guidelines *Building Good Relations with People of Different Faiths and Beliefs*.

Religious literacy is also vital, in relation to all faiths. We hope that it will be the case that the coming months will see informed and helpful engagement reflecting the best of all the parties' visions of an integrated and harmonious society.

From 11-18 November, national Inter Faith Week will be marked. We hope that all parties will find ways to mark Inter Faith Week, highlighting their commitment to engaging well with those of all faiths and beliefs and to serving well the needs of all faiths and none at national, regional and local levels.”

Final report of the Commission on Religious Education

On 9 September the Commission on Religious Education published its final report: Religion and Worldviews: the way forward. A national plan for RE.

The Religious Education Council for England and Wales launched the Commission in July 2016 as an independent body. It was chaired by the Very Revd Dr John Hall, Dean of Westminster. The fourteen Commissioners included academics, head teachers, teachers, school governors and a broadcaster. The Commission published an interim report in July 2017.

The final report makes 11 recommendations, which include changing the name of the subject RE to 'Religion and Worldviews'. It sets out a 'national entitlement' for RE that would apply to all state funded schools. It calls for a special body to be formed by the Government to write programmes of study for Religion and Worldviews based on the 'national entitlement' which would act in a similar way to the National Curriculum for other subjects.

The full report and the executive summary can be found at: <https://www.commissiononre.org.uk/final-report-religion-and-worldviews-the-way-forward-a-national-plan-for-re/> where there is also a short video explaining why the Commission believes there is the need for change.

The Commission has now ended its work. Any queries or comments about the report can be sent to the RE Council of England and Wales using the email address: enquiries@commissiononre.org.uk.

Board of Deputies of British Jews and Sikh Council UK – a new partnership for the common good

The Board of Deputies of British Jews and the Sikh Council UK have instituted a new partnership to bring their communities together through pursuing the common good. Jewish and Sikh volunteers collaborated at the West London Synagogue's Drop-In Centre for families seeking asylum in August, and at a Sikh-led event at Charing Cross to help the homeless in September. The partnership follows a meeting between the two organisations earlier in the year, at which they agreed to work together on a range of activities including social action.

For more information about the partnership, visit <https://www.bod.org.uk/jews-and-sikhs-look-for-the-common-good/>. Those interested in participating should email anthony.silkoff@bod.org.uk.

Hate Crime

There have continued to be reports of hate crimes linked to religious identity, affecting both individuals and places of worship.

On 28 August there was a petrol bomb attack on a Sikh Gurdwara in Leith, Edinburgh. Government and Interfaith Scotland responses to this can be seen at <https://twitter.com/JBrokenshire/status/1034554562634555393> and <https://www.facebook.com/interfaithscotland>. There was a strong cross-community response. A suspect has been arrested for that attack, as well as for an attack earlier that day on a Methodist church nearby. <http://www.scotland.police.uk/whats-happening/news/2018/august/man-charged-following-fires-at-sikh-temple-and-methodist-church>

On 19 September, just before Ashura, three people were injured after a car ploughed into a crowd outside the Al-Majlis Al-Hussaini mosque on Edgware Road in North London, in an incident that is being treated as a hate crime. <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2018/sep/19/brent-mosque-london-three-injured-in-hit-and-run> There was also in this instance strong cross-community support including visits from members of two local synagogues even though it was Yom Kippur. <https://jewishnews.timesofisrael.com/jewish-communities-visit-muslim-neighbours-on-yom-kippur-after-mosque-attack/>

The National No2H8 Crime Awards 2018 took place in London on 13 September. The Awards are made by a coalition of partners including Tell MAMA, the Community Security Trust, GALOP, Stonewall and the ‘No to Hate Crime’ campaign. The Awards “honour those individuals and organisations who stand against hatred, prejudice and intolerance.” Further information is at <https://no2h8crimeawards.org/>.

National Hate Crime Awareness Week will be taking place this year from Saturday 13 to Saturday 20 October. Further information is at <https://nationalhcaw.uk/>.

Armistice100

Remembrance Sunday is marked from the smallest villages to the largest cities. Hundreds of thousands of people participate in services and other events commemorating the contribution of British and Commonwealth military servicemen and women and non-combatants in the two World Wars and later conflicts. People from all faith backgrounds and none took part in these conflicts.

Remembrance Sunday falls on the second Sunday in November, the one nearest to 11 November which is Armistice Day, the anniversary of the end of World War I at 11 am in 1918. A two minute silence is held at that time.

The march past the cenotaph in Whitehall, London on Remembrance Sunday is a major focus of the day, with the ‘march past’ of British and Commonwealth former military and civilian service personnel and wreath laying.

Because 11 November 2018 marks the Centenary of the end of World War 1 there will this year be many special additional activities for Remembrance Sunday and the period leading up to that. Among these will be a ‘People’s march’ past the Cenotaph and special bell ringing. More about these and other events and activities can be found at: <https://armistice100.org.uk/>.

Commemorating the Suffrage Movement

In the last issue of the e-bulletin there was an article about the multi faith project being jointly run by the Religions for Peace UK Women of Faith Network and Interfaith Scotland to explore during 2018 and 2019 the role of women of faith in the Suffrage Movement. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/ifn-e-bulletin-july-august-2018#5.2>

Faith communities are continuing to commemorate the anniversary of the Suffrage Movement. Most recently, the Zoroastrian All Party Parliamentary Group held an event in the House of Lords on 12 September at which Dr Sumita Mukerjee, Historian and Senior Lecturer at the University of Bristol, gave a talk on 'Zoroastrian and Indian women in the British and Indian Suffrage movement'. For more information, contact secretary@ztfе.com.

As part of the Vote100 celebrations during UK Parliament Week (12 to 18 November), the Houses of Parliament, in partnership with the Church of England, has published a booklet summarising the workings of parliament, democracy, and the history behind the Representation of the People Act 1918, which paved the way for women to vote in a General Election. The booklet also contains activities for children, such as holding mock parliamentary debates, campaigns, feasting, prayers, and a quiz. It can be downloaded from the Vote100 website (<https://www.ukparliamentweek.org/blog/vote-100/>), along with a ballot box for children to hold mock elections, a “Votes for Women” sash, and a UK Parliament Week placard, bunting, and posters to promote events. UK Parliament Week this year takes place at the same time as Inter Faith Week and Scottish Interfaith Week (see below).

Reset Communities and Refugees

Reset Communities and Refugees is a new, national charity, funded by the Home Office and philanthropic foundations in order to promote and grow community sponsorship in the UK.

Community sponsorship provides a practical way for groups to support refugees affected by the Syrian crisis to build a new life in the UK. Through community sponsorship, groups come together to welcome families into their local area and support them to find housing, jobs, English lessons, schools and doctors. Communities also offer friendship and advice – whether it is helping the children with their homework or explaining some of the idiosyncrasies of British culture. Communities empower refugees to become self-sufficient as they settle into their new lives. Faith groups are often among those acting as community sponsors.

Taylor Review Pilot – listed places of worship

The Taylor Review Pilot was launched on 3 September and will run until March 2020 in the pilot areas of Manchester and St Edmundsbury and Ipswich. It is being administered by Historic England on behalf of the Department of Digital, Culture, Media and Sport and is restricted to Greater Manchester and Suffolk. The Taylor Review was commissioned in April 2016, with the aim of examining the funding and sustainability of listed Church of England buildings to ensure they are conserved for future generations.

It is open to all faith groups who manage listed places of worship and meet the eligibility criteria in those areas. In each area, the pilot consists of:

- a Fabric Support Officer, who will focus on helping congregations with maintenance and repair of historic fabric, and will work with those applying for a minor repairs fund grant;
- a Community Development Adviser, who will help to increase engagement beyond the worshipping community in both urban and rural contexts;
- workshops, which will promote best practice in the maintenance of historic buildings and the value of developing strong links with the local community; and
- a minor repairs fund, which aims to reduce the physical deterioration of historic fabric by encouraging a ‘stitch in time’ approach to urgent minor repairs, to reduce the likelihood of a building becoming ‘at risk’.

For further information about the Pilot, or to sign up for email updates, visit <https://historicengland.org.uk/advice/caring-for-heritage/places-of-worship/churches-sustainability-review/> or email taylorpilot@HistoricEngland.org.uk.

Training of faith leaders

In March the Government published a Green Paper on its Integrated Communities Strategy. This invited views on its vision for building strong integrated communities where people – whatever their background – live, work, learn and socialise together, based on shared rights, responsibilities and opportunities. In the Green Paper, the Government committed to supporting the training of faith leaders to strengthen ministering in the British context.

This commitment ties in with the Government’s ambition “for all faith leaders to be confident, well-qualified and outward-looking, and to demonstrate an ability to resist, and help their congregations to resist, intolerant or extremist arguments”.

The Government's expectation is that faith institutions will themselves address these questions, but has indicated that it is looking to help by ensuring that suitable voluntary training is available to religious ministers to ensure they understand their rights and responsibilities, including relevant aspects of the British legal system, to help them deal confidently with the spectrum of issues faced by their congregations.

A survey was sent to faith community organisations for them to complete during September on this topic.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week 2018 runs from Sunday 11 to Sunday 18 November. This year is the 10th Inter Faith Week.

Inter Faith Week is timed to begin on Remembrance Sunday, which this year is the Centenary Armistice Day, marking 100 years since the end of World War One. This is to give people of different backgrounds opportunity to remember together and to highlight the diversity of those who have served – both from the UK and from the countries that became the Commonwealth. Those who were conscientious objectors also came from different backgrounds and often acted in the light of their beliefs. The Week also enables reflection on this.

A short resource linked to this will be available on the Inter Faith Week website soon.

The first Inter Faith Week activities have now been published on the Inter Faith Week website map at www.interfaithweek.org/map, and activities will continue to be added on a rolling basis. The website also lists this by date and by town.

If you are organising an activity to mark the Week, you can submit this to the website at www.interfaithweek.org/submit. There are a number of reasons to submit your activity, including:

- The central website helps members of the public and the media to find out about your activity;
- The map enables people to see at a glance the wide range of activities taking place and feel part of something bigger than their locality;
- It helps the Inter Faith Network for the UK to accurately report on the Week each year;
- You will be eligible to receive a free Registration Pack (see below).

Organisations registering their activities on the Inter Faith Week website will be eligible to receive a free Registration Pack. The packs contain a poster, flyers, tips and information, balloons, stickers, a pen, badges, a copy of Inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation: Next Steps, and a social media message card (see below).

A major way to raise awareness of and participation in Inter Faith Week each year is through social media. Last year, tweets about the Week reached the feeds of over 13 million Twitter users alone. The Registration Packs contain an A3 card with the Inter Faith Week logo, hashtag and username on, and a blank space for messages about the Week's themes. People are encouraged to take pictures of themselves – or themselves with someone of another faith or belief – and to post these on social media during November using #InterFaithWeek. Contact the IFN office for further cards, or visit <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/social-media> to download and print yourself.

The Inter Faith Week social media accounts are:

- Twitter – www.twitter.com/ifweek
- Facebook – www.facebook.com/ifweek
- Instagram - www.instagram.com/ifweek

Inter Faith Week is a programme of the Inter Faith Network for the UK (www.interfaith.org.uk), which manages the Inter Faith Week website www.interfaithweek.org. The Week in Wales and Northern Ireland is supported in conversation with the Inter-faith Council for Wales / Cyngor Cyd-Ffydd Cymru (<http://interfaithwales.org.uk>), and the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum (<http://niinterfaithforum.org>).

Sunday 18 November will be Mitzvah Day (www.mitzvahday.org.uk) - a Jewish-led day of social action involving people of all faiths and none working together in their local communities. Many events are being jointly held to mark both Inter Faith Week and Mitzvah Day and these will form a part of Inter Faith Week. (See more below)

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Interfaith Week (SIFW) has taken place with great success since 2004 and is led by Interfaith Scotland (www.interfaithscotland.org). The dates of SIFW 2018 are 11 to 18 November. More details are at <http://scottishinterfaithweek.org>.

The Scottish Government has declared 2018 the 'Year of Young People'. One of the main aims of the Year is to develop better understanding, co-operation and respect between generations. The fact that faith communities have an important role to play in providing opportunities for people of different generations to dialogue and engage in activities together is reflected in the theme for this year's SIFW which is 'Connecting Generations'. The launch event will take place on Monday 12 November in Aberdeen.

The Feast – In Faith, We Dare to Imagine

The Feast has been bringing young people of different faiths and cultures together in youth encounters since 2009. On 5 September, it launched its new strategy, “In Faith, We Dare to Imagine”. ### Near Neighbours grants programme

The Near Neighbours small grants programme is funded by the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government and administered by the Church Urban Fund. It is currently offering small grants of between £250 and £5,000, as seed funding for local groups and organisations working in a number of areas of England to bring together neighbours, and to develop relationships across diverse faiths and ethnicities to improve their communities. The next deadline for applications is Friday 12 October.

As part of the criteria, projects should:

- bring together peoples of two or more different faiths and/or ethnicities, to build friendships and develop relationships of trust.
- work locally - the programme wants to see people who are living very locally (ie in the same street, estate or neighbourhood) come together.
- work sustainably - the programme wants to see long term and natural relationships grow, that will last beyond the period of funding.
- work to improve the community – the programme wants to see people working to make their communities a better place to live.
- involve diverse people in planning and implementation. People from more than one faith group and/or ethnicity are involved in planning and implementing the proposal.

For information on the eligible areas and other criteria, visit <https://www.cuf.org.uk/near-neighbours-small-grants> or email near.neighbours@cuf.org.uk with general enquiries.

More faith and belief groups now permanently represented at the National Service of Remembrance

This year Baha’is, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Coptic Christians, Jains, Spiritualists, Zoroastrians and also Humanists were represented for the first time at the National Service of Remembrance at the Cenotaph.

When announcing the additional representation, which will be permanent, the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG), said that this would “reflect the significant but little-known contribution made by minority ethnic communities to Britain’s war efforts. It also sends a strong signal throughout Britain and the world that this country values the contribution of its diverse communities.”

The full press release is available here: <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/more-faith-and-belief-groups-to-join-the-national-service-of-remembrance>.

Marking of Armistice100

The UK marked Remembrance Sunday this year with special events to mark the Centenary of the end of the First World War. #Armistice100 was used as the hashtag for social media and a special website set up for national coverage <https://armistice100.org.uk/>.

11 November was also the first day of Inter Faith Week and IFN produced a short resource to help those wishing to mark both. This can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/armistice-100>

10,000 members of the public had the opportunity to form a procession past the Cenotaph in central London on 11 November and, as noted above, more faith communities were represented at the Cenotaph service.

In Wales faith leaders attended the National Service of Remembrance at Llandaff Cathedral led by the Archbishop of Wales. <https://www.walesonline.co.uk/news/wales-news/live-updates-remembrance-sunday-across-15398098>

Report by Lord Bourne – Belief in communities: bridging the divide

On 14 November, the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government published a report by Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith called Belief in communities: bridging the divide.

The report is based on Lord Bourne's recent Faith in Communities tour on which he visited over 55 places of worship, across over 20 beliefs and denominations across the country. It talks about how faith communities are helping to make strong neighbourhoods and highlights some of the work to create 'cohesive and resilient inter faith communities'. It also makes recommendations to ensure these ideas are shared and replicated more widely.

The report can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/belief-in-communities-bridging-the-divide>.

Debate on Religious holidays

A debate was held at Westminster Hall on 29 October on the subject of public holidays on religious occasions. It was held in response to two separate e-petitions, one of which concerned the Hindu festivals of Diwali and Dussera, and the other of which concerned the Muslim festivals of Eid ul Fitr and Eid ul Adha.

Usually, Westminster Hall debates are only held where there are more than 100,000 signatures to a petition, and the combined total for these two petitions was under 60,000. The debate was, however, moved by Martyn Day, SNP MP for Linlithgow and East Falkirk, who is a member of the Petitions Committee. In doing so, he noted that there were no petitions over the threshold to be considered at that time; that when combined, these two petitions had the largest number of signatures of any under consideration; that they represented “issues that primarily affect minority groups who may find it difficult to attract 100,000 signatures”; and that the issue was of “interest to a significant number of people in the wider public”.

The record of the debate can be found at <https://hansard.parliament.uk/commons/2018-10-29/debates/6EF118AA-489B-4ADC-B915-FFE29C922C4E/PublicHolidaysOnReligiousOccasions> and a summary, and commentary with background information here <https://www.lawandreligionuk.com/2018/10/31/mps-debate-additional-religious-holidays/>

Government’s response in both cases was that creation of additional public holidays was not desirable on economic grounds, although it “encourage[s] employers to respond flexibly and sympathetically to any requests for leave, including requests for religious holidays, bearing in mind business needs.”

Supreme Court judgment

Judgment was handed down by the Supreme Court on 10 October in the case of Lee v Ashers Baking Company Ltd. The case concerned a bakery in Northern Ireland (Ashers) which offered a bespoke cake service, and a gay man (Mr Lee) who asked the bakery to produce a cake iced with the slogan ‘Support Gay Marriage’ which he wished to take to a campaign event. The bakery was owned by a Christian couple (Mr and Mrs McArthur) who hold the religious belief that the only form of marriage consistent with Biblical teaching and acceptable to God is that between a man and a woman. Mrs McArthur initially took the order, but later advised Mr Lee that she could not in conscience produce such a cake.

Mr Lee brought a case against the McArthurs of direct and indirect discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation, and/ or grounds of religious belief or political opinion. The county court held that there was direct discrimination, both on grounds of sexual orientation and on grounds of religious belief or political opinion. An appeal was brought to the Northern Ireland Court of Appeal, which held that there was direct discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation, but did not answer all of the questions brought with the appeal. The case was then referred to the Supreme Court.

The Judgement ruled by the Supreme Court was that there was no discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation in the case, as the case concerned a message rather than the actual or perceived sexual orientation of the customer. The Court also judged that because the objection was to their being required to promote a message with which they disagreed, rather than to Mr Lee, the situation was not comparable with people being refused jobs or services simply because of their religious faith. It further judged that the legislation should not be read or given effect in such a way as to compel the appellants to promote a message with which they profoundly disagreed.

The case had generated much attention at all stages, and is a significant one concerning freedom of thought, conscience and religion and freedom of expression.

The full judgement and a press summary are available at <https://www.supremecourt.uk/cases/uksc-2017-0020.html>

Review of marriage law

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has announced that the Government will ask the Law Commission to review marriage law in England and Wales. The project will look to propose options for a simpler and fairer system to give modern couples meaningful choice. The terms of reference are yet to be set.

This step follows the Law Commission's scoping Paper of 2015 outlining a range of problems with the existing law governing how and where people can marry.

Safeguarding and faith communities

A new All-Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on Safeguarding in Faith Settings was launched in September; and its web page in November: <https://thirtyoneeight.org/news-and-events/appg/>.

The APPG's purpose is to "focus on safeguarding concerns relevant to any community of faith, belief or religion. To raise awareness and improve policy and practice in relation to safeguarding in faith settings and to encourage both the opportunity and responsibility of those faith groups and communities in creating safer places for all". The Group is co-chaired by Sarah Champion (Lab, Rotherham) and Michael Tomlinson (Con, Mid Dorset and North Poole), and the Secretariat is provided by Thirtyone:eight.

Safeguarding was a topic of discussion at the last meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum in October, at which there was a presentation by Mustafa Field of Strengthening Faith Institutions about its work in this area.

The Social Care Institute for Excellence is working with a number of faith groups on safeguarding issues. Information on an inter faith breakfast that it recently held for faith leaders can be found at <https://www.scie.org.uk/safeguarding/faith-groups/communities>.

Security of places of worship and hate crime

Concerns about security of places of worship remain and for the Jewish community became the more acute following the terrible attack on the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh on 27 October. The following day the Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators of IFN put out a statement which included the words:

“Like attacks on churches, gurdwaras, mosques, temples and other places of worship of different faiths here and around the world, it is a reminder of the need to condemn extremist violence in the strongest terms and to stand together and to continue to work together with ever greater urgency against ignorance, prejudice and hatred.

There is no place in civilised society for Antisemitism.

Nor is there a place for Islamophobia and hatreds targeting communities of other faiths and beliefs.

All communities must be able to exist in safety and to practise their faith freely and without fear.”

On 31 October, a new nationwide hate crime campaign aimed at increasing awareness and understanding of what constitutes a hate crime was launched by the government following consultation on it with the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS), the Independent Advisory Group on Hate Crime and other organisations.

The strapline of the campaign is: ‘If you target anyone with verbal, online or physical abuse because of their religion, race, sexual orientation, disability or transgender identity – you may be committing a hate crime. It’s not just offensive. It’s an offence.’ Adverts are running on video-on-demand sites, social media and posters across the country. Each video or poster features a different offender, represented by an e-fit, and a hate crime taking place.

The campaign website also signposts organisations where victims and witnesses can get the support they need.

The campaign forms part of the Government’s wider programme of work to tackle hate crime. On 16 October it published its updated Hate Crime Action Plan relating to England and Wales. That outlines actions the government will take to: prevent hate crime; respond to hate crime; increase reporting of hate crimes; improve support for victims and build an understanding of hate crime. The Government is also: asking the Law Commission to review hate crime legislation; making available further funding for community groups to tackle hate crime; and extending the Places of Worship Security Scheme for a fourth year.

The Home Office is running a grant programme to work with affected communities to fund the development of projects that prevent hate crime. More information on this is below.

Tell MAMA has published its 2018 6-month Interim Report, Gendered Anti-Muslim Hatred and Islamophobia. Tell MAMA recorded a total of 685 reports. Of these reports, 608 were verified as being anti-Muslim or Islamophobic in nature and as having occurred in the UK between January and June 2018. A higher proportion of attacks were directed towards women. <https://tellmamauk.org/gendered-anti-muslim-hatred-and-islamophobia-street-based-aggression-in-cases-reported-to-tell-mama-is-alarming>

All Party Parliamentary Group on British Muslims and ‘a working definition of Islamophobia’

On 27 November, the All-Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on British Muslims launched their latest report: Islamophobia Defined- The inquiry into a working definition of Islamophobia.

The APPG on British Muslims was established on 18 July 2017, to build on the work of the APPG on Islamophobia. The group is co-chaired by Anna Soubry MP and Wes Streeting MP. The core aims of the Group are to highlight the aspirations and challenges facing British Muslims; to celebrate the contributions of Muslim communities to Britain and to investigate prejudice, discrimination and hatred against Muslims in the UK. An inquiry into a working definition of Islamophobia was opened in April 2018.

Following consultation with academics, lawyers, local and nationally elected officials, Muslim organisation, activists, campaigners and local Muslim communities, the definition recommended by the report is as follows: “Islamophobia is rooted in racism and is a type of racism that targets expressions of Muslimness or perceived Muslimness.”

Religious Education Council statement on Commission on RE report

As reported in the last issue of the e-bulletin, on 9 September the Commission on Religious Education published its final report: Religion and Worldviews: the way forward. A national plan for RE. The same day the Religious Education Council of England and Wales (REC) made a statement which can be found at <https://www.religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/news/rec-comment-on-the-final-report-from-commission-on-re/>.

At a meeting on 16 October the Board of the REC authorised the REC and the RE Policy Unit to proceed with work towards securing the full implementation of the Report. In addition it made the following public statement:

“The Religious Education Council –

Decline in number of RE teacher training entrants

On 29 November the Department for Education published figures showing the Initial Teacher Training (ITT) Census for the academic year 2018 to 2019, England. This shows that the number of new entrants to postgraduate initial teacher training for the academic year 2018-19 is 375 (58% of the Government’s target). This is a fall from the 2017-18 year for which it was 400 (62% of the Government’s target). ### ‘Is Britain Fairer’ - Equality and Human Rights Commission reports

The Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) has recently launched its ‘Is Britain Fairer?’ ‘Is Scotland Fairer?’ and ‘Is Wales Fairer?’ reports. ‘Is Britain Fairer’ is a three-yearly project by the EHRC to review the state of equality and human rights in England, Scotland and Wales. Across the reports it examines six areas of everyday life to assess how much progress has been made towards a fairer Britain over the past three years.

The reports highlight trends, emerging issues and the action that needs to be taken now to improve the life chances of the next generation. They also make a number of recommendations to Governments and other organisations and will inform the EHRC’s programme of work for the next three years. The executive summary of the reports highlight some improvements in education, political participation and work, but also focus on an increase in poverty, 'forgotten' groups and regressions in justice and personal security.

More information, including the full reports and supporting data, is available at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/britain-fairer>.

Religious festivals

The pattern of religious festivals in different faith communities changes throughout the year. A number have recently taken place such as Navaratri (Hindu), Bandi Chhor Divas (Sikh), Diwali (Hindu, Jain and Sikh), the Birth of the Bab and the Birth of Baha'u'llah (Baha'i), the Birthday of Guru Nanak (Sikh) and the Birthday of the Prophet Muhammad (Muslim). Advent (Christian) and Chanukah (Jewish) are taking place now.

The Shap Working Party on World Religions in Education, an IFN member body, produces a calendar of religious festivals, which is available in electronic format, and also a wallchart which can be purchased in hard copy.

Faith communities and Organ donation

During Inter Faith Week NHS Blood and Transplant encouraged people across different faith communities to help dispel myths and misconceptions by talking about organ donation. The aim was to increase understanding of organ donation and the stances of different faiths as well as be an opportunity for people to publicly show their support for donation. Discussions were encouraged, including on social media using the hashtags #InterFaithWeek and #YesIDonate. <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/news-and-campaigns/news/talk-about-organ-donation-and-help-to-save-lives-this-inter-faith-week/>

Organ donation laws vary in different countries across the United Kingdom.

The current legislation for England is to opt in to organ and tissue donation. In the Summer the Government published a response to its consultation into the organ donation system in England and confirmed that under the proposed new system (commonly known as 'deemed consent' or 'opt out') everybody would be considered a potential organ donor unless they have added their details to the NHS Organ Donor Register to say that they do not wish to donate their organs or are in one of the excluded groups. They have provisionally indicated that the system may be in place in April 2020.

The current legislation for Scotland is to opt in to organ and tissue donation. The Human Tissue (Authorisation) (Scotland) Bill, which includes provision for a 'deemed authorisation system', was published by the Scottish Government in June for consideration by the Scottish Parliament. The date for the change to legislation is not known but could be spring 2020.

The current legislation for Northern Ireland is to opt in to organ and tissue donation. Following detailed consideration of the issue, the Northern Ireland Assembly decided in 2016 not to proceed with any changes to the basis of consent for organ donation. However, they introduced a new statutory requirement for the Department of Health to promote organ donation as a means of increasing the number of organs available for transplantation.

The legislation for Wales is 'deemed consent'. This means that if you haven't registered an organ and tissue donation decision (opt in or opt out), you will be considered to have no objection to becoming a donor.

More information on the legislation is at <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/faq/is-organ-donation-law-changing/>. Information on the NHS Organ Donor Register and how to join is at <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/>.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week

The 10th Inter Faith Week took place from 11 to 18 November. Over 600 activities are thus far known to have taken place across the UK. More on these can be found at www.interfaithweek.org. If you held an event for Inter Faith Week, please take time to respond to IFN's survey about the Week at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/feedback> so that the Week can be further strengthened for the future.

The Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, which leads on the Week, said:

"Inter Faith Week 2018 has been an enormously energetic and positive Week. There have been hundreds of events involving thousands of people of different backgrounds, young and old. It has been wonderful to see faith communities leading in activities in many areas and first time participants from primary schools through to major national employers entering into the annual opportunity to deepen understanding, respect and cooperation."

The Week begins each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace. This year, Remembrance Sunday was also the centenary of Armistice Day, which brought an additional dimension.

Churches, gurdwaras, mandirs, synagogues, mosques, temples, viharas, schools, sports grounds, parks, council chambers, museums and galleries, libraries, community centres, hospitals and hospices, concourses of major rail stations - just a few of the places that events were held. There were practical projects such as tree planting by groups of different faiths and collections for those in need, discussions and dialogues, arts and cultural events, and much more. Tough issues were tackled, as well as commonalities and friendship celebrated.

In the course of the Week, the Government's Minister for Faith, Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, launched his report 'Belief in communities: bridging the divide', about which more is said above. Secretary of State for Housing, Communities and Local Government, the Rt Hon James Brokenshire MP, attended, as the local MP, the London Borough of Bexley's Faith in the Community Awards.

Wales saw a special event supported by the Welsh Government and arranged by the Inter-faith Council for Wales, 'Walking alongside our Communities' with Welsh Government Minister Julie James AM. In Belfast, Inter Faith Week was marked with a reception for the Northern Ireland Inter Faith Forum at City Hall.

National inter faith initiatives and local inter faith groups have been showcased through the Week, organising dialogues, workshops, concerts, festivals, fairs, exhibitions, faith trails and many other kinds of activity. Remembrance events of many kinds were part of this, such as at Dor Kemmyn Field near Truro.

National faith communities played a key role in the Week. Some held events linked to both the Week and #Armistice100, for example the BAPS Swaminarayan Sanstha which held an event at Neasden Temple in London, honouring the contribution of Indian and Commonwealth soldiers in World War 1. Others, such as the Muslim Council of Britain, held discussion events or, like the Baptist Union of Great Britain, used the Week to launch new resources. Faith leaders also contributed to other events, for example, Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis at the Inter Faith Week event of the Indian Jewish Association.

The Week saw participation from a growing number of companies and employers, such as Network Rail and the UK Civil Service, and was also the platform for awareness-raising by bodies such as NHS Blood and Transplant and a number of National Health Trusts. Fire and Rescue Services and Police joined in many local events.

In schools such as Gorsey Bank primary in Wilmslow and Polam Hall School Darlington, pupils have used the Week as an opportunity to learn about other traditions, as well as to celebrate the diversity of their communities and those who live and worship in them.

In colleges and universities, students ran activities from sport, health and exercise sessions to 'speed faithing', quizzes and competitions to acts of service and charitable collections. They have been supported and encouraged in doing so by the NUS, by chaplaincies and faith centres, by national faith-based student bodies, and by national inter faith organisations. Youth engagement, more generally, in the Week has been high. The Faith and Belief Forum's Interfaith Summit brought together many young people to discuss key issues and young people also played a significant role in events in areas such as Bolton as well as through youth bodies like the Girls Brigade and Scouts.

Local authorities in a number of areas have played a key role with some supporting and encouraging extensive programmes, for example a cross-Kent Open Door series arranged by Kent County Council, or supporting particular events such as Middlesbrough City of Kindness.

Full week programmes were held in several places such as Birmingham, Bolton, Kirklees, Leicester, Preston and York as well as a number of campuses such as University of Leeds.

The Near Neighbours and Presence and Engagement programmes of the Church of England have played an active support role in many areas and grants from the Inter Faith Youth Trust have enabled a number of special youth events.

There was a social action focus to a number of events such as Brighton and Hove Faith in Action and Brighton and Hove City Council's event celebrating social welfare and community development projects delivered by the city's faith communities.

Inter Faith Week concluded with the social action focused Mitzvah Day, with which it has a strong link. This is a special Jewish-led day of service focussed on bringing communities together in 'acts of loving kindness'. Many of these were run on an inter faith basis, including the 'chicken soup challenge' in which Jews and Muslims cooked over 1,000 portions of soup together at the East London Mosque before distributing these to those in need in the local community.

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Interfaith Week also took place from 11 to 18 November, and its theme this year was 'Connecting Generations'.

Interfaith Scotland, which leads on the Week, estimates that 80 events and activities took place to mark the Week. A launch event was held by Interfaith Scotland in Aberdeen. Among the other events and activities were the Interfaith Summit hosted by the First Minister at the Scottish Parliament, a Civic Reception hosted by Glasgow City Council with Interfaith Glasgow at Glasgow City Chambers and Edinburgh Inter Faith Association launching a national website resource called 'The Ground We Share'. Lots of Scottish local inter faith groups held events on themes from domestic abuse to taking care of the planet to remembrance.

Further information about the Week can be found at www.scottishinterfaithweek.org or by contacting Interfaith Scotland at admin@interfaithscotland.org.

Day event for local inter faith practitioners

On 16 October IFN held a day event in Bradford for local inter faith practitioners. The event was an opportunity for people from local inter faith groups anywhere in the UK to come together to share their experiences, discuss issues of common interest and concern and discuss practical aspects of developing successful inter faith programmes as well as the challenges.

Participants were welcomed to Bradford by Mohinder Singh Chana, and Balu Lad, Chair and Vice-Chair of Bradford Concord Interfaith Society and Denise Raby, Secretary of the Keighley Interfaith Group. This was followed by reflections from Rt Revd Dr Toby Howarth, Bishop of Bradford, on the importance of local inter faith engagement.

The morning session focussed on standing together to tackle prejudice and hatred. Dr Harriet Crabtree, Executive Director of IFN talked about ways in which prejudice and hateful speech and action are affecting communities and individuals and why local inter faith response is crucial. Mufti Helal Uddin Mahmood, from the Oldham Interfaith Forum, and Es Rosen, from Barnet Multi Faith Forum, talked about their respective forums work on these issues.

In the afternoon participants heard from Amria Khatun, Integration Lead for the Bradford area, Ministry of Communities, Housing and Local Government, who spoke about the significance of local inter faith engagement in the Government's integration strategy. There was then discussion on what the future looks like for local inter faith engagement.

There were discussion groups on: developing local inter faith organisation programmes with impact; engaging young people in local inter faith activity; exploring funding and resources for local inter faith work; Twitter as a tool for local inter faith groups; dialogue about challenging issues; and Inter Faith Week and other special days/weeks as a platform for developing local inter faith work.

The event was drawn to a close by final reflections from Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chair of IFN who had chaired the day.

Reports from previous events held for local inter faith practitioners in Bristol, Coventry, London, Manchester and Sheffield can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/publications>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Competitions and Award Schemes

Competitions and award schemes are becoming an ever more popular way of highlighting contributions to such goals as standing up to hate crime; developing good inter faith relations; and contributing in other ways to local communities.

Inter Faith Week saw a number of awards ceremonies taking place, such as 21 for 21 where the Church Times, The Jewish News and BritishMuslimTV, with Coexist House gave awards to 21 Christian, Jewish and Muslim "inspiring individuals aged under 40 who are increasing dialogue and breaking down barriers – particularly as volunteers but also in their working lives." <https://jewishnews.timesofisrael.com/interfaith-21-faith-leaders-for-the-21st-century/>

Locally, award ceremonies took place in Bristol: <http://bristolmultifaithforum.org.uk/love-your-neighbour-awards/> (sponsored and hosted by Bristol Rovers) and in Bexley, where over 200 local people of different faiths were invited to the Civic Offices in Bexleyheath to celebrate the hard work and achievements of the borough's faith groups. <https://www.bexley.gov.uk/news/bexleys-first-ever-faith-community-awards>

Later in November, The Faith & Belief Forum supported by Her Majesty's Lord Lieutenant of Greater London's Council on Faith, held an awards ceremony to recognise Londoners working to serve their communities and bring people from different backgrounds together <https://faithbelieforum.org/faith-belief-community-awards-celebrate-londons-unsung-heroes>

Multi faith tree planting

The Faiths Forum for London is running an annual tree planting initiative, with funding from the Mayor of London. They are challenging faith communities and organisations to plant at least one tree. IFN member bodies Barnet Multi Faith Forum and Barking & Dagenham Faith Forum have participated in the initiative.

Trees symbolise different things to people of diverse faiths and none. People of all faiths and beliefs can unite and plant trees together to show solidarity. London organisations that are interested in planting a tree as a symbol of inter faith unity can email ali@faithsforum4london.org to receive their free tree planting toolkit. ### Woolf Institute 20th Anniversary

The Woolf Institute was founded in 1998. Their aim was “to provide an academic framework and space in which people could tackle issues of religious difference constructively”. This year it is celebrating its 20th Anniversary with a series of events and activities. The most recent of these was a research day in Cambridge which offered an opportunity to evaluate and further develop their research into contemporary religion and society.

Following the 20th Anniversary Research Day, the Woolf Institute opened its third photographic exhibition, ‘Jewish Worship, European Spaces’. The exhibition, displayed throughout the Woolf Institute Building, features synagogues of Europe, past and present.

The exhibition is open to all. For further details, see <https://www.woolf.cam.ac.uk/whats-on/news> and to arrange a visit contact enquiries@woolf.cam.ac.uk.

'Open doors' days and visits to places of worship

An important way to help people learn about faith traditions and to dispel negative stereotypes is for communities to invite them into their places of worship – for example for guided visits or to join in particular social or other events.

Over the years, the Inter Faith Network has highlighted many positive example of this, showcasing openings as part of local inter faith walks and trails and special days.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/open-door-days>
<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/multi-faith-walks-and-pilgrimages-and-faith-trails>

As part of some further resource work that the IFN office is doing on this, we would be very glad to hear from places of worship about their experiences The kinds of questions where reflections would be helpful are:

- Does your place of worship hold open door days where the public can visit?
- Do you accept visits from, eg, schools?
- Why do you think this is important?
- Are there particular challenges you face, such as ensuring security?
- Do you have a training process for your guides?

We would also be pleased to hear from local inter faith bodies about their experience of working with local places of worship to enable openings of these for faith trails, Inter Faith Week etc.

Please email ifnet@interfaith.org.uk If you prefer to talk on the phone, just let us have a number for that purpose and we will give you a ring. Responses can be attributed or anonymised as preferred.

Support for Windrush generation and Commonwealth citizens

The Commonwealth Taskforce, set up by the Home Office, has been carrying out a consultation on the Compensation Scheme for those “who have struggled to confirm their rightful status under the immigration system”, including in particular the Windrush generation.

They are keen to reach as many people as possible who might have concerns about their immigration status. Anyone who settled in the UK before 1988 from any country could be helped by the Taskforce. The team could provide documents to demonstrate the right to be in the UK and people who settled before 1973 might be eligible for a free citizenship application. ## FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Faith Leader Training

The last issue of the e-bulletin noted that in the Green Paper on the Integrated Communities Strategy the Government committed to supporting the training of faith leaders to strengthen ministering in the British context and that a survey about this had been sent by The Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG) to faith community organisations.

MHCLG has now published a call for prospective training providers interested in delivering non-theological, voluntary training for faith leaders in England. The prospectus says “We want to ensure that suitable training is available for religious ministers across all faiths to help broaden their understanding of (and relationship between) a suite of safeguarding topics, relevant legal frameworks and shared values, such as the rule of law, individual liberty, mutual respect, democracy and tolerance of those of different faiths and beliefs.”

It explains that ‘at a minimum’ the Government expects the training provision “to ensure faith leaders are well-equipped and well-positioned to teach their congregations about their rights and responsibilities in the following areas, as well as to be able to identify issues, support affected individuals and signpost people to relevant guidance, legislation and support services in the following areas: Domestic Abuse; Forced Marriage; Female Genital Mutilation; Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation; Mental Health. Training programmes should also cover: Marriage legislation; Equalities legislation; Hate crime legislation and how to respond to / report hate crime; Shared values.” Among the restrictions on the funding is that “Activities promoting a religious faith or belief, acquisition of religious objects or the cost of supporting religiously-employed personnel.”

The full prospectus, application form and evaluation and scoring guide are available at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/faith-leader-training-prospectus-and-application-form> . To apply, prospective training providers should send a completed application form to FaithLeaderTraining@communities.gov.uk by 5pm on Thursday 20 December.

Faith and inter faith groups across the UK marked HMD. IFN highlighted some of these through Tweets and a series of posts on its Facebook page in the week leading up to HMD, including events in Welwyn Hatfield, Llanpumsaint, Loughborough, Rochdale and Shropshire.

The UK Commemorative Event was held in London on 27 January. The Ceremony featured personal testimonies from survivors of genocide, films, readings and music. <https://www.hmd.org.uk/news/uk-commemorative-ceremony-for-holocaust-memorial-day-2019/> An event was held in Belfast City Hall on 24 January. The event was hosted by The Executive Office in Northern Ireland in collaboration with the Holocaust Memorial Day Trust and Belfast City Council. <https://www.executiveoffice-ni.gov.uk/articles/holocaust-memorial-day> The Wales national HMD event, led by Cardiff Council, took place at Cardiff City Hall on 25 January. <https://www.hmd.org.uk/activity/wales-national-hmd-event/> Candles were lit to mark

HMD at a Scottish national event attended by school pupils from across the west of Scotland. The event in Giffnock was held together with Interfaith Scotland, the Holocaust Memorial Day Trust and the Scottish Government.

Holocaust Memorial and Learning Centre

A planning application for the UK's new Holocaust Memorial and Learning Centre in London was submitted in December by the Holocaust Memorial Foundation (HMF), which is part of the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government. Information about the HMF can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/uk-holocaust-memorial-foundation/about>.

The design for the Memorial and Learning Centre has been developed by HMF over the past year in consultation with “Holocaust and other genocide survivors, communities of a range of faiths and backgrounds, local residents, businesses and key experts from landscape design to Holocaust education”. Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/planning-application-submitted-for-holocaust-memorial-proposed-for-next-to-parliament>.

Faith-based and inter faith emergency winter shelters

As the temperatures plummeted at the end of January across the UK, Langar Aid (a project of Khalsa Aid), Under One Roof (Leicester) and other faith-based and inter faith initiatives such as those of the Cardiff Churches and West London Synagogue have been among those offering emergency shelter.

https://england.shelter.org.uk/housing\_advice/homelessness/temporary\_housing\_if\_you\_re\_homeless/winter\_shelters

The scale of provision has been increasing. For example, the Church of England reported in December that more than 2,000 of its congregations would be running or supporting night shelters this winter as homelessness projects expand to cope with rising demand.

<https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/news/church-england-parishes-set-support-winter-shelters>

Faith based bodies also run year round programmes to offer support. For example, the Passage, a Vincentian Catholic organisation, runs London's largest voluntary sector resource centre for homeless and vulnerable people: each day helping up to 200 men and women.

Amendments to Visa arrangements for Ministers of Religion and Religious Workers

On 6 December, the Home Secretary presented to Parliament a Statement of Changes to the Immigration Rules which included amendments to the Tier 5 visa arrangements for religious workers. The changes set out took effect on 10 January.

Tier 5 visas are designed to facilitate short periods of knowledge sharing and cultural exchange for those undertaking non-pastoral roles supporting the activities of religious institutions. The changes to the Immigration Rules introduce a 'cooling off period', preventing Tier 5 Religious Worker and Tier 5 Charity Worker visa holders from returning to the UK, via these immigration routes, for 12 months after their visa expires. This approach underpins the Government's intention that these are temporary visas.

Rule changes will also see Ministers of Religion having to apply through the Tier 2 visa Minister of Religion sub-category instead of the Tier 5 Religious Workers category. Applicants will become subject to the English language requirement and have to demonstrate they speak English to an acceptable standard.

New faith and beliefs declaration for organ donation

In summer 2018, the Government published a response to its consultation into the organ donation system in England. It confirmed that under the proposed new system (commonly known as 'deemed consent' or 'opt out') everybody would be considered a potential organ donor unless they have added their details to the NHS Organ Donor Register to say that they do not wish to donate their organs or are in one of the excluded groups. It has been provisionally indicated that the system may be in place in April 2020.

A new option added to the NHS Organ Donor Register has been developed to give reassurance about how organ donation in England can go ahead in line with a person's faith or beliefs. People signing up to the NHS Organ Donor Register will now be asked an optional question about whether or not they want their faith or beliefs to be discussed with their family, or anyone else they consider appropriate, such as a faith leader.

Working with faith leaders and other organisations, NHS Blood and Transplant has developed a selection of downloadable faith and belief-specific donor cards so people can show their support for donation alongside their own faith or beliefs as well as share with family and friends. The cards can be found here: <https://www.nhsbt.nhs.uk/how-you-can-help/get-involved/download-digital-materials/faith-and-belief-donor-cards/>.

Information about organ donation and the position of individual faith and belief systems is at <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/about-donation/organ-donation-and-my-beliefs/>.

Cohesion and Integration

Cohesion and Integration are under discussion within a number of faith communities. The Free Churches Group recently commissioned an eighteen-month research project looking at the relationship between the Church and social cohesion in England. The project is being conducted by Theos, the UK's leading think tank on religion and society issues. <https://www.freechurches.org.uk/free-churches-commission/>

In March 2018 the Government published a Green Paper consulting on the Government's proposed Integrated Communities Strategy. The Paper set out a programme of actions to take across Government to deliver this vision at the local and national level. The Green Paper also set out a new localised approach to delivering policy. It said that this approach recognised that integration challenges are not uniform throughout the country so tailored local plans and interventions are needed to address the issues that are specific to a particular place. This local approach is being trialled initially in five Integration Areas: Blackburn with Darwen, Bradford, Peterborough, Walsall and Waltham Forest.

On 6 December, Blackburn with Darwen launched its Integration Strategy. Walsall Council launched its Strategy on 31 January. In both areas, there has been wide engagement with faith and inter faith bodies and initiatives as part of development of the plans and the Government's Faith Minister, Lord Bourne, spoke.

On 24 January a new Cohesion and Integration Network was profile at a special reception ahead of formal launch in Manchester later in the year. <https://cohesionintegration.net/news-events/>

Exit from the European Union

The period since the last e-bulletin has seen complicated and at times fractious debate within Parliament, within political parties and within society more widely about the process of exit from the European Union. There have been calls from within faith communities for unity and healing of division, for example by the General Synod of the Church of England in February.

At a meeting of the IFN Faith Communities Forum on 5 February, officials from the Department for Exiting the European Union (DExEU) and from the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG) talked about the EU Exit and faith communities.

DExEU has a website which makes available information about Exit:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/department-for-exiting-the-european-union>

An issue of particular concern for those communities with members from the European Union is their status post Exit. Information about the EU Settlement Scheme is at <https://www.gov.uk/settled-status-eu-citizens-families>. The UK and Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein have signed an agreement to protect the rights of citizens in each other's countries in the event that a withdrawal agreement is not reached with the EU.

Guidance for local authorities has been published by MHCLG. This guidance aims to provide local authorities with support on the ways in which they can understand, engage and reassure their communities in the lead up to and following EU exit as part of their work to build stronger, better integrated communities. It is part of the package of support being offered to local authorities. It stresses the importance of community engagement which it says “offers a means of building links with communities, challenging misconceptions and offering reassurance, including with vulnerable groups. In this way it can be an effective method to reduce any risks of community tensions and quickly addressing these should they occur.” The material includes detailed guidance in relation to potential tensions and hate crime.

Government’s Integrated Communities Action Plan

On 9 February, the UK Government published its Integrated Communities Action Plan. This contains a range of cross-government measures “to support the Government’s commitment to build strong integrated communities where people – whatever their background – live, work, learn and socialise together, based on shared rights, responsibilities and opportunities.” It builds upon the proposals set out in the Integrated Communities Strategy Green Paper and responses to the consultation. The plan has an England focus.

Hate Crime

In February a number of reports were issued which relate to hate crime. The Community Security Trust published its 2018 Antisemitic Incidents Report <https://cst.org.uk/data/file/2/9/Incidents%20Report%202018%20-%20web.1549538710.pdf> which recorded a further increase in such incidents; the All Party Parliamentary Group on Hate Crime its report ‘How can we build community cohesion when hate crime is on the rise?’ <http://www.appghatecrime.org/publications/>; and Hope Not Hate its report ‘State of Hate’ <https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/2019/02/17/state-hate-2019/>

Faith and inter faith bodies offer important support in contexts where there are, for example, attacks on places of worship or other faith community sites, such as cemeteries – as well as more widely. This assistance is both practical and an important witness to solidarity, as reflected in the publication Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities (IFN with the the Home Office, MHCLG, the Crown Prosecution Service, National Police Chiefs’ Council and National Fire Chiefs Council): <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2017> .

Christchurch terrorist attack and faith and inter faith responses

Around the UK, many faith and inter faith organisations have been among those who have responded through messages, statements vigils, services, prayers and times of silence to the 15 March terrorist attacks on two mosques in Christchurch, New Zealand. 50 people died and many more were injured.

A list of responses by IFN member faith and inter faith bodies can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/christchurch-mosque-attacks-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>.

On 15 March IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the attacks:

“Today's appalling terrorist attacks on two mosques in Christchurch New Zealand have been responded to here in the UK with prayers, condemnation and demonstrations of solidarity with the Muslim community, including at the Friday prayer.

As we said after the murderous attack on the Tree of Life Synagogue in Pittsburgh USA last year, attacks on churches, gurdwaras, mosques, temples and other places of worship of different faiths here and around the world are a reminder of the need to condemn extremist violence in the strongest terms and to stand together and to continue to work together with ever greater urgency against ignorance, prejudice and hatred.

Hatred targeting any community because of its faith and belief is a scourge that cannot be tolerated. There must be freedom to worship and practise our faith freely and without fear.”

A copy of this statement is also on the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/terrorist-attack-on-mosques-in-chistchurch-nz-statement>. IFN's Policy on the making of statements is at https://www.interfaith.org.uk/uploads/Policy\_on\_making\_of\_statements.pdf.

On 18 March IFN's Co-Chairs sent the following message to IFN member bodies:

“In the three days since the New Zealand terrorist attacks there have been a number of incidents in the UK, including an extreme right wing ‘terror attack’ in Surrey and extreme right wing graffiti on an Oxford school. This has been followed by news of an attack from a gunman in Utrecht in the Netherlands, thought at this time possibly to be a terrorist attack. Past statements from us and from the FCF Moderators make clear the condemnation of both extremist hate incidents and terrorist attacks.”

Friday’s statement by the Co-Chairs and Moderators can be seen at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/terrorist-attack-on-mosques-in-christchurch-nz-statement> and was also circulated by email under Circular 08/19. The office continues to put on the IFN website links to those statements made and vigils held by member bodies of which it is aware <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/christchurch-mosque-attacks-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>. Many vigils and meetings have been taking place around the UK. While it is important to take active steps to tackle hatred and attacks, these opportunities to come together are important in their own right.

The work of all IFN’s member bodies to build bridges, to encourage conversation, to stand in solidarity is very important at this time. Please do continue to keep the IFN office in touch with what you are doing.”

On 21 March five mosques in Birmingham were targeted in a string of attacks overnight and into the morning. A local man subsequently handed himself in to police and was detained under the Mental Health Act.

Places of worship security funding boost

On 19 March the Home Secretary announced an increase in the Places of Worship Fund to £1.6 million and announced a new £5 million fund to be opened to provide security training.

The Places of Worship Fund, established in 2016 as part of the Government’s Hate Crime Action Plan, provides financial support for physical protective security such as fencing, lighting and CCTV. To increase uptake in the Fund and ensure it reaches those most vulnerable to hate crime, the bidding process will be simplified. Organisations no longer have to prove they have previously experienced a hate crime incident directly.

Places of worship will also benefit from a new £5 million fund over 3 years to provide protective security training. The scheme is currently under development and is set to start delivering in 2019/2020.

Faith leaders joint call to respond to the DEC Cyclone Idai Appeal

UK faith leaders and the faith-based charities CAFOD, Christian Aid, Islamic Relief, Tearfund and World Vision UK, which are among 14 UK aid agency members of the Disasters Emergency Committee, have urged 'Christians, Muslims and people of other faiths and none' to support DEC's Cyclone Idai Appeal to help those affected.

Cyclone Idai swept through Mozambique, Malawi and Zimbabwe in March, killing at least 750 people and leaving 2.5 million people in need of help.

Facebook, white nationalism, separatism, and terrorist material

Facebook has said it will block 'praise, support and representation of white nationalism and separatism' on Facebook and Instagram from the beginning of April.

Meeting for National Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic Bodies

Among IFN's member bodies are inter faith organisations and programmes whose work is carried out at UK or national level or which, while regionally focused, are used by people across the country. They are important resources for people who want to get involved in inter faith activity. A number of these work primarily with particular religious traditions; others work with people of any religion or belief. Some of the organisations have a particular focus for their work, such as peace or education. (UK).

A meeting of these bodies was held on 4 March in London by IFN. On the agenda were: Communicating inter faith activity (with presentations by Ashley Beck, Inter Faith Development Officer, IFN, and Catriona Robertson, Director, Christian Muslim Forum); Issues of current interest and concern, including polarisation of political and communal narratives in the context of exit from the European Union and continued high levels of hate crime; Updates on the various bodies' current inter faith work; and Youth Inter Faith Engagement.

Day event for local inter faith practitioners

On 27 March IFN held a day event in Peterborough for local inter faith practitioners from inter faith groups across the UK to share their experiences, discuss issues of common interest and concern, and provide focused learning opportunities about practical aspects of developing successful inter faith programmes. This followed on from similar meetings held in Bradford, Bristol, Coventry, London, Manchester and Sheffield in recent years.

The day was chaired by Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chair of IFN. It opened with reflections on the importance of local inter faith organisations and local authorities working in partnership from Gillian Beasley, Chief Executive of Peterborough Council, with a response from Es Rosen, Co-Chair of the Barnet Multi Faith Forum. The morning also saw presentations about open door days, inter faith walks and ‘pilgrimages’ by Zahraa Ahmed of the Muslim Council of Britain reflecting on the Visit My Mosque Project, and Judith Bruni, Yogesh Joshi and Francoise Murphy of the Watford Interfaith Association focussing on the Association’s annual inter faith pilgrimage. Afternoon presentations followed on: local inter faith organisations using social media and messaging platforms and traditional media, Ashley Beck of IFN; response at both national and local level to terrorism and hate crime, the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson, Co-Chair at IFN and Bishop of Bedford , and Chris Turner, Policy Adviser, Faith, Race and Integration, MHCLG.

Discussion groups explored developing local inter faith organisation programmes with impact; open doors and faith trails: creating opportunities for inter faith learning; local inter faith groups connecting with young people (including through schools and colleges); dialogue amid division; making the case for the importance of local inter faith organisations’ work; and working in partnership with other organisations towards shared social goals.

Faith and the environment

In February, IFN highlighted on social media a range of different ways that faith communities in the UK, with others around the world, are working to combat climate change and on other environmental issues. See, for example, <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1096083884251533312>

The Faith for the Climate Network, an inter faith network of 130 faith-based organisations and individuals working on climate change, was among those which took part in the Climate Coalition's 'Share the Love' day on 14 February. Faith organisations are also members of the Coalition: <https://www.theclimatecoalition.org/faith-members>

For some IFN member bodies, such as the St Ethelburga's Centre for Reconciliation and Peace, with its Sacred Activist and Spiritual Ecology programmes, environmental issues are at the heart of their work. This is reflected in the stories in the recently published Generation Y, Spirituality and Social Change, edited by the Centre's Director, Dr Justine Huxley. A video about that can be seen at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MOe4Fua\_QKo.

At local level an example of inter faith engagement on environmental issues is Birmingham Council of Faiths's Footsteps (Faiths for a low carbon future) project <https://footstepsbcf.org.uk/> which is organising events to explore responses to the high carbon present, and take action towards a low carbon future.

Faith and inter faith responses to attacks in Sri Lanka and California

Many faith and inter faith organisations in the UK were among those who responded through messages, statements, vigils, services, prayers and times of silence to the 21 April Easter Day terrorist attacks in Sri Lanka. A list of responses by IFN member faith and inter faith bodies can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/sri-lanka-easter-day-terrorist-attacks-responses-by-faith-and-inter-faith-bodies>.

On 22 April IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the attacks:

“Following the barbaric Easter Day terrorist attacks on churches and other properties in Sri Lanka, many people in the UK have been coming together to express their condolences and stand in solidarity.

As we said after the terrorist attacks in Pittsburgh USA and Christchurch New Zealand – such attacks on places of worship are a reminder of the need to condemn extremist violence in the strongest terms and to stand together and to continue to work together with ever greater urgency against ignorance, prejudice and hatred. Hatred targeting any community because of its faith and belief is a scourge that cannot be tolerated. There must be freedom for all communities to worship and practise their faith freely and without fear.”

A copy of this statement is also on the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/standing-together-statement-following-easter-day-terrorist-attacks-in-sri-lanka>. IFN's Policy on the making of statements is at https://www.interfaith.org.uk/uploads/Policy\_on\_making\_of\_statements.pdf.

Following the attack on the Chabad of Poway Synagogue in California on 27 April, IFN's Co-Chairs sent a message to IFN member bodies repeating the points in the Sri Lanka statement and saying that their thoughts and prayers were with those killed and injured in the murderous attack.

A copy of this message is also on IFN's website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/message-from-the-co-chairs-responding-together-following-chabad-of-poway-at>.

Relevant in this context is Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities published by IFN in partnership with the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Police Chiefs' Council and the National Fire Chiefs' Council. It contains guidance on responding jointly to attacks on places of worship; working for calm at times of tension; and working to build on and strengthen existing good inter faith relations. It also contains material about how and where to report hate incidents, cyber-attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity; where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings; and where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally.

A useful short guide, Security for Places of Worship, is produced by the Community Security Trust and can be found at <https://cst.org.uk/publications/cst-publications>.

EHRC investigation into Antisemitism allegations and filing of complaint with EHRC about allegations of Islamophobia

On 28 May the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) launched an investigation into allegations of Antisemitism in The Labour Party, saying "We contacted The Labour Party after receiving a number of complaints about allegations of antisemitism in the Party. We have carefully considered the response we have received from the Party and have opened a formal investigation.” Once the investigation has finished the EHRC will publish a report of its findings, which may include recommendations. Further information, including the full Terms of Reference of the investigation, is at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/inquiries-and-investigations/investigation-labour-party>.

On the same day the Muslim Council of Britain filed a formal complaint to the EHRC about Islamophobia in the Conservative Party. An EHRC spokesperson said: “We have received complaints regarding the Conservative party and are considering them in line with our usual processes. As part of our standard process, we have written to the Conservative party to ask for information in order to help assess the complaints.” <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-48434202>

Government rejects APPG definition of Islamophobia

The Government has rejected the working definition of Islamophobia developed by the All Party Parliamentary Group on British Muslims, published in Autumn 2018, and has said that it will instead be appointing two advisers to examine the issue further. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-48283337> The House of Commons debated the definition on 16 May <https://hansard.parliament.uk/commons/2019-05-16/debates/CF834846-65CA-46CD-B955-CDEF42BAFB26/DefinitionOfIslamophobia>.

Faith Leader Training Initiative for England

In its Integrated Communities Action Plan the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government said that it would commission/develop training for faith leaders “to help those who do not have access to institutional support to better understand their rights and responsibilities and their shared values, as well as navigating the greater demands being placed on faith leaders by the changing and growing needs of congregations”.

The Faith Leader Training Initiative for England is now available. It is provided free of charge and is led by the Edward Cadbury Centre for the Public Understanding of Religion. The programme is described as suitable for anyone with leadership responsibilities in a faith community. It comprises four non-consecutive training days beginning in June in Manchester, Birmingham and London (with Leeds to follow in the Autumn). Alternatively, faith leaders can take the online version of course.

Consultation on Coronial Investigations of Stillbirths

The Ministry of Justice and Department of Health and Social Care are holding a public consultation on coronial investigations of stillbirths in England and Wales. Given the very sensitive nature of the issue, they would like to hear from a diverse range of individuals and communities.

The consultation closes on 18 June and is available at <https://consult.justice.gov.uk/digital-communications/coronial-investigations-of-stillbirths/>. Any queries can be emailed to CoronerReview@justice.gov.uk.

Windrush Day

CALLS FOR INFORMATION, COMPETITIONS, AND NOMINATIONS

Modest fashion in UK women's working life – Call for research participants

The University of the Arts, London, is leading on a project looking at how religiously-related modest fashion and associated behaviours impact on UK women's working lives – regardless of their own religious or secular community or beliefs. The research uses two comparative case studies: women who work for UK faith-based employers, such as faith-based schools, businesses, and charities; and women who work for secular UK employers whose work takes them to Saudi Arabia, where they need to adjust to religious codes of dress and gender segregation.

As part of the project, the research team is looking to interview in confidence people from a wide range of backgrounds, religions and beliefs, including non-religious:

- Women employed by secular companies and organisations in the UK who have worn an abaya (long outwear robe, sometimes with a headscarf) when their work took them to Saudi Arabia
- Women who have had experiences of adapting their dress when working for and with faith-based organisations (e.g. businesses, schools, charities and publicly-funded organisations with a religious ethos)
- HR professionals who have experience dealing with religiously related codes of modest dress and behaviour in the workplace

Future of Legal Gender: Interviews on implications of legal reform for religious communities

The Future of Legal Gender project, a three year research project funded by the Economic and Social Research Council and based at King's College London, would like to interview organisations or individuals who can help them explore the implications of gender-related

At this stage in the project, it is focusing on the implications of different gender-related reform options for religious communities, particularly those which cross-over with minority ethnic communities, and for faiths which, in orthodox form, distinguish between men and women in their religious and every day practice.

Further information on the project is available at <https://futureoflegalgender.kcl.ac.uk/>. Anyone willing to participate through an interview, or who would like to discuss this further, should email Robyn Emerton at robyn.emerton@kcl.ac.uk.

New Government

On 23 July, the Rt Hon Boris Johnson MP was elected leader of the Conservative Party and became Prime Minister the following day.

The Government department that has a central role in relation to faith and belief is the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG). The Rt Hon Robert Jenrick MP has become the new Secretary of State for Housing, Communities and Local Government.

Viscount Younger of Leckie was appointed Parliamentary Under Secretary of State at MHCLG and has taken on the role of Minister for Faith and Communities.

Lord Ahmad of Wimbledon has been reappointed as the Prime Minister's Special Envoy on Freedom of Religion or Belief. Global religious freedom issues are on the agenda of a number of UK faith communities and the focus of a dedicated All Party Parliamentary Group – the APPG for International Freedom of Religion or Belief.

Faith communities and refugees

In a letter of 26 July - supported by Safe Passage, the Refugee Council and the Red Cross - over 100 faith leaders wrote to Prime Minister Boris Johnson, asking him to commit his government to offering refugees a sanctuary in the UK:

http://safepassage.org.uk/news\_posts/faith-leaders-call-on-boris-johnson-to-welcome-refugees/

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2019/jul/26/faith-leaders-urge-boris-johnson-to-commit-to-offering-refugees-sanctuary>.

Faith communities continue, separately and together, to work nationally and locally to respond to the needs of refugees and asylum seekers, as do a number of local inter faith bodies.

Security of faith communities

Concerns continue about the safety and security of faith communities and their premises. Recent incidents in the news include vandal attacks on religious statues outside the Shree Ram Mandir in Walsall <https://metro.co.uk/2019/07/06/vandals-smash-religious-statues-outside-hindu-temple-10125136/>.

The Home Office has a Places of Worship (POW) Protective Security Funding scheme which provides funding for protective security measures for places of worship and associated faith community centres that are vulnerable to hate crime. The £1.6 million scheme will fund security measures including CCTV, alarms and improved locks at buildings vulnerable to attacks. Further information is in the Funding section below. There have been calls on the Scottish Government to operate a comparable scheme: <https://www.express.co.uk/news/uk/1158773/SNP-fund-protect-places-worship-security>.

Useful resources for faith communities include:

- Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of Our Faith Communities - published by the Inter Faith Network for the UK (IFN) in partnership with the then Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Police Chiefs' Council and the National Fire Chiefs' Council: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2017>

Antisemitism and Islamophobia

Government appointment of independent adviser on Antisemitism

On 23 July the Government announced that it had appointed John Mann MP as an independent adviser on Antisemitism. Mr Mann, who chairs the All Party Parliamentary Group Against Antisemitism, will be responsible for providing the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG) with independent advice on the most effective methods to tackle Antisemitism. He will collaborate with Lord Pickles, the UK's Special Envoy for Post-Holocaust Issues, and with Lord Ahmad of Wimbledon, the Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion and Belief, to ensure a consistent approach. Further information on the appointment is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/john-mann-appointed-as-independent-adviser-on-antisemitism>.

Government appointment of independent adviser for advice on definition of Islamophobia

The June issue of the e-bulletin noted that the Government had rejected the working definition of Islamophobia developed by the All Party Parliamentary Group on British Muslims, published in Autumn 2018, and had said that it would instead by appointing two advisers to examine the issue further. On 23 July the Government announced that it had appointed Imam Qari Asim MBE, Deputy Chair of the Anti-Muslim Hatred Working Group, to lead a process for establishing a definition of Islamophobia. He will be joined by a second adviser who is expected to be confirmed shortly. The new work will build on the definitions of Islamophobia currently under consideration, including the definition produced by the APPG on British Muslims. Further information on the appointment is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/independent-expert-appointed-to-tackle-islamophobia>.

These appointments come at a time when concern about hate crime, discrimination and prejudice in relation to many religion and belief groups is high, including in the context of 'mistaken identity'. The January-June 2019 Antisemitic Incidents Report published by the CST on 1 August records the highest number of incidents CST has ever recorded in the January to June period of any year: 892. This is a 10% cent increase on the 810 incidents recorded by CST during the same period in 2018 (which was itself a record high for that six month period, and formed part of a record annual total of 1,688 Antisemitic incidents for the whole of 2018).

'Faith-based bigotry' and sport and inter faith understanding

According to a report in The Telegraph reports of Antisemitism, Islamophobia and other faith-based bigotry in professional and grassroots football increased by 75 per cent from the previous year, according to the latest Kick it Out statistics.

<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/football/2019/07/24/incidents-racism-football-double-just-five-years-kick-chief/>

At the same time, there is an increasing focus on the power of sport to encourage understanding and cooperation between people of different backgrounds. This was illustrated in coverage of the Cricket World Cup and the diversity and team spirit of the England team - <https://www.theguardian.com/sport/2019/jul/15/diversity-strength-england-win-cricket-world-cup> - as it has been in events such as those of Spirit of 2012's Breaking Boundaries programme, exemplified by events such as a festival on 31 July in Slough opened by Monty Panessar - <https://twitter.com/aiksaath?lang=en>.

Equality and Human Rights Commission updates

Access to legal aid for discrimination cases

In June the EHRC published the report of its inquiry into whether legal aid enables victims of discrimination in England and Wales to get justice. This included whether some individuals experience specific difficulties in accessing legal aid because of a protected characteristic, such as religion or belief. The full inquiry report and the two supporting research reports are available at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/publication-download/access-legal-aid-discrimination-cases>.

Business Plan

The Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) has published its 2019/20 Business Plan which covers the first year of its new three-year Strategic Plan. Its priorities include: equal access to the labour market and fair treatment at work; inclusion in public transport; access to justice; equality and human rights in the education system; institutions respecting equality and human rights standards.

2021 Census

As noted in previous e-bulletins, in December, the Government published its White Paper outlining the recommendations for the 2021 Census. The Census (Return Particulars and Removal of Penalties) Bill, to amend the Census Act 1920, had its first reading in the House of Lords on 1 May and its second reading on 17 July.

Some groups within the Sikh community have been lobbying for there to be a separate tick box for 'Sikh' in the ethnic group category. Other groups within the Sikh community have been arguing against this. The Office for National Statistics has said that there are no plans for a separate tick box in the ethnic group category; there will continue to be a tick box in the religion category.

In July the Jain community, through OneJain, represented by the Institute of Jainology, submitted a petition to Downing Street, requesting that there be a separate tick box for the Jain community in the religion category.

Relationships and Sex Education guidance

The Government published on 25 June 2019 ‘Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education’, statutory guidance for governing bodies, proprietors, head teachers, principals, senior leadership teams, teachers. It can be found at; <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/relationships-education-relationships-and-sex-education-rse-and-health-education>.

The curriculum becomes mandatory for all maintained schools in England, including Academies and Free Schools, from September 2020. Schools, though, are being encouraged by Government to adopt it from this September. If doing so, however, they will still need to meet the current Sex and Relationship Education statutory guidance.

Sex and Relationship Education has been a focus of protests at a school in Birmingham, linked to the use of the ‘No Outsiders’ programme, as reported widely in the media.

On 16 July a joint meeting of the All Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on Religious Education and the APPG on Faith and Society explored the issue of ‘Compliance, Assessment and Enforcement: Promoting Positive Outcomes in Religious Education and Relationships and Sex Education’. The meeting was attended by the Minister of State for School Standards, Nick Gibb MP, who has been overseeing the development of the guidance. The meeting highlighted the work of Newham SACRE, which has looked at the issue of faith communities and the response to the new guidance.

Faith communities responding to climate change

A wide range of faith community bodies and faith based organisations joined the ‘The Time Is Now’ mass lobby against climate change in Westminster on 26 June organised by the Climate Coalition and Greener UK. A number of faith leaders then led the ‘Walk of Witness’ from the National Gallery down Whitehall.

Many of the faith bodies are part of the Climate Coalition and/or Faith for the Climate: <https://www.faithfortheclimate.org.uk>

Environmental issues are increasingly at the forefront of faith community agendas and places of worship are also taking them up. For example on 7 July synagogues across the country celebrated the first Green Shabbat, organised by Eco Synagogue.

MHCLG's vision for stronger communities

On 20 July, the Government published 'By deeds and their results: how we will strengthen our communities and nation'. The document sets out the Ministry of Housing Communities and Local Government's vision for "stronger communities, why communities matter, what strong communities look like, and what government and partners can do to support their creation". It sets out the 4 pillars which will shape the Ministry's work across Government, focused on supporting: trust, connectedness and local pride; active citizenship and local control; shared community spaces; and shared prosperity, with no community left behind.

The Human Tissue Authority (HTA) has launched a consultation on the changes proposed to the Code of Practice for organ donation and transplant professionals in England. The HTA has engaged with representatives from faith and cultural organisations, as well as professionals working in this area of healthcare to revise the Code, to bring it in line with the Human Tissue Act 2004, which was amended as a result of the Organ Donation (Deemed Consent) Act 2019. The consultation is asking for views on the draft version of the Code and will run for 12 weeks, closing on 26 September. ## INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Muslim Christian refugee partnership

Mosques in North East London have partnered with churches and Christian groups to sponsor a Syrian refugee family who will be starting their new life in the UK. The Redbridge Community Sponsorship project is a partnership between South Woodford Mosque, Balfour Road Mosque, Ilford Methodist Church, Ilford Salvation Army, St Thomas of Canterbury RC Church and Wanstead Quakers. A group of residents and faith communities, with the support of Redbridge Council and Citizen UK's Sponsor Refugees project, developed a detailed Community Sponsorship plan outlining how they will support the family and fundraised £9,000 to help cover the family's expenses for an initial 18-month period. For more information about the Redbridge Community Sponsorship project, visit <https://www.facebook.com/RedbridgeSponsorRefugees>.

The Community Sponsorship scheme was launched by the government in 2016, allowing groups of UK residents the opportunity to take the lead in welcoming a refugee family. ### Research England survey on funding

Research England distributes funding to universities based on their research performance. This is known as Quality-related Research, or QR funding. To support its commitment to improving equality, diversity and inclusion, it undertakes Equality Impact Assessments (EIAs) of its functions and policy. It is currently undertaking an EIA of its QR and formula research capital funding.

The EIA will look at the impact of our funding not only on staff at universities but also at the research it supports and the potential beneficiaries of research. To do this, it is gathering views and evidence from groups of people with protected characteristics, including religion and belief, who might benefit from research and may therefore be affected by its funding decisions.

The online survey can be found at <https://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/ResearchEnglandEIA/>. Further information can be found in the survey guidance and in the EIA background document, which sets out how it allocates our funding. This information will be important to take into consideration when responding to the survey.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Places of Worship – Security funding scheme

The Places of Worship Fund, established in 2016 as part of the Government's Hate Crime Action Plan, provides financial support for physical protective security such as fencing, lighting and CCTV. The Government at that time committed funding of £2.4 million over 3 years. A further £1.6 million was announced after the New Zealand mosque attacks.

Organisations no longer have to prove, in order to be eligible, that they have previously experienced a hate crime incident directly. For more information, visit <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/places-of-worship-security-funding-scheme>. The closing date for the current round of funding applications is 31 August.

There is also a separate £5 million fund being made available over 3 years to provide protective security training to build on some of the positive work already happening in communities. The Home Office will be working closely with communities and faith leaders to develop this new scheme. Successful programmes for activity in England will need to demonstrate how they will help contribute to awareness and understanding of the new opt-out system in England. They should also address myths and barriers and increase support for organ donation among the target audience(s) of their project. Funding is available for projects in England and/or Wales. In Wales it is funded by the Welsh Government and the Department of Health and Social Care. Organisations applying for funds can apply for one of two options: funds up to £2,499 or between £2,500 and £10,000. The deadline for applications is 1 September. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Faith Communities and Exiting the EU

On 23 June 2016 a referendum took place where a majority of voters voted for the UK to leave the European Union. The UK was originally scheduled to leave the EU on 29 March 2019. The date has been delayed twice. The ‘Benn Act’ ( European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 2) Act 2019 for which Royal Assent was received on 9 September) requires the Prime Minister to seek a further extension to the withdrawal date if a withdrawal agreement has not been agreed with the EU, and approved by the House of Commons, by 19 October. There is an exception to that which is if MPs vote for a no-deal Exit. The position of Prime Minister Boris Johnson continues to be that the UK must leave on 31 October.

The Supreme Court’s judgment on 24 September that the Prime Minister’s decision to prorogue Parliament was unlawful rendered the prorogation null, and the Parliamentary session has resumed. This, together with the possibility of a General Election in the near future, are among the additional factors which render the actual date of EU exit unpredictable and planning for it the more complex. However, talks between UK Government officials continue and so, too, does planning by Government – both for deal and no-deal Exit scenarios. On 3 October the Prime Minister set out his proposals for a Brexit deal in Parliament.

Faith communities have a role to play in the time of transition, helping to bridge divides, and there may also be an impact on them. These issues were discussed at the recent meeting of IFN’s Faith Communities Forum (see below).

A group of business executives, faith leaders and charities have met to discuss a new grassroots campaign to help bring communities back together.

Political Parties and Moderation of language

The Speaker of the House of Commons, Rt Hon John Bercow MP, summoned party leaders to an emergency meeting on 30 September about the growing use of inflammatory language in Westminster, amid concerns that MPs are facing an increasing safety risk. During the meeting at the Speaker's House in Parliament, a statement was drawn up about the responsibility of leaders "to try to use moderate language". The pledge was signed by Mark Spencer, the government chief whip, on behalf of the Prime Minister, and by the Leader of the Opposition, Rt Hon Jeremy Corbyn MP as well as signatories for other parties and the Speaker himself. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-49884047>.

The Jo Cox Foundation has called on all political parties to agree to a code of conduct to help protect MPs, and is working with the Committee on Standards in Public Life (CSPL) to develop a Joint Standard of Conduct to help protect election candidates.

A joint statement issued on behalf of the Church of England's College of Bishops called for a new tone of listening and respect in debates.

<https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/news/bishops-call-respect-all-sides-amid-brexit-debate>

A little over a year ago, IFN's Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators issued a statement on 'Political Parties – Modelling Respectful Engagement'. A copy of this can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/political-parties-modelling-respectful-engagement-statement>. That statement was made in a context of continuing concerns about Antisemitism and Islamophobia and about extremism and hate incidents which have affected, among others, a number of faith communities.

Government funding to tackle online Antisemitism

Communities Secretary Rt Hon Robert Jenrick MP announced on 15 September that the Government is to provide £100,000 of funding to tackle online Antisemitism. Mr Jenrick said “This funding will support the Antisemitism Policy Trust’s ongoing work to tackle the spread of antisemitic tropes online and challenge harmful narratives about the Jewish community.” <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/communities-secretary-commits-funding-to-tackle-online-hate>

Safeguarding in Faith Settings

The All-Party Parliamentary Group on Safeguarding in Faith Settings has been gathering evidence for its second Inquiry, which will focus on whether there should be a change in legislation relating to ‘Positions of Trust’ within faith settings. Under the current legislation, it is illegal for groups of professionals such as teachers, care workers and youth justice staff to be involved in sexual activity with a 16 or 17-year-old under their supervision. However, other adults who hold similar positions of power within settings such as faith and religious organisations and sports teams are not covered by the provisions.

The next evidence session will be in the Houses of Parliament on 22 October and the report on their findings is due to be published in November. Further information is at <https://thirtyoneeight.org/news-and-events/appg/appg-2018/appg-launches-new-inquiry/>.

NATRE report on Religious Education in English Secondary Schools

In September the National Association of Teachers of Religious Education (NATRE) published its 2019 report outlining trends in secondary Religious Education in schools funded by the state in England. <https://www.natre.org.uk/news/latest-news/number-of-schools-flouting-religious-education-laws-rises/> An infographic highlighting the key issues from the survey, undertaken in May/June this year, can be found at <https://www.natre.org.uk/news/latest-news/number-of-schools-flouting-religious-education-laws-rises/>.

Special Envoy on Freedom of Religion or Belief

On 12 September the Prime Minister appointed Rehman Chishti MP as his new Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion or Belief. Mr Chishti’s role, based in the Foreign Office, will be to “bring together efforts across the UK Government, with faith actors and civil society to promote the UK’s firm stance on religious tolerance abroad”. ### Anglican Inter Faith Commission hosted in Wales

Wales' First Minister, Mark Drakeford, and the Archbishop of Wales, the Most Revd John Davies, were among those speaking at a meeting of the Anglican Inter Faith Commission in Wales on 9 September. The event, which was held at Cardiff's Pierhead building, was chaired by the Archbishop of Dublin, the Most Revd Dr Michael Jackson, and attended by inter faith specialists from Anglican churches in Europe and North America and also representatives from other faiths and church denominations.

The event was an opportunity to hear about the Welsh Government's work with faith communities; and also the relationship that faith groups in Wales have with the Government and with each other. There were also presentations from the Vice-Chair of the Inter-faith Council for Wales, Julie Jones; the Revd Dean Atkins, Chair of South Cardiff Interfaith Network; and the Revd Canon Aled Edwards, Chief Executive of Cytûn, Churches Together in Wales. For further information, see <https://www.churchinwales.org.uk/news/2019/09/wales-hosts-interfaith-commission>.

Faith communities and climate change

Faith communities and inter faith groups continue to work on climate change issues. Across the last month there has been increasing inter faith engagement involving the Faith for the Climate Network and its members, the Climate Coalition, faith communities, and initiatives such as Faiths4Change and the Birmingham Council of Faiths Footsteps programme. A number of faith communities and inter faith bodies held activities linked to the Climate Strike on 27 September.

Extinction Rebellion has called a second 'international week of rebellion' starting on 7 October. Faith for the Climate report that a number of people of faith will come together to occupy and hold Lambeth Bridge from 7 – 19 October as a Faith Bridge, with activity including daily Christian prayer and eucharists, the Muslim call to prayer, Buddhist meditation, Quaker meeting for worship, and Jewish teaching in a succah, along with inter faith prayer flag making, candlelit vigils, talks, and moments to mark Yom Kippur, and the birthdays of Gandhi and Thich Nhat Hanh.

Community Resilience framework and guidance

Faith communities are often at the forefront of volunteering and offering assistance in emergencies. This support is invaluable because community networks and expertise can reduce the demand on emergency responder resources and enable more effective targeted help to be provided to the most vulnerable. On 3 September the Government published two documents on Community Resilience: Community Resilience Development Framework and guidance on Planning the coordination of spontaneous volunteers in emergencies.

The documents, which have been produced in consultation with emergency responders, Government departments and voluntary sector organisations can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/community-resilience-development-framework> and <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/planning-the-coordination-of-spontaneous-volunteers>.

Welsh Government consultation on RE and Relationships and Sexuality Education in the curriculum

On 3 October the Welsh Government launched a consultation seeking views on plans to ensure that all children have access to the full curriculum including Religious Education and Relationships and Sexuality Education. Education Minister Kirsty Williams has said that she is “minded to ensure all children and young people are required to study RE and RSE in the new curriculum” as opposed to the current practice where parents can prevent their children from attending RE and RSE lessons.

The 8-week consultation will gather a broad range of views from parents, learners and interested groups across Wales before a final decision is taken.

Explaining the proposed change, Ms Williams said: “Pupils will explore the range of spiritual, philosophical, moral, social and cultural beliefs within their community, across Wales, and throughout the world. ‘Religions and Worldviews’ better reflects teaching practice within the new curriculum, and allows for the exploration of a range of religious and philosophical beliefs, as well as other beliefs and world views, including non-religious world views.”

The consultation runs until 28 November. For more information, visit <https://gov.wales/welsh-government-working-teachers-parents-and-students-ensure-learners-have-access-broad-and>.

Response to mosque attack in Oslo

On 10 August there was an attack at the Al-Noor Islamic Centre in Oslo. IFN's Co-Chairs posted the following message on Facebook and Twitter the following day:

‘Our thoughts are with those affected by the attack at the mosque at the Al-Noor Islamic Centre in Oslo this weekend, just ahead of Eid Al-Adha. Statements of IFN's Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators following recent attacks on places of worship have spoken of "the need to condemn extremist violence in the strongest terms and to stand together and to continue to work together with ever greater urgency against ignorance, prejudice and hatred" and have said that "Hatred targeting any community because of its faith and belief is a scourge that cannot be tolerated. There must be freedom for all communities to worship and practise their faith freely and without fear.”

IFN Co-Chairs Jatinder Singh Birdi and Rt Revd Jonathan Clark

Marking the 150th Anniversary of Gandhi's birth

2 October was the 150th anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi's birth. It is being marked in the UK in a number of ways. These include the unveiling of a new statue in Ayr and a 'Planting for Peace' tree-planting project to create an Ahimsa Peace Forest and Peace Garden in Kenton, Harrow. <https://www.ayrshiredailynews.co.uk/post/statue-of-gandhi-unveiled-at-ayr-town-hall>

The tree planting project was initiated by Shrimad Rajchandra Mission Dharampur (SRMD) and is being taken forward by member bodies of OneJAIN. It is supported by the India High Commission and Harrow Council. The first phase will involve the planting of 1,500 trees in November and the second phase will be the creation of Peace Garden commencing next spring. The project hopes that community groups, faith groups and inter faith groups across the UK will take part by planting peace trees across the country. It notes that November to March is the best time to plant many types of trees so Inter Faith Week (10 – 17 November) and National Tree Week (23 November - 1 December) are good times to get involved. <https://www.plantingforpeace.org/>

General Election and faith communities

The General Election on 12 December saw the Conservative Party gain a significant parliamentary majority, with just under 44% of the popular vote. It will therefore form the new UK Government.

The vote followed an election period during which faith community organisations held hustings, and in some cases produced manifestos and/or guidance on the election for members of their faith communities. Local inter faith organisations in a number of areas were also involved in holding hustings. Nearly all of the major parties included in their manifestos commitments relating to religion and belief. A digest can be seen at:

<https://religionmediacentre.org.uk/factsheets/faith-manifestos/>

In some instances, members of particular communities were urged not to vote for certain parties. For example, some Hindus were urged not to vote for the Labour Party following the passing of a conference floor motion criticising India's actions in Kashmir at its party conference in September <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/election-2019-50382791>. Ephraim

Mirvis, Chief Rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the Commonwealth, wrote in The Times criticising the Labour Party over its record on Antisemitism and urging people to “vote with their conscience” <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/election-2019-50552068>. There were also campaigns through messaging apps to encourage particular faith groups to vote in a particular direction.

The Muslim Council of Britain reiterated, in the context of the run up to the General Election, its concerns about Islamophobia within the Conservative Party <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/election-2019-50561043> and, following the announcement of the election result, issued a press release in which it referred to “a palpable sense of fear amongst Muslim communities” and called for renewed “efforts to heal the country and bring communities together” <https://mcb.org.uk/press-releases/mcb-responds-to-general-election-result/>

Exiting the EU – the important role of faith communities

A note, ‘Exiting the EU – the important role of faith communities at a time of transition’ was circulated to member bodies and put up on IFN’s website on 31 October. It highlights faith communities’ trusted role in signposting information and as providers of community support and their vital work to unite communities, promote good relations and tackle hatred.

The note was developed by the IFN office in the light of discussion earlier that month at IFN’s Faith Communities Forum (FCF) meeting and subsequent correspondence with FCF members. The Department for Exiting the EU and the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government were also consulted in the development of the note.

The note can be found on IFN’s website at:

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/leaving-the-eu-the-important-role-of-faith-communities-at-a-time-of-transition>.

London Bridge terrorist attack

On 29 November two people were murdered and a number of others injured in a terrorist stabbing attack at London Bridge by a convicted terrorist out on licence.

Faith and inter faith organisations in the UK responded through messages, statements and prayers. On 1 December IFN's Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the following statement in response to the attack:

“Our thoughts and prayers are with all affected by the terrorist stabbing attack at London Bridge on Friday afternoon in which two were killed by the attacker and several injured.

We condemn, in the strongest terms, terrorism and the extremist ideologies that underpin it and we call on all to stand together and speak out in the strongest terms against them.

With each terrorist attack in recent years, there has been horror and anger at the atrocity; condemnation; prayers and sympathies for those killed or injured; admiration for courage and resilience displayed; and a call to ‘stand together’. And where terrorists or extremists have drawn selectively on religious writings and history, there has been disavowal by faith communities of this evil twisting of elements of their traditions into distorted and dangerous forms to justify the unjustifiable.

It is a matter of profound sadness and concern that voices of faith communities have to be heard again and again in the context of responses to terrorist attacks and also hate crime. There are so many important social justice issues on which their voices need to be heard as well as broader issues such about how we live together well as people of different faiths and beliefs in the UK.

Yet we cannot remain silent in the face of terrible actions, with their impacts both on those directly affected and on our society more generally. We end, as we began, with thoughts and prayers for those killed, injured, bereaved and otherwise affected by the attack on Friday and a call to all to stand together in the face of terrorism and to speak out in the strongest terms against it and against the extremist ideologies that underpin it.”

A copy of this statement is also on the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-following-attack-at-london-bridge>.

IFN's Policy on the making of statements is at https://www.interfaith.org.uk/uploads/Policy\_on\_making\_of\_statements.pdf.

Relevant in this context is *Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities*, published by IFN in partnership with the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government, Home Office, Crown Prosecution Service, National Police Chiefs' Council and National Fire Chiefs' Council. It contains guidance on responding jointly to attacks on places of worship; working for calm at times of tension; and working to build on and strengthen existing good inter faith relations. It also contains material about how and where to report hate incidents, cyber-attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity; where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings; and where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally.

Preventing and responding to terrorist attacks

There is a Government website for anyone affected by terrorist attacks: <https://victimsofterrorism.campaign.gov.uk/>. This contains information on where to seek advice and assistance following a terrorist attack. It also provides details of official helplines and support services available to victims, survivors, witnesses, family members, and all those affected.

This month, Counter Terrorism Policing made available free online training for the public on how to react to a terrorism incident. Called ACT Awareness, the training comprises seven modules and takes 45 minutes to complete. Counter Terrorism Policing is inviting people to take the course and become so-called ‘CT Citizens’.

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-50708637>

Another useful resource is the National Counter Terrorism Security Office’s Crowded Places Guidance, which is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/crowded-places-guidance>.

Religiously motivated hate crime

In October the Home Office published Hate Crime, England and Wales, 2018/19, containing statistics about hate crime offences recorded by the police in England and Wales from April 2018 to March 2019: <https://www.gov.uk/government/statistics/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2018-to-2019> There were 103,379 hate crimes recorded in England and Wales in 2018-19, with increases seen in all categories. 47% of attacks were targeted at Muslims and 18% at Jews (a doubling of anti-Semitic attacks since the previous year).

Sikhs and Hindus continue to raise concerns about hate crimes affecting their communities. See, for example, <http://www.thesikhnetwork.com/wp-content/uploads/2019/11/The-Sikh-Manifesto-2020-2025.pdf>

The Guardian reports that a survey of faith and community groups by Citizens UK suggested that the Home Office figures potentially showed only the tip of the iceberg, after seven in 10 participants said they never reported hate crimes to the police.

<https://www.theguardian.com/society/2019/oct/15/hate-crimes-double-england-wales>

During November there were reports of religiously motivated hate crime in a number of areas, including Antisemitic incidents in Brighton and Canvey Island and a report of a serious attack on a rabbi in London. <https://jewishnews.timesofisrael.com/red-substance-daubed-on-brighton-synagogue/> <https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-7670697/Swastikas-anti-Semitic-graffiti-Remembrance-Sunday-Canvey-Island-Essex.html> <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2019/dec/04/police-release-cctv-footage-of-attack-on-rabbi-in-north-london>

The vulnerability of communities and individuals in the face of hate and prejudice was underlined at the No2H8 Crime Awards on 7 November, as was the vital importance of being an 'upstander'. <https://no2h8crimeawards.org/>

MHCLG Faith Engagement Adviser appointed

In October it was announced that Colin Bloom has been appointed as Faith Engagement Adviser at the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government. He will “make recommendations to the Communities Secretary about how the government can best celebrate and support the contribution of faith groups, break down barriers and promote acceptance between faiths, and promote shared values while tackling cultures and practices that are harmful.”

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/faith-engagement-adviser-appointed>

Back to the top

Church of England teaching document on Christian-Jewish relations

In November, the Faith and Order Commission of the Church of England published a teaching document on Christian-Jewish relations entitled ‘God’s unfailing word’. The document encourages Christians to rediscover the relationship of “unique significance” between the two faiths, worshipping one God, with scriptures shared in common. It speaks of attitudes towards Judaism over many centuries as providing a “fertile seed-bed for murderous antisemitism”.

<https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/news/church-england-teaching-document-calls-repentance-over-role-christians>

The Council of Christians and Jews has welcomed the document. A copy of its statement is at <http://www.ccj.org.uk/ccj-statement-on-gods-unfailing-word/>.

550th Birth Anniversary of Guru Nanak

The 550th birth anniversary of Guru Nanak was marked in gurdwaras and many other places around the UK during November. A number of these had an inter faith dimension, for example a celebration at London's City Hall led by City Sikhs; an event at Bradford Cathedral where the Bishop of Bradford, Rt Revd Dr Toby Howarth, welcomed speaker Lord Singh of Wimbledon; and the unveiling at Glasgow Gurdwara of tapestries created by a multi faith team of volunteers (about which see more below).

The official anniversary date, 12 November, happened to be during national Inter Faith Week this year and so a number of activities marked both occasions, for example a visit by a Board of Deputies of British Jews delegation, led by Vice-President Edwin Shuker, to the Khalsa Jatha Central Gurdwara in London.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Come Together Appeal

On 3 December the Inter Faith Network for the UK launched the 'Come Together Appeal'.

In these often divided times, it is vital for people to stand together against prejudice and hatred and to come together in respect, understanding and cooperation for the common good. www.interfaith.org.uk/news/appeal

The Inter Faith Network works in many different ways to support the development of greater inter faith understanding and cooperation and to enable people to come together.

On behalf of the Board of IFN, Co-Chairs Jatinder Singh Birdi and Bishop Jonathan Clark encourage all readers to consider a donation to support IFN's vital work. Every gift will be carefully used to make a real difference.

Inter Faith Week 2019

Inter Faith Week took place from 10 to 17 November. 750+ activities are known to have taken place across England, Northern Ireland and Wales – and details of further events continue to come in. Many thousands of people from different backgrounds and of all ages took part.

Churches, gurdwaras, mandirs, mosques, synagogues, temples, viharas, schools, colleges and universities, sports grounds, parks, council chambers, museums, galleries, libraries, community centres, hospitals, hospices, workplaces and online platforms were the locations of an amazing range of activities. These included celebrations; faith trails; cultural activities; dialogues; volunteering to help local communities; Remembrance events; conferences and talks; tree plantings and litter picks; classroom activities; theatre productions; poetry readings; food festivals; sports tournaments; events linked to both the Week and Mitzvah Day (17 November) and more. The environment and the climate crisis featured strongly.

During the Week, Inter Faith Network staff and a number of Trustees and Faith Communities Forum Moderators visited and spoke at events around England, Northern Ireland and Wales.

The Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network, Jatinder Singh Birdi and Bishop Jonathan Clark said:

“This has been a fantastic Week. It has showcased the contribution faith communities make to society, helped increase inter faith understanding and sparked new conversations. We have been delighted to see so many local initiatives and also many organisations getting involved for the first time.

At this time so often characterised by division, it has been very good to witness people coming together in such a positive way. There are key values that we share and Inter Faith Week provides a chance to envision ways that we can all draw on them to strengthen our common life and to work together to address such issues as climate change, homelessness, and hate crime”.

The end of Week press release can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/news/press-release-inter-faith-week-2019>

IFN Inter Faith Week linked blog and resources for primary age pupils

This year, IFN topped and tailed the Week with two resources to help primary school age children. It collaborated with anti-bullying charity Kidscape to provide a special blog for 'Friendship Friday' (FF) on the Friday immediately before the Week. This year the theme for FF was about people finding ways to be kinder and friendlier. Kidscape invited IFN's Executive Director to write a blog for parents and carers of primary age children to share some pointers about the importance of faith and belief; encouraging respectful inter faith engagement; and working to prevent faith and belief-linked bullying. The blog was highlighted by both organisations during the Week, and widely circulated. It can be seen at www.interfaithweek.org/news/inter-faith-week-and-friendship-friday.

Toward the end of the Week, IFN launched its resource for primary schools, about which more information appears below.

Feedback sought

The Inter Faith Network, which leads on Inter Faith Week, develops the Week further each year as an increasingly valuable platform for building inter faith understanding and cooperation and religious literacy. To do that, it is very much helped by people who have held or attended events completing and submitting a survey telling us about their experiences and views.

The wider the range of responses, the more IFN is able to learn and develop the Week in the future. This year's survey can be found at: <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/feedback>. If you took part in the Week, please do take 10 minutes to respond! Thank you.

IFN also welcomes photos taken at events, drawing on these for reporting, publications and social media. You can upload photos at <https://dropevent.com/gallery/IFW19> or email them to ashley.beck@interfaith.org.uk.

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Interfaith Week also took place between 10-17 November, and its theme this year was 'Eat Share Love'. Further information about the many activities that took place to mark it can be found at www.scottishinterfaithweek.org or by contacting Interfaith Scotland, which leads on the Week.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Faiths working to support the homeless

Faith community leaders in a number of cities supported the World's Big Sleep Out which took place across the globe on 7 December <https://www.bigsleepout.com/>. In London's Trafalgar Square a multi faith delegation organised by Faiths Forum for London took part.

Many places of worship are opening their doors to provide warm and safe shelter to homeless guests during the coldest months of the year. Some schemes are single faith led, for example that of Church groups in Southend https://www.southend.gov.uk/news/article/1807/southend\_churches\_winter\_night\_shelters\_to\_open\_2\_december Others are multi faith, for example the One Roof Winter Night Shelter project (Leicester) which will again see seven different faith venues providing, in rotation, shelter, food and companionship <https://www.oneroof.org.uk/our-work/about-the-winter-shelter/> and Basildon Emergency Night Shelter, which is run by five different faith groups in seven locations <https://www.basildon.gov.uk/article/7768/In-the-news-Basildon-night-shelter-set-to-open-for-winter>.

In some areas, groups are working to provide food - for example, Northampton Inter Faith Forum collaborated with the Hope Centre earlier this month to provide and serve food to the guests of that community charity.

A number of other faith groups run programmes throughout the year to offer support to the homeless. For instance, volunteers from the Sikh community have helped hundreds of homeless people through the Midland Langar Seva Society (MLSS) by offering hot food, drinks and company every week <https://www.coventrytelegraph.net/news/local-news/how-friday-night-food-drop-17300369>. A similar facility is offered by Who Is Hussain, a Muslim charity that hosts weekly food drives for the homeless. They also offer free haircuts, free CV workshops in conjunction with local charities to help find employment, and distribute care packages such as hygiene kits and winter essentials <https://whoishussain.org/>.

Faith communities also work for housing justice through their ongoing social welfare work.

Online faith map of Wolverhampton

An online faith map of Wolverhampton has been created by Wolverhampton Voluntary Sector Council and Interfaith Wolverhampton - bit.ly/wtonfaithmap. It features more than 250 faith groups and its purpose is to highlight the rich diversity of faith groups worshipping in, and serving local communities. It evolved from work with local faith groups that was initiated, supported and funded by Wolverhampton Safeguarding Boards.

Glasgow gurdwara multi faith tapestry for peace

In November, as part of Scottish Interfaith Week, the Glasgow Gurdwara unveiled the city's first ever multi faith tapestries. The three ceiling-to-floor hand-stitched tapestries depict the three principles of the Sikh faith – pray, work, share. They were unveiled in as part of the celebrations of the 550th anniversary of the birth of Guru Nanak, and will later be toured around different venues in the UK. The Tapestry Project was founded by Manjit Kaur Jheeta, 65 from Pollokshields, who along with Paula Hope, a 52 year old Art Teacher, led a volunteer group of 90 women from different faiths and communities to weave the tapestries over 18 months. <https://www.eveningtimes.co.uk/news/18060070.multi-faith-tapestry-peace-created-glasgow-gurdwara/>

Learning About Religions through Dialogue Programme

The Learning About Religions through Dialogue programme is a research project funded by All Saints Educational Trust that links faith practitioners with schools where the practitioner's religion is not represented in the school. Faith practitioners and teachers receive training as part of their involvement with the project. Training for faith practitioners was provided by St Philip's Centre, Leicester; training for teachers was led by Bishop Grosseteste University, Lincoln.

The main purpose of the programme is for staff and pupils to be able to learn about the person's religion and culture. It is predicated on the assumption, which will be tested through the research process, that the best way to learn about a religious tradition is by meeting someone from that tradition in the context of dialogue. Currently, there are six Lincolnshire schools involved in the project - three primary and three secondary.

The research will be evaluated in June 2020 and the results published. Further research is planned if the project is successful and there may be an opportunity for a funded PhD at Bishop Grosseteste University.

Further information can be found at <https://www.bishopg.ac.uk/bgu-team-win-15000-grant-to-support-new-re-learning-initiative/>.

FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Exiting the EU – the important role of faith communities

On 31 January the UK left the European Union.

For Government information relating to EU Exit, see <https://www.gov.uk/transition>. A useful short overview of what will change at this time and what will stay the same can be found at <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-51194363>.

An IFN briefing note, ‘Exiting the EU – the important role of faith communities at a time of transition’ highlights faith communities’ trusted role in signposting information and as providers of community support and their vital work to unite communities, promote good relations and tackle hatred. The note, originally published on 31 October, was developed by the IFN office in the light of discussion by IFN’s Faith Communities Forum (FCF) and subsequent correspondence with FCF members. The Department for Exiting the EU (now closed) and the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government were also consulted in the development of the note. It was recirculated and shared on social media on 31 January. It can be found on IFN’s website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/leaving-the-eu-the-important-role-of-faith-communities-at-a-time-of-transition>.

As well as Government sources of information and support, there are a number of organisations and initiatives working to campaign for/and or support particular groups, such as <https://www.the3million.org.uk/> in relation to European citizens in the UK.

VE and VJ Day 75th anniversary Commemorations

As noted in the August 2019 issue, IFN worked with the Royal British Legion (RBL) to arrange a roundtable last June for faith communities to explore understandings of Remembrance and to reflect on inclusion and Remembrance.

<https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/2452842664766294>

This year is the 75th anniversary of both Victory in Europe Day (VE Day) and Victory in Japan Day (VJ Day) and the RBL will be “paying tribute to the men and women of the Second World War generation from Britain, the Commonwealth and Allied nations who came home and rebuilt our world at the end of WW2.” It will be celebrating “the peace that reunited them, and the democracy and freedoms they secured for us”.

<https://www.britishlegion.org.uk/get-involved/remembrance/what-were-remembering-this-year>

A special programme of events marking VE 75 will take place over the Early May Bank Holiday in London and has been designed to be of particular interest to all from the Second World War generation who served at home and overseas across the European theatre. More information on this and how to get involved is at <https://www.britishlegion.org.uk/get-involved/remembrance/remembrance-events/ve-day-75>.

The UK’s VJ Day national event will take place at the National Memorial Arboretum on 15 August. The event will form part of a three-day public programme of events from 14 to 16 August, which will include a national service of Remembrance. More information on this and how to get involved is at <https://www.britishlegion.org.uk/get-involved/remembrance/remembrance-events/vj-day-75>.

Streatham and Hanau attacks

On 2 February two people were stabbed in a terrorist attack in Streatham, South London. The assailant, Sudesh Amman, was shot dead.

IFN's Co-Chairs put out the following message: "Our thoughts and prayers are with all affected by today's terrorist stabbing attack in Streatham, London. As past statements by IFN's Co-Chairs and Moderators have underlined, we must stand together to oppose terrorism and the ideologies that promote it."

Local communities came together for a peace vigil in Streatham the following week. They were joined by the local MP, Bell Ribeiro-Addy, and by the Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan.

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2020/feb/08/a-week-on-streatham-attack-marked-by-march-and-peace-vigil>

The Co-Chairs issued a similar message following the shootings in Hanau, Germany, on 19 February, which are believed to have been terrorist attacks carried out by a far right extremist.

Security at places of worship

On 27 January the Scottish Government announced funding of £500,000 to help places of worship in Scotland install security measures. Religious groups will be consulted in the coming months to help develop the scheme. The fund will be launched later this year. More information can be found at <https://www.gov.scot/news/fund-announced-for-security-measures-at-places-of-worship/>.

In September last year the Chancellor announced that the Places of Worship Protective Security Funding Scheme in England and Wales would be doubled to £3.2 million for 2020-21. There is no further information yet available on this. Synagogues are covered separately by the Jewish Community Protective Security Grant.

On 8 January Gareth Thomas, MP for Harrow West, asked Home Secretary Rt Hon Priti Patel the following Written Question: "How much financial assistance she has made available to improve security for people attending (a) Hindu Temples, (b) Synagogues, (c) Churches, (d) Mosques, (e) Gurdwaras and (f) other places of worship in the 2019-20 financial year?" The answer, given on 16 January, can be found at <https://www.parliament.uk/business/publications/written-questions-answers-statements/written-question/Commons/2020-01-08/1266/>.

Hate crime and incidents

Extensive Antisemitic graffitiing was found in North London at the end of December <https://www.hamhigh.co.uk/news/crime-court/hampstead-antisemitic-graffiti-an-affront-to-our-borough-say-interfaith-forum-chairs-1-6444221> Antisemitic graffiti was also sprayed on a bank in London on the eve of Holocaust Memorial Day. Over the New Year, anti-Muslim slogans were reported on a building near North Brixton Islamic Cultural Centre in London. In Larne, Northern Ireland, a paint bomb attack on a Catholic church is being treated by police as a sectarian hate crime. <https://www.belfasttelegraph.co.uk/news/northern-ireland/larne-church-targeted-in-sectarian-hate-crime-38961133.html>

The Community Security Trust reports that 2019 was the worst year on record, with a total of 1,805 incidents deemed Antisemitic. This is 7% higher than the 2018 total of 1,690 incidents and is the fourth successive year in which a new annual high has been recorded. For the second successive year, CST recorded over 100 incidents in every calendar month. <https://cst.org.uk/data/file/9/0/IncidentsReport2019.1580815723.pdf>

Social media also continues to be used to inflame anger about particular groups. For example, Tell Mama reports that “A viral and inflammatory falsehood about ‘Muslim-only housing’ in London exemplifies the need for Twitter to fix an enduring problem: removing content designed to deceive and pass as news”. <https://tellmamauk.org/how-far-right-fake-news-continues-to-go-viral-on-twitter/>

On 8 January a public consultation into Hate Crime in Northern Ireland was launched. <https://www.irishnews.com/news/northernirelandnews/2020/01/08/news/public-consultation-on-hate-crime-launched-as-eight-incidents-a-day-reported-to-psni-1808297/> The consultation paper can be found at <https://www.hatecrimereviewni.org.uk/news/consultation-paper> and the closing date for submissions is 31 March.

On 21 January, Viscount Younger of Leckie, then Minister for Faith, replied to a Written Question from Lord Vinson asking the Government “what steps they are taking to ensure that criticism of any religion is not regarded as a hate crime”. The response can be seen at <https://www.parliament.uk/business/publications/written-questions-answers-statements/written-questions-answers>. It has just announced that it will be partnering with The Jerusalem Post to host a conference at its stadium to further highlight the importance of tackling the rise of Antisemitism. <https://www.jpost.com/Diaspora/Antisemitism/Chelsea-Football-Jerusalem-Post-partner-to-tackle-antisemitism-618059>

The timetable is not yet known.

The Home Office is currently considering the recommendations of a report published by the independent Commission for Countering-Extremism in October, <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/challenging-hateful-extremism>.

Political parties and faith community concerns

There continue to be concerns among faith communities about allegations of faith-based discrimination, including Antisemitism and Islamophobia, in political parties. There have also been some concerns expressed by some about the Labour Party about positions seen as anti Hindu.

The EHRC is due to report in May on its Investigation into Antisemitism in the Labour Party. <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/inquiries-and-investigations/investigation-labour-party> The Prime Minister announced in December that the Conservative Party would be holding "an independent inquiry into Islamophobia, anti-Semitism, every manner of prejudice and discrimination". <https://www.standard.co.uk/news/politics/boris-johnson-apologises-for-hurt-and-offence-caused-by-islamophobia-in-conservative-party-a4298091.html>

APPG on Safeguarding in Faith Settings

On 28 January the All-Party Parliamentary Group on Safeguarding in Faith Settings published the report of its Inquiry into “the effectiveness of current definitions of ‘positions of trust’ in safeguarding young people within faith settings”. This was produced following a Call for Evidence in August 2019 which received evidence from a wide variety of individuals and organisations, including faith groups/denominations and communities, professional safeguarding agencies, law firms and academics and also oral evidence provided by a range of respondents at evidence sessions in Parliament in October.

The report calls on the Government to close the loophole in the law that allows adults in ‘positions of trust’ to legally engage in sexual activity with the young people they are working with. The full report can be found at <https://thirtyoneeight.org/get-help/resources/appg-report-pot/>.

Faith communities and blood and organ donation

Faith communities are continuing to support blood donation drives. For example, in December, Faiths Forum for London coordinated an inter faith blood donation drive at a mosque in Golders Green where Jews, Muslims and people of all faiths and none were invited to donate blood. <https://www.thejc.com/news/uk-news/golders-green-mosque-welcomes-jews-and-muslims-for-interfaith-blood-drive-1.494802>

As noted in previous e-bulletins, under the new organ donation system in England everybody will be considered a potential organ donor unless they add their details to the NHS Organ Donor Register to say that they do not wish to donate their organs or are in one of the excluded groups. The new system is due to begin in Spring 2020, though the exact date has not yet been confirmed. People are free to register their decision before or after the change in the law. There has recently been some misinformation circulating online about the date for the system to begin. NHS Blood and Transport has created a webpage to address the misinformation <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/get-involved/news/fake-news/>.

Information about organ donation and the position of individual faith and belief systems is at <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/about-donation/organ-donation-and-my-beliefs/> and a selection of downloadable faith and belief-specific donor cards can be found at <https://www.nhsbt.nhs.uk/how-you-can-help/get-involved/download-digital-materials/faith-and-belief-donor-cards/>.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Holocaust Memorial Day took place on 27 January. Its theme was ‘Stand Together’. Holocaust Memorial Day is the day for everyone to remember the millions of people murdered in the Holocaust, under Nazi Persecution, and in the genocides which followed in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia, and Darfur. It honours the survivors of these regimes and challenges everyone to use the lessons of survivors’ experience to inform their lives today. This year there were particular commemorations to mark the 75th Anniversary of the Liberation of Auschwitz. The approaching 25th anniversary of the Srebrenica genocide was also remembered. The London event was broadcast in full by the BBC. For more information, visit www.hmd.org.uk/.

The Interfaith Council for Wales/ Cyngor Rhyngffydd Rhyng-ffydd Cymru was involved in the National Service of Commemoration for Wales at Cardiff City Hall, Interfaith Scotland hosted the National Memorial for Scotland at the Scottish Parliament and the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum was involved in the Holocaust commemoration event at Belfast City Hall.

During January IFN published a resource on its website about Annual Memorial Days and Weeks including Holocaust Memorial Day and Remembering Srebrenica. See below.

The Act of Reflection and Commitment by Faith Communities of the UK – 20 years on January marked 20 years since faith communities of the UK came together in the Royal Gallery at the Houses of Parliament in the Shared Act of Reflection and Commitment, arranged by Government with assistance from IFN. As part of this, a short 'Act of Commitment' was developed by the faith communities with IFN which continues to be widely used today in contexts such as civic services and inter faith events. The idea for the event arose from the work of the 'Lambeth Group' (the Churches and Other Faiths Sub-group of the Millennium Coordinating Group of DCMS), which met at Lambeth Palace and on which IFN and a range of faiths and denominations were represented. The event was in part inspired by a suggestion from one of its members, Lord Singh of Wimbledon of the Network of Sikh Organisations. COP26, the 2020 UN Climate Change Conference will take place in Glasgow from 9 to 19 November. Many faith and inter faith organisations are already gearing up to hold activities related to it. The conference is at the same time as Inter Faith Week and Scottish Interfaith Week.

A number of faith communities and faith-based organisations have ongoing programmes of work on environmental issues and a number of linked initiatives have been developed, such as: the Bhumi Project (<http://www.bhumiproject.org/>); Eco-Church (<https://ecochurch.arocha.org.uk/>); Islamic Foundation for Ecology and Environmental Sciences (<http://www.ifees.org.uk/>); Eco-Sikh (<http://www.ecosikh.org/about/>); Eco-Synagogue (<https://ecosynagogue.org/about/>) and Operation Noah (<https://operationnoah.org/>). FftC also distributes a monthly e-news bulletin to its members, which can be signed up to at <https://faithfortheclimate.org.uk/>.

The Climate Coalition links 140 organisations of many different kinds. Its vision is of a future where the UK no longer contribute to climate change. Every February it encourages people to get involved in conversations about climate change through its Show the Love campaign: <https://www.theclimatecoalition.org/show-the-love> . This includes 'faith packs', faith-based resources created to enable greater grassroots faith participation in tackling climate change.

There are also international inter faith environmental initiatives such as the Interfaith Rainforest Initiative <https://www.interfaithrainforest.org>. ### Coventry Sacred Space Initiative

On 22 January a summit was held in Coventry to begin development of a new Coventry Sacred Space Initiative (CSSI). It was organised by the Coventry Safety and Security working group with representatives of the local community and supported by the Council and included representatives from Coventry's diverse religious and cultural communities. They were joined by representatives of West Midlands Police, the Home Office, Council and other statutory bodies and agencies.

The new initiative will see communities working with partners to transform an area which is in-need of repair and regeneration, with many local people having few opportunities and facing mental and physical health challenges. Organisers say that it is planned to include at least one place of worship from the different religions present in Coventry and to ensure the minority religious/cultural communities feel a sense of past or present ownership, appreciation and care and that visitors, guests and students gain a deeper understanding of different religions, belief systems including nature and the environment. <https://tiacommunity.com/coventry-sacred-space-initiative/>

In January the Faith & Belief Forum and the Department of Psychosocial Studies at Birkbeck, University of London, published ‘Media, Faith and Belonging’ drawing on discussion at a 2018, roundtable involving local organisations, academics and policy experts. This is the third and final report in a series supported by a grant from Dangoor Education which looked at different aspects of belief and belonging. The report finds that “inaccurate, sensationalised and simplistic media coverage reinforces negative stereotypes of religious groups, increasing the potential for suspicion, fear and communal violence” and offers several recommendations to address these issues. Interfaith Scotland (IfS) has published the results of its research with university chaplains at the campuses of Glasgow, Strathclyde, Edinburgh, Heriot-Watt, Aberdeen, Dundee, Stirling, St Andrews and the University of the Highlands and Islands (Moray campus). The purpose of the research, carried out by IfS and Interfaith Glasgow, was “to ascertain how good interfaith relations are currently being promoted on university campuses and to identify best practice and future opportunities for ongoing collaboration”.

The document looks at the roles and aims of the chaplains and chaplaincy centres, what buildings and spaces they use, their paid chaplaincy teams and their honorary chaplains who are unpaid and represent many different faith communities; and ways that the centres link in with other university bodies and Equality and Diversity officers, local inter faith groups, faith communities and IfS. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

UK/national response to COVID-19 (Coronavirus)

On 31 December 2019, Chinese authorities notified the World Health Organization (WHO) of an outbreak of pneumonia in Wuhan City, which was later classified as a new disease: COVID-19. On 12 January, the World Health Organisation confirmed that a new coronavirus had affected a number of people in Wuhan in the Chinese province of Hubei. On 30 January 2020, WHO declared the outbreak of COVID-19 a “Public Health Emergency of International Concern” (PHEIC). By 1 March, cases had been detected in England, Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland.

On 3 March the UK Government published a Coronavirus Action Plan.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-action-plan/coronavirus-action-plan-a-guide-to-what-you-can-expect-across-the-uk> On 12 March the Government moved to the 'delay' phase of its approach to tackling the virus. On 23 March the Prime Minister announced more stringent measures to stem the pandemic, including closing places of worship. <https://www.gov.uk/coronavirus>

On 26 March the Coronavirus Act 2020 was passed into law. <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2020/7/contents/enacted/data.htm> and <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-bill-what-it-will-do>

Some powers to determine the approach to Coronavirus policy are held by the individual nations of the UK and, as the Institute for Government explains, powers to deal with the spread of infection are set out in different pieces of legislation for the four nations. In England and Wales, powers are provided by the Public Health (Control of Disease) Act 1984 (as amended by the Health Protection Act 2008). Similar powers are provided by the Public Health etc. (Scotland) Act 2008 and the Public Health Act (Northern Ireland) 1967. <https://www.instituteforgovernment.org.uk/explainers/coronavirus-and-devolution>

On 26 March the Government also released guidance outlining how members of the public can help in the fight against coronavirus, and how they can do this safely. The full guidance, as updated in April, can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-how-to-help-safely--2>.

On 11 May, the UK Government published its plans for the next steps on responding to COVID-19 in England. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/our-plan-to-rebuild-the-uk-governments-covid-19-recovery-strategy> A number of task forces to assist on this were announced. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-roadmap-taskforces/covid-19-roadmap-taskforces>

On 12 May the Northern Ireland Executive set out its plan for relaxing restrictions. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-recovery-plan> On 15 May the Welsh Government announced a roadmap for easing the lockdown in Wales. <https://gov.wales/unlocking-our-society-and-economy-wales-roadmap-published> On 21 May the Scottish Government set out a route map for changing its current restrictions. <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-framework-decision-making-scotlands-route-map-through-out-crisis/>

A useful summary of the lockdown easing approach across the different nations of the UK can be found at: <https://www.instituteforgovernment.org.uk/explainers/coronavirus-lockdown-rules-four-nations-uk>

Across the period, a major emergency response framework has been created, with local resilience forums, community hubs and other mechanisms assisting on different fronts, together with vital frontline responders such as the NHS, the emergency services, carers and many others.

On 31 March, the IFN's Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators issued a statement which opened with the words:

“As faith communities of the UK we are united in our commitment to working for the wellbeing of all affected by COVID-19.

We thank and support those who are working so hard to enable us to get through this testing time: NHS and care workers; emergency response services; providers of food, medicine and other vital goods; those in government and officials; and the many others who may not be classed as ‘essential workers’ but make all the difference to our daily lives.

We know that around the UK faith organisations and their ministers, members, staff and volunteers are among those helping ensure that support is provided to people, providing spiritual and pastoral care; a listening ear; much needed provisions; and other practical assistance of many kinds.

In a number of areas, people of different faiths are working together to respond to needs of groups such as the homeless and refugees and others. Faith and inter faith bodies are also feeding into local resilience forum and other contexts, helping ensure that faith is taken into account in planning. All of this is vital work. So, too, is the prayer and spiritual support that each faith offers....”

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/faith-communities-and-coronavirus-a-statement>.

Throughout the crisis faith and inter faith organisations have been assisting those affected. Faith communities themselves have been greatly impacted by issues including, for example, the closure of places of worship and arrangements for funerals. More information on this, and more, is in the special section on COVID-19 below which replaces the usual section on inter faith projects.

New UK Government Faith Minister

Lord Stephen Greenhalgh was appointed in March as a Minister of State at the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government (MHCLG). He subsequently received the faith portfolio and so became the UK Government's new 'Faith Minister' in succession to Lord Younger, who moved to a new role after the last election.

COVID-19 and BAME communities

COVID-19 has been causing many deaths. These have been across the population and affecting people of all backgrounds. There is, however, a markedly higher death rate among those of BAME backgrounds. There is significant overlap between BAME groups and particular faith communities and sections of those and some are seeing a sharply increased rate of deaths – particularly among NHS doctors, nurses and other staff and other health workers. Among these were the first four doctors to die (all Muslim), a Sikh A and E Consultant and a Hindu neonatal specialist as well as those of other backgrounds. <https://www.ons.gov.uk/peoplepopulationandcommunity/birthsdeathsandmarriages/deaths/articles/coronavirusrelateddeathsbyethnicgroupenglandandwales/2march2020to10april2020>

On 16 April the Government announced a review looking at how different factors can impact on people's health outcomes from COVID-19. This is being led by Professor Kevin Fenton, Public Health Director for London. The review has been holding a number of virtual roundtables, including with faith groups. Its report is anticipated by early June. <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/review-into-factors-impacting-health-outcomes-from-covid-19>

In Wales an advisory group has been set up to examine the issue. <https://gov.wales/wales-bame-covid-19-health-advisory-group-takes-cross-government-approach> The Coalition for Racial Equality and Rights in Scotland (CRER) has written to the Scottish Government asking it to publish the number of people from BAME backgrounds who have died from COVID-19 in Scotland. <https://www.thenational.scot/news/18444409.coronavirus-scottish-government-urged-publish-bame-deaths-data/>

On 24 April the Labour Party announced that it would be holding an enquiry, led by Baroness Lawrence of Clarence.

Faith leaders were among 70 signatories who wrote a letter to the Prime Minister on 10 May asking for an independent public inquiry. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/health-52602467> <https://www.ubele.org/weneedanswers>

New Labour Party leader

On 4 April, the Rt Hon Sir Kier Starmer KCB QC MP was elected as leader of the Labour Party. Appointed to his team as Shadow Communities Secretary was Steve Reed OBE MP and as Faith Minister was Janet Daby MP.

Protecting places of worship – consultation and funding scheme

The Home Office consultation on ‘Protecting places of worship’ has been extended to 28 June. The consultation is being carried out by the National Centre for Social Research (NatCen), on behalf of the Home Office. Full details are at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/protecting-places-of-worship-consultation>.

The Home Office has announced that 27 mosques, 13 churches, 5 gurdwaras and 4 Hindu temples in England and Wales would benefit from £1.6 million of the Home Office Places of Worship Protective Security Funding Scheme this year. Next year’s scheme is due to double, with £3.2 million earmarked for 2020 to 2021. <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/places-of-worship-scheme-provides-record-levels-of-funding>

Extremism and terrorism

The COVID-19 pandemic has seen a rise in online extremism. For example the BBC reported on 4 May on the far-right spreading a Covid-19 'infodemic' on Facebook <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/technology-52490430> The IFN Co-Chairs and Moderators’ statement of 31 March noted that “We have a concern that in isolation some individuals may become increasingly affected by misinformation, particularly on social media – and also by extreme views including coronavirus conspiracy theories that have been targeting particular groups such as Jews or East Asians. We call on Government and relevant agencies to do all that they can to tackle this.” Conspiracy theories have been widely distributed and many target particular groups such as Muslims <https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/coronavirus-muslim-lockdown-conspiracy-theories-tommy-robinson-katie-hopkins-a9471516.html> or those of Chinese background or Jews <https://www.thejc.com/news/uk-news/covid-19-pandemic-sees-jewish-and-chinese-communities-targeted-1.499315>.

The threat of terrorism remains and has evolved during the crisis. The Independent reported on 21 April that protective security advice is being distributed to NHS trusts by counterterrorism officers, amid warnings that extremists are exploiting the pandemic to radicalise new recruits. <https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/coronavirus-lockdown-hospitals-nhs-terror-threat-5g-conspiracy-theory-a9476066.html>

In April, an updated version of the Action Counters Terrorism Awareness e-Learning course was launched with the latest advice from security experts and a simplified registration system so anyone wanting to take part can help keep the UK safe. The course explains how to spot the signs of suspicious behaviour and what to do to help yourself, others and the emergency responders if an attack should take place. It takes less than an hour to work through the six sections and can be done in one session or one module at a time. It can be found at <https://ct.highfieldelearning.com/>.

Implementation of Organ Donation opt out system in England

Following the passing of the Organ Donation (Deemed Consent) Act last year a new opt out system for organ donation came into law in England on 20 May. All adults in England will now be considered as having agreed to donate their own organs when they die unless they record a decision not to donate (also known as ‘opt out’), or are in one of the excluded groups.

Information about organ donation and the position of individual faith and belief systems is at <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk/about-donation/organ-donation-and-my-beliefs/>.

There is also a selection of downloadable faith and belief-specific donor cards so people can show their support for donation alongside their own faith or beliefs as well as share with family and friends. The cards can be found at <https://www.nhsbt.nhs.uk/how-you-can-help/get-involved/download-digital-materials/faith-and-belief-donor-cards/>.

Census Order comes into force

The next ten-yearly census is due to take place in 2021. Information the census provides on the population helps to inform policy, plan services, and is used in consideration of distribution of resources.

Delivering the census in England and Wales is the statutory responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority, which operates through the Office for National Statistics (ONS). In Northern Ireland it is the responsibility of the Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency, and in Scotland the National Records of Scotland. These three offices work closely to ensure the three censuses provide comparable statistics on the UK population.

The Census Order is used to direct that a census is carried out. The Order specifies: the date the census will take place; the question topics to be included; the people who need to fill in the forms; and the people to be included on the forms.

Following the approval by the House of Commons of the draft Census Order (England and Wales) it came into force on 20 May. It is noted in <https://commonslibrary.parliament.uk/research-briefings/cbp-8531/> that almost all of the topics asked about in 2011 will appear again in 2021, although the way in which some questions are asked will change. The ethnicity question will include a new tick-box for people of Roma ethnicity, alongside the existing 'Gypsy or Irish Traveller' tick-box. The Explanatory Memorandum to the Order notes that "A large number of new response option tick-boxes were requested but did not meet the threshold for inclusion in the census following this process of engagement, research and testing." These non-inclusions include a 'Sikh' tick-box in the ethnic group question (there will continue to be a 'Sikh' religion tick box as in 2011) and a 'Jain' tick-box in the religion question. <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/uksi/2020/532/memorandum/contents>

Legislative responsibility for the censuses in Scotland and Northern Ireland is devolved to the respective legislatures. Following the agreement of the draft Census Order by the Scottish Parliament, the Census Order came into force in Scotland on 12 March 2020. In Northern Ireland, following the agreement of the draft Census Order, it came into force on 5 May.

Faith communities and climate change

42 faith institutions from 14 countries, including 21 from the UK, have announced their divestment from fossil fuels – the largest-ever joint announcement of divestment from fossil fuels from faith institutions. <https://ctbi.org.uk/42-faith-institutions-divest-from-fossil-fuels/>

Faith communities also marked Earth Day in April. For example, an inter faith climate gathering, planned for Birmingham and the West Midlands by Footsteps Faiths for a Low Carbon Future and partners, took place online – <https://footstepsbcf.org.uk/2020/04/30/reflections-on-earth-day/> - and Faiths Leaders in Manchester issued a joint statement - <https://www.manchester.anglican.org/news/2020/04/22/faith-leaders-statement-earth-day-2020/>.

Rise in number of RE trainee teachers

The number of new religious education trainee teachers in England has risen by 30 per cent compared with last year – to its highest level in almost a decade. ## VE Day 75th anniversary Commemorations

This year marked the 75th anniversary of Victory in Europe Day (VE Day). To mark VE Day 75 on Friday 8 May, the Royal British Legion encouraged people across the UK to come together remotely and honour the Second World War generation – recognising the service and sacrifice of men and women from many different faiths and backgrounds in inclusive Remembrance. Information on the activities that took place, as well as a learning resource, are available at www.rbl.org.uk/veday75.

IFN posted on social media during the day, using #veday75, @RoyalBritishLegion and @PoppyLegion, including a story of a Parsi Zoroastrian who served in the Navy <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1258721553329643520> and photos of Muslim soldiers at Eid prayers in East London <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1258883752492765184> and Sikh soldiers at a VE Day party in Reading <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1258713535842070528>.

COVID-19 and faith communities

The impact of COVID-19 has many implications for faith communities. Among these are: the need to provide guidance to members, including signposting of relevant Government guidance; operating with places of worship closed, necessitating use of online and telephone worship and pastoral services; restrictions on attendance of funerals and postponement of some other rites; potential difficulties in cremation or burial requirements being met; closure or truncation of some charitable services; putting service into action on behalf of the vulnerable and those in need; and significant operational and financial issues.

One of the key roles of the Inter Faith Network for the UK is sharing information and good practice. Since the crisis began IFN has been regularly sharing faith and inter faith responses on social media and sending regular updates by email to its member bodies. It has also created a special section on its website about faith and inter faith responses: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19>.

As noted in the IFN News section below, IFN has held extra meetings, with a special focus on COVID-19, of its Faith Communities Forum; and also a special focus meeting for its member National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations. It has also been in touch, offering help and support, to Local Inter Faith Organisations and will shortly be holding a special focus meeting for its member Educational and Academic Bodies.

As noted above, on 31 March IFN's Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators issued a statement on 'Faith Communities and Coronavirus'. This can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/faith-communities-and-coronavirus-a-statement>.

Guidance from faith communities

Most faith communities have issued guidance for their communities and are updating this on a regular basis. IFN has been collating and updating a list of these on its website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/faith-communities-and-coronavirus>.

Places of worship

Places of worship were among the premises closed when the 'lockdown' phase began on 23 March. The UK Government's guidance of that time, as shortly thereafter updated, can be found at: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/further-businesses-and-premises-to-close/further-businesses-and-premises-to-close-guidance>

As step 3 of its plans for the next steps on responding to COVID-19 in England <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/our-plan-to-rebuild-the-uk-governments-covid-19-recovery-strategy> the UK Government speaks of an ambition to reopen places of worship. However, this is expected to be no earlier than 4 July, subject to further scientific advice.

On 15 May, Secretary of State for Housing, Communities and Local Government, Robert Jenrick, said that "Faith leaders and government have agreed to develop a plan to enable the phased and safe reopening of places of worship when the evidence shows it is the right time to do so". He announced that the Government was setting up a task force to look at how to safely reopen places of worship. <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/new-taskforce-developing-plan-to-reopen-places-of-worship> The press release explains that Faith Action has been funded "to consult and engage with different community groups and places of worship up and down the country to ensure their views are represented at the Taskforce's meetings". The Taskforce has so far met twice, on 15 and 20 May, chaired by Faith Minister, Lord Stephen Greenhalgh. On 23 May, Sikh member, Jasvir Singh, stood down from the Task Force. No replacement has as yet been announced.

On 12 May the Northern Ireland Executive set out its plan for relaxing restrictions. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-recovery-plan> Opening of places of worship for private prayer and permission for drive-in church services has already been agreed. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-northern-ireland-52711301>

The Welsh Government's roadmap for easing the lockdown in Wales includes three phases for the re-opening of places of worship: Red - Opening of places of worship for private prayer under physical distancing; Amber - Limit services and size of congregations linked to ability to ensure physical distancing; and Green - All places open with full range of services, alongside physical distancing. <https://gov.wales/unlocking-our-society-and-economy-wales-roadmap-published>

The Faith Communities Forum of the Welsh Government met on 29 April. At the meeting, members expressed concern about possible phased lifting of COVID-19 restrictions on places of worship. The Welsh Government has subsequently invited each constituent member of the Forum to nominate a representative to a 'task and finish group' with a view to preparing a protocol for the Welsh Government and the Faith Communities Forum to consider at the meeting of the latter on 3 June.

On 21 May the Scottish Government published a route map for changing the current restrictions. In Phase 2 places of worship would be able to open for private prayer with physical distancing and hygiene safeguards. In Phase 3 Places of worship would be open to extended groups subject to physical distancing and hygiene safeguards. <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-framework-decision-making-scotlands-route-map-through-out-crisis/>

The Scottish Government has been keeping in touch with faith communities on a fortnightly basis since the COVID-19 epidemic began, through meetings arranged by its Cohesive Communities, Connected Communities Unit. These meetings are also attended by Interfaith Scotland. On the present agenda is reopening places of worship following the publication of the Scottish Government's route map last week.

Online worship and rites

National and local faith groups began early on providing online support and in some cases livestreaming services. For example, the BAPS Swaminarayan Mandir in Neasden has been livestreaming darshan of its murtis each morning and the arti ceremony each evening, and the Catholic Bishops' Conference of England and Wales has provided a page with details of where people can access masses that are being livestreamed by priests and bishops. <https://www.cbcew.org.uk/home/our-work/health-social-care/coronavirus-guidelines/live-catholic-mass-online/>

Devotional resources and links have also been made available through such routes as the Sikh Press Association <https://twitter.com/SikhPA/status/1242189774389207040> and the Pagan Federation Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/paganfederation/>.

Particular rites have also been livestreamed, for example Borehamwood and Elstree Synagogue livestreamed a bar mitzvah ceremony for the first time. <https://www.thejc.com/community/community-news/first-united-synagogue-online->

barmitzvah-attracts-a-worldwide-audience-1.498311 Funerals are also, in some cases, among those rites also being live streamed, given limitations on the number of people who can safely gather and the need to enforce social distancing.

A number of communities have recently had major festivals or times of special observance: Easter, Passover, Vaisakhi, Ridvan, Ramadan and Eid. This has prompted extensive and creative use of social media and online resources such as online seders. The Archbishop of Canterbury recorded a service on his iPad from his kitchen to mark Easter Sunday. <https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/news/archbishop-canterbury-will-call-resurrection-our-common-life-easter-sunday> For Vaisakhi in the West Midlands the Mayor encouraged a virtual Vaisakhi with people sharing images of their celebrations on social media using the hashtag #VirtualVaisakhiWM <https://www.wmca.org.uk/news/mayor-joining-virtual-vaisakhi-celebrations-on-social-media/> The Muslim Council of Britain produced guidelines for marking Ramadan https://mcb.org.uk/general/ramadan2020\_guidance/ as did the Mosques and Imams National Advisory Board and many iftars have been taking place virtually. There was also guidance for the forthcoming Eid celebrations as Muslims get ready to mark Eid in lockdown, see for example https://twitter.com/MINAB\_UK/status/1263490912862208000/photo/1.

The BBC announced in April a range of programmes covering, and providing support to, faith communities in the context of COVID-19, saying that “With public worship curtailed as social distancing measures have been introduced, the BBC is providing a wide range of different faith groups the opportunity to reflect, worship and mark key religious festivals during these challenging times.” The offerings have included online worship, programmes related to major faith festivals such as Passover, Easter, Vaisaki, Ridwan and Eid and also, in May, a series of reflections from Hindu presenters. The call to prayer was broadcast during Ramadan in the early morning on BBC local radio in a number of areas. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/mediacentre/latestnews/2020/religion-coronavirus>

Faith communities and their local members and faith-based organisations have also been making available online prayer and learning groups and teaching and entertainment for young people. See for example, the Network of Buddhist Organisations. <https://www.facebook.com/NBOpages/photos/a.650895638303079/2999351226790830/>

Funerals and bereavement

Public Health England issued the following advice on funerals: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-managing-a-funeral-during-the-coronavirus-pandemic/covid-19-guidance-for-managing-a-funeral-during-the-coronavirus-pandemic> – this guidance was issued on 31 March, with a revised version following on 19 April.

On 9 April the Government clarified the position on cemeteries and burial grounds, now listed as an 'exception' and therefore able to remain open. The latest guidance, updated on 13 May, is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/further-businesses-and-premises-to-close/further-businesses-and-premises-to-close-guidance>.

Following concerns about the inability of families to attend funerals, MHCLG Minister of State Simon Clarke MP wrote on 17 April to local authorities in England <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/government-sets-out-plans-to-ensure-bereaved-families-can-attend-funerals-during-pandemic>. The MHCLG guidance, last updated on 14 May, is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-local-death-management>.

The following advice, targeted more at health and funeral professionals, updated 15 May, is relevant to handling of care of the deceased. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-care-of-the-deceased/guidance-for-care-of-the-deceased-with-suspected-or-confirmed-coronavirus-covid-19>

IFN's website has a page containing guidance from faith communities and faith community organisations on funeral rites and practices in light of the Coronavirus pandemic. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-funerals>

Spiritual/pastoral support to members

Spiritual and pastoral provision is challenging in a context where face to face visiting is very limited under the social distancing rules. Faith community bodies have been seeking to support their members with guidance. See for example, https://www.baptist.org.uk/Articles/570443/Coronavirus\_advice\_for.aspx and a series being held by Unitarians at the end of May: <https://www.unitarian.org.uk/ministry-in-a-time-of-pandemic>

Voluntary action to aid those in need

COVID-19 has prompted many volunteering initiatives. These range from major schemes such as volunteering for the NHS through to area based Mutual Aid groups.

Faith has inspired a flowering of acts of practical kindness. Just a few examples are below. Many more can be seen highlighted through post and tweets on the Facebook and Twitter accounts of IFN and others.

BBC's Ross Kemp's Volunteer Army programme recently highlighted the efforts of Sikhs at Sri Guru Singh Sabha Gurdwara Southall in London which has been providing over 3,000 meals a day to those in need. Neasden Temple in London has provided special meals to thank soldiers for their work at COVID-19 testing units

<https://twitter.com/bktimes/status/1263099285198868481> as well as to NHS workers and others. In Liverpool, the Liverpool Region Mosques Network and St Andrews Food Bank came together with local MPs and the Rector of Liverpool to deliver food across the north of the city. Faith communities have come together to support the Felix Project with emergency food operations <https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/coronavirus-help-the-hungry-campaign-food-muslim-sikh-christian-hindu-a9483326.html>

A churches' initiative www.yourneighbour.org has been set up to provide callers with pastoral support and links to a church nearby "who can help with a friendly phone call, shopping, prescriptions, and advice." The Oshwal Association of the UK of the Jain community, in collaboration with others, has been providing free meals and or snacks to 'frontline heroes' serving hot meals to housebound elderly and vulnerable people. A broad range of Hindu and other bodies are involved in Sewa Day's wide-ranging programme of support. In some cases faith organisations are uniting across their community to support it and the wider public, for example the coalition of Muslim bodies through a national solidarity campaign organised by the Muslim Charities Forum https://www.launchgood.com/project/national\_solidarity\_campaign\_covid19#!/ of which the Muslim Council of Britain and MINAB are a part.

Sikhs in Scotland have been delivering food to night shelters and other locations <https://twitter.com/sikhsinscotland/status/1262102260865282048>. The Welsh Latter-day Saints partnered with local organisations and volunteers to purchase, assemble and deliver 8,000 hygiene kits to 35 locations across South Wales <https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/3082824995101388>. In Northern Ireland, L'Arche, with assistance from local churches, is supporting Root Soup which is preparing and delivering 240 home-cooked meals to older higher-risk people in South-East Belfast area each week <https://lovebelfast.co.uk/power-ni-support-gets-to-the-root-of-local-communities/>.

There have also been faith community linked initiatives such as those of Mitzvah Day which has inspired many groups to get involved including through such initiatives such as an online cooking event with Maureen Lipman <https://www.facebook.com/Mitzvahdayuk/posts/10158493316898829> and a JW3 Jewish community hub initiative with local partner organisations, hostels, homeless shelters and Camden Council, <https://www.jw3.org.uk/help-us-now>.

COVID-19 and inter faith organisations

A number of groups are using online postings and such programmes as Zoom, Teams and Blue Jeans to keep existing programmes going. For example, Building Bridges Pendle is posting weekly live cooking demonstrations of dishes as part of ‘Marhaba Munching Mondays’ for viewers to watch, learn and cook at home.

Some groups have been exploring online dialogues and meetings. For example, Faith Network 4 Manchester is running a series of online inter faith dialogue sessions <https://www.facebook.com/FN4Man/photos/a.580259045329671/2999828166706068/>. The first of these explored ways to cope with COVID-19 and the closure of faith buildings.

Websites are a particularly important resource at this time, alongside social media, emails and WhatsApp. For example, Cornwall Faith Forum’s website carries a message from its Chair and numerous helpful links and a list of faith leaders. <https://dorkemmyn.org.uk/covid19/>

National and regional inter faith organisations and programmes have been taking forward a number of COVID-19 related initiatives. For example, in May the Council of Christians and Jews has been holding a series of ‘Pilgrimages’ during which its Presidents are visiting key workers at their places of work and expressing Jewish and Christian prayerful solidarity. <https://www.facebook.com/watch/?v=602107133724592>
<https://www.facebook.com/watch/?v=276570903732612>

The Faith and Belief Forum has been running a special online series of ‘Quarantine Questions with some conversation starters and discussion tools from its Linking and Workshops programmes. <https://faithbeliefforum.org/programme/quarantine-questions/> and the Women’s Interfaith Network has been working with Faiths Forum for London and Strengthening Faith Institutions on a social media campaign to highlight the issue of domestic abuse among faith communities and signpost support.

Local inter faith organisations are playing their part in the sharing of information about COVID-19 and also helping members and local faith groups to explore aspects of this – from social distancing to holding funerals.

A number of local inter faith bodies have been helping those in need through acts of kindness. For example, volunteers from Bristol Multi-Faith Forum have been helping those who were stranded and homeless due to Coronavirus. They are also offering community support for the distressed and the marginalised.

Some local inter faith organisations have drawn together leaders from local faith communities to share messages and prayers. For example, Leeds Faith Forum held an ‘Interfaith Messages and Prayers of Hope’ session on 26 April YouTube with faith and inter faith leaders. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=luO5RK\_eYDM&feature=youtu.be

Other local inter faith organisations have been sharing prayers and readings online as part of sustaining connection and providing spiritual support. For example, Watford Inter Faith

Association (www.wifa.org.uk) has a weekly online joint prayer for all who want to join and share their favourite prayers. Each morning since the middle of March a small group in Northern Ireland has been meeting at 9am for a time of online inter faith sharing lasting about 20 to 30 minutes. Over the weeks, a group of up to 16 people – varying from day to day – has met via Zoom to share readings from different faiths and beliefs – with sources ranging from the scriptures of the major faiths, through spiritual writings and even the occasional song (further information from the Northern Ireland Inter Faith Forum).

COVID-19 and other types of initiative

In April, a number of faith leaders made a statement of reflection responding to the COVID-19 crisis. <http://faithsforum.com/faiths-leaders-produce-a-statement-of-reflection-during-the-covid-crisis/>. This was an initiative of a temporary coalition of faith leaders and representatives responding to the pandemic, chaired by Maurice Ostro OBE of the Fayre Share Foundation, with the name ‘Faiths United’. IFN staff contribute on an ad hoc basis to the discussions.

The initiative was set up in late March to discuss how faith communities have been coping with the pandemic and to drive joint responses. It is serviced by Faiths Forum for London. More information can be found at <http://faithsforum.com/faithsunited/>. This includes a list of its members and examples of its work, such as a Clap for Carers video and setting up a new youth network <https://twitter.com/FaithsUnitedYN> (FUYN) the aims of which are bringing together young people from different faiths and none with common goals and passions to make a real difference“.

COVID-19 and charities

Many faith and inter faith organisations are registered charities. Information and advice that may be useful to charities and other voluntary organisations at this time can be found on IFN’s website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-and-charities>.

Challenges for charities at this time

Charities and other kinds of voluntary organisations are strongly committed to helping the vulnerable at this time of COVID-19 in all ways that they are able and they work year round to help the public in multiple ways. At the present time, a significant number of them – including faith based and inter faith charities – are seriously affected by the impacts of the pandemic.

The National Council for Voluntary Organisations (of which IFN is a member), which has led the sector in campaigning for Government support for charities during the current crisis, has estimated that the income lost by UK charities during the first 3 months of the COVID-19 crisis will be £4.3bn. A number of faith based bodies have taken part in this campaign.

Package of Government support for charities

In April the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Rt Hon Rishi Sunak MP, announced a package of Government funding for front line charities across the UK totalling £750m. Further information on this, and other examples of financial support during the crisis are in the Funding section below.

Scottish programme

Interfaith Scotland has been hosting regular on-line meetings for faith communities, local interfaith groups, and university chaplains as well as hosting regular public dialogues on topics of more general interest.

The Scottish Government has provided £29,000 to Interfaith Scotland to distribute small grants to help faith communities and local interfaith groups respond to COVID-19 at the grassroots level. To date over 40 local faith groups and inter faith bodies have accessed grants of up to £500. The projects funded include food and medicine distribution, translating government messages into BME languages, funding on-line platforms for keeping in touch with the lonely and isolated and preparing and distributing appropriate PPE.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week 2020

This year's Inter Faith Week takes place from Sunday 8 to Sunday 15 November. Last year was the biggest Week to date, with an amazing array of different activities and organisations holding these.

The aims of Inter Faith Week are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The Week begins each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace.

Below are some pointers and ideas which are provided in a context where the nature of the impact of COVID-19 in the Autumn cannot yet be known.

If you plan a physical gathering, ensure that it is held in a way which reflects the Government's COVID-19 guidance at the time (this may vary depending on the particular nation in the UK). Plan for any physical gathering with a 'virtual' fall back version of the event through use of technology such as Zoom and social media.

If you are thinking about an online opportunity for learning, mixing or helping your community to come together there are a number of things you might do, for example:

- Work with a selection of local places of worship to create online tours of these and assemble them into a faith trail that people can take part in online
- Hold a 'virtual' civic reception for local faith leaders and perhaps record a joint Inter Faith Week message about the importance of good inter faith relations in your area
- Hold an art or photo competition which can be judged online if necessary
- Create a calendar for 2021 with pictures taken of inter faith events, places of worship in your area or artwork from different communities
- Create an online quiz about the world's religions and hold the quiz online during the Week
- Create a blog or oral history project about the history of faith communities in your area, when inter faith activity began and how it has developed

- Interview members of local faith communities and non-religious belief groups about the idea of ‘service’ in their tradition and how their beliefs inspire them and their colleagues to work to help the wider community
- Hold an online ‘bake-in’ or ‘cook-in’ where people of different faiths share their recipes and show the finished item!
- If you are a member of a local inter faith group, across the coming months work with members to produce a short history of your group (if you don’t already have one!) with some reflections about why it’s work is so important and publish it during Inter Faith Week
- Set up an ‘inter faith buddy’ system where two people of different faiths are partnered and keep in touch across the months up to Inter Faith Week and share their reflections online during the Week (more details available if you would like to try this idea)
- If there are people still needing to self-isolate or be ‘shielded’ during Inter Faith Week, consider a safe way that you might encourage an inter faith team to volunteer and deliver a special ‘Inter Faith Week’ lunch with samples of foods from some of the different faith communities in the area
- Create an on-line ‘faith fair’ for your workplace or Student Union with information about different faiths and beliefs and opportunities to engage in online chats.
- Develop a new website or update your website – or the faith or inter faith section of it – and launch that in Inter Faith Week
- Create an exhibition about different faiths with display panels about each faith group in your area that could be exhibited in an open air space such as at your local rail/ bus station
- Host a webinar or other educational activity for the public
- Create an online exhibition of some of the artefacts in your museum linked to particular faiths, perhaps with talks from people of those faiths

These are just a few ideas. If you have more, we would love to hear! For further information, contact the Inter Faith Week team, interfaithweek@interfaith.org.uk.

Meetings of Faith Communities Forum

Virtual meetings of IFN’s Faith Communities Forum were held on 30 March and 30 April focusing on faith communities and COVID-19. The first of these looked at how faith communities are responding, with a particular focus on: places of worship; burial and cremation; and financial and management matters. It also considered: guidance; providing online worship, pastoral and educational resources; providing pastoral and practical support to members; the ‘digital gap’; and encouraging voluntary action to aid those in need. The second meeting looked at a number of the same issues relating to COVID-19, as well as funerals, chaplaincy, financial impacts, ethical principles and decisions on care and the issue of the disproportionate impact of COVID-19 on people from BAME backgrounds.

Meetings for National Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic Bodies

Among IFN's member bodies are inter faith organisations and programmes whose work is carried out at UK or national level or which, while regionally focused, are used by people across the country. They are important resources for people who want to get involved in inter faith activity. A number of these work primarily with particular religious traditions; others work with people of any religion or belief. Some of the organisations have a particular focus for their work, such as peace or education. To find out more about the work of these organisations, visit <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/members/list>.

A joint meeting for these bodies was held on 2 March. On the agenda were: Responding to the climate concerns, with presentations by the Revd Adam Dickens, the Multi-Faith Centre at the University of Derby and Ms Atmica Reddy, a post graduate student at Derby University, and Jamie Cresswell, Chair, Religions for Peace (UK); round table updates on member bodies' current inter faith work; issues of current interest and concern; and teaching and Learning about inter faith activity in the secondary phase.

A virtual meeting was held for National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations on 27 April to share news of how they are responding to COVID-19 and to discuss any particular COVID-19 related issues of interest and concern.

IFN meetings for local inter faith practitioners

IFN holds meetings for local inter faith groups to share news and good practice and learn from each other's work to strengthen their own and benefit their local areas. Some are for groups from across the UK. Others are for groups within a particular region or a county. Meetings took place as planned in Maidstone, in late February, for local inter faith bodies in Kent, and in early March in Preston for groups in the North West of England. A meeting for groups from across the UK in Reading due for late March had to be cancelled due to the increased impact of COVID-19.

At both meetings there was sharing of news from each of the groups represented, and discussion of topical issues of interest and concern. There were also Agenda Items on Inter Faith Week, and on experiences and views of places of worship 'open door' days. At the Kent meeting, there was a presentation by Kent County Council on its involvement in Inter Faith Week and at the North West meeting, there were opening reflections from Preston Faith Forum about its Inter Faith Week activity. The Preston meeting was kindly hosted by the Oasis Faith and Spirituality Centre at the University of Central Lancashire.

IFN Annual Review and National Meeting report

Since the last issue of the e-bulletin the latest Inter Faith Network for the UK Annual Review has been published: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/annual-reviews>. It records a year of extensive activity on many fronts to which members contributed. Key themes in the year were grassroots local inter faith activity; deepening of understanding and cooperation at many levels; solidarity in the face of terrorism, extremism and hate crime; broadening of inter faith engagement, for example through the biggest Inter Faith Week to date; religious literacy; and sharing of good practice.

The report on IFN's 2019 National Meeting on 'The changing face of local inter faith dialogue and cooperation' has been added to IFN's website.

ONS statistics on religious identities in England and Wales

In 2017, the Office for National Statistics' (ONS's) Centre for Equalities and Inclusion began an audit of equalities data to identify the sources of data available to understand the experiences of people in the UK across the nine protected characteristics covered by the Equality Act 2010. The audit aimed to highlight where gaps exist in the quality and coverage of equalities statistics and was a starting point to take forward work with others to prioritise and fill the gaps.

Coming out of this work, the ONS has published five documents which present the statistics that are currently available to describe the experiences of people of different religious identities in England and Wales. They aim to take stock of what statistics currently exist and to describe plans to address the gaps in what we know. The topics covered are:

- Exploring religion in England and Wales
- Religion and health in England and Wales
- Religion and crime in England and Wales
- Religion and participation in England and Wales
- Religion, education and work in England and Wales

The publications are available at

COVID-19 funding

In April the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Rt Hon Rishi Sunak MP, announced a package of Government funding for front line charities across the UK totalling £750m. This figure is made up of:

- £360m allocated by different Government departments to charities working in areas under the purview of their department;
- £370m for smaller charities, including a grant to the National Lottery Community Fund (which will then distribute it); and
- A minimum of £20m which the Government pledged to contribute as part of matching pound-for-pound donations to the National Emergencies Trust which were generated through the BBC's Big Night In fundraiser on 23 April.

Funding from this overall package is being allocated to the devolved nations using the Barnett formula (<https://commonslibrary.parliament.uk/research-briefings/cbp-7386/>). Further information about the funding is available at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/chancellor-sets-out-extra-750-million-coronavirus-funding-for-frontline-charities>.

The National Lottery Community Fund (NLCF) programme for smaller charities opened on 22 May. Grants will allow organisations to meet service costs, where they are experiencing increased demand and/or short-term income disruption. Grants will also allow organisations to refocus services to address more immediate beneficiary needs in light of COVID-19.

The Government funding is being distributed by the NLCF, alongside Lottery funding. The information notes that “If you're a group that's looking for government funding, because you can't accept funding from The National Lottery, please tell us in your application.”

The Department for Food and Rural Affairs has set up a Food Charities Grant Fund, which may be useful to faith and inter faith organisations running food banks. Grants of up to £100,000 are available. Charities may apply as a group in order to meet the criteria.

This guidance, further updated on 4

August, provides “key principles that should help us all make decisions that ensure we can all take part in special religious services and gatherings safely.”

On 31 July the Prime Minister announced that on 8 August the use of face coverings would become compulsory in places of worship.

Temporary lockdowns

Some areas have experienced renewed restrictions due to rise in the numbers of cases of COVID-19. These have included Aberdeen, Leicester, Greater Manchester, Blackburn with Darwen, Burnley, Hyndburn, Pendleton, Rossendale, Bradford, Kirklees, Calderdale and Preston. This affected Eid, Rakshabhandan and Janmashtami celebrations in a number of areas.

The impact of COVID-19 on BAME communities

People of many backgrounds have died with COVID-19. There is, however, a higher death rate among those of Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) backgrounds – as there is within the Jewish community. There is significant overlap between BAME groups and particular faith communities and sections of those and some are seeing a sharply increased rate of deaths.

On 19 June the Office for National Statistics (ONS) released data on ‘deaths involving the coronavirus (COVID-19) by religious group’ in England and Wales.

The ONS summary notes that: “The highest age-standardised mortality rates (ASMRs) of deaths involving COVID-19 were in the Muslim religious group with 198.9 deaths per 100,000 males and 98.2 deaths per 100,000 females; people who identified as Jewish, Hindu or Sikh also showed higher mortality rates than other groups.” And that “When taking account of region, population density, socio-demographic and household characteristics, and ethnic background, those who identified as Jewish at the time of the 2011 Census showed an increased risk of a death involving COVID-19 compared with the Christian population; Jewish males were at twice the risk of Christian males, with the difference in females being 1.2 times greater risk (additional data and analyses are required to understand this excess risk).”

England

On 2 June the Government published the report of Public Health England, ‘COVID-19: review of disparities in risks and outcomes’. The review looked at different factors including: age and sex; where people live; deprivation; ethnicity; people’s occupation; and care home residence. As part of the work towards this, a wide pattern of stakeholder outreach took place, led by Professor Kevin Fenton. The report, when published, did not draw on material from that.

On 16 June the Government published ‘A summary of stakeholder insights into factors affecting the impact of coronavirus (COVID-19) on black, Asian and minority ethnic (BAME) communities’ <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-understanding-the-impact-on-bame-communities/> These factors included medical and social factors including racism and social and economic equalities. Published with it was a letter from the Chief Executive of PHE setting out the seven recommendations from the report. This report contains extensive reference to the important role of faith within BAME communities, noting that “Faith communities played a vital role in engaging with communities and were a trusted source of information, leadership and engagement and needed to be better engaged in future efforts to build community resilience and prepare communities for the immediate and long-term challenges of COVID-19.”

It was announced at the end of July that UK scientists were to receive millions of pounds of Government funding for a raft of studies to learn why people from an ethnic minority background are at greater risk from COVID-19. Six projects will analyse data on social circumstances, health and day-to-day activities, as well as investigating genetic risk factors. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/health-53565655> The funding bodies are UK Research and Innovation (UKRI) and the National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) <https://www.ukri.org/news/multimillion-investment-to-investigate-covid-19-and-ethnicity/>

Scotland

On 9 June First Minister of Scotland, Ms Nicola Sturgeon, announced that she was “establishing a new expert reference group, made up of academics and other advisers. That group will consider the evidence on Covid-19 in Scotland – including the data provided by NHS Scotland, National Records of Scotland and Public Health Scotland – to assess the impact of the virus on minority ethnic communities.” <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-update-first-ministers-speech-09-june-2020/>

Wales

In Wales an article was published on 22 June summarising findings of an advisory group that had been set up in May to examine the issue. <https://gov.wales/wales-bame-covid-19-health-advisory-group-takes-cross-government-approach> <https://gov.wales/coronavirus-covid-19-and-black-asian-and-minority-ethnic-bame-population-wales>.

Labour Party Inquiry

On 24 April the Labour Party announced that it would be holding an enquiry, led by Baroness Lawrence. Some 'hearings' arranged by Liam Byrne MP and others took place in June in Birmingham <https://www.birminghammail.co.uk/news/midlands-news/hear-pain-covid19-families-share-18399115> These will feed into the enquiry.

EHRC Inquiry

On 5 June the Equality and Human Rights Commission announced an inquiry into the impact of COVID-19 on ethnic minorities.

COVID-19 and faith communities

One of the key roles of the Inter Faith Network for the UK is sharing information and good practice. Since the crisis began IFN has held monthly meetings of its Faith Communities Forum with a COVID-19 focus (see below) and been regularly sharing faith and inter faith responses on social media and sending regular updates by email to its member bodies.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/social-media>

It has also created a special section on its website about faith and inter faith responses.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19>.

Most faith communities have issued guidance for their communities and are updating this on a regular basis. IFN has been collating a list of these on its website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/faith-communities-and-coronavirus>.

Examples in regard to festivals include guidance from the Mosques and Imams National Advisory Board and the Muslim Council of Britain about Eid and from the Hindu Council UK for devotees marking Janmashtami.

Spiritual/pastoral support

Since the start of COVID-19, chaplains have played a very important part in response within hospitals. This has been flagged up by members and profiled in a number of IFN social media posts, including

<https://www.facebook.com/553910267992886/posts/3025663064150915/> and <https://www.facebook.com/553910267992886/posts/3077490262301528/>.

It was also the subject of a special input to the Faith Communities Forum meeting in July by the Chair of the Network for Pastoral, Spiritual and Religious Care in Health, the Revd Mark Burleigh.

Assistance to those in need

Faith-based initiatives have continued to play a very important part in supporting those in need as well as providing assistance and moral support to NHS and other key workers. These have included provision of food and personal protective equipment, visits, and special 'thank you' videos. Many examples of these can be seen at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-acts-of-kindness-and-service>.

Examples of just a few are also listed below.

Volunteers created The Sikh Foodbank in Scotland in late March to aid shielding and struggling households from all backgrounds. By August it had served up 80,000 meals to vulnerable people and is continuing to provide food for those in need, including those affected by job loss. <https://www.thenational.scot/news/18639209.sikh-foodbank-continue-operating-80-000-lockdown-meals/>

St Mark's Church in Caia Park in Wrexham, close to the location of recent coronavirus mobile testing units, has issued more than 600 CE approved face shields for anyone in need of PPE. <https://www.leaderlive.co.uk/news/18630480.covid-19-wrexham-church-distributes-ppe-amid-spike-cases/>

Ashton-Under-Lyne's Hindu temple has helped its local community during the Coronavirus pandemic with a range of charitable acts, helping out at Tameside Hospital, Ashton Police Station and Dukinfield Ambulance service, providing food and supplies alongside letters of appreciation. <https://www.questmedianetwork.co.uk/news/tameside-reporter/ashton-temple-steps-forward-for-the-community/>

An inter faith social action group run out of Kol Chai Reform Synagogue in London collectively sewed around 50 sets of scrubs, as well as other types of PPE such as arm protectors. <https://www.thejc.com/sew-far-so-good-as-north-london-ppe-team-fill-an-nhs-need-1.500669>

SewaDay has carried out a wide programme of volunteering across the UK. For example, SewaDay NorthWest has transported supplies to a number of food banks in Greater Manchester.

Access to food during COVID-19

On 22 July the British Red Cross published a report on 'Access to food in emergencies: learning from Covid-19' <https://www.redcross.org.uk/about-us/what-we-do/we-speak-up-for-change/access-to-food-in-emergencies>. BAME communities are mentioned in the report in the context of higher vulnerability and of need. Faith-based volunteering initiatives have been very prominent during the pandemic – including Christian, Hindu, Jain, Jewish, Muslim, Sikh and other initiatives where there is overlap between faith and BAME communities - providing support to others.

The report makes particular mention of the issue of appropriateness of food package contents for people of different religions and beliefs, noting that “The British Red Cross believes that emergency food provision should be personalised. It should meet dietary and medical requirements, considering factors like religious beliefs, allergies, eating abilities or availability of cooking equipment” and “Food should be a central part of any humanitarian emergency response. Every person should have access to food that meets their dietary requirements and personal circumstances no matter who they are or where they live in an emergency.”

Hope and inspiration

There have been a number of multi faith videos released to reflect solidarity and inspire hope at this time of Covid19. Examples of some recent ones include these ones from Barnet Multi Faith Forum, Brighton and Hove Contact Group, Interfaith Glasgow, , Interfaith Council for Wales and Lewisham Interfaith Forum.

The impact of COVID-19 on charities

Many faith and inter faith organisations are registered charities. Information and advice that may be useful to charities and other voluntary organisations at this time can be found on IFN’s website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-and-charities>.

COVID-19 has also had an impact on the resources of places of worship and faith-based charities. The previous issue of IFN’s e-bulletin drew to the #Nevermoreneeded campaign which had been initiated by NCVO and others.

The hit on income from less bookings from space renters; drop in some cases in charitable donations due to people not attending regular worship and festivals; loss in a few cases from tourist income; and other COVID related complications continue to have an impact. This BBC story from 26 July highlights the high impact on Westminster Abbey <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-london-53538741> and notes that the Association of English Cathedrals, which represents Westminster Abbey and the Church of England's 42 cathedrals has warned job cuts will hit churches around the country when the government's job retention scheme ends in October. It also notes that many places of worship around the country are struggling financially. It cites Singh Sabha London East, which typically received about £80,000 a month in donations from attendees and has lost 90% of its monthly income (nonetheless providing more than 4,000 meals to NHS staff and other key workers).

The #NeverMoreNeeded campaign is asking the Government to: “ recognise that existing measures do not do enough to enable charities to continue to deliver essential services that have never been more needed ... ; ensure the distribution of funding available is speedy and efficient, and that equality and human rights are designed in from the outset, so that we meet everyone’s needs and that decision making is transparent; [and] make necessary regulatory changes to existing schemes to make them fit for purpose for charities and voluntary organisations.” It is also asking “Ministers and officials to work with the charity and voluntary sector to address the medium and long-term scale of the financial challenge ahead, and to ensure that the critical support charities provide will continue to be able to meet need and make a vital contribution to rebuilding our society.” Further information is at <https://nmn.org.uk/>.

#BlackLivesMatter

Thousands have protested in the USA in the wake of the killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis on 25 May as well as in response to other deaths and acts of brutality and to racism today and across recent centuries. The UK has also seen a number of such protests.

Following its meeting on 9 June IFN’s Board of Trustees offered the following reflections: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/blacklivesmatter-reflections-from-the-board-of-ifn-at-its-meeting-on-9-june-2020>.

Many faith and inter faith bodies have been responding. For example, the Board of Deputies of British Jews has established a Commission on Racial Inclusivity in the Jewish Community <https://www.bod.org.uk/board-of-deputies-to-launch-commission-on-racial-inclusivity-in-the-jewish-community/> and the Church of England has established a Racism Action Commission <https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/news/new-task-force-ensure-action-over-racism-church-england> Responses from a number of IFN member bodies can be seen at: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/ifn-member-responses-to-killing-of-george-floyd-subsequent-events-and-racial-injustice>. Faith leaders have also come together in a number of areas of the UK to stand in solidarity, for example in St Albans <https://www.hertsad.co.uk/news/black-lives-matter-st-albans-faith-leaders-1-6740257> and Basingstoke <https://www.basingstokegazette.co.uk/news/18506834.black-lives-matter-religious-leaders-unite-call-change-basingstoke/>.

Windrush Cross-Government Working Group

A Windrush Cross-Government Working Group was launched in June by the Home Secretary Priti Patel. It is co-chaired by Bishop Derek Webley and the Home Secretary and met for the first time on 25 June. The Working Group is not holding a new inquiry, but is, rather, an implementation group especially for the recommendations made in the Wendy Williams Windrush Lessons Learned Review (published March 2020). <https://www.voice-online.co.uk/windrush/2020/06/22/windrush-cross-government-working-group-launched/>

Hate crime, extremism and conspiracy theories

Hate crime

Lockdown has not seen the disappearance of hate crime. Incidents include a swastika burnt onto a golf course in Blackpool; graffitiing of streets in Brighton <https://www.theargus.co.uk/news/18633898.hove-anti-islam-graffiti-bahman-khorsandian-curfew/>, a recent incident in Leeds <https://www.leeds-live.co.uk/news/leeds-news/jewish-woman-describes-life-racism-18737963> and anti Muslim hate mail received recently by MPs in Manchester <https://www.manchestereveningnews.co.uk/news/greater-manchester-news/mp-wakes-up-very-offensive-18734435>.

The Community Security Trust reported in its January to June 2020 report 789 Antisemitic incidents across the UK during that period, the third highest total that CST has recorded in the January to June period of any year.

A study by Newcastle and Northumbria universities has found that more than 80% of Muslim people in the North East have experienced racism and three-quarters think it's getting worse. The Bahr Academy in Newcastle has been broken into twice this year and ransacked with racist graffiti daubed on the walls. <https://www.itv.com/news/tyne-tees/2020-07-22/you-dont-belong-here-islamophobia-concerns-as-report-finds-racism-experienced-by-80-of-muslims-in-the-north-east>

Online attacks are also a feature of the current hate landscape. For example, on 29 June a Women's Interfaith Network Zoom meeting on Faith and COVID was hacked by racists and

In the first half of 2020, CST received ten reports of educational or religious online events hijacked with Antisemitic content.

In July the artist known as Wiley published a number of Antisemitic tweets on Twitter. A delay in these being taken down led to a 48 hour boycott with the hashtag #NoSafeSpaceForJewHate by the Chief Rabbi and others. The social network eventually banned Wiley for violating its "hateful conduct" policy - a day after Facebook and Instagram had deleted the music star's accounts for "repeated violations" of their rules.
<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/technology-53581771>

In Scotland, the Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Bill was introduced the Scottish Government on 23 April. It seeks to: update existing laws; bring most of these into one bill; and add to the groups currently specifically protected by hate crime laws. A copy of the Bill and the accompanying documents can be found at <https://www.gov.scot/policies/crime-prevention-and-reduction/hate-crime/> and <https://beta.parliament.scot/bills/hate-crime-and-public-order-scotland-bill>.

In May 2020 the Scottish Parliament Justice Committee launched a call for views on the Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Bill. This closed on 24 July.
<https://www.parliament.scot/parliamentarybusiness/CurrentCommittees/115038.aspx>
There has been much public debate over the extent to which the proposed Act would constrain freedom of speech. The following blog seeks to address what the Government views as some misperceptions: <https://blogs.gov.scot/justice-safety/2020/06/15/the-hate-crime-and-public-order-scotland-bill/>.

Extremism and conspiracy theories

In July, the Commission on Countering Extremism published a report looking at the way in which extremists have sought to exploit the current pandemic. Along with highlighting harmful conspiracy theories, the report refers to how extremists have been spreading disinformation and fake news about minority groups which has been used by sympathisers to incite hatred and violence.

Terrorism

On 20 June three people were murdered and three seriously injured in a knife attack by a man in Reading. This was subsequently classified as a terrorist related attack. The motives of the individual, who appears to have had mental health problems, remains unclear. The following day a statement was issued on behalf of the Board and Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-following-terrorist-attack-in-reading>

A police appeal to the public early in the lockdown, to take part in the Action Counters Terrorism (ACT) e-Learning course while working at home, has resulted in nearly 70,000 signing up to be 'CT Citizens'. Overall half a million participants have signed up since the course was launched two years ago. ACT Awareness can be found at <https://ct.highfieldelearning.com/>.

VJ Day 75th anniversary Commemorations

The 75th anniversary of VJ Day (Victory over Japan) will be held on 15 August, commemorating the end of the Second World War.

The Royal British Legion notes: "Remembrance honours those who serve to defend our democratic freedoms and way of life. We unite across faiths, cultures and backgrounds to remember the service and sacrifice of the Armed Forces community from Britain and the Commonwealth."

More information on how to get involved in marking the anniversary can be found at <https://ve-vjday75.gov.uk/vjday/> and <https://www.britishlegion.org.uk/get-involved/remembrance/remembrance-events/vj-day-75>.

The Royal British Legion has created a digital map of the Commonwealth African and Asian nations from WW2, together with Nepal, that were part of the war effort in the Asia-Pacific. The map allows members of the public to leave their Remembrance messages next to one of the countries. It can be found at <https://www.britishlegion.org.uk/get-involved/remembrance/remembrance-events/vj-day/vj-day-map>.

IFN's Inter Faith Week website includes a resource that highlights the contributions of people of different faiths and beliefs in conflicts and the importance of multi faith remembrance. <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>

UK Freedom of Religion and Belief Forum

In July it was announced that a new UK Freedom of Religion and Belief (FoRB) Forum will be launched in September. The setting up of the Forum was one of the recommendations in the report on the review carried out by the Bishop of Truro, the Rt Revd Philip Mounstephen, on Foreign and Commonwealth Office support for persecuted Christians, published last year.

The Forum, which is still gathering representation from civil-society organisations, NGOs, academic organisations, and the Government, will be responsible for raising awareness of religion-based restrictions, intolerance, and discrimination around the world; inform UK policy-making on FoRB and make recommendations for action; and be in liaison with the Prime Minister's Special Envoy on FoRB and the All-Party Parliamentary Group on FoRB. <https://www.churchtimes.co.uk/articles/2020/10-july/news/uk/bishop-of-truro-to-chair-new-freedom-of-religion-and-belief-forum>

Climate change conference postponed

Recent issues of IFN's e-bulletin have carried information about the work of faith communities and the environment.

The COP26 UN climate change conference set to take place in Glasgow in November, with which a number of UK faith communities were involved, has been postponed due to COVID-19. Dates for a rescheduled conference in 2021, hosted in Glasgow by the UK in partnership with Italy, will be set out in due course. <https://unfccc.int/news/cop26-postponed>

Inter Faith Week 2020

This year's Inter Faith Week www.interfaithweek.org takes place in England, Northern Ireland and Wales from Sunday 8 to Sunday 15 November. Its aims of Inter Faith Week are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The Week begins each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace. A dedicated page about this can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>.

IFN leads on the Week, in consultation with the Inter Faith Council for Wales and Northern Ireland Inter Faith Forum in relation to the Week in their respective nations, and provides a dedicated website at: www.interfaithweek.org Scottish Interfaith Week takes place at the same time and Interfaith Scotland leads on that: <http://scottishinterfaithweek.org/>

This year, because of COVID-19, Inter Faith Week will be predominantly virtual.

Here are just a few ideas for Inter Faith Week activities in that context:

- Work with a selection of local places of worship to create online tours of these and assemble them into a faith trail that people can take part in online
- Hold a 'virtual' civic reception for local faith leaders and perhaps record a joint Inter Faith Week message about the importance of good inter faith relations in your area
- Hold an art or photo competition which can be judged online if necessary
- Create a calendar for 2021 with pictures taken of inter faith events, places of worship in your area or artwork from different communities
- Create an online quiz about the world's religions and hold the quiz online during the Week
- Create a blog or oral history project about the history of faith communities in your area, when inter faith activity began and how it has developed
- Interview, for a video or as part of virtual meeting, members or colleagues of different faith and non-religious belief backgrounds about the idea of 'service' in their tradition and how their beliefs inspire them and their colleagues to work to help the wider community
- Hold an online 'bake-in' or 'cook-in' where people of different faiths share their recipes and show the finished item!
- If you are a member of a local inter faith group, across the coming months work with members to produce a short history of your group (if you don't already have one!) with some reflections about why it's work is so important and publish it during Inter Faith Week
- Set up an 'Inter Faith Week Buddy' experience where two people, each of a different faith or non-religious belief keep in touch across September and October and share during Inter Faith Week some of what they have gained from this
- If there are people still needing to self-isolate or be 'shielded' during Inter Faith Week, consider a safe way that you might encourage an inter faith team to volunteer and deliver a special 'Inter Faith Week' lunch with samples of foods from some of the different faith communities in the area
- Create an on-line 'faith fair' for your workplace or Student Union with information about different faiths and beliefs and opportunities to engage in online chats.

- Develop a new website or update your website – or the faith or inter faith section of it – and launch that in Inter Faith Week
- Create an exhibition about different faiths with display panels about each faith group in your area that could be exhibited in an open air space such as at your local rail/ bus station
- Host a webinar or other educational activity for the public
- Create an online exhibition of some of the artefacts in your museum linked to particular faiths, perhaps with talks from people of those faiths

There are more ideas at www.interfaithweek.org and further detail about the ‘Inter Faith Week buddies’ scheme can be obtained from the IFN office.

On 29 July, IFN hosted a webinar for local, regional and national inter faith organisations focussed on preparing for Inter Faith Week 2020. This included a range of presentations and covered topics including widening involvement in the Week, using social media to add impact, practical pointers for holding activities at a time of COVID-19, planning virtual pilgrimages/ faith walks, thinking through virtual vs physical activities, and creating video messages. A recording of the webinar can be seen at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/webinars>.

Across August and September, IFN will be making a number of further announcements about Inter Faith Week. Follow Inter Faith Week on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram or sign up to the mailing list to keep in touch with news and ideas! ### Faiths United

As noted in IFN's last e-bulletin a temporary coalition of faith leaders and representatives responding to the pandemic, chaired by Maurice Ostro OBE of the Fayre Share Foundation, with the name 'Faiths United' was formed (<http://faithsforum.com/faiths-united/>). An IFN staff member continues to contribute on an ad hoc basis to the discussions.

During the period of the easing of the COVID-19 lockdown restrictions, Faiths United has continued to explore issues that are affecting communities with inputs from the National Bereavement Service, Teach First, United for Global Mental Health, and the National Police Chiefs' Council as well as an input from Leicester about how local lockdowns work.

It is also exploring the role that faith communities can play in responding to the pandemic, such as the Test and Trace programme.

A Faiths United Youth Network (<http://faithsforum.com/faiths-united-youth-network/>) has been running a programme called JOY, linking an elderly member of one faith community with a young member of another faith community to help initiate interfaith and inter-generational dialogue, working on issues around Black Lives Matter as well as running a Wednesday webinar series. It is holding a competition called Connected Communities, see below for details.

RESOURCES AND STUDY/TRAINING

Report on Cohesive Societies: Faith and Belief

In July a report entitled ‘Cohesive Societies: Faith and Belief’ was published. It explores the role of faith and nonreligious belief in cohesive societies. It charts social cohesion policy in the UK as it relates to faith and belief, and examines the practical impact of the faith and belief sector on communities through a series of case studies. This report was externally commissioned by the Faith and Belief Forum (FBF) and the British Academy, and authored by Dr Madeleine Pennington, Head of Research at Theos. The report makes a contribution to the Academy’s Cohesive Societies programme which asks how societies sustain cohesiveness in the face of rapid political, social, economic and technological change. It “explores the different ways in which faith and belief interacts with societal cohesion” and has a particular emphasis on how faith organisations interact with communities.”

In response to the report, FBF is planning a series of roundtables. Further information from: Jessica Hazrati jessica@faithbeliefforum.org.

The contents of the toolkit may have some applicability to other faith communities’ partnership work.

Current COVID-19 rules - Places of worship, weddings and funerals

England

On 12 October the UK Government introduced a new three tier system of local COVID Alert Levels for England: Medium, High and Very High which took effect from 14 October.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/prime-minister-announces-new-local-covid-alert-levels> <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/local-covid-alert-levels-what-you-need-to-know>

However, on 31 October the UK Government announced that new national restrictions would be in place across the whole of England from 5 November, for at least 4 weeks. <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/new-national-restrictions-from-5-november#weddings-civil-partnerships-religious-services-and-funerals>

In a statement in the House of Lords, Faith Minister Lord Greenhalgh said:

“...[We] have come to a critical point in the fight against Covid-19. The R rate is above one across England, and the ONS estimates that an average of one in 100 people has the virus. To protect the NHS and get the R rate below one, we must limit our interaction with others. Therefore, with great regret, while places of worship will remain open for individual prayer, communal worship cannot take place at this time.”

The main guidance on safe use of places of worship is expected to be updated today (6 November). <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-during-the-pandemic-from-4-july>

The rules on weddings, civil partnerships, religious services and funerals are as follows:

- Funerals can be attended by a maximum of 30 people, and it is advised that only close friends and family attend. Linked ceremonial events such as stone settings and ash scatterings can also continue with up to 15 people in attendance. Anyone working is not included. Social distancing should be maintained between people who do not live together or share a support bubble.
- Weddings, civil partnership ceremonies will not be permitted to take place except in exceptional circumstances.
- Places of Worship will be closed, unless they are being used for:
  - Funerals
  - To broadcast acts of worship
  - Individual prayer
  - Formal childcare or where part of a school
  - Essential voluntary and public services, such as blood donation or food banks
  - Other exempted activities such as some support groups

A number of faith community leaders have written to the Prime Minister with concerns about the prevention of communal worship:

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/nov/03/faith-leaders-challenge-england-lockdown-ban-on-communal-worship-coronavirus> .

Scotland

On 23 October the Scottish Government announced the introduction of five protection levels, which came into effect on 2 November.

Level 0:

- Places of worship - open, restricted to 50 people
- Weddings/civil partnerships – 50 person limit
- Funerals – 50 person limit
- Wakes and receptions permitted - 50 person limit

Levels 1, 2 and 3:

- Places of worship – open, restricted to 50 people
- Weddings/civil partnerships – 20 person limit
- Funerals – 20 person limit
- Wakes and receptions permitted - 20 person limit

Level 4:

- Places of worship – open, restricted to 20 people
- Weddings/civil partnerships – 15 person limit
- Funerals – 20 person limit
- Wakes permitted - 20 person limit
- No receptions

The Scottish Government's guidance for the safe use of places of worship, last updated on 8 October, is at <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-phase-3-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship/pages/capacity/>.

Wales

A two week national lockdown began in Wales on 23 October. Places of worship are not allowed to open to the public, other than for wedding or civil partnership ceremonies or funerals, where people can attend at the invitation of the organiser. Guidance is at <https://gov.wales/guidance-funerals-covid-19> . Ministers may access the place of worship to broadcast (without a congregation) an act of worship or funeral, whether over the internet or as part of a radio or television broadcast. <https://gov.wales/coronavirus-circuit-break-frequently-asked-questions#section-53267>

A new set of rules will apply in Wales from 9 November. <https://gov.wales/new-national-covid-measures-for-wales-first-minister-says-people-not-rules-are-key-to-our-response>
Under these, places of worship will be able to reopen and resume services.

Northern Ireland

New restrictions for the whole of Northern Ireland came into force on 16 October for four weeks. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Places of worship can remain open. Religious activities can continue to take place in line with relevant guidance. There is no restriction on numbers attending religious activities, but a limit of 15 otherwise applies in places of worship (25 for weddings and funerals).

The impact of COVID-19 on BAME communities

On 22 October the Government published the first quarterly report on progress to address the findings of Public Health England's (PHE) review into disparities in the risks and outcomes of COVID-19. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/quarterly-report-on-progress-to-address-covid-19-health-inequalities> This report summarises the work undertaken by the Minister for Equalities and government departments on COVID-19 disparities. The PHE review set out some of what was known at the time about COVID-19 and ethnicity. As there is a significant overlap between some ethnic groups and faith communities, IFN assisted PHE England on the stakeholder input process and this Review was highlighted at the time by IFN and a focus of discussion by its Faith Communities Forum. The Race Disparity Unit has been working collaboratively across government and with the Office for National Statistics, and is liaising with universities and researchers to build an evidence base and to get a better understanding of what is driving these disparities.

On 27 October the report was published of the Labour Party review, led by Baroness Doreen Lawrence, into the disproportionate impact of Covid-19 on Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) communities. <https://www.lawrencereview.co.uk/>

COVID-19 and faith communities

One of the key roles of the Inter Faith Network for the UK is sharing information and good practice. Since the crisis began IFN has held monthly meetings of its Faith Communities

Forum and been regularly sharing faith and inter faith responses on social media and sending regular updates by email to its member bodies.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/social-media>

It has also created a special section on its website about faith and inter faith responses.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19>.

Festivals

The coming two months include a number of festivals and days of observance of different faith communities including Diwali and Bandi Chhor Diwas; the Martyrdom Of Guru Tegh Bahadur; Advent Sunday; the Birthday of Guru Nanak; Bodhi Day; Hanukah; the Winter Solstice/Yule; Christmas; and Zaratost no Diso.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/religious-festivals>

The UK Government guidance on marking religious festivals during the pandemic is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-during-the-pandemic-from-4-july/special-religious-services-and-gatherings-covid-19-checklist>. The new lockdown in England will affect more significantly than the previous restriction level the marking of those which fall from now until 2 December.

Faith communities continue to explore new ways to celebrate online and many local authorities, museums and other institutions are adding to this with online celebrations, specially themed programmes and exhibitions. For example, the city of Leicester's celebrations <https://www.leicestermercury.co.uk/news/leicester-news/citys-diwali-day-celebrations-go-4622137>, the fourth annual West Midlands Combined Authority and Indian Consulate, Birmingham Diwali celebration <https://www.wmca.org.uk/news/west-midlands-diwali-celebrations-go-online-this-year/>, an online celebration in Northampton, where residents are being invited to make their own lights to join in <https://www.northamptonchron.co.uk/whats-on/things-to-do/northampton-residents-encouraged-make-their-own-lights-display-virtual-diwali-festival-3015197>, digital Diwali in Edinburgh, <https://www.whatsoninedinburgh.co.uk/event/091912-digital-diwali-2020/>, 'Diwali online' at the National Maritime Museum <https://www.rmg.co.uk/see-do/exhibitions-events/diwali-festival-of-light>, and the University of Durham's Diwali Festival <https://www.dur.ac.uk/attractions/explorefromhome/festivals/faith/diwali/>.

Assistance to those in need

The National Emergency Trust (NET) has been raising and distributing funds to grassroots organisations during the pandemic. Details are at <https://nationalemergenciestrust.org.uk/coronavirus/>. NET is in the process of developing case studies of how funding is being used and is planning to share some of these as part of Inter Faith Week.

IFN's Assistant Director was invited to give a presentation to NET's Equity Security Group in October about the responses faith communities and inter faith bodies have made to the crisis.

Faith-based volunteering continues to be a vital resource for many in need at this time. Although shielding is not required during the new lockdown in England or under current restrictions in other nations, a number of initiatives are continuing to provide food to those in need – including through food banks and support of those.

For example, Darlington Gurdwara has been donating its large supply of foods and ingredients to Food For Thought Darlington, a volunteer run initiative which salvages food destined for the skip in order to provide hot meals for those in need across the community. <https://www.thenorthernecho.co.uk/news/18776726.darlington-sikh-gurdwara-donates-food-supplies-vulnerable-people> Telford and Wrekin Interfaith Council has been delivering food parcels, 70% of which have been delivered to members of the BAME community. The Council has also partnered with the Borough Council to provide breakfast to families whose children were in receipt of free school meals. <https://www.shropshirestar.com/news/local-hubs/telford/2020/09/15/telford-faith-councils-work-to-help-communities-during-lockdown> The BAPS mandir in Neasden, has been supporting its local community in Brent distributing food to those in need in partnership with Brent Youth People Thrive and Kilburn (Brent) COVID-19 Mutual Aid.

Government/faith community engagement

There continues to be a pattern of meetings by Government with individual faith communities in England (including recent faith community roundtables and a task force meeting) and with cross-faith groupings in Scotland and Wales.

There is also extensive engagement by local authorities with local faith groups and inter faith structures, for example the Essex Strategic Coordination Group (SCG) led by Essex Council established a Faith and Communities Working Group and Tower Hamlets Inter Faith Forum and the London Borough of Tower Hamlets held a joint workshop on what to do in an outbreak. <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/tower-hamlets-faith-and-covid-19-series-what-to-do-in-an-outbreak-tickets-117016801403>

The West Midlands Combined Authority is working with faith communities to create a new faith strategic partnership group which will work together and with the WMCA to respond to urgent challenges, including Covid-19 and its consequences. <https://www.wmca.org.uk/news/call-to-join-new-strategic-faith-partnership/>

Research projects

There are a number of academic projects exploring responses to the pandemic by communities and faith based organisations. For example, the University of Wolverhampton, Birmingham Voluntary Sector Council and Coventry University are working on behalf of the West Midlands Combined Authority to understand / capture the range of responses from the social economy sector including voluntary and community organisations, faith groups, mutual aid groups, neighbourhood groups and the social enterprises.

Financial impacts

Faith communities and inter faith organisations are among the many charity and voluntary organisations which continue to be impacted financially by the pandemic.

According to data collected as part of a new research project, Respond, Recover, Reset: The Voluntary Sector and Covid-19, led by Nottingham Trent University, the National Council for Voluntary Organisations and Sheffield Hallam University, the devastating financial impact of coronavirus has left nearly 40 per cent of charities and community groups in a worsening financial situation. <https://www.thirdsector.co.uk/covid-19-crisis-force-one-10-charities-close-within-year-research-warns/management/article/1698282> The difficulties are highlighted in a recent blog relating to the national lockdown in England by Karl Wilding, Chief Executive of the National Council for Voluntary Organisations (NCVO). <https://blogs.ncvo.org.uk/2020/11/04/the-impact-of-a-second-lockdown/> The NCVO has a number of resources and guidance relating to the potential impacts of coronavirus on the operations of charities and voluntary organisations. <https://knowhow.ncvo.org.uk/coronavirus/contingency-planning-and-financial-implications>

Remembrance Sunday

Around 10,000 people usually gather at the Cenotaph in London each year for the National Service of Remembrance and the two minute silence at 11am. This year, for the first time in history, the event will be closed to members of the public in line with the latest medical and scientific advice. <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/public-asked-not-to-gather-at-the-cenotaph-for-remembrance-sunday-due-to-coronavirus>

Remembrance Sunday events will still be able to go ahead across the UK, but in line with restrictions in each of the nations. Updated guidance on this for England is now at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/local-authority-preparations-for-remembrance-sunday/local-authority-preparations-for-remembrance-sunday>.

Information on holding Remembrance events in Scotland is at <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-remembrance-2020/>. Information on holding Remembrance events in Wales is at <https://gov.wales/coronavirus-firebreak-frequently-asked-questions#section-53846>. Remembrance events are among the exemptions for gatherings in the highest tier areas of Northern Ireland. ## EHRC report of Investigation into Antisemitism in the Labour Party

On 29 October the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) published the report of its investigation into Antisemitism in the Labour Party, which it began in May 2019. The EHRC says that the investigation “identified serious failings in the Labour Party leadership in addressing antisemitism and an inadequate process for handling antisemitism complaints. The Party is responsible for three breaches of the Equality Act (2010) relating to: political interference in antisemitism complaints; failure to provide adequate training to those handling antisemitism complaints; and harassment.”

The EHRC has said that, “despite some recent improvements, the Labour Party must do more if it is going to regain the trust of the Jewish community, the public and many of its members”. It has set out “clear, fair and achievable recommendations to help the Party make positive changes to its policies, processes and culture”.

<https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/our-work/news/investigation-antisemitism-labour-party-finds-unlawful-acts-discrimination-and>

The Labour Party has until 10 December to draft an action plan to implement the recommendations, which is legally enforceable by the court if not fulfilled.

The full report and recommendations can be found at <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/publication-download/investigation-antisemitism-labour-party>.

Terrorism

On 30 October a statement was issued on behalf of the Board and Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum, in the wake of recent terrorist attacks, including on 29 October at the Notre-Dame Basilica in Nice in France. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-following-recent-terrorist-attacks>

A police appeal to the public early in the lockdown, to take part in the Action Counters Terrorism (ACT) e-Learning course while working at home, has resulted in nearly 70,000 signing up to be ‘CT Citizens’. Overall half a million participants have signed up since the course was launched two years ago. ACT Awareness can be found at <https://ct.highfieldelearning.com/>.

Faith communities and safeguarding

Safeguarding in faith-based organisations during the COVID-19 crisis

In September the Social Care Institute for Excellence updated its guidance on 'Safeguarding in faith-based organisations during the COVID-19 crisis'.

<https://www.scie.org.uk/care-providers/coronavirus-covid-19/safeguarding/faith-based-organisations>

Safeguarding in out of school settings

On 21 October the Department for Education published guidance on keeping children safe in out of school settings which has relevance to faith communities.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/keeping-children-safe-in-out-of-school-settings>

The current rules on out of school settings, during the national lockdown in England, are at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/education-and-childcare-settings-new-national-restrictions-from-5-november-2020#ooss>.

IICSA inquiry

The Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA) is currently carrying out an investigation into child protection in religious organisations and settings. The investigation is thematic and has been reviewing the current child protection policies, practices and procedures in religious institutions that have a significant presence in England and Wales. Religions with a significant presence in England and Wales including "non conformist Christian denominations, the Jehovah's Witnesses, Baptists, Methodists, Islam, Judaism, Sikhism, Hinduism and Buddhism". Religious settings such as mosques, synagogues, churches and temples are in scope. Places of faith tuition such as Muslim madrassahs and Christian Sunday schools and places where children and young people gather in connection with their religious beliefs, including youth groups and camps have also been investigated by the Inquiry. The last one-week public hearing took place from 10 to 14 August. A report on the investigations is currently under preparation.

<https://www.iicsa.org.uk/investigation/child-protection-religious-organisations-and-settings>

On 6 October IICSA published a report on its investigation into child sexual abuse in the Anglican Church. The report, based on the Inquiry's public hearings held during July 2019, contains eight recommendations, directed to both the Church of England and the Church in Wales, including a recommendation that the Church in England and Wales funds mandatory support for victims and survivors that takes into account their lifetime needs. <https://www.iicsa.org.uk/news/inquiry-report-finds-anglican-church-failed-protect-children-sexual-abuse> <https://www.churchofengland.org/safeguarding/overview/iicsa>

IICSA is also currently concluding an investigation into the extent of any institutional failures to protect children from sexual abuse within the Roman Catholic Church in England and Wales. The report on that has been announced as due for publication on 10 November.

Kruger report - *Levelling up our communities

In June, the Prime Minister asked Mr Danny Kruger MP for “proposals to sustain the community spirit seen during the lockdown”. A report was developed by Mr Kruger across the summer, following a request by him for submissions. IFN’s Co-Chairs made, on behalf of its Board, a short, informational, submission based on relevant past discussions within IFN.

The report, Levelling up our communities: proposals for a new social covenant, was published on 24 September and can be found at <https://www.dannykruger.org.uk/communities-report>. As described by Mr Kruger, it “sets out a vision for a more local, more human, less bureaucratic, less centralised society in which people are supported and empowered to play an active role in their neighbourhoods.”

One section (pages 35-6) is given over to ‘A new deal with faith communities’. This includes the author’s views (a) on how faith groups can/should contribute to society; and (b) on faith communities and tolerance/intolerance. It also makes a recommendation that “the Government should invite the country’s faith leaders to make a grand offer of help on behalf of their communities, in exchange for a reciprocal commitment from the state.”

Faith communities to receive funding to support the homeless

In October Communities Secretary Robert Jenrick announced a package of support for those who are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless. This includes £2 million for faith and community groups to help them provide secure accommodation for rough sleepers. Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/rough-sleepers-to-be-helped-to-keep-safe-this-winter>.

England and Wales Hate Crime figures for 2019/20

On 13 October the Home Office released statistics about hate crime offences in 2019/20 recorded by the police in England and Wales and estimated by the Crime Survey for England and Wales (CSEW).

According to the release, “Religiously motivated hate crimes fell by five per cent, from 7,203 to 6,822, the first fall in these offences since 2012/13, when there was a one per cent fall”. Pages 10 to 12 of the release covers what are termed in the release ‘Religious Hate Crimes’. Where the perceived religion of the victim was recorded, half (50%) of religious hate crime offences in the year covered were targeted against Muslims (3,089 offences). The next most commonly targeted group were Jewish people, who were targeted in 19 per cent of religious hate crimes (1,205 offences). These proportions were similar to the previous year.

A concern that has in the past been raised by the Hindu, Jain and Sikh communities has been about how hate crimes are categorised when there is ‘mistaken identity’. Pages 10-11 of the report explain the current system, in operation since April 2016, whereby the Home Office collects information from the police on the perceived religion of victims of hate crime.

Law Commission and reform of hate crime laws

The Law Commission is making proposals to reform hate crime laws to remove the disparity in the way hate crime laws treat each protected characteristic – race, religion, sexual orientation, disability and transgender identity. The proposals are outlined in the consultation paper published on 23 September. The consultation closes on 24 December. <https://www.lawcom.gov.uk/reforms-to-hate-crime-laws-to-make-them-fairer-and-to-protect-women-for-the-first-time/>

Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Bill

A new Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Bill was introduced to the Scottish Parliament in April. <https://beta.parliament.scot/bills/hate-crime-and-public-order-scotland-bill> Stage 1 is due to be completed by 18 December. The Scottish government announced on 23 September that it would change the bill in a bid to ease some of the concerns about its impact on freedom of speech. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-scotland-scotland-politics-53580326>

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week 2020

This year's Inter Faith Week www.interfaithweek.org takes place in England, Northern Ireland and Wales from Sunday 8 to Sunday 15 November. The aims of the Week are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

IFN's Co-Chairs Rt Revd Jonathan Clark and Narendra Waghela said:

“Inter Faith Week is a time when the spotlight is on the tremendous contribution that faith communities make to society and on work for inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK. Work to build connections between people of different faiths and beliefs is enormously important, and at this time of COVID-19 finding new ways to make connections is vital.

We are delighted that hundreds of organisations will again be taking part: from faith communities and inter faith initiatives, to schools, colleges, universities, hospitals, hospices, national and local government, housing organisations, workplaces, the police and other emergency services, chaplaincies, museums and libraries, and many others.”

The Week begins each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace. A dedicated page about this can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>.

This year, in the context of COVID-19, the majority of activities will be online and their organisers are taking advantage of this to broaden involvement yet further. There are also some socially distanced activities planned, in keeping with local and national restrictions, such as tree and bulb plantings, as well as activities taking place in schools, hospitals and other settings that remain open (the position differs in England, Northern and Ireland and Wales). The Inter Faith Network for the UK will be holding a round table virtual discussion about youth inter faith engagement on the first working day of the week. Details of activities can be found at www.interfaithweek.org/list and, once the Week begins, lists of all activities taking place on a particular day can be found at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/events/day>.

COVID-19 – faith community and inter faith responses

Faith communities continue to play a tremendously important role in responding to the COVID-19 pandemic, both in relation to the wellbeing of their members but also to wider society: adapting their worship, pastoral and community engagement as necessary for safety and contributing through provision of advice and guidance to development of UK, national and local responses to the pandemic. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19>

From the beginning of the pandemic, there have been many initiatives to reach out to help those in need. Some of these can be seen at: <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-acts-of-kindness-and-service>. Just a few recently highlighted by IFN on social media are the Khidmat Centres in Bradford delivering Christmas lunch to elderly Christian neighbours <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1339125052210601985>; Midland Langar Seva Society helping communities in Corby and Kettering <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1338830930975338499>; and Sewa Day, with West Bridgford Helpers at West Bridgford Methodist Church providing seasonal cheer to those in need <https://twitter.com/IFNetUK/status/1338764015317684227> and BAPS volunteers delivering provisions to a local Leicester Foodbank <https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/3685951591455389>. ## COVID-19 restrictions during Christmas and forthcoming period

Restrictions

Across the UK Christmas bubble arrangements have now been limited to one day only. A brief update on restrictions in each nation is below.

A rapid rise in cases of Coronavirus led to announcement on 18 December of tougher restrictions in England. A large number of areas moved on 20 December into higher tiers, including a new Tier 4. The full list of the tiers can be seen at <https://www.gov.uk/find-coronavirus-local-restrictions> and guidance on Christmas bubbling at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/making-a-christmas-bubble-with-friends-and-family/making-a-christmas-bubble-with-friends-and-family>.

The Scottish Government announced on 19 December that mainland Scotland will go into Tier 4 lockdown from 26 December. Information on the Tier levels is at <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-protection-levels/> and on Christmas bubbling at <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-guidance-for-festive-period/>.

The Welsh Government announced on 19 December that Tier 4 restrictions would be in place across Wales from 20 December. <https://gov.wales/written-statement-alert-level-four-restrictions> Information on Christmas bubbling is at <https://gov.wales/making-christmas-bubble-friends-and-family>.

Northern Ireland begins a 6 week lock down on 26 December. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you> Information on Christmas bubbling is at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-restrictions-christmas>.

Places of worship

Places of worship may remain open for communal worship in all tiers in England <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/local-restriction-tiers-what-you-need-to-know>; in Wales under Tier 4 <https://gov.wales/alert-level-4-frequently-asked-questions#section-58346>; and in Northern Ireland after it enters lockdown <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>. In Scotland communal worship may continue but indoor and outdoor acts of worship will be limited to a maximum of 20 people. <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-protection-levels/pages/protection-level-4/>

Vaccines and faith communities

A number of vaccines have now been authorised for COVID-19 and vaccinations began earlier this month in the UK with the Pfizer. The order in which people will be offered the vaccine is based on advice from the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI). <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/priority-groups-for-coronavirus-covid-19-vaccination-advice-from-the-jcvi-2-december-2020/priority-groups-for-coronavirus-covid-19-vaccination-advice-from-the-jcvi-2-december-2020>

Law and Religion UK notes that the start of COVID-19 vaccination has brought into focus the ethical issues associated with the production of the vaccine. It provides a summary of the position of a number of faith organisations and a recent analysis of the evidence by FactCheckNI.

The Royal College of Nursing includes places of worship among spaces that may be used for vaccination Immunisation services and large-scale vaccination delivery during COVID-19 | Public Health | Royal College of Nursing \(rcn.org.uk\)

An example of guidance from one faith community can be seen at COVID 19 Churches as vaccination centres v1.0.pdf \(churchofengland.org\) and <https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/dec/12/church-of-england-gives-space-for-covid-vaccination-and-testing-for-up-to-a-year>.

Mitigating inequalities is one of the considerations being taken into account in deciding on priority groups for vaccination. The Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation notes that “Good vaccine coverage in BAME groups will be the most important factor within a vaccine programme in reducing inequalities for this group”.

A new poll from the Royal Society of Public Health showed 57% of respondents from Black, Asian and minority ethnic (BAME) backgrounds (199 respondents) were likely to accept a COVID-19 vaccine, compared to 79% of White respondents. Confidence was lowest among respondents of Asian ethnicity, of whom 55% were likely to say yes.

<https://www.rsph.org.uk/about-us/news/new-poll-finds-bame-groups-less-likely-to-want-covid-vaccine.html>

Religious leaders are among those being enlisted by the NHS to encourage vaccinations and testing. Bradford Royal Infirmary, for example, is working with religious leaders to encourage people in the community to have vaccinations

<https://www.theguardian.com/society/2020/nov/29/nhs-enlist-sensible-celebrities-coronavirus-vaccine-take-up>

Elsewhere, faith groups in Wolverhampton including Guru Nanak Sikh Gurdwara, local leaders from the Catholic Church and Church of England, local Muslim faith leaders, and Oasis of Love International Church, came together to support a testing pilot at the gurdwara

Exiting the EU and faith communities

On 31 January this year the UK formally left the EU. The transition period for the withdrawal ends on 31 December.

IFN's note on 'Exiting the EU – the important role of faith communities at a time of transition' <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/leaving-the-eu-the-important-role-of-faith-communities-at-a-time-of-transition> contains material about faith communities' vital work to unite communities, promote good relations and tackle hatred. This has continuing relevance at this time, as the UK approaches the final stages of engagement over a trade deal. The information relating to practicalities of EU exit should be sourced from the most up to date information at www.gov.uk/transition.

When free movement ends on 31 December religious communities that have relied on members from the European Union to fill temporary posts will be affected.

THE INTER FAITH NETWORK
COME TOGETHER APPEAL
www.interfaith.org.uk/appeal

Dear readers,

We write to you at the end of an extraordinary year. Here, and around the world, the pandemic has changed all our lives – making it both harder and yet even more vital to come together.

Coronavirus has been a challenge to which faith communities have risen with enormous energy and commitment – including reaching out to help many in need. People of different faiths have volunteered side by side in a number of areas.

The Inter Faith Network has played a key part in supporting and encouraging faith-based initiatives sharing good practice, and enabling grassroots inter faith interaction to develop strongly online, adapting to continue to build positive relationships and foster cooperation for the common good. It has also continued to enable national faith community bodies to come together through its Faith Communities Forum discuss how they are responding to COVID but also to so many other issues which continue to be of interest and concern, from hate crime to establishing new dialogues.

Please help us take forward and strengthen our vital work for inter faith understanding and cooperation with a donation.

We thank you for considering this Appeal and for such kind support as you are able to give. It will be used with care to make a real difference.

Best wishes, Bishop Jonathan Clark and Narendra Waghela
Co-Chairs, Inter Faith Network for the UK

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week 2020

Inter Faith Week took place from Sunday 8 to Sunday 15 November. Despite the challenges of COVID, well over 600 events took place; the social media reach was significantly higher; the number and breadth of types of organisation messaging about the Week increased; digital forms of engagement enabled wider participation; and schools continued to embrace the Week with enthusiasm and creativity. Some towns and cities such as Birmingham, Kendal, Kirklees, Preston, Swansea, Swindon and York saw wide-ranging programmes of activities throughout the week.

In-person activities took place in schools, colleges, universities, hospitals, hospices and other settings that remained open during lockdown/ tiered restrictions. The Week was, however, as anticipated, a predominantly virtual one.

Inter Faith Week messages from faith leaders and Government

Following discussion by the Faith Communities' Forum, faith community leaders/ bodies were invited to put out messages and reflections linked to the Week. A significant number of IFN member faith community body leaders did so, as did the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Chief Rabbi and the leaders of the Reform, and Masorti movements of Judaism which further strengthened the Week's online reach and contributed to the positive online 'buzz'. The reflections/ messages can be seen at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/news/reflections-from-faith-communities>.

Messages of support were issued from the UK Government's Faith Minister; the Deputy Minister in the Welsh Government; the Mayors of London and the West Midlands; as well as numerous MPs, other mayors and councillors. The First Minister of Scotland released a special video message for Scottish Interfaith Week.

IFN youth inter faith roundtable

IFN's main role in Inter Faith Week is supporting activities of others. It also this year held a by invitation Zoom meeting on 9 November for a number of youth inter faith initiatives to talk about their work and discuss the significance of youth inter faith engagement for the future of the UK. The focus of this significant discussion was on activities involving, and in some cases run by, young people in approximately the 16-25 age range.

Inter Faith Week Buddies

IFN also instigated an 'Inter Faith Week Buddies' scheme. This involved two people of different faiths or of a particular faith and of a non-religious belief keeping in touch on a regular basis in the weeks leading up to Inter Faith Week; choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and during Inter Faith Week, sharing online or at a socially distanced event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they had gained from this. A number of organisations took this up, such as Cornwall Faith Forum which said in its latest newsletter: "Everyone said that they learned a lot and really appreciated the rare opportunity to ask personal questions in a safe environment."

<https://dorkemmyrn.org.uk/feedback-from-interfaith-week-2020/>

Feedback on the Week

A feedback survey was sent to event organisers, and put on the website and social media. An interesting fact emerging from responses so far is the high number of respondents who have indicated that they are likely to incorporate an online element into future activities (eg through live streaming in-person events) due to their positive experience this year.

If you held an Inter Faith Week activity, and have not yet responded but would like to, the survey remains live at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/events/about/give-feedback-on-2020>.

Webinar on Using Zoom Effectively

On 15 December IFN held a webinar for local inter faith organisations on Using Zoom Effectively. This drew on the experience of some involved with local groups who have been using Zoom this year to keep connected, including during Inter Faith Week. Contributors included: Ashley Beck, Inter Faith Development Officer, IFN; Patricia Findlay, Chair, and Madhav Regmi, member, of Aberdeen Inter Faith Group; Cllr Afrasiab Anwar MBE, Chair, Building Bridges in Burnley; and David Vane, Secretary, Southampton Council of Faiths. There were also reflections from Jay Anderson and Esmond Rosen, IFN Trustees from the local inter faith organisations membership category. Speakers discussed a number of topics, including: Key features of Zoom and frequently asked questions; Using Zoom for open/ public activities; and Using Zoom for organisational outreach and meetings.

IFN is also making available during December and January a number of digital ‘surgery’ slots for local inter faith groups. These are 20 minutes slots for IFN member local inter faith groups to ring and have a conversation about their group’s use of digital communications and how they strengthen this. There are also some spaces available for other local inter faith groups; there is no charge for non-members, however a donation is welcome.

Any local inter faith group interested in booking a slot can email Ashley Beck via ifnet@interfaith.org.uk.

IFN link meetings for local inter faith groups

IFN holds meetings for local inter faith groups to share news and good practice and learn from each other’s work to strengthen their own and benefit their local areas. Some are for groups from across the UK. Others are for groups within a particular region or a county.

The most recent link meeting, which was for local inter faith organisations in the East of England region, was held virtually on 27 November. It began with a short overview of IFN and its work relating to COVID-19 from IFN’s Executive Director and then included discussion of Inter Faith Week and sharing of news or programmes and projects being run by each group, including opportunities and challenges.

The next regional link meeting planned is for Greater London in January. Earlier this year links took place for groups in Preston (for the North West area of England) and Maidstone (for Kent). Since then IFN has held virtual link meetings for local groups in England in the East; East Midlands; North East; South West; and West Midlands.

Keeping the Faith: Partnerships between Faith Groups and Local Authorities During and Beyond the Pandemic

The November issue of IFN's e-bulletin noted that The All-Party Parliamentary Group on Faith and Society had commissioned the Faiths and Civil Society Unit at Goldsmiths, University of London, to conduct a study to explore the extent and nature of new relationships between local authorities and faith groups. As well as exploring the extent and nature of new relationships between councils and faith groups, the study examined how and why these relationships came about, how they worked in practice, and their implications for local authorities, communities, and faith groups themselves. ## Preventing radicalisation – new ACT Early website

Counter Terrorism Policing (CTP) has launched a new website - actearly.uk - to encourage friends and family to act early, share concerns and seek help if they are worried that someone they care about is being radicalised.

The increase in time spent online due to Covid19, and a rise in hateful extremism, is creating an environment in which young and vulnerable people are at a greater risk of being targeted and groomed by people who wish to do harm.

The ACT Early website includes case studies, signs to spot, FAQs and details of where to get help, including a new, confidential advice line staffed by specialists at CTP.

Interfaith Scotland is offering funds of up to £500 to places of worship that are struggling to meet the safety requirements of re-opening their buildings and safely holding services (within the Government Guidelines). The funding criteria for areas of support is primarily so that religious buildings can re-open safely and stay open during this critical stage in the pandemic and that places of worship remain connected to those that are still too vulnerable to come to places of worship. ### Faith Communities and COVID-19

Across the period since the last issue, faith communities have continued to respond to the pandemic. A statement by the IFN Co-Chairs and Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum on 'Faith communities and COVID-19: responding together at a time of need' can be found on IFN's website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/faith-communities-and-covid-responding-together-at-a-time-of-need-a-statement>.

In February Stephen Timms MP led a debate on the response of faith groups to the COVID-19 pandemic. The full debate can be seen on parliamentlive.tv and the transcript is available on Hansard. Although restrictions are currently easing, there remains much community need for support and a wide range of volunteer initiatives inspired by values of service and compassion continue to play a very important role. See, for example Sewa Day's Help a Neighbour Project

092183810489. IFN has been sharing many examples on its website and through social media.

The UK and devolved governments have continued to engage with faith leaders and faith groups over relevant policies and guidance, as reflected in the item immediately below. The Inter Faith Network for the UK's National Meeting on 23 March took as its focus 'Faith Communities and COVID-19: Learning from the journey', with presentations and participation from a wide range of faith communities and types of organisation. A short report is below.

Faith organisations across the UK participated in the national Day of Reflection on 23 March, led by Marie Curie, remembering those who have died with COVID-19, and the bereaved, and encouraging reaching out and moving forward in hope. Just before the minute's silence being held for that, at IFN's National Meeting a statement from the Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum was read.

At this meeting of Inter Faith Network member bodies today, we join with all those around the UK holding a minute's silence at the noon hour to remember the lives of those who have died with COVID-19.

Faith communities have experienced the loss and illness of many among their number. Some have experienced an especially heavy impact because their members are drawn in part or entirely from groups disproportionately affected by COVID-related illness and death.

We hold particularly in our prayers at this time the families, friends and colleagues of all who have died, their sorrow of loss deepened by isolation and, for many, inability to observe traditional rites of mourning. We hold also in our prayers those who continue to provide physical and spiritual support for the dying and the bereaved.

As well as remembering those who have died, we give thanks for all that has been done, by so many, to support those whose lives have been affected by the pandemic.

Let us, as we pause to remember, also commit to moving forward in hope and with commitment to working for a reopening of society that reflects the values of mutual concern, support and compassion demonstrated during this last year.

COVID-19 and safe use of places of worship

Faith Festivals

A number of their key faith festivals and times of observance are marked by Christians, Hindus, Jains, Jews, Muslims and Sikhs from late March to mid-April.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/religious-festivals> There has been renewed focus on safe celebration of festivals, with the UK Government updating its guidance on this for places of worship in England. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-during-the-pandemic-from-4-july/celebrating-religious-festivals-during-coronavirus-covid-19> This year, again, the festivals will be celebrated in a very different way from usual. There will be distanced in person services combined with virtual ones, and events happening place mainly on line.

England

On 22 February the Prime Minister announced the ‘COVID-19 Response - Spring 2021’ which set out a roadmap for exiting the current lockdown for England. It contains a number of provisional dates for easing of restrictions. Places of Worship have been able to remain open for communal worship through the most recent restrictions.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-response-spring-2021>

Guidance for Places of Worship was updated on 26 March.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-during-the-pandemic-from-4-july/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-from-2-december> This enabled singing by officiants to take place in cathedrals from 28 March and singing outside places of worship from that date, 1 day before the easing of general restrictions.

Scotland

On 23 February the First Minister of Scotland announced an updated Strategic Framework for easing the restrictions in Scotland. The Scottish Government subsequently confirmed that places of worship would be reopening from 26 March with people living in all parts of Scotland able to attend in gatherings of up to 50, where there was space for the required physical distancing. <https://www.gov.scot/news/places-of-worship-in-level-4-can-reopen-from-friday/>

Wales

Guidance for places of worship in Wales, last updated on 5 March, is at <https://gov.wales/guidance-reopening-places-worship-coronavirus>. Places of worship have remained able to open.

Northern Ireland

The current regulations in Northern Ireland are due to be reviewed on 15 April. Places of worship have remained able to open. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Faith communities and vaccination

Vaccination programmes are currently being rolled out across all four nations in the UK. The same priority list of people to receive the vaccine, recommended by the UK's independent Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation, is being followed by all four nations in the UK.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/covid-19-vaccination-programme>

<https://www.gov.scot/collections/coronavirus-covid-19-vaccination/>

<https://gov.wales/getting-your-covid-19-vaccine>

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/covid-19-vaccination-programme-northern-ireland>

Faith communities across the UK continue to support the vaccine rollout in different ways. They have been helping to tackle vaccine hesitancy through arranging for concerns to be addressed and misinformation corrected. Many places of worship and associated buildings from large buildings such as cathedrals to community premises, such as the Jain Centre in Manchester, are being used as vaccination centres. A number of places of worship have also been the location for pop up clinics, such as a pop up clinic at the Al Manaar Mosque in London. <https://www.mylondon.news/news/west-london-news/west-london-mosques-pop-up-20267252> Local inter faith bodies have also been assisting with participation of places of worship, for example Wolverhampton Interfaith in relation to the city's Guru Tegh Bahadur Gurdwara and Shree Krishna Mandir.

In England, the UK Government has funded a major programme of work under the 'community champions' heading, allocating over £23 million funding to 60 councils and voluntary groups to expand work to support those most at risk from COVID-19 and boost vaccine take up. Two charities, Strengthening Faith Institutions and Near Neighbours, have been funded to support councils in working with grassroots organisations and community leaders, to ensure that communities understand how the pandemic is being tackled and feel empowered to take action to keep themselves safe.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/community-champions-to-give-covid-19-vaccine-advice-and-boost-take-up>

Near Neighbours has produced some short videos in several community languages to help people understand public health advice around the vaccine and promote the vaccination programme. Videos are available in Arabic, Bengali, English, Farsi, French, Gujarati, Hindi, Kurdish, Mandarin, Pashto, Polish, Punjabi, Romanian, Somali, and Urdu. The videos are free to use and can be downloaded at <https://www.near-neighbours.org.uk/covid-videos>. Near Neighbours is happy to assist groups or organisations to adapt the message for their specific needs. They can be contacted at hello@nearneighbours.org.uk.

Report on COVID-19 disparities

On 26 February, Minister for Equalities, Kemi Badenoch MP, published the second quarterly report to the Prime Minister and Health Secretary on progress to understand and tackle COVID-19 disparities experienced by individuals from an ethnic minority background. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/second-quarterly-report-on-progress-to-address-covid-19-health-inequalities/second-quarterly-report-on-progress-to-address-covid-19-health-inequalities>

The Minister's first report on COVID-19 disparities was published in October. This concluded that a range of socioeconomic and geographical factors coupled with pre-existing health conditions were contributing to the higher infection and mortality rates for ethnic minority groups, with a part of the excess risk remaining unexplained for some groups. This second report looks at those causes in more detail and sets out some of the work undertaken to fill the gaps in understanding and to mitigate the risks of COVID-19 infection. It sets out the progress made under the terms of reference and in implementing the recommendations from the first report.

Financial impact of COVID-19

As noted in previous issues of this e-bulletin, in addition to affecting so many other sectors, the pandemic has affected significantly the resources of faith groups and faith-based charities. In February a group of charities launched an open letter from their CEOs to ask the Prime Minister to consider a special package of support. The open letter, which can be signed by any voluntary organisation, can be found at <https://nmn.org.uk/rightnow-campaign-open-letter/>.

2021 Census

The 2021 Census took place in England, Wales and Northern Ireland on Sunday 21 March. This was, for the first time, carried out primarily online. The Office for National Statistics (ONS), which carries out the Census in England and Wales, was keen to encourage as many community groups as possible, including faith communities, to share information about the importance of the Census and the different ways that this can be completed, and a representative of ONS attended a meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum in February to speak about this. Due to the pandemic, Scotland has chosen to defer its Census until next year.

Protest over incident at Batley Grammar School

Following complaints, a teacher was suspended by Batley Grammar School pending investigation into an incident on 22 March where the teacher was reported to have shown to pupils in an RE lesson a cartoon of the Prophet Muhammad. Protests took place outside the school. Apologies were offered by the school and by the teacher (who is currently under police protection). A number of statements were issued, including by the Mosques and Imams National Advisory Board and the local inter faith body, North Kirklees Interfaith.

Batley Multi Academy Trust announced on 31 March that an independent panel was being appointed to carry out an investigation with any outcomes expected by the end of May. The investigation would review how "the materials [which caused offence] were used" and "would make recommendations in relation to the Religious Studies curriculum".

Allegations relating to personnel at two universities

Police are investigating alleged anti-Hindu comments directed at Oxford University Student Union's first Indian woman president, who was forced to stand down in a racism row. <https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2021/03/29/police-investigate-alleged-anti-hindu-comments-aimed-oxford/>

An investigation has been launched by the University of Bristol over comments made by one of its professors.. The All-Party Parliamentary Group Against Anti-Semitism (APPG) had accused Prof Miller of "inciting hatred against Jewish students". The university said it recognised the "deep concern"; a campaign backing the professor said it was an attack on "academic freedom". <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-bristol-56428737>

Report on racial and ethnic disparities in the UK

On 31 March the Commission on Race and Ethnic Disparities published its report into racial and ethnic disparities in the UK. The report looks at 4 key areas: education and training; employment, fairness at work and enterprise; crime and policing; and health. The Commission examined "the intersection of some of the most pertinent causes holding back equality of opportunity, namely: ethnicity; socio-economic background; geography; and culture and degree of integration”. It “found that most of the disparities we examined, which some attribute to racial discrimination, often do not have their origins in racism.”

The Commission has put forward 24 recommendations, to forward 4 overarching aims:

- to build trust between different communities and the institutions that serve them
- to promote greater fairness to improve opportunities and outcomes for individuals and communities
- to create agency so individuals can take greater control of the decisions that impact their lives
- to achieve genuine inclusivity to ensure all groups feel a part of UK society

Safeguarding and religious leaders

The definition of a person in a ‘position of trust’ under English criminal law is set to be expanded to improve child protection by including religious leaders and sports coaches. The Police, Crime, Sentencing, and Courts Bill introduced in Parliament in early March, would make it illegal for both religious leaders and sports coaches to engage in sexual activity with 16 and 17 year-olds. (The age of consent for sexual activity in the UK is 16; this rises to 18, however, where one person in a position of trust is involved.) The Bill when it is enacted will amend Section 21 of the Sexual Offences Act 2003. This amendment — to include clergy under the definition of people in a position of trust — was recommended by the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse in its interim report on abuse in the Anglican Church. Victims and survivors of abuse and campaigners have also called for this change. <https://www.churchtimes.co.uk/articles/2021/12-march/news/uk/crime-bill-includes-religious-leaders-under-position-of-trust>

Faith communities and COP26

The 26th UN Climate Change Conference of the Parties (COP26) is scheduled to take place in Glasgow from 1-12 November. <https://ukcop26.org/> It will bring parties together to accelerate action towards the goals of the Paris Agreement and the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change.

Together with the Environmental Issues Network of Churches Together in Britain and Ireland, Faith for the Climate convenes a COP Faith Task Group to enable diverse faith groups to contribute meaningfully to climate action before, during and after COP26. Its priorities are: Transformation; Advocacy; and Hospitality.

<https://www.faithfortheclimate.org.uk/Our-work>

Individual faith communities have been working towards COP26, for example Quakers in Britain: <https://www.quaker.org.uk/events/journey-to-cop26-un-climate-talks> Inter faith response is also under way. Interfaith Scotland, whose offices are based in Glasgow, has a programme of work under way leading up to COP26 and has been holding a number of linked events. <https://interfaithscotland.org/climate-action-resources> Preparatory events are also under way on an inter faith basis in other nations. For example, Faiths4Change is leading a Merseyside inter faith response to the climate emergency with the Liverpool City Region Faith Leaders Network, the Diocese of Liverpool and Wirral Council's Cool climate change strategy, with a special 'Journey to COP26 - Merseyside Interfaith Month' from 21 March to 21 April (more under Projects below).

In the framework of the British presidency, in partnership with Italy, of the United Nations Conference on Climate Change COP26, the Embassies of the United Kingdom and Italy to the Holy See, together with the Holy See, will be convening a meeting of religious leaders and scientists in Rome in autumn 2021 to build momentum for COP26. The aims of the meeting will be for faith leaders to: “articulate our common duty to address climate change; encourage national governments to raise their ambition regarding their National Determined Contributions to reach the Paris Agreement goals; and show how the faiths are leading the way by greening their own operations at central and local level and making new commitments encourage the faithful to take action to slow global temperature rises.” <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/faith-and-science-towards-cop26> #Faiths4COP26 In preparation for this event, the British and Italian Embassies, together with the Holy See, are convening a series of virtual meetings, the first of which has just taken place at Wilton Park. <https://www.wiltonpark.org.uk/event/faith-and-science-towards-cop26-wp1888v/>

Faiths Forum for London, in collaboration with The Royal Parks, More than Bugs, Faith for the Climate and Faiths United Youth Network is running a new initiative called 'Where Nature Meets Faith'. This will include a series of webinars and guided walks taking place throughout May and June which will explore the intersections between religious teachings and nature. It will also include a photography competition. <https://linktr.ee/WNMF>

The Scottish Government on 11 March passed the Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Bill. It says that it will “modernise, consolidate and extend existing hate crime law ensuring it is fit for the 21st Century and that “Through its passing, ‘stirring up’ of hatred offences will now apply to additional characteristics listed in the Bill: age, disability, religion, sexual orientation, transgender identity and variations in sex characteristics. These new protections will add to the long-standing stirring up racial hatred offences, which have been in place since 1986 and have been retained in largely the same form within the Bill.” <https://www.gov.scot/news/hate-crime-bill-passed/>

The Community Security Trust’s Antisemitic Incidents Report 2020, published on 11 February, shows that last year CST recorded 1,668 antisemitic incidents across the UK. This is an 8% fall from the 1,813 incidents recorded in 2019 but is still the third-highest number of incidents CST has ever recorded in a calendar year.

TellMAMA continues to report on verbal and physical attacks on Muslims. <https://tellmamauk.org/category/news/> Other communities, too, continue to experience incidents treated by the police as hate crimes, for example a Swastika daubed on boundary wall of the Siri Guru Nanak Darbar in Gravesend. <https://www.kentonline.co.uk/gravesend/news/swastika-daubed-on-sikh-gurdwara-243573/>

Extremism

In February Lead Commissioner for the Commission for Countering Extremism, Sara Khan, and Sir Mark Rowley, published their findings from their legal review examining the adequacy of existing legislation in relation to ‘hateful extremism’. The report, Operating with Impunity - Hateful extremism: The need for a legal framework, puts forward a new working definition for ‘hateful extremism’. It describes how many hateful extremists are able to operate lawfully due to a lack of legislation designed to capture the specific activity of ‘hateful extremism’. It also includes a number of recommendations. The report can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/commission-for-countering-extremism-publishes-legal-review>.

Home Office consultation on Protect Duty

The Home Office is seeking views on how the Protect Duty can make the public safer at publicly accessible locations. This consultation considers how legislation might be used to enhance the protection of publicly accessible locations, including across the UK from terrorist attacks and ensure organisational preparedness. A publicly accessible location is defined as any place to which the public or any section of the public has access, on payment or otherwise, as of right or by virtue of express or implied permission. This includes places of worship.

The consultation closes on 2 July. The Home Office is seeking views from across the United Kingdom, “since national security is a reserved matter, however it is recognised that developing an effective process and support to implement such legislation would draw on delivery mechanisms and responsibilities within the Devolved Administrations”. Further information can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/protect-duty>.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

IFN’s National Meeting – Faith Communities and Covid-19: Learning from the journey

IFN held its annual National Meeting on 23 March on the theme of ‘Faith Communities and COVID-19 – Learning from the Journey’. During the day, the multi faith gathering of nearly 120 people from national faith community bodies and local and national inter faith organisations and other bodies heard about the remarkable faith community response to need in the community during the pandemic.

The meeting, which was chaired by the Inter Faith Network’s Co-Chairs, the Rt Revd Jonathan Clark and Narendra Waghela, explored a wide range of issues. These included how places of worship have coped with periods of closure and with social distancing; health care chaplaincy and the handling of funerals and bereavement; and responding to loneliness and domestic abuse during the pandemic. It heard from faith communities with high BAME membership responding to the disproportionate impact of COVID-19 on them and about initiatives to address vaccine hesitancy.

The gathering also considered how digital communication is being used for inter faith dialogue and cooperation and the future possibilities of that; how faith communities, local authorities and other statutory agencies have been working in partnership; how schools have adapted during the pandemic and a new IFN teacher resource to help 11-14 year olds learn about inter faith activity, with examples from inter faith responses to the pandemic; the financial impact of the pandemic on faith community organisations; capturing the pandemic experience through research; and solidarity and statements.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/ifns-2021-national-meeting-faith-communities-and-covid19-learning-from-the-journey>.

The day coincided with a national Day of Reflection led by Marie Curie. At midday, the meeting joined with people across the UK in the minute’s silence to remember those who had died with COVID-19 and those bereaved. Before the minute’s silence a statement by the IFN Co-Chairs and Moderators of IFN’s Faith Communities Forum was read (see text of statement above).

Learning about inter faith activity: A new IFN Teacher Resource for 11-14 year old pupils

IFN has published a new online Teacher Resource to help secondary schools plan learning for their pupils about inter faith activity and develop skills for dialogue. This is available to download at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-activity-in-the-uk-a-teacher-resource-for-secondary-pupils>. It has been produced for teachers of pupils aged 11 – 14 (Key Stage 3).

The resource has a teacher introduction and five units. They are:

- Unit 1: Introducing Inter Faith Activity in the UK;
- Unit 2: Let's Talk – inter faith dialogue;
- Unit 3: Faith communities, service and solidarity;
- Unit 4: Faith communities in service for the wellbeing of others; and
- Unit 5: Making a difference in the world – inter faith responses to the climate crisis.

Given the complexity of curriculum requirements across the UK this resources has been shaped in the context of English curriculum requirements. It has, however, benefited from the input of the national inter faith linking bodies of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland and may be more widely useful. The resource is intended to help pupils learn about the variety of inter faith activity in the UK, using examples from across different communities and types of organisation. The resource can be adapted for the education requirements in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

The resource follows on from IFN's resource of a similar kind for primary school pupils, which can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/learning-about-inter-faith-activity-a-primary-resource>.

The resource is free to download and may also be of interest to anyone interested to learn about inter faith activity in the UK.

IFN has been carrying out a project which includes gathering and signposting resources for youth inter faith activity, including in Further Education and Higher Education contexts. A new website section is at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/activity/youth-inter-faith-engagement>.

The new website section includes information on what inter faith activity is, why it is important, and different ways that young people can get involved. It is planned that this section will continue to grow and be developed over time.

IFN Faith Communities Forum

A meeting of IFN's Faith Communities Forum was held on 18 February. The agenda included items on: COVID-19 matters (Vaccination programme, Faith communities and Communications during the pandemic and Community assistance work); Freedom of expression in relation to religion or belief, with reflections from Lord Singh of Wimbledon, Director of the Network of Sikh Organisations (UK); the 2021 Census, with a presentation by Pete Benton, Director of Population and Public Policy Operations at the Office for National Statistics; inter faith engagement of faith communities; and other current issues of interest or concern to faith communities.

This followed an additional special session at the end of January on social media. This explored some of the possibilities - and also pitfalls - of using social media platforms such as Twitter and Facebook and also such issues as: whether/when/how to respond to tackle prejudiced and hateful posts; social media as a context for organisational inter faith engagement and how that messaging may sit with more traditional forms of communication; what may be the pros and cons of CEOs or other personnel having separate accounts to that of their organisation; and how social media is being used during the COVID19 pandemic, for example to aid the process of tackling disinformation about vaccines and to highlight and encourage faith community volunteering initiatives. The session included a practically focused overview presentation from IFN's Inter Faith Development Officer, Ashley Beck, and peer to peer learning - with inputs from Hassan Joudi, Deputy Secretary General of the Muslim Council of Britain, Rajnish Kashyap, General Secretary of Hindu Council UK, and Paul Parker, Recording Clerk (CEO) of Quakers in Britain as well as from others through roundtable discussion.

IFN link meetings for local inter faith groups

IFN holds meetings for local inter faith groups to share news and good practice and learn from each other's work to strengthen their own and benefit their local areas. Some are for groups from across the UK. Others are for groups within a particular region or a county. They provide an opportunity for sharing of news or programmes and projects being run by each group, including opportunities and challenges.

The most recent link meeting, which was for local inter faith organisations in Greater London, was held on 19 January. It included a special item on 'London resources for local inter faith bodies' with presentations by Mustafa Field, Director of Faiths Forum for London, and Steve Miller, Convener of the London Boroughs Faiths Network. The link followed similar links held by IFN for the North West of England; Kent; the North East;

South West and West Midlands. Further such meetings are due to be held in the coming months.

IFN meeting for National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic Bodies

On 26 January IFN held a category meeting for member National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic Bodies. There was discussion about how inter faith and educational and academic bodies help support HMD and other key memorial days and weeks such as Remembering Srebrenica, with a presentation by the Revd Nathan Eddy, Interim Director of the Council of Christians and Jews, about the importance of engagement with Holocaust Memorial Day (HMD) and one from Ashley Beck of IFN about Inter Faith Week. This was followed by round table sharing of news, information and current concerns, including responding to COVID-19 and discussion of emerging issues of shared interest and concern and Inter Faith Network matters, including the planned youth and school resources (see below).

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week 2020 was a Week with high involvement and many new participants, partnerships and activities. In the context of the restrictions due to COVID-19 it also provided a very positive opportunity to reach out, connect, learn and make new contacts. This year Inter Faith Week takes place from 14-22 November. A number of organisations are already planning events. You can find out more about the Week at www.interfaithweek.org. It is a great time for organisations to highlight their work with faith communities or to grow that. Likewise it is a great opportunity to encourage learning about people's faiths and beliefs within the workplace or in contexts such as sport. For schools, it is a valuable time to do special focus RE projects

Inter Faith Week does not have an annual theme. However, event organisers may like to know that the week before will see COP26 (the UN Climate Change Conference), so some may be interested to pick up in some way on its focus of the climate and issues of sustainability.

together people of different faiths and beliefs in Birmingham and the London Borough of Barking and Dagenham. Through the dialogue project, many communities that live alongside each other without many opportunities to interact have had authentic conversations and got to know each other for the first time. The project, delivered by F&BF in partnership with The Feast between November 2020 and March 2021, has enabled people to meet, share and explore issues related to faith, belief, and culture through interactive online sessions. The funding criteria for areas of support is primarily so that religious buildings can re-open safely and stay open during this critical stage in the pandemic and that places of worship remain connected to those that are still too vulnerable to come to places of worship. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

COVID-19 and faith community response to local needs

Faith communities have continued to respond to the needs of their congregations and wider society during the pandemic, contributing to the development of relevant policy and guidance; keeping places of worship as Covid-secure as possible; and providing resources and guidance. They have also continued, with many volunteers inspired by the teachings of their faith, to provide a lifeline to many hit by food poverty, homelessness, debt and other problems exacerbated by the pandemic. Examples of different dimensions of the faith and inter faith response can be seen at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19>, including recent 'acts of kindness' - from churches in Wrexham distributing gardening tools and seeds to enable people to grow their own fruit and vegetables to Ipswich Buddhist Centre helping the Suffolk Baby Hub find much needed baby food and supplies.

The Queen's Birthday Honours List included recognition for a number of 'Covid heroes', including some linked to faith and inter faith initiatives, for example Chair of the Muslim Charities Forum, Fadi Itani OBE. There has also been honouring of contributors through routes such as: the 'Points of Light' awards, where recent recipients have included Neil Shonchhatra, who has been donating thousands of meals and items of food to frontline NHS workers and nursing homes throughout the pandemic, sourcing food donations from local businesses and cooking up meals at Slough Temple. Some counties, such as Northamptonshire, and local authorities, such as Fareham and Wokingham, have been running their own schemes.

You can watch at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/videos-from-ifn-2021-national-meeting-faith-communities-and-covid-19-learning-from-the-journey> presentations about some of the amazing responses from faith volunteers, including from the Salvation Army, the Sikh Foodbank and Nottingham Sewa Day.

Faith communities and vaccination

Vaccination programmes continue to be rolled out across the UK. Faith communities are continuing to support the rollout in different ways, with places of worship being used as vaccination centres and faith communities and inter faith groups holding events and discussions to provide information about the vaccines. Examples can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/covid-19-and-vaccination>. The urgency of this has increased again with the rise in cases of the highly transmissible Delta variant.

The UK Government has launched a social media campaign to tackle false vaccine information, which includes messages from faith leaders. <https://dcmsblog.uk/check-before-you-share-toolkit/> These posts include simple tips on how to critically analyse sources, spot false information and help stop its spread, checking before you share, signposting to the NHS as the best source of information. Faith leaders in a number of areas have also made their own videos, for example Rabbi Daniel Walker from Heaton Park Hebrew Congregation in Salford. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=gvXTiM5ftVI> A new study from King's College London and Bristol University finds that there has now been an increase in confidence in the vaccine in many groups but this is not consistent across all groups. <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/policy-institute/assets/covid-19-vaccine-take-up-and-trust.pdf>

Use of vaccination ‘passports’ or ‘certification’ has for some while been under discussion as part of considering how to reopen society. Concerns have been expressed by some about the civil liberty and equality implications of vaccine passports. MPs on the Public Administration and Constitutional Affairs Committee took the view that such passports would ‘disproportionately discriminate’ based on race, religion, age and socio-economic background and that Covid passports would be discriminatory and the idea should be scrapped. <https://committees.parliament.uk/committee/327/public-administration-and-constitutional-affairs-committee/news/155788/no-justification-for-covid-passports-say-committee/> The Government is continuing to consider their use for large events. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-57450600>

England

On 14 June the Prime Minister gave a statement on coronavirus and confirmed a four-week delay to step four of the UK Government’s roadmap for England until 19 July due to concerns caused by the Delta variant and to allow for more people to receive their second dose of a COVID-19 vaccine before further easing of restrictions takes place.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/pm-statement-at-coronavirus-press-conference-14-june-2021> There will, however, be a change from 21 June in numbers allowed to attend weddings, receptions, and commemorative events including wakes.

The number of people able to attend such events will now be determined by the number that can be safely accommodated in the venue with social distancing in place.

There has been no change announced to the guidance on use of places of worship (last updated 24 May). <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-during-the-pandemic-from-4-july/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship-from-2-december>

Scotland

The Scottish Government guidance on the use of places of worship was updated on 11 June. <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-phase-3-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship/> The number of people who can attend weddings, funerals and post-ceremony events is dependent on the Tier Level of the location.

<https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-guidance-for-funeral-services/> <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-tourism-and-hospitality-sector-guidance/pages/wedding-receptions-and-funeral-wakes/>

Wales

The Welsh Government guidance on the use of places of worship was updated on 14 May. <https://gov.wales/guidance-reopening-places-worship-coronavirus> The limit on numbers for weddings and funerals, in venues that are allowed to be open, is determined by the size of the venue and is dependent on whether it is a ‘regulated’ event organised by a business or not. <https://gov.wales/restrictions-7-june-2021-frequently-asked-questions#section-67279>

Northern Ireland

The Northern Ireland Executive guidance on the use of places of worship is at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-places-worship>. The number permitted to attend funerals, weddings and civil partnerships and post ceremony gatherings is to be informed by a risk assessment for the venue and, if being held in a private dwelling, must comply with the domestic setting regulations. <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-regulations-guidance-what-restrictions-mean-you>

Building back from COVID-19

Faith Action recently published a blog on findings from its Faith Covid focus groups across the last year. <https://www.faithaction.net/blog/2021/06/10/one-year-on-findings-from-our-faith-covid-focus-groups/> It held a briefing event for faith communities on 16 June, where members of the places of worship taskforce and public health officials will present some thoughts on how best to move forward through the final phase of the roadmap, followed by an opportunity for Q&A and discussion.

Over the last months, the Good Faith Partnership has been working with faith leaders and community organisers to analyse the immense work that faith communities have undertaken to support communities during the pandemic. The report on their work was launched virtually on 17 June by the Rt Revd Sarah Mullally, Bishop of London, Danny Kruger, MP for Devizes, and Baron Stephen Greenhalgh, the Minister of State, Housing, Communities and Local Government. The report highlights the social impact of faith communities in their assistance to vulnerable communities during the pandemic, explores the current state of collaboration between faith communities and government, and makes recommendations on how the government can aid and accelerate the positive impact of faith communities on society going forward. <https://goodfaith.org.uk/case-studies/stepping-up-and-stepping-out-towards-a-future-social-covenant-between-faith-communities-and-government-in-covid-19-recovery-and-beyond>

Thank You Day – 4 July

‘Thank You Day’ is a UK-wide initiative, taking place on Sunday 4 July, inviting people to get together to say thank you to one another, to family members, key workers, good neighbours and volunteers. <https://thankyouday.org.uk/> There is a guide with possible activities for faith organisations that can be downloaded at <https://thankyouday.org.uk/create-your-own/>.

Thank You Day has a particular link to the pandemic and how people have responded. It is managed by the Together Initiative. <https://together.org.uk/> It is supported by the Inter Faith Network.

Faith communities, climate change and the environment

COP26

COP26 will take place (Covid-19 restrictions permitting) in Glasgow from 1-12 November. Make COP Count, an informal group of representatives from different faith communities working together on advocacy, hospitality and action ahead of COP26, has been carrying out a number of campaigns. The group is co-ordinated through Faith for the Climate. <https://makecopcount.org/>

Ahead of the G7 meeting, an inter faith event was livestreamed from Truro Cathedral <https://www.trurocathedral.org.uk/whats-on/cafod-g7-interfaith-event-building-a-better-world-after-the-pandemic-thu-10-jun-2021-07-00-pm>, arranged by CAFOD (Catholic Agency for Overseas Development) with others. Its focus was on putting a message across to the leaders about a global and green recovery from the pandemic crisis that leaves no one behind. Also, a number of figures from faith communities called on the UK government to use its Presidency of the G7 and of UN climate talks (COP26) to drive progress on addressing the climate crisis.

<https://faithfortheclimate.org.uk/newsitem/Faith-groups-call-for-G7-Summit-to-use-power-wisely-1277>

Interfaith Scotland has made this year a year of Climate Action and is hosting a monthly series of Facebook Live panel discussions with keynote speakers from different faiths discussing various aspects of the climate crisis from a multi-faith perspective. It has also produced a briefing for faith communities about getting involved, <https://interfaithscotland.org/wp-content/uploads/2021/05/Briefing-for-Faith-Communities-and-Actions-for-COP26-updated-24-May-21.pdf>, as well as other resources, <https://interfaithscotland.org/climate-action-resources>. With Interfaith Glasgow it held an event in May, ‘How faith communities can engage with COP26’, the video of which can be seen at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ewkd8K9GXTo>.

Faith for the Climate and Faiths Together in Lambeth are jointly hosting a series of 5 workshops between 25 June and 6 July in and around London Climate Action Week for faith communities to get ready for COP26. They will include ‘Relationship building’, ‘Skills sessions’ and ‘Reflection and Next Steps. www.faithfortheclimate.org.uk/events

From 18-26 September Climate Fringe Week will be taking place. It is for Scotland-based individuals, groups or organisations, celebrating and supporting the work that is already happening across the Scottish Climate Movement, whilst also giving people new to climate campaigning and action an easy way to get involved. More about that can be found on the Climate Fringe website which provides a platform for all of civil society to share events and connect around Climate Change and COP26. <https://climatefringe.org/week/>

Faith community initiatives and climate change

A number of faith community initiatives such as the Bahu Trust, Christian Climate Action, Eco Dharma Network, IFEES/EcolIslam, EcoSikh, EcoSynagogue and Hindu Climate Action have produced resources to engage and equip faith communities for action on climate change. <https://faithfortheclimate.org.uk/Faith-Resources>

The Queen’s Green Canopy

Faith leaders have recently come together in a video to share what trees mean to them and their faiths and to encourage everyone to plant a tree for the Queen’s Platinum Jubilee next year. <https://queensgreencanopy.org/>

Hate crime and overseas event impacts

On 20 May IFN’s Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators issued a statement on ‘Responding to inter faith impacts of overseas events.’

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-from-ifn-co-chairs-and-fcf-moderators-responding-to-inter-faith-impacts-of-overseas-events>

“There are times when political and other events overseas have a significant and distressing impact on communities here in the UK and on relationships between them. Recent events in Israel and Gaza have seen significant impacts in the UK: antisemitic incidents, such as the megaphone abuse from a car driving through an area of North London last weekend; a car ramming of a pro-Palestinian march in Nottingham, many of those marching in which were Muslims; bullying by children in some schools; some reports of worsened campus relations; and increased abusive social media posts. These kinds of experience can bring vulnerability and fear – particularly if they come in the context of long term experiences of prejudice or tensions.

At such times, the right of people to express their strongly held views is recognised, as is its importance. At the same time, we call for expression of views in peaceful and respectful ways; for increased dialogue and practical actions such as fundraising to help those affected; for support for children and others particularly vulnerable to swirling and sometimes frightening currents of argument and accusation; and for holding fast to long established relationships of trust that have been built across many years.”

A statement from the IFN Co-Chairs and the Moderators of IFN's Faith Communities Forum

This followed an earlier brief message from the Co-Chairs of IFN which referred back to earlier relevant statements. IFN, under its statement making policy, does not comment on overseas events except in the context of likely impact on inter faith relations in the UK. This is not out of lack of commitment or concern; it reflects a position agreed early in IFN's existence and reaffirmed regularly since. On this particular occasion, there was significant concern about the impact on relationships in the UK and the statement reflects this.

A number of inter faith organisations with an international dimension to their focus or policies that allow direct comment on international issues either made statements or highlighted relevant resources, for example local inter faith bodies in the London Borough of Barnet, Blackburn, Leicester and Woking and organisations such as Solutions Not Sides. There were also events such as a listening event arranged by FODIP; a rally for peace of Muslim and Jewish women arranged by Nisa Nashim, <https://www.hamhigh.co.uk/news/nisa-nashim-women-rally-in-hampstead-8002004>, and a prayer meeting arranged by Interfaith Scotland.

During the period in question, antisemitic incidents were reported as increasing 500%. Robert Jenrick, Communities Secretary, denounced a series of attacks that took place over the weekend of 15 to 16 May as “racist and extremely serious crimes” and told the Commons that “No-one could fail to be appalled by the disgraceful scenes of antisemitic abuse being directed at members of the Jewish community in the past week.

<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/politics/anti-semitic-comments-uk-robert-jenrick-b1848890.html> Analysis by the Community Service Trust (CST), which campaigns against and monitors antisemitism in Britain, found that there had been 116 incidents between 8 and 18 May. Of these, almost all involved language, imagery or behaviour that linked them to the conflict in Israel and Gaza. 34 were online and 82 offline, most of which involved verbal abuse directed at Jewish people. <https://inews.co.uk/news/anti-semitic-hate-crimes-in-britain-rise-500-during-10-days-of-israel-palestine-tensions-1009374>

More generally, hate incidents, as well as prejudice and discrimination linked to religious identity continues to be an issue of significant concern in the UK to many communities. In response to a written question from Narendra Vishnu MP, about what steps the Government is taking to tackle Hinduphobia in the UK, Minister Luke Hall responded: “The Government is committed to tackling hatred against people of all faiths, including the Hindu community. The Hate Crime Action Plan (2016) and Refresh (2018) set out our plans to tackle hatred directed at anyone for their race, religion, sexuality, disability or gender identity, which includes raising awareness of hate crime and encouraging reporting. We are now looking at ways to renew our strategy and will be engaging with a wide range of stakeholders from religious communities.”

Places of worship and security

Places of Worship Security Scheme – England and Wales

The Places of Worship Protective Security Scheme was a key commitment of the Government's 2016-2020 Hate Crime Action Plan. It enables places of worship to install measures such as protective alarms, security lighting and access controls.

The sixth round of the Places of Worship Protective Security Funding Scheme is now open for applications. The Home Office will cover 100% of the costs for up to 3 security measures worth a maximum total of £56,000. The scheme is open to places of worship and associated faith community centres (defined as a community centre run by a place of worship or near a place of worship that is faith based, and where regular worship takes place) across England and Wales.

The closing date is 2 July. Further details including how to apply are at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/places-of-worship-security-funding-scheme>.

Scottish Hate Crime Security Fund

Individual places of worship and religious organisational bodies in Scotland, can apply for funding through the Scottish Government and Police Scotland's new Hate Crime Security Fund, to help combat hate crime against places of worship. Applications are welcomed from individual places of worship of all faiths which can demonstrate their vulnerability to hate crime - whether or not a crime has been committed or reported to the police. Grants of up to £20,000 are available to cover part or all of proposed security measures and improvements. The closing date is 21 July. Further details including how to apply are at <https://www.impactfundingpartners.com/open-applications/hate-crime-security-fund>.

Security at publicly accessible locations, including places of worship

The Home Office is seeking views on how the Protect Duty can make the public safer at publicly accessible locations. This consultation is about how legislation might be used to enhance the protection of publicly accessible locations across the UK from terrorist attacks and to ensure organisational preparedness.

A publicly accessible location is defined in the consultation as any place to which the public or any section of the public has access, on payment or otherwise, as of right or by virtue of express or implied permission. This includes places of worship and there are a series of proposed new requirements which would apply to places of worship accommodating 100+ people. Concerns have been expressed that the proposed legislation could bring a time and cost burden and also disproportionately affect faith organisations which depend heavily on volunteers. <https://www.churchtimes.co.uk/articles/2021/21-may/news/uk/archdeacon-of-london-warns-of-unintended-consequences-of-terrorism-legislation>

<https://www.eauk.org/what-we-do/public-policy/could-you-respond-to-government-consultations/what-the-proposed-protect-duty-might-mean-for-churches>

The consultation closes on 2 July. The Home Office is seeking views from across the United Kingdom, “since national security is a reserved matter, however it is recognised that developing an effective process and support to implement such legislation would draw on delivery mechanisms and responsibilities within the Devolved Administrations”. Further information can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/protect-duty>.

Anniversary of murder of George Floyd

25 May marked the one year anniversary of the murder of George Floyd by a police officer in Minneapolis. Churches Together in Britain and Ireland initiated a service to mark the event. This included senior church leaders and local Christians and was held at the New Testament Church of God in Brixton, South London. The service remembered the “tragic death of Mr Floyd, as well as challenging churches and communities in Britain and Ireland to stand up for justice and against racism, ignorance and hatred”.

<https://ctbi.org.uk/service-marks-anniversary-of-george-floyd-killing/>

Churches Together in England organised ‘#CandleofJustice: A moment of action’, which invited people to “light a candle, pray for racial justice and commit to taking personal and institutional action to tackle racial injustice in our society and our churches.”

The school said it would offer more guidance and training for staff. ## Inter Faith Week 14-21 November 17 June marks 150 days to go until Inter Faith Week. The aims of Inter Faith Week are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels;
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society; and
- Increase understanding between different people of religious and non-religious beliefs

This year Inter Faith Week www.interfaithweek.org takes place from Sunday 14 to Sunday 21 November. It's a Week for everyone – young and old and of different faiths and beliefs, including non-religious beliefs. Activities benefit those who take part; they also send a strong message that good inter faith relations matter and that there is appreciation of people's faiths and beliefs and how those inspire them to contribute to the community and live well together.

The Week is timed to begin each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace.

Inter Faith Buddies

Inter Faith Buddies is a scheme designed by IFN to bring individuals together to engage in dialogue.

- The scheme involves two people of different faiths or beliefs: keeping in touch on a weekly basis for 6 weeks;
- choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and
- if they wish, sharing at an in-person or online event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they have gained from the experience.

It is an opportunity for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time, about what is important to us, in the context of our wider community. The process may, of course, lead to longer term conversations and new forms of practical co-operation. Interested in taking up the idea within your organisation?

If you are an organisation interested in taking up the Inter Faith Buddies idea, visit <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-buddies> for more information and practical pointers.

COVID-19 and faith communities

Volunteers from across all faith communities have continued to respond to the needs of their congregations and wider society during the pandemic. This report by the Multi Faith Centre at the University of Derby, for example, reflects on Derby faith communities' contributions during the pandemic. <https://multifaithcentre.org/wp-content/uploads/2021/07/Derby-Keeping-the-Faith.pdf>

Faith communities in a number of areas continue to play an important role in the vaccination roll-out, either by hosting vaccination clinics - such as the Glasgow Central Mosque <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-scotland-57887850> or, in Crawley, West Sussex, where a medical centre partnered with the Gurjar Hindu Union to relocate their vaccination service to its Hindu Temple, <https://www.crawleyobserver.co.uk/health/coronavirus/hindu-temple-in-crawley-is-set-to-host-a-quiet-vaccination-session-this-weekend-3284880>, or by addressing vaccine concerns - such as through this film by NHS Salford Clinical Commissioning Group with Alchemy Arts featuring the Revd Charles Kwaku-Odoi of Faith Network for Manchester <https://www.facebook.com/SalfordCCG/videos/866548567402251>.

Faith communities are also involved in organising ways to remember all those who have died with COVID-19. For example, Colchester Council is organising a 'festival of remembrance' to honour COVID19 victims. "Working with faith and community groups, the idea is to set a format for the event that others can follow in their own areas such as village halls or places of worship." <https://www.gazette-news.co.uk/news/19478095.colchester-council-organise-covid-festival-remembrance/> Worcester Cathedral is hosting The Leaves of the Trees, an installation of 5,000 steel 'Hope' leaves, as a 'reflective memorial to the effects of the pandemic'. <https://www.worcestercathedral.co.uk/whats-on/the-leaves-of-the-trees>

England

On 19 July England moved to Step 4 of the 'roadmap'. There are no longer legal requirements for physical social distancing or the wearing of face masks in indoor spaces. However, the UK Government has emphasised that COVID-19 remains a serious health risk and that it is important to remain cautious to help protect one another.

Updated guidance on the safe use of places of worship is at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/covid-19-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship>. There are no longer legal limits on the number of people who can attend weddings, funerals and other life events or the receptions that follow. All restrictions on chanting and singing have also been removed.

Scotland

On 9 August Scotland moved beyond Level 0. The legal requirements for physical distancing and limits on gatherings have been removed. Some protective measures remain in place such as the use of face coverings indoors.

Updated guidance on the safe use of places of worship is at <https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-phase-3-guidance-for-the-safe-use-of-places-of-worship/>. There are no restrictions remaining on how many people may attend significant life or milestone events. Singing, chanting and/or the playing of instruments is permitted.

Wales

On 7 August Wales moved to alert level 0. The legal requirements for physical distancing and limits on gatherings have been removed. Some protective measures remain in place such as the use of face coverings indoors.

Guidance for all businesses and organisations, including places of worship is at <https://gov.wales/alert-level-0-guidance-employers-businesses-and-organisations>. There are no longer legal limits on the number of people who can attend weddings, funerals and other life events or the receptions that follow.

Northern Ireland

In Northern Ireland the number of people attending places of worship for life ceremonies, and post-ceremony receptions, continues to be determined by the venue on a risk assessed basis.

Guidance on the use of places of worship is at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-places-worship>. Since 26 July the legal requirement for social distancing indoors has been reduced to 1m. The legal requirement to wear a face covering in a place of worship, during an act of worship, has been removed, however it is still strongly advised. Where singing or chanting is deemed to be essential to an act of worship, this should be at a low volume and it is strongly advised that face coverings are worn.

New site in Wales for scattering Sikh and Hindu ashes

On 31 July a new site was officially opened in Cardiff, where Sikhs and Hindus can scatter the ashes of their loved ones. The Antim Sanskar Group Wales has been working with Cardiff Council for a number of years to identify a suitable location where cremated remains can be dispersed into a flowing water course. The platform, at Llandaff Rowing Club, was officially opened at a ceremony attended by First Minister Mark Drakeford and members of Cardiff Council. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-wales-57988853>
<https://www.theweek.in/wire-updates/international/2021/08/02/fes54-uk-ashes-site.html>

The site joins a number of others in the UK, such as on the River Soar in Leicester <https://www.leicester.gov.uk/your-community/births-marriages-and-deaths/funerals-burials-and-cremations/cremations/scattering-of-ashes/> and the Newark slipway near the Port Glasgow in the authority of Inverclyde <https://scattering-ashes.co.uk/places/scattering-ashes-location-for-sikh-and-hindus-in-glasgow-scotland/>.

Statement on Inter faith relations and election campaigning

The Batley and Spen By-election saw a number of incidents of aggressive campaigning, including material which saw a British Freedom Party member co-opting the image of a local church in her leaflet to identify her far right message with Christianity.

On 25 June, the Inter Faith Network for the UK's Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators issued the following statement on 'Inter faith relations and election campaigning'.

“We affirm the right of people to express, within the law, their strongly held views, including during election campaigning. However, it is vital in our diverse and democratic society that views are expressed in a peaceful and respectful way and also that care is taken that observations on situations locally, nationally or abroad do not reflect or play into antisemitism, Islamophobia or hatred of other communities.

During election campaigns, symbols and images of different faith communities are sometimes co-opted and manipulated by organisations and/or public figures to justify or promote divisive political agendas. A recent example of this is a campaign leaflet for a far-right candidate for election in Batley and Spen, with a crude collage of the candidate against the background of a local church and with a large image of a cross. Slanted and inaccurate portrayals of religious and cultural history often accompany such misuse of imagery.

At such times, solidarity of response from faith communities and inter faith initiatives is crucial: nurturing existing good relationships between different communities and seeking to safeguard those; speaking out against politics of division which set communities against each other; rebutting misappropriation of our respective faith communities' symbols, traditions and history; reporting any hate incidents; and encouraging informed dialogue and respectful expression of views at all times.

This statement can be found on IFN's website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-from-ifn-co-chairs-and-fcf-moderators-inter-faith-relations-and-election-campaigning>.

Hate crime

Home Office data released in July shows that a total of 61,851 racially and religiously aggravated offences were recorded in 2020, a 7% increase on 2019. The analysis was compiled by the PA news agency from data published by the Home Office.

<https://news.sky.com/story/racially-and-religiously-motivated-hate-crime-hit-a-new-high-in-2020-home-office-statistics-reveal-12356632>

CST's Antisemitic Incidents Report January-June 2021, published on 5 August, shows 1,308 anti-Jewish hate incidents nationwide recorded by CST in the first half of this year.

<https://cst.org.uk/news/blog/2021/08/05/antisemitic-incidents-report-january-june-2021>

This is a 49% increase on incidents recorded in the first six months of 2020, and is the highest total CST has ever recorded in the first half of any year. The number for this 6 months is higher than every full-year incident total prior to 2016 since CST began recording antisemitic incidents in 1984.

As well as antisemitic and Islamophobic incidents, other communities continue to express concerns about incidents. ### Rise in RE entries reflected in A level results

A level results were published on 10 August. The RE Council for England and Wales reports that the number of Religious Studies A-level exam entries in England and Wales has increased 6.1 percent year on year. The subject outperformed other A-level subjects as a whole, which increased by 5.1 percent, with a greater increase than most other humanities subjects. It says that this year's increase, and the long-term trend in entries, "suggest that candidates continue to recognise the value of RS A-level for Higher Education entry, graduate employment, and as an essential life skill".

Religious dress and symbols

The Court of Justice of the European Union (ECJ) last month ruled that employers can limit workplace expression of religious, political, or philosophical beliefs where there is “a genuine need” to “present a neutral image towards customers or to prevent social disputes.” This was in response to two cases brought by German employees who had been suspended from their jobs for wearing a hijab. UK courts are not now bound by decisions of the ECJ (although under the EU Withdrawal Act 2018 UK courts and tribunals may ‘have regard’ to ECJ judgements ‘so far as it is relevant to any matter before the court or tribunal’).

A Sikh visitor to a fair in North Wales was handcuffed because he was carrying a kirpan. <https://www.itv.com/news/wales/2021-08-05/sikh-father-handcuffed-at-funfair-for-carrying-legal-religious-blade-in-public> Kirpans are permissible for Sikhs to carry under the relevant provision of the Criminal Justice Act 1988.

Protect Duty and places of worship

The last issue of the e-bulletin noted that the Home Office was seeking views on how the Protect Duty can make the public safer at publicly accessible locations, including places of worship. The consultation closed on 2 July.

On 27 July Kevin Foster, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department, provided a written answer to a question about how places of worship would be affected by the Protect Duty. In the course of this he said that “The Government is mindful places of worship differ significantly in the nature of their function and operation from other locations potentially within the scope of the Protect Duty proposals. This is balanced against the threat posed by terrorism, and a need to ensure there are effective security measures at public places, regardless of their nature. The Government will be carefully considering the issues raised within the consultation and our engagement events, including those discussed with representatives of different faith communities, before considering next steps.” One of the contexts where faith communities’ input was given was IFN’s Faith Communities Forum (see below).

National Resilience Strategy call for evidence

On 13 July the Cabinet Office published a call for evidence for the National Resilience Strategy. <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/national-resilience-strategy-call-for-evidence> The call for evidence closes on 27 September.

This Call for Evidence “seeks public views to inform the development of a new National Resilience Strategy that will outline an ambitious new vision for our national resilience. It seeks to understand current perceptions of risk and resilience, gather evidence on where improvements could be made, and gauge the UK’s appetite for change. Views are welcome from anyone with an interest in the subject.”

The Call for Evidence asks questions around six themes: Risk and Resilience; Responsibilities and Accountability; Partnerships; Community; Investment; and Resilience in an Interconnected World. Also included in the Call for Evidence are specific questions on the Civil Contingencies Act. This Act provides a legislative framework for emergency management and response in the UK. Evidence gathered in this section will help to inform the scheduled review of the Act which is due to be completed by March 2022.

Within the Call for Evidence document it notes that strengthening the Government's partnerships may include "collaborating with voluntary, charity, faith groups and business sectors to make best use of their capability, capacity and networks, to respond to the localised effect of risk" and also that all references to 'community' include faith groups and faith networks.

Windrush monument consultation

The Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government is commissioning a permanent national Monument to the Windrush Generation at London Waterloo station "to recognise how they have enriched our nation's history. The Monument will be a permanent tribute to a generation of arrivals from the Caribbean to this country – from the arrival of MV Empire Windrush in 1948 and in the decades that followed. It is expected to be unveiled on Windrush Day 22 June 2022."

A consultation has been opened on the four shortlisted designs, all by artists of Caribbean descent. The final artist design will be chosen in September by the Windrush Commemoration Committee, chaired by Baroness Floella Benjamin DBE, and announced in October during Black History Month. On 20 July the Windrush Commemoration Committee came together to talk about the monument. A recording of the event can be seen at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BoaNtiUoPJo>.

Faith communities, climate change and the environment

The 26th UN Climate Change Conference of the Parties (COP26) is scheduled to take place in Glasgow from 1-12 November. <https://ukcop26.org/> It will bring parties together to accelerate action towards the goals of the Paris Agreement and the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change.

Together with the Environmental Issues Network of Churches Together in Britain and Ireland, Faith for the Climate convenes a COP Faith Task Group called 'Make COP Count' to enable diverse faith groups to contribute meaningfully to climate action before, during and after COP26. Its priorities are: Transformation; Advocacy; and Hospitality. <https://makecopcount.org/> <https://www.faithfortheclimate.org.uk/Our-work> Among the activities it is supporting are:

- Climate Sunday – An initiative led by CTBI, which encourages the holding of a climate-focused worship service any time before COP26, and which will culminate in a Nations Climate Sunday service on 5 September. A number of Churches have created downloadable resources for this initiative.
- Rise to the Moment – A relay pilgrimage from St Ives to Glasgow, organised by the Young Christian Climate Network. This is a relay rather than a full pilgrimage because of the restrictions on gathering in person. The relay enables people to take part in different ways. It is taking place through August, September and October.

Interfaith Scotland is continuing its 'Year of Climate Action'. It provides the secretariat for the Religious Leaders Forum of Scotland. The Forum produced a Statement of Commitment from the faith leaders of Scotland. <https://interfaithscotland.org/climate-action-resources> As noted below, to coincide with COP26, this year's Scottish Inter Faith Week will begin on 31 October.

Borders and Immigration Bill

On 6 July the UK Government introduced its Borders and Immigration Bill. This completed its second reading on 20 July. The provisions will make knowingly arriving in the UK without permission a criminal offence and will give Border Force officers the powers to turn back migrant boats attempting to cross the Channel from France and use "reasonable force, if necessary". They mean that, for the first time, the way an individual arrives in the UK - legally or illegally - will have a bearing on whether their asylum application is accepted. <https://commonslibrary.parliament.uk/research-briefings/cbp-9275/> <https://news.sky.com/story/mps-back-new-immigration-bill-which-makes-arriving-in-uk-without-permission-a-criminal-offence-12359884>

Responses to the Bill have included a number from faith communities, for example from the Free Churches <http://www.jointpublicissues.org.uk/responding-to-the-governments-proposals-for-asylum-reform/> and the Board of Deputies of British Jews, Renee Cassin, JCORE and World Jewish Relief <https://www.bod.org.uk/bod-news/jewish-organisations-release-joint-statement-in-response-to-nationality-and-borders-bill/>.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

The Faith Communities Forum

The Inter Faith Network for the UK's Faith Communities Forum brings together national faith community bodies in IFN membership for regular discussion of issues of common concern. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/about/faith-communities-forum>

On 21 June a special session of the FCF was held with Home Office officials to give input on the Protect Duty consultation and its likely considerable implications in terms of security responsibilities for churches, gurdwaras, mandirs, mosques, synagogues, temples and other places of worship accommodating 100 or more people. There was also a presentation by officials on the Places of Worship Security Scheme (England and Wales).

The FCF met again on 6 July. It discussed a range of COVID-19 matters, including faith community engagement with the vaccination roll-out. There was discussion of calendars of religious festivals, with a presentation by Paul Hopkins, Senior Editor and Co-Chair of the widely used Shap Calendar of Religious Festivals. James Jones, Complaints Executive, Advertising Standards Authority, introduced the Advertising Standards Authority's recent call for evidence about racial and ethnic stereotyping in advertising and the role of the ASA in responding to complaints.

Inter Faith Week 14-21 November

This year Inter Faith Week www.interfaithweek.org takes place from Sunday 14 to Sunday 21 November. 6 August marked 100 days to go until the Week. The aims of Inter Faith Week, which is led by IFN, are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between different people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The Week is timed to begin each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace.

<https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>

Inter Faith Week is about highlighting the contribution of faith groups to society; spotlighting inter faith cooperation and understanding; and encouraging dialogue between those of religious and non-religious beliefs. It's a fantastic platform to share, learn and build relationships with neighbours, colleagues and service users of different backgrounds, and to come together in service for the common good.

If you've not yet started planning, August is a great month to start to think creatively about activities that can benefit from being part of the Week and can bring something special to the Week!

What might you do? Perhaps a learning activity, a multi faith Remembrance event, inter faith sports match, an inter faith art, poetry or photography competition; a jointly crafted special quilt or banner; a video message from faith leaders and/or particular figures in your organisation; a special dialogue; a quiz or speed-faithing event? Or maybe be a special environment/climate change focused event linked to #COP26 (which will have just taken place); an 'Inter Faith Buddies' scheme; social media video clips of interviews with chaplains of different faiths; an inter faith ‘bake off’; an inter faith pilgrimage/peace walk; a physical or virtual tour of some local places of worship; a video about your organisation’s inter faith activity; a learning session about beliefs and practices of a particular faith; or a classroom session or week-long series exploring how people of different faiths and beliefs live, learn and work in Britain today? There are so many possibilities: those are just a few!

You’ll find lots of activity ideas at: <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/ideas>.

Inter Faith Buddies

Inter Faith Buddies is a scheme designed by IFN to bring individuals together to engage in dialogue.

- The scheme involves two people of different faiths or beliefs: keeping in touch on a weekly basis for 6 weeks;
- choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and
- if they wish, sharing at an in-person or online event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they have gained from the experience.

It is an opportunity for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time, about what is important to us, in the context of our wider community. The process may, of course, lead to longer term conversations and new forms of practical co-operation.

Interested in taking up the idea within your organisation?

If you are an organisation interested in taking up the Inter Faith Buddies idea, visit <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-buddies> for more information and practical pointers.

Interfaith Scotland also hosts opportunities for ‘buddying’. A recent example was an inter faith buddies event held in June as part of the Great Get Together.

The Charity Commission and faith charities

The Charity Commission is the regulator of charities in England and Wales. It also maintains the Charity Register (<https://www.gov.uk/find-charity-information>). Its purpose is to ensure that charities can thrive and inspire trust so that people can improve lives and strengthen society.

Almost all charities with an income of over £5,000 must register with the Charity Commission. Being a registered charity has advantages, such as: tax benefits, such as Gift Aid; opportunities to apply for grant funding; support and guidance to help you run your organisation more effectively; and increased public confidence in your organisation.

The Commission's Faith Charities Outreach Team works with faith charities, such as churches, gurdwaras, mosques, synagogues and temples. They provide free support to trustees - also known as committee members or directors - of faith organisations that are required to register as a charity. To arrange a meeting, discuss registration or find out what support they can offer, email faithoutreach@charitycommission.gov.uk.

A new monthly podcast is due to start in the autumn.

The RMC produces fact sheets, daily and weekly news bulletins and regular zoom press briefings on religion and belief topics and also holds two annual events - a public lecture and a festival celebrating and challenging the coverage of religion and belief. Its content is regularly featured in the main UK news outlets.

The Centre is keen to collaborate with academic, media and religious organisations that wish to be a part of the work. ## A message from the Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK

The Inter Faith Network works in many different ways to support the development of greater inter faith understanding and cooperation.

Across this year IFN has worked with faith communities, inter faith bodies, Government and many others to help support and strengthen response to the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic. IFN has also continued, despite the pressures of the pandemic, to provide information, resources and advice to help many different kinds of organisations from faith organisations to schools and workplaces to build religious literacy and work for good relations into their ongoing work. Through the Inter Faith Week programme (on which IFN leads) thousands of people, young and old and of many backgrounds have directly encountered IFN's messages of the vital importance of inter faith awareness and solidarity.

As 2021 draws to a close, we encourage you to consider a donation to support IFN's vital work.

You can make a donation at www.interfaith.org.uk/donate, by PayPal Donate with PayPal Giving Fund or by sending a cheque to: the Inter Faith Network for the UK, 2 Grosvenor Gardens, London SW1W 0DH.

Thank you very much for your support.

Best wishes,
Bishop Jonathan Clark and Narendra Waghela, IFN Co-Chairs

COVID-19 and faith communities

October and November saw return to more regular patterns of in person meetings and events on the part of faith communities. In the Midlands, for example, thousands of Sikhs joined worldwide celebrations to mark the 552nd birthday Guru Nanak Thousands of Sikhs turn up for annual religious event despite snow | ITV News Central and in London, hundreds attended the Church of England's Synod. In Scotland, many from different faith groups came together to advocate together on behalf of climate change ahead of and at COP26 (although the main vigil for the latter was held outdoors).

The subsequent emergence in late November and rapid spread of the Omicron variant of the virus, and continued spread of the Delta variant, have led the UK Government and governments in the devolved nations to reintroduce some measures to reduce the spread of the virus. Places of worship remain open in all UK nations. However, face masks must now be worn in them all.

There has been a strong push to increase the numbers of people receiving boosters and also to encourage take up on the first and second vaccinations. UK Communities Minister Kemi Badenoch MP hosted a special webinar for faith leaders on 17 December with inputs from key NHS practitioners. On 19 December, the UK Government announced an additional £22.5 million in funding and an army of vaccine ambassadors have been deployed to encourage vaccine uptake in the run up to Christmas and the new year. Pop up clinics in places of worship will be among the kinds of activity supported.

Faith communities have been continuing to play an active part in the vaccine roll out. For example the Hindu Council UK and South Asian Health Alliance with input from the NHS and others held an online vaccine awareness event https://twitter.com/hindu\_counciluk/status/1463450539585413121. Programmes such as Community Champions are also assisting. Faith leaders in some areas, such as Watford, have been issuing renewed calls for people to come forward for vaccination. <https://www.facebook.com/WatfordInterfaithAssociation/posts/4905345706155307> The Watford message includes within it the following wording which is central to many such calls at this time: “Leaders from across all the major faiths in Watford are asking people of every faith and denomination to come forward and support this huge national effort. Vaccines are our best defence against Omicron – we therefore urge faith communities, and everyone, to book yourselves in today and join the national fight against this virus. If you have yet to get your first or second dose it is never too late, as the vaccines will reduce your risk of hospitalisation and death. So please play your part and encourage others in your community to be vaccinated with the booster.”

Organisations such as FaithAction and Strengthening Faith Institutions are also playing a role.

The use of places of worship for clinics and pop-ups is affording unusual and welcome opportunities for inter faith learning and engagement. For example in the present week a local doctor from Bristol tweets about her vaccination at the Bristol Hindu temple <https://twitter.com/DrLizJenkinson/status/1470754571773485064> and an Infantry Officer about his visit to the local mosques for a booster, saying “ Unexpected 'cultural' day out as the eldest was intrigued with the beautifully decorative interior, and mosque staff happily chatted away with her”. ## UK Government Minister with responsibility for faith engagement

Kemi Badenoch MP has been given, as part of her Ministerial brief at the Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities in the UK Government, responsibility for faith engagement as part of integrated communities. She is also Minister for Equalities.

Refugees and asylum seekers

On 11 October, IFN's Faith Communities Forum issued the statement at:

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/a-call-for-safe-humane-and-dignified-treatment-of-refugees-and-those-seeking-asylum> It includes a specific concern about a recently adopted 'push back' of boats policy within the framework of a wider statement concluding with a call for

"Drawing on the common values at the heart of our different and distinct faith traditions we call for safe, humane and dignified treatment of refugees and those seeking asylum."

Nationality and Borders Bill

The Nationality and Borders Bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons on 8 December. It next moves to its second reading in the House of Lords on 5 January.
[House of Lords: Nationality and Borders Bill \[HL\] \(parliament.uk\)](#)

The three objectives of the Bill are described by the Government as:

1. To make the system fairer and more effective so that we can better protect and support those in genuine need of asylum.
2. To deter illegal entry into the UK breaking the business model of criminal trafficking networks and saving lives.
3. To remove from the UK those with no right to be here.

Nationality and Borders Bill: factsheet - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)

There have been concerns raised about aspects of the Bill, including by faith communities, particularly in relation to criminalisation of arriving without permission and also about a provision which would give the Government to the right, in certain circumstances, to remove a UK citizen's citizenship without informing them.

Sir David Amess MP

On 15 October, Sir David Amess, MP for Southend West, was killed in an attack during a constituency surgery he was holding at Belfairs Methodist Church in Leigh-on-Sea. The suspect was detained under the Terrorist Act.

Many tributes were offered to Sir David, including from faith communities in his constituency, such as local mosques, with whom he had had very positive relations. On 18 October a statement was issued on behalf of the Board and the Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum of IFN. This can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-following-the-killing-of-sir-david-amess-mp>. It includes within it the following:

“Like the murder five years ago of Jo Cox MP, the knife attack on Steven Timms MP, and the attack on Nigel Jones MP in which local councillor Andrew Pennington, who had come to his aid, was killed, this latest murderous stabbing throws into sharp relief the vulnerability of those who serve as our elected representatives.

Causes and motives differ. In some cases, attackers seek to justify their acts through perverse distortions of religious teachings, such as in the case of Islamist extremists (despite the repeated rejection of their views by members of the community in question), or of political doctrine, in the case of far right extremists.

We must stand firm against hatred and division and in support of safe, free and open engagement of people in a democratic society.”

Faith communities, climate change and the environment

COP26 (the United Nations climate talks, also known as the Conference of Parties or COP), took place in Glasgow from 31 October to 12 November. The COP saw the culmination of a long period of preparation and activity by faith community organisations, as well as individuals motivated by their faith. This included advocacy initiatives, including ‘pilgrimages’, such as that of the Young Christian Climate Network and ‘Camino to COP’.

The inter faith charity Faith for the Climate played a linking/encouraging role in relation to COP26, with support from the Environmental Issues Network of CTBI and active involvement from Aid NGOs such as Christian Aid, CAFOD, Tear Fund and Islamic Relief; and engagement from faith-based initiatives such as the Bhumi Project, Bahu Trust, Eco Synagogue, Eco Church, Eco Sikh and Hindu Climate Action. A Glasgow Multi-Faith Declaration was signed by a number of leaders of different faiths from across the UK <https://interfaithscotland.org/glasgow-multi-faith-declaration-for-cop26> and an open letter was delivered to Downing Street by a number of faith leaders <https://cafod.org.uk/News/Campaigning-news/COP26-faith-Number-10-hand-in>.

A number of other faith-based and inter faith bodies ran active campaigns in the time leading up to COP26, such as Muslim Charities Forum and the Wirral-based charity Faiths4Change. Joint statements were issued by a number of faith bodies, for example by bishops from the Church of Wales <https://www.churchinwales.org.uk/en/news-and-events/bishops-call-for-bold-action-on-climate-crisis/>; Muslim organisations from across the UK and Ireland <https://www.ifees.org.uk/cop26statement/>; and Druids <https://theorderoftheoak.wordpress.com/2021/08/30/open-letter-to-cop26-leaders/>.

At COP26, a range of faith-based and inter faith activities took place and Scottish Interfaith Week was moved forward to coincide with COP26, running from 31 October to 7 November on the theme of ‘Together for Our Planet’. On 31 October, Interfaith Scotland and Interfaith Glasgow, with the Scottish Religious Leaders Forum, led a prayer and meditation vigil at George Square in Glasgow, the official livestream of which can be found at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Q9wDI36mJms>.

On 2 November, representatives of faith movements from around the world gathered at St George’s Tron Church to present their demands for climate justice. Faith events were also organised to mark the Global Day of Action for Climate Justice on 6 November, including ‘faith and belief blocs’ at marches in London and Glasgow.

Faith groups also led workshops and held vigils and community events. Several faith-based organisations also ran exhibition stands in the Green Zone of COP26 and there were many other vigils, dialogue opportunities, workshops and volunteering opportunities. For example, Soka Gakkai International UK, with the Centre for Applied Buddhism, led a ‘Sowing Seeds of Hope’ event, which ran throughout COP26 from 1 to 7 November as part of the Climate Fringe in Glasgow, with talks and activities themed on climate justice and the launch of a ‘Seeds of Hope and Action’ exhibition with Earth Charter International. Some activities took place within the Blue Zone, however there was no formal space for faith groups at the summit.

Many activities for Inter Faith Week in England, Northern Ireland and Wales, which ran from 14 to 21 November, were also centred on faith responses to climate change <https://www.interfaithweek.org/events/calendar/environment-climate-event>.

Building on the momentum created by COP26, faith and inter faith/multi faith groups have begun to build campaigns, and to make plans and commitments.

The Climate Coalition, which includes a number of faith organisations, has created an ‘Email Your MP’ campaign and the ‘The Proof is in the Pudding’ campaign, encouraging people to make sure that the UK government fulfils the promises made at COP26. The details of these campaigns, including information on how to get involved, can be found at <https://www.theclimatecoalition.org/take-action>.

A number of communities have produced new resources linked to COP26 (see below).

A number of UK faith organisations have signed up to be participants in the ‘Faith Plans’ programme of FaithInvest which was launched in October to coincide with COP26. This will involve developing plans for practical faith-based environmental action. <https://www.faithplans.org/>

The details provided in this bulletin are not exhaustive, and faith and inter faith responses continue to develop. Details of major Christian faith events and latest responses to COP26, and sources of background information and links to some of the organisations which reported from the conference, can be found in this Churches Together in Britain and Ireland report <https://ctbi.org.uk/un-climate-change-conference-cop26/>.

The Queen’s Green Canopy

The June issue of IFN’s e-bulletin noted that faith leaders had come together in a video to share what trees mean to them and their faiths and to encourage everyone to plant a tree for the Queen’s Platinum Jubilee next year. <https://www.standard.co.uk/news/uk/queen-katherine-grainger-justin-welby-prince-of-wales-people-b935675.html>

If you are a faith group or an inter faith organisation, why not get involved and plant a tree or trees? Tree planting is under way from now until March and will then start again in October 2022, through to the end of the Jubilee year (reflecting the time when trees are best planted).

The Woodland Trust is a partner of the QGC. Across 2021 and 2022 they have over three million saplings in tree packs, available on a first come first served basis. Information on how to apply for the free saplings is available through the Woodland Trust website <https://www.woodlandtrust.org.uk/plant-trees/schools-and-communities/>. In Northern Ireland, free tree packs are available through the QGC partner The Conservation Volunteers. <https://queensgreencanopy.org/get-involved/communities-and-groups/>.

Hate crime

In October, the UK Government published the 2020-21 hate crime figures for England and Wales. <https://www.gov.uk/government/statistics/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2020-to-2021/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2020-to-2021> The report notes that religious hate crimes fell by 18 per cent (to 5,627 offences), down from 6,856 in the previous year; this was the second successive fall in religious hate crimes since a peak of 7,202 offences in year ending March 2019.

Scotland's report on the same period had been published earlier in the year. <https://www.copfs.gov.uk/media-site-news-from-copfs/1957-hate-crime-in-scotland-2020-21> That reported 573 charges with a religious aggravation reported in 2020-21, 14% fewer than in 2019-20. Northern Ireland data for the same period, together with a subsequent quarterly update can be seen at Hate Motivation Statistics \(psni.police.uk\).

On 7 December the Law Commission published the Final Report of its review of hate crime laws in England and Wales. The full report, and a summary of the report and its recommendations, are available for download at <https://www.lawcom.gov.uk/project/hate-crime/>.

During the time since the last issue, there have been a number of high profile hate incidents. These have included antisemitic incidents, for example targeting Jews on a bus on Oxford street at the start of Chanukkah. <https://www.standard.co.uk/news/crime/jewish-teens-oxford-street-hanukkah-bus-harassment-london-b969433.html> Among recently reported hate incidents targeting Muslims was one about two teenage girls being assaulted by four unknown women who tried to remove the girls' traditional Muslim dress and hijab. Muslim girls assaulted by group of women who tried to yank their hijabs off \(tellmamauk.org\) Islamophobia

Awareness month in November saw a number of events looking at hate incidents (as well as prejudice) linked to Muslim identity.

It is not just the Jewish and Muslim communities where religiously related incidents have been reported. For example, the Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC) has launched an investigation after an officer was accused, in a complaint against the West Midlands Police, of forcibly removing the religious head covering of a Sikh man while he was in custody. Police apology amid claim Sikh headwear was forcibly removed - BBC News

Social Media, prejudice and hatred

Recent publications

In December, the Community Security Trust published a Woolf Institute study with CST and Antisemitism Policy Trust which speaks of 495,000 antisemitic tweets being shared in the UK each year, with around 100 to 1,350 such tweets shared every day.

<https://www.woolf.cam.ac.uk/research/projects/antisemitism-online> In November the Community Security Trust published a report on antisemitic discourse:

<https://cst.org.uk/research/cst-publications>.

On 30 November, the Muslim Council of Britain's Centre for Media Monitoring published British Media's Coverage of Muslims & Islam \(2018-2020\). The report analysed 48,000+ online articles and 5,500+ broadcast clips. It describes 60% of online media articles and 47% of television clips as associating Muslims and/or Islam with negative aspects or behaviour.

Consultation on proposals to reform the Human Rights Act

On 14 December, the report of the Independent Human Rights Act Review Panel was published. This can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/independent-human-rights-act-review> Government's response, also published on 14 December, sets out its proposals to revise the Human Rights Act 1998 and replace it with a 'Bill of Rights'. Government's proposals are accompanied by a public consultation which will run until 8 March. Both can be found at <https://consult.justice.gov.uk/human-rights/human-rights-act-reform/>.

Government's proposals are extensive, and would affect a significant amount of the Act, if implemented, including changes to the principle of proportionality which would alter the ways that domestic judges balance qualified and limited rights from the European Convention on Human Rights (to which the UK is still a party).

New IFN Co-Chair

It was announced on 10 December by the Board of the Inter Faith Network for the UK that from 1 January the Revd Canon Hilary Barber will be taking up the role of Co-Chair, following the standing down of the Rt Revd Jonathan Clark at the end of the year, ahead of the latter's retirement as Bishop of Croydon. At its December meeting, the Board offered its warm thanks to Bishop Clark for his work with IFN across the last two years and its good wishes for his future.

Canon Barber will be Co-Chair from IFN's National Faith Community Representative Bodies category of membership. He joins Narendra Waghela, who is Co-Chair from IFN's local inter faith organisation and other categories membership. Canon Barber will also become ex officio a Co-Moderator of the IFN Faith Communities Forum.

Canon Barber said: "The work of the Inter Faith Network of the UK is of enormous importance. I am delighted to have been appointed. I will do everything I can, with God's help, to enable the Inter Faith Network to thrive and flourish so that it can continue to be a vital resource for the development of inter faith cooperation and understanding in the UK."

Canon Barber is the Vicar of Halifax Minster in Calderdale, West Yorkshire. Prior to that, he worked in the Diocese of Manchester. He is involved in both national and local inter faith engagement. He has a particular interest in the area of faith and the public square and practical cooperation of faiths for the benefit of local communities and society and in tackling division within society.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS AND DEVELOPMENTS

CCJ Inclusion and Diversity programme

At the end of October the Council of Christians and Jews launched its new Inclusion and Diversity Programme. CCJ was established to fight ‘religious and racial prejudice’, especially antisemitism, and to ‘promote religious and racial harmony’. The project is intended to help CCJ work towards these founding goals in three ways: establishing a small twinning scheme between synagogues and Black majority congregations in at least three cities in the UK; organising one national event at the end of the project; and establishing a project oversight group. To learn more, email Theo Shaw at theophilia.shaw@ccj.org.uk.

Local inter faith anniversaries

This year South London Inter Faith group celebrates 40 years since its founding. The highlight of the celebrations was an event on 28 November in Streatham. As a part of the anniversary events SLIFG will also be planting trees in Tooting, Merton and Streatham, revamping its website and making its archives and resources more accessible. For more information, email chair@southlondoninterfaith.org.uk.

This year marks the Birmingham Faith Leaders' Group's 20th Anniversary, having been formed in the immediate aftermath of 9/11. The occasion was marked by the Group's Annual Peace Service in September, in the presence of the Deputy Lieutenant of the West Midlands and the Lord Mayor of Birmingham, which was followed by a reception at Singers Hill Synagogue. The culmination of the event was the premiere of a new specially commissioned film about the Group and its 20 years. The film can be seen at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=m0fv1s40PEI&t=976s>.

Other local bodies recently marking anniversaries include Swindon Interfaith. It reached its 30th year in 2020. Due to Covid restrictions, it could not hold a proper celebration last year, so decided to host it in 2021 instead. The event was an opportunity to celebrate and reflect on its successes over the last 30 years as well as looking forward to the future.

Reaching out to our neighbours

Luton Gurdwara Soup Kitchen

There are many projects which regularly offer a helping hand to others or assist when needed. For example, a weekly soup kitchen was launched during Inter Faith Week by Luton Gurdwara. <https://twitter.com/PamtengoRadio/status/1462503298582429707>

Sewa

Many groups step up their collections at times such as Christmas and other festivals or hold specially focused drives for food and gifts. In this video clip, Nicola Richards MP for West Bromwich East talks about helping Sewa Day wrap presents and why she would be joining them again shortly to do so.

Interfaith Glasgow Weekend Club

Glasgow is home to more asylum seekers than anywhere else in the UK. Often newcomers arrive with little or no money, poor English, and suffering the effects of trauma. Many individuals and families find themselves extremely isolated, especially at the weekends when refugee services tend not to operate. Glasgow Interfaith’s Weekend Club tackles this isolation and aids integration by working with a team of volunteers from diverse faith and belief communities to organise free monthly events for newcomers, usually in collaboration with other organisations and often hosted in partnership with faith communities. This Christmas it has raised donations to be able to give over 100 ‘New Scots’ children and young people in Glasgow wrapped presents. These were delivered by volunteers. <https://twitter.com/InterfaithGlasg/status/1471059961128046600>

IFN Videos for assemblies and collective worship

During Inter Faith Week, IFN launched a number of videos that can be used in schools' assemblies and as part of collective worship.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/school-assemblies-collective-worship>.

The videos focus on real people who are engaged in inter faith activity, some of whom do not profess a faith. Some of the videos feature young people and others more mature adults. Each video is between 3 to 5 minutes long and has been developed to promote reflection on two themes: Friendship and Social action. These videos were created for Inter Faith Week but can be used at any time of the year to enable pupils to reflect on what it means to be a friend and what it means to do good in one's community.

Faith Communities and COVID-19: Learning from the Journey

Earlier this year, IFN's National Meeting took as its theme 'Faith Communities and Covid-19: Learning from the Journey'. The report on the day is at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/faith-communities-and-covid-19-learning-from-the-journey-report-on-ifn-national-meeting-2021>.

The meeting explored a wide range of issues. These included how places of worship had coped with periods of closure and with social distancing; health care chaplaincy and the handling of funerals and bereavement; and responding to loneliness and domestic abuse during the pandemic. It heard from faith communities with high BAME membership responding to the disproportionate impact of COVID-19 on them and about initiatives to address vaccine hesitancy. The gathering also considered how digital communication has been being used for inter faith dialogue and cooperation and the future possibilities of that; how faith communities, local authorities and other statutory agencies have been working in partnership; how schools have adapted during the pandemic and a new IFN teacher resource to help 11-14 year olds learn about inter faith activity, with examples from inter faith responses to the pandemic; the financial impact of the pandemic on faith community organisations; how the pandemic experience is being captured through research; and the practicalities of standing in solidarity and issuing statements.

Inter Faith Buddies

Inter Faith Buddies is a scheme designed by IFN to bring individuals together to engage in dialogue.

- The scheme involves two people of different faiths or beliefs: keeping in touch on a weekly basis for 6 weeks;
- choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and
- if they wish, sharing at an in-person or online event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they have gained from the experience.

It is an opportunity for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time, about what is important to us, in the context of our wider community. The process may, of course, lead to longer term conversations and new forms of practical co-operation.

Interested in taking up the idea within your organisation?

CALLS FOR INFORMATION, COMPETITIONS, AND NOMINATIONS

Calls for Information

Women’s Local Inter Faith Initiatives – A call for information

As part of IFN’s work to support and encourage local inter faith engagement, IFN is carrying out a short, practically focused, research project on women’s local inter faith initiatives. Linked to this, it held a special by invitation round table during Inter Faith Week. This was chaired by IFN’s Executive Director, with opening words from the Co-Chairs, an introduction to the research project from its Project Officer, reports on contributors’ work, wide ranging discussion and closing reflections from Patricia Stoat of Nottingham Inter Faith Council. Contributors included both participants from a range of local women’s inter faith initiatives and from national women’s inter faith bodies with local groups: Women’s Interfaith Network and Nisa Nashim.

During October and November it contacted local inter faith organisations to gather information and reflections.

If you have any information about this topic that you think would be helpful, Project Officer Kirsty Healey would be very pleased to hear from you by 20 January.

Kirsty.healey@interfaith.org.uk.

IFN Local Inter Faith Guide

The IFN office is working on a new edition of The Local Inter Faith Guide. This is a guide for those starting or developing the work of local inter faith bodies. The new edition will respond to the changing environment for local inter faith activity – including the changes brought by increased digital communication, particularly since the time of the pandemic. What remains the same, however, is the key role of the guide in sharing information and good practice on all sorts of topics, from running successful programmes and working in partnership with bodies such as local authorities, to naming a new local inter faith organisation, creating a logo, working out governance matters, women’s local inter faith initiatives and involving young people.

The guide will include a range of information and signposts for further learning and development in support of local inter faith organisations. It will also, again, include real examples from local inter faith organisations – that is an important way both to celebrate the work of organisations and also to provide ‘doable’ examples from which other organisations can learn.

If your local inter faith organisation in the last four years (2018-21) has:

- held an activity or run a project that your think was worthwhile and successful and might be of interest to other LIFOs;
- tackled effectively a particular issue such as governance change, fundraising, or getting more young people involved; and/or
- worked closely with statutory agencies such as the local authority or the police, eg on Covid response or tackling hate crime

Kirsty would be very pleased to hear from you by 14 January. Please send your contribution (up to 250 words) to kirsty.healey@interfaith.org.uk.

Data which you provide may be drawn upon by IFN for use in development of the third edition of its Local Inter Faith Guide. Data may also be used for the wider purposes of IFN's work of promoting good inter faith relations in the UK. Answers you have given may be quoted, and may be attributed to your organisation, except where you ask that it not be so. Any contact details which you provide will not be passed to third parties without your permission.

Bereavement – A call for information

Millions of people across the UK faced bereavement in 2020, with hundreds of thousands more bereaved than in previous years as a result of Covid-19. Across England and Wales, 614,000 people died during 2020 and 2021, leaving an estimated three million people facing bereavement. This is 75,000 more deaths than the average across the previous five years – with an estimated additional 375,000 left bereaved.

(<https://bereavementcommission.org.uk/about-us/>) As well as more people facing bereavement, the pandemic has had a profound impact on how those affected have experienced their loss.

Many people have been unable to see family and friends and have had limited access to formal support after their loved one died. Feeling alone in their grief due to lockdown or having to shield or self-isolate had had a devastating impact. The lack of face-to-face contact from primary care and community-based services, and bereavement support services, has been difficult.

Working in partnership with a number of UK charities, and with researchers leading an academic study on the issue, a UK Commission on Bereavement through and beyond Covid-19 has been established to explore these issues and make recommendations to better support bereaved people.

To help inform its ongoing work, the Commission would like to hear from individuals affected by bereavement, or professionals or organisations working to support people suffering from bereavement. The findings from this call for evidence will be fed into the Commission's report, due early next year, which they hope will include recommendations across government.

The Commission is particularly requesting evidence from faith groups. If you have experiences or reflections you would like to share, visit <https://bereavementcommission.org.uk/taking-part/> to find out more.

FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

COVID-19 regulation updates

There have recently been updates to legal requirements relating to COVID-19 in all four nations of the UK.

England

On 21 February the UK Government published its plan for 'Living with COVID-19' in England. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-response-living-with-covid-19> This includes, from 24 February, an end to most remaining legal requirements. Some requirements for employers relating to risk assessments remain in place until 1 April.

Scotland

It was announced on 22 February that Scotland's COVID passport scheme will end on 28 February, with the legal requirement to wear face masks being lifted on 21 March.

<https://www.gov.scot/news/living-safely-with-covid/>

Wales

The latest changes in Wales come into effect on 28 February, with face coverings being required in fewer settings. <https://gov.wales/coronavirus>

Northern Ireland

All remaining legal requirements were removed in Northern Ireland from 15 February.

Faith communities and COVID-19

Faith communities are continuing to put their weight behind the vaccination programme. Many places of worship have been hosting pop-up vaccination clinics, including a church in Stockport, a mosque in Southampton and a Sikh temple in Swindon.

<https://www.dailyecho.co.uk/news/19921514.pop-up-vaccine-clinic-hosted-taqwah-mosque-southampton/>

<https://www.swindonadvertiser.co.uk/news/19949777.swindon-sikh-temple-second-place-worship-region-hold-vaccine-pop-up-clinic/>

As the pandemic restrictions ease, the need for COVID-19 linked forms of charitable support has lessened but organisations such as Sewa Day continue to carry out their activities and in some areas, the last couple of years have inspired special acts of gratitude. For example in Northampton a chip shop owner teamed up with volunteers from the Sikh Community Centre and Youth Club to donate meals from his shop to people in shelters and sleeping rough on the streets of the town centre.

Ukraine – inter faith vigils and gatherings

National faith communities have responded in a range of ways to the recent invasion of Ukraine by Russia and its impacts, including those seeking asylum as a result of the conflict.

A number of faith and inter faith organisations have held vigils and taken part in other actions. For example in Rochdale, a Ukrainian Catholic church served as locus for multi faith participation. https://twitter.com/mfp\_rochdale/status/1497615969492955138 In Sunderland, the Sunderland Inter Faith Forum hosted a multi faith gathering, ‘A prayer for Ukraine’ at Sunderland Minister. <https://www.itv.com/news/tyne-tees/2022-02-28/a-prayer-for-ukraine-residents-of-all-faiths-gather-at-sunderland-vigil> There have also been statements such as from Faith Network for Manchester and Watford Interfaith Association

Hate crime

There have been a number of recent hate crimes which have been treated as religiously motivated. These include an attack on two Jewish bakers in North London the night before Holocaust Memorial Day <https://www.standard.co.uk/news/crime/stamford-hill-bakers-anti-semitic-attack-shomrim-b979041.html> and an attack on a Muslim women near a subway station in Glasgow <https://news.stv.tv/west-central/gang-of-youths- racially-abused-muslim-woman-near-subway-station>.

Security has been increased at a Hindu temple in Swindon, following a series of break-ins, during the most recent of which ornamental deities and decorations were damaged.

<https://www.swindonadvertiser.co.uk/news/19879852.council-criticises-burglars-targeting-hindu-temple-search-new-place-worship-continues/>

In February the Community Security Trust (CST) published its report on Antisemitic Incidents in 2021. CST recorded 2,255 antisemitic incidents in the UK in 2021, the highest total ever reported to CST in a single calendar year. This is an increase of 34% from the 1,684 incidents recorded by CST in 2020. The report notes that “this record figure is due to the volume of anti-Jewish reactions to the escalation of conflict in Israel and Palestine last year.” Of the incidents reported, 552 were online, including 16 instances of ‘Zoombombing’. <https://cst.org.uk/research/cst-publications>

Information on reporting hate crimes can be found below.

REPORT HATE CRIME AND WORK TOGETHER TO HELP TACKLE IT

Report hate incidents online through True Vision or via 3rd parties eg Community Security Trust (CST), Tell Mama UK and Stop Hate UK; at a police station; or by ringing the police on 101 (non-emergency) or 999.

Government response to Protect Duty consultation

On 10 January, the Government published its response to its consultation on the Protect Duty. 2755 individuals or organisations responded. 34% of the responses received were from Places of Worship. The consultation response noted that “When considering specific types of venues, there was a strong response to the consultation from Places of Worship. They, amongst voluntary and smaller organisations, sought exemption due to concerns over financial implications, the burden to operations and in some cases, rural locations.”

The full response can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/protect-duty/outcome/government-response-document>.

Levelling Up

On 2 February the UK Government published its Levelling Up White Paper. This can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/levelling-up-the-united-kingdom>. There is no dedicated reference to the role of faith communities in this.

The UK Government also published on 2 February a response to Danny Kruger MP's Report: 'Levelling Up Our Communities: Proposals for a New Social Covenant'. This can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/government-response-to-danny-kruger-mps-report-levelling-up-our-communities-proposals-for-a-new-social-covenant/government-response-to-danny-kruger-mps-report-levelling-up-our-communities-proposals-for-a-new-social-covenant>. This includes the following response to Danny Kruger's recommendation that there be a new deal with faith communities, by which government supports a greater role for faith groups in meeting social challenges:

“The government recognises the significant contribution of faith groups and the increase in scale and innovation of their work during the pandemic and beyond. On 9 September 2021, the government announced the Faith New Deal Pilot Fund. Funding is available through a competitive grant programme for faith groups working on community projects in collaboration with local agencies and philanthropy. The fund aims to strengthen engagement between faith groups, national and local government through supporting faith-based initiatives addressing social issues. The fund will serve as a statement of intent to work constructively with faith groups and its delivery will inform a 'Faith Compact' to encourage national and local government to look for opportunities to partner with faith groups. Innovation is a key criterion for applications and each applicant will need to demonstrate they are innovative within their partnerships, new projects and/or expansion to pre-existing projects. The pilot will help determine how the future plans for the Faith New Deal will evolve. In addition, Colin Bloom, the independent Faith Engagement Adviser, has been appointed to lead a review into how the government should engage with faith groups in England. We look forward to seeing his recommendations on how we can further enhance government engagement with our faith groups.”

Consultation on proposals to reform the Human Rights Act

The last issue of the e-bulletin noted that on 14 December, the report of the Independent Human Rights Act Review Panel was published. This can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/independent-human-rights-act-review>. The Government's response, also published on 14 December, sets out its proposals to revise the Human Rights Act 1998 and replace it with a 'Bill of Rights'.

The Government's proposals are accompanied by a public consultation which ends on 8 March. Both can be found at <https://consult.justice.gov.uk/human-rights/human-rights-act-reform/>.

EHRC Response to reports of Islamophobia in the Conservative Party

On 24 January it was announced that the Prime Minister had ordered a Cabinet Office inquiry into allegations made by Conservative MP Nus Ghani that she was discriminated against due to her religion.

On 27 January an EHRC spokesperson said: "Discrimination against public office holders is unacceptable and any suggestions of it should be tackled swiftly. Following the concerning reports about Nusrat Ghani MP, we have today written to the Cabinet Office and the Conservative Party seeking further information. As the regulator for equality and human rights, we take allegations of Islamophobia in any organisation extremely seriously. We are monitoring the Conservative Party's implementation of Professor Swaran Singh's independent investigation and will not hesitate to use our powers if our standards are not met. This is consistent with our approach to investigating any association where we would consider how they address concerns through independent reports and action plans, before taking further action."

Freedom of Religion or Belief Ministerial Conference

On 5 and 6 July the UK Government will be hosting a Ministerial Conference on Freedom of Religion or Belief. The conference aims to boost global efforts to tackle persecution and "drive collective action in promoting respect between different religious and non-religious communities around the world so that everyone, everywhere can practise their own religion or belief freely". <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/uk-to-host-international-conference-to-promote-freedom-of-religion-or-belief-next-summer-in-london>

Planning for the Conference is led by the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO). Fiona Bruce MP is the Prime Minister's Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion or Belief (FoRB) and as such is supported by a special team within the FCDO. The Special Envoy: brings together UK efforts to promote religious tolerance abroad, and works on how the UK government can protect and promote this fundamental freedom internationally; works with the members of the International Religious Freedom or Belief Alliance (<https://www.state.gov/international-religious-freedom-or-belief-alliance>) to raise awareness of cases of particular concern, advocating for the rights of people worldwide who are discriminated against or persecuted for their faith or belief; and supports implementing the Bishop of Truro's recommendations on FCDO support for persecuted Christians around the world. Ms Bruce is also Chair of the All Party Parliamentary Group on International Freedom of Religion and Belief, and last November launched a campaign called End the Persecution.

In preparation for the Ministerial Conference, members of the APPG for International FoRB and Fiona Bruce MP's Parliamentary Team are speaking at a number of venues. <https://endthepersécution.uk/endthepersécution-uk-presentations/> There will be a range of 100 events in and around the Ministerial, forming an 'FoRB Fringe "that hopes to capture the need for all young people to advocate for FoRB and ending persecution". The APPG is promoting a FoRB Fringe linked to the Ministerial and encouraging involvement around the UK. An online form for those interested to apply to host an event is at <https://endthepersécution.uk/forb-fringe/>.

The #Endthepersécution campaign is also running a scheme for Youth Ambassadors for International Freedom of Religion or Belief and an essay competition. <https://endthepersécution.uk/youth-ambassadors/>

Northern Ireland Assembly consultation on Fair Employment Bill

In January the Northern Ireland Assembly Committee began its examination of the Fair Employment (School Teachers) Bill, and has launched a public consultation to ask people across Northern Ireland for their views. The Fair Employment and Treatment (Northern Ireland) Order 1998 outlaws discrimination on the grounds of religious belief and political opinion in a number of areas including employment. Article 71 of the Order exempts school teachers from the legislation. The reason for this is to enable certain schools to maintain a religious ethos. The Bill aims to remove the exemption for school teachers from the Order. The consultation closes on 7 March. Further information is at <https://consult.nia-yourassembly.org.uk/committee-for-the-executive-office/fair-employment-school-teachers-bill/>.

Religion, Values and Ethics guidance for Wales

In January Education Wales published the statutory Religion, Values and Ethics (RVE) guidance for Wales. RVE is being included in the New Curriculum for Wales, which is being implemented from September 2022. The guidance can be found at <https://hwb.gov.wales/curriculum-for-wales/summary-of-legislation/#religion,-values-and-ethics>.

The Welsh Government is working in partnership with the Wales Association of SACREs to create a suite of national online Professional Learning resources to support practitioners in the use of the curriculum guidance.

Nationality and Borders Bill

The Nationality and Borders Bill is currently going through the Report Stage in the House of Lords. <https://bills.parliament.uk/bills/3023>

1,000+ faith leaders have signed a letter, organised by the Joint Public Issues Team (a partnership between the Baptist Union of Great Britain, the Methodist Church, and the United Reformed Church) asking for concerns about the bill to be addressed.

Police, Crime, Sentencing and Courts Bill

The Police, Crime, Sentencing and Courts Bill returned to the House of Commons, following a rejection of some aspects of it by the House of Lords. (The majority of the Bill applies to England and Wales, though some provisions apply to Scotland and Northern Ireland.) A factsheet setting out the proposed aims of the Bill can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/police-crime-sentencing-and-courts-bill-2021-factsheets/police-crime-sentencing-and-courts-bill-2021-overarching-factsheet>.

A range of national and local faith leaders signed a joint letter to MPs, organised by the Religious Society of Friends, ahead of the Bill returning to the Commons, expressing concerns about the impact that Part 3 of the Bill would have on nonviolent protest, including prayer vigils, public acts of worship, community events and street preaching; and about the impact that Part 4 of the Bill would have on Gypsy, Roma, and Traveller communities and their way of life. <https://www.quaker.org.uk/news-and-events/news/faith-and-belief-leaders-urge-mps-to-approve-changes-to-policing-bill>

HM The Queen's Platinum Jubilee

A special 4-day weekend of events to mark Her Majesty The Queen's Platinum Jubilee will take place from Thursday 2 to Sunday 5 June. More information can be found at <https://www.royal.uk/platinum-jubilee-central-weekend>.

The Co-Chairs of IFN, following consultation with the Board, sent a message on its behalf of greetings to HM The Queen at the time of the 70th Anniversary of the Accession on 6 February. This includes reference to Her Majesty's exemplification of the value of service – a value common to all faiths. It also includes reference to her valued support for the development of inter faith understanding and cooperation.

There are a number of other ways for individuals and communities to take part. Some of these are set out below.

Words of support were offered by the Co-Chairs for the Jubilee Beacons project, which will see 1,500 beacons lit throughout the UK (<https://www.queensjubileebeacons.com/>): “On behalf of the Trustees of the Inter Faith Network for the UK we are delighted to offer our warm support for The Platinum Jubilee Beacons programme which forms part of the official celebrations of 70 years since the accession of Her Majesty The Queen. Service is a key value in all faith traditions and faith communities throughout the UK come together in many contexts in a spirit of friendship to serve others. The lighting of community beacons as part of the marking of the Platinum Jubilee celebrations provides an opportunity for people of all faith backgrounds to join together in that same spirit in thanks for Her Majesty's own service to this country and the Commonwealth.”

The Queen's Green Canopy is encouraging the planting of trees to mark the Jubilee. (<https://queensgreencanopy.org/>) The planting season for trees runs to the end of March. A further planting period will run from October to December. Trees for Cities plans to deliver inter faith Queen's Green Canopy projects in UK cities such as London, Birmingham, Bradford, Sheffield, Edinburgh, Cardiff and Belfast. <https://queensgreencanopy.org/about-us/our-partners/trees-for-cities/> February/March is a prime tree-planting time. The Office of the Chief Rabbi and the United Synagogue (US) have launched 'Dorot' (Hebrew for 'generations') - seven separate projects with the lead campaign one by the US to have one tree planted for each of its 37,000 members. <https://www.jewishnews.co.uk/game-changing-environmental-initiative->

launched-by-chief-rabbi-us-for-tu-bshevat A planting took place in February at Lambeth Palace by the Archbishop of Canterbury, with the Bishop of Norwich. <https://www.archbishopofcanterbury.org/news/archbishop-plants-tree-lambeth-palace-part-queens-green-canopy> Other national faith organisations such as the Buddhist Society have also got involved and are encouraging their members to take part. <https://www.thebuddhistsociety.org/page/society-news-1>

Other activities include the Big Jubilee Lunch on the Sunday where people are encouraged to take part through street parties or picnics, tea and cake or garden barbeques (<https://www.edenprojectcommunities.com/the-big-jubilee-lunch>).

The official Government website for the Platinum Jubilee, with information on how to get involved is at <https://platinumjubilee.gov.uk/get-involved-with-the-platinum-jubilee/>.

There is some Lottery Funding available, for grants of up to £10,000. Further information can be found at <https://www.tnlcommunityfund.org.uk/funding/programmes/national-lottery-awards-for-all-england>. Applications for funding for Jubilee projects should be received no later than 31 March.

Last July a ‘Thank You Day’ was held, led by the Together Coalition. This is being held again. It is a UK-wide initiative inviting people to get together to say thank you to one another, to family members, key workers, good neighbours and volunteers. It has a particular link to the pandemic and how people have responded. This year the Together Coalition announced that the TYD will be held again and, given the Platinum Jubilee, in collaboration with the Big Jubilee Lunch on Sunday 5 June. It will encourage people to say thank you to Her Majesty The Queen as well as to one another. <https://thankyouday.org.uk/>

Forgiveness and future-building project

The Woolf Institute (which focuses its work on Jews, Christians and Muslims) is beginning a new project on forgiveness and future-building. The project will focus on three societies post-conflict which have significant variation in terms of their political and religious backgrounds: Bosnia, Northern Ireland and South Sudan. Its goal is to provide materials for constructive practical application for policymakers and 'mid-level' religious and community leaders. Through collaboration with researchers from Norway and US the project will develop FORCAST (FORgiveness and Conflict Analysis Simulation Tool). This system will utilise a multi-agent AI system designed for studying the escalation and de-escalation of inter-group conflict, particularly where complex religious and ethnic identities are involved. This AI system will allow policymakers to experiment on different policy outcomes before they are implemented in the real world. ### Southend City status multi faith gathering

In October last year, Sir David Amess MP was murdered. A few weeks later, it was announced that Her Majesty The Queen has accorded Southend-on-Sea city status – something for which he had worked energetically for many years. A number of special events are being held linked to that. One with special resonance, given Sir David’s faith and good relations with different faith groups in Southend was a multi-faith event in February. Called Unite in Light, it was a celebration of hope and light for Southend’s City year. People gathered from Southend’s diverse faith communities at the Maritime Room, Cliffs Pavilion, to share their hopes for the City of Southend and explore what light symbolises in their faith. The event was supported by Southend.City, Citizens Essex and Southend-on-Sea Borough Council.

Inter Faith Buddies

Inter Faith Buddies is a scheme designed by IFN to bring individuals together to engage in dialogue.

- The scheme involves two people of different faiths or beliefs keeping in touch on a weekly basis for 6 weeks;
- choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and
- if they wish, sharing at an in-person or online event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they have gained from the experience.

It is an opportunity for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time, about what is important to us, in the context of our wider community. The process may, of course, lead to longer term conversations and new forms of practical co-operation.

This video clip from Surrey Faith Links gives a flavour of the experience:

SUPPORTING IFN'S WORK FOR INTER FAITH UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION: A MESSAGE FROM ITS CO-CHAIRS

The Inter Faith Network for the UK has worked since 1987 to fulfil its charitable aims, “to advance public knowledge and mutual understanding of the teachings, traditions and practices of the different faith communities in Britain including an awareness both of their distinctive features and their common ground and to promote good relations between people of different faiths in this country”.

IFN works for inter faith understanding and cooperation by:

- Encouraging inter faith initiatives at all levels
- Providing a trusted source of information on faith and inter faith issues
- Enabling discussion and common action rooted in shared values, including through the IFN Faith Communities Forum
- Sharing good practice and producing resources to help inspire and strengthen inter faith initiatives
- Carrying out projects and programmes such as on youth inter faith interaction and exploring women's local inter faith initiatives
- Encouraging religious literacy and good relations work in contexts from schools, to workplaces and statutory agencies
- Leading on Inter Faith Week – a special programme which is helping ever more organisations and individuals develop links of friendship and cooperation and deepen religious literacy

If you are in a position to do so, please do consider a donation at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/donate> to help IFN's vital work to continue and grow so that we can help support people of different backgrounds, and also institutions in pursuit of IFN's vision of: a society where there is understanding of the diversity and richness of the faith communities in the UK and the contribution that they make; and where we live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Thank you.

The Revd Canon Hilary Barber and Mr Narendra Waghela

FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

COVID-19 guidance

Across the UK, rules requiring people to wear masks in indoor spaces like shops and restaurants have come to an end although guidance remains in place for some settings.

General UK Government information on COVID-19 is at: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/covid-19-coronavirus-restrictions-what-you-can-and-cannot-do>. The NHS guidance can be found at <https://www.nhs.uk/conditions/coronavirus-covid-19/>.

General guidance for Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales is at:

<https://www.gov.scot/coronavirus-covid-19/>

<https://www.nhsinform.scot/coronavirus>

<https://gov.wales/coronavirus>

<https://phw.nhs.wales/topics/latest-information-on-novel-coronavirus-covid-19/>

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/campaigns/coronavirus-covid-19>

<https://www.publichealth.hscni.net/covid-19-coronavirus>

The current position on wearing face coverings in each of the four nations can be found at <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/explainers-52530518>.

Guidance for places of worship in England was withdrawn by the UK Government on 29 March. The guidance on safe use of places of worship in Scotland has now been archived. There is no longer any guidance specific to places of worship in Wales or Northern Ireland.

Coming back together

More faith festivals of different faith communities fell close together in April and early May than has occurred in many years: Rama Navami, Songkran, Vaisakhi, Mahavir Jayanti, Holy Week and Easter, Passover, Hanuman Jayanti, Ridvan, Adar Mah Parab, Beltane/May Day, and Eid-ul-Fitr. The lifting of most COVID restrictions (see above) was in time for the Buddhist, Christian, Hindu, Jain, Jewish, Muslim, Pagan, Sikh and Zoroastrians communities to be able to come together to celebrate their respective festivals during this time and for many sizeable gatherings such as Easter services, community iftars and celebration of Eid; and Vaisakhi parades.

More information about faith festivals can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/religious-festivals>, with thanks to the Shap Calendar Group.

Ukraine – faith community support

National faith communities continue to respond to the impacts of the invasion of Ukraine by Russia. The last issue of the e-bulletin covered the first period of this, with examples of services and vigils. Some have been held subsequently, such as this service at Winchester Cathedral <https://www.englishcathedrals.co.uk/latest-news/peace-vigils-for-ukraine/>; this vigil in Haringey <https://twitter.com/haringeycouncil/status/1500871457890516998>; a national vigil arranged by the Inter Faith Council for Wales <https://twitter.com/CymruInterfaith/status/1498339486987603968>; an online multi faith prayer event by Interfaith Scotland <https://www.facebook.com/interfaithscotland/photos/gm.980697132847642/4791406384300252>; and these prayers for peace with faith leaders from across Kirklees <https://twitter.com/NKInterFaith/status/1512152920866840582>.

The principal focus has been on raising support for the needs of those in Ukraine and assisting refugees. A few examples are below. A collation of Churches' responses and helpful resources can be seen at <https://ctbi.org.uk/church-response-to-russian-invasion-of-ukraine/>. Faith-based humanitarian agencies, such as Christian Aid and CAFOD, have been raising funds and in some cases offering support on the ground, including through cooperative efforts such as that involving Caritas and Khalsa Aid <https://www.khalsaaid.org/news/khalsa-aid-international-response-to-the-ukraine-crisis-2022>. Initiatives such as Muslim Hands have also been assisting on the ground <https://muslimhands.org.uk/latest/2022/03/muslim-hands-supports-ukraine-refugees-bbc-interview>.

Volunteers from a number of communities sprang into action after the invasion to raise funding and supplies for those in need. For example, the BAPS Swaminarayan Sanstha supported relief efforts from a base in Poland <https://www.baps.org/News/2022/BAPS-Responds-to-Ukrainian-Humanitarian-Crisis-20940.aspx>. Closer to home, many collections were taken up and there were special fundraisers such as a match between the University of Leeds Jewish football team, Hapoel Hyde Park and students from the Birmingham JSoc <https://www.thejc.com/news/news/gareth-southgate-sends-support-to-jewish-students-fundraising-for-ukraine-7uBXTCyAqwr4rgb1ta5COA>.

Government guidance for those wishing to sponsor Ukrainian refugees, last updated on 29 April, can be seen at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/homes-for-ukraine-scheme-frequently-asked-questions#full-publication-update-history>. Faith communities have been helping in a number of ways to assist Ukrainian refugees coming to the UK. For example, the Church in Wales held a webinar outlining practical ways for churches to assist refugees coming to the UK <https://www.churchinwales.org.uk/en/news-and-events/webinar-outlines-ways-to-help-refugees/>; the Jewish Leadership Council and Board of Deputies of British Jews established the Jewish Community Refugee Task Force in March to help the Jewish community respond to the refugee crisis caused by the invasion; Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees has set out practical advice for faith groups to respond <https://www.sfar.org.uk/7-things-you-can-do-to-respond-to-the-situation-in-ukraine/>; and the Network of Buddhist Organisations (UK) has set out advice for Buddhists wishing to help Ukrainian refugees <https://www.nbo.org.uk/advice-for-uk-buddhists-wishing-to-help-ukrainian-refugees/>.

HM The Queen's Platinum Jubilee

A special 4-day weekend of events to mark the Platinum Jubilee of Her Majesty The Queen will take place from Thursday 2 to Sunday 5 June. More information can be found at <https://www.royal.uk/platinum-jubilee-central-weekend> and information on how to get involved can be found at <https://platinumjubilee.gov.uk/get-involved-with-the-platinum-jubilee/>. The Department for Culture, Media and Sport has published a toolkit for the Platinum Jubilee, including activities, music and decorations to help people with their celebrations in June. This can be found at <https://platinumjubilee.gov.uk/toolkit>.

The Queen's Birthday Parade (Trooping the Colour) will be held on Thursday 2 June starting at 11am.

For the Jubilee Beacons project the principal Beacon will be lit at special ceremony at Buckingham Palace at 9pm on Thursday 2 June. Thousands of community beacons will also be lit by communities, charities and different groups throughout the regions of the UK, Channel Islands, Isle of Man and UK Overseas Territories and 54 beacons will be lit in capital cities of the Commonwealth. <https://www.queensjubileebeacons.com>

The morning of Friday 3 June sees a Thanksgiving Service at St Paul's Cathedral in London, preceded by a peal of bells from Great Paul, the largest church bell in the UK.

On the evening of Saturday 4 June there will be a Platinum Party at the Palace. This will be a special live event that will bring together some of the world's biggest entertainers and will be broadcast live on the BBC. During the bank holiday weekend, the BBC is offering local communities a special one-off TV Licence dispensation. This will allow those arranging community events in venues across the UK, where TV is not usually watched, to screen the live programmes throughout the weekend without needing to purchase a licence.

On Sunday 5 June, the Big Jubilee Lunch will take place where people are encouraged to take part through street parties or picnics, tea and cake or garden barbeques (<https://www.edenprojectcommunities.com/the-big-jubilee-lunch>). While not part of the Platinum Jubilee Central Weekend programme, Thank You Day will be taking place on 5 June and is encouraging people to say thank you to Her Majesty The Queen as well as to one another. <https://thankyouday.org.uk/> It has linked in with the Big Jubilee Lunch and is also encouraging other activities.

From 2.30pm to 5pm on Sunday, a Grand Jubilee Pageant will also be taking place along the Mall and surrounding streets. The Platinum Jubilee Pageant has commissioned artists and communities from around the country and Commonwealth including military personnel, performers, key workers and volunteers from across the UK, to come together to tell the story of The Queen's 70-year reign and changing society.

The Queen's Green Canopy programme continues through to the end of 2022. It is encouraging the planting of trees to mark the Jubilee. (<https://queensgreencanopy.org/>) The next planting season is from October to December.

Faith communities, asylum seekers and refugees

As well as their work in supporting refugees from Ukraine, faith communities continue to work individually and together on matters relating to asylum seekers and refugees from many other places around the world such as Afghanistan and Syria.

As noted in previous issues of the e-bulletin, in the context of concern for wellbeing of those seeking sanctuary, a number of faith leaders and faith organisations expressed opposition to aspects of the now Nationality and Borders Act (enacted 28 April). Concerns continue to be expressed by some, for example <https://www.methodist.org.uk/about-us/news/latest-news/all-news/statement-on-the-nationality-and-borders-act-2022/>.

There has likewise been disquiet expressed by some faith leaders and faith organisations about the impact on those seeking sanctuary in the UK of the Government's agreement with Rwanda which was announced by the Home Secretary on 14 April. The Government does not agree with the criticisms levelled at the Act and Rwanda agreement. It has, however, ahead of a legal challenge, put aside plans to turn back people crossing the English Channel – a separate issue on which many faith groups had campaigned. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-politics-61224309>

The Great Get Together, which takes place from 24 to 26 June has as its theme this year 'Welcome'. It has again partnered with Refugee Week to run a Great Walk Together across that weekend. They are encouraging community walks all over the UK in "a UK-wide celebration of the power walking has to bring people together", celebrating the Great Get Together's #MoreInCommon message, its 2022 'Welcome' theme, and Refugee Week 2022's theme of 'healing'. For more information, visit <https://www.greatgettogether.org/2022> and <https://refugeeweek.org.uk/simple-acts/walk-together-2/>. Refugee Week also has a number of resources for faith communities, which can be found at <https://refugeeweek.org.uk/monthlymeet-refugee-week-in-your-faith-community/>.

Hate crime

There have been a number of recent incidents which have been treated as religiously or racially motivated hate crimes, such as the forcible removal of a turban from a Sikh schoolboy in Leicester <https://www.leicestermercury.co.uk/news/leicester-news/teens-arrested-after-after-sikh-6847539> and an attack on worshippers outside a mosque in East Ham in London <https://www.londonworld.com/news/crime/muslim-worshippers-injured-after-attack-outside-mosque-in-east-ham-during-ramadan-3662464>.

In March the Crown Prosecution Service agreed the following shared definition with police for racially and religiously aggravated crime: "Any incident/crime which is perceived by the victim or any other person, to be motivated by hostility or prejudice based on a person's race or religion or perceived race or religion." <https://www.cps.gov.uk/publication/public-statement-prosecuting-racist-and-religious-hate-crime>

REPORT HATE CRIME AND WORK TOGETHER TO HELP TACKLE IT

Report hate incidents online through True Vision or via 3rd parties eg Community Security Trust (CST), Tell Mama UK and Stop Hate UK; at a police station; or by ringing the police on 101 (non-emergency) or 999.

Freedom of Religion or Belief Ministerial Conference

As noted in the February issue of the e-bulletin, on 5 and 6 July the UK Government will be hosting a Ministerial Conference on Freedom of Religion or Belief. The conference, known as ‘The Ministerial’, aims to boost global efforts to tackle persecution and “drive collective action in promoting respect between different religious and non-religious communities around the world so that everyone, everywhere can practise their own religion or belief freely”.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/uk-to-host-international-conference-to-promote-freedom-of-religion-or-belief-next-summer-in-london> Planning for the Conference is led by the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO). Fiona Bruce MP is the Prime Minister’s Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion or Belief (FoRB) and as such is supported by a special team within the FCDO. Ms Bruce is also the Chair of the All Party Parliamentary Group on International Freedom of Religion or Belief (APPG). There will be a range of 100 events in and around the Ministerial, forming an ‘FoRB Fringe’. The APPG is encouraging involvement around the UK. A form for those interested to apply to host an event is at <https://endthepersécution.uk/forb-fringe/>.

Proposed changes under the Treasure Act 1996

In England, Wales and Northern Ireland, all finders of gold and silver objects, and groups of coins from the same finds, over 300 years old, have a legal obligation to report such items as treasure under the Treasure Act 1996. Treasure belongs to the Crown, unless a prior interest is established. During the passage of the Treasure Act 1996, the UK Government undertook, in the House of Lords, to introduce a statutory instrument to exempt finds that came under the Church of England's legal system, to remove any confusion for finders. The Government's intention is to proceed with the introduction of the exemption in 2022.

As part of this process, the DCMS has undertaken to consult with other faith groups, so that any questions or concerns may be raised. The Government believes that any treasure finds related to other faiths are sufficiently protected through the Treasure Act 1996. No other religious denomination is subject to a legally enforceable system which would protect important archaeological, historic or cultural objects. The purpose of the Church of England exemption is "simply to remove confusion and potential conflict where finds could potentially be subject to two legal processes already in existence". Any questions or concerns about this proposal, can be sent to contact treasure@dcms.gov.uk. The deadline for responses is 17 May.

New safeguarding principles for LGBT+ people in faith communities

UK faith leaders were among those agreeing to a new set of safeguarding principles to protect LGBT+ people in faith communities, at a conference of the Global Interfaith Commission on LGBT+ Lives held in London in March. The Commission is co-chaired by the Revd Paul Bayes, former Bishop of Liverpool.

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week 2022

Inter Faith Week 2022 in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, will be held from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. Its aims are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels;
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, in particular celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society;
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs increasing inter faith understanding and cooperation, and promoting more engaged and connected communities.

In 2021, 830 activities are known to have taken place during Inter Faith Week. Thousands of people of all ages took part directly and millions encountered the Week's messages through social media.

Why not join the thousands who will be taking part this year? It's a great opportunity to highlight the contribution of faith groups to society, and to encourage understanding, cooperation and dialogue between those of different faiths and also between those of religious and non-religious beliefs.

There are lots of ideas on how to take part at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/> as well as guidance on activity arranging and social media assets (eg logo and message boards). You might, for example, be interested to try the Inter Faith Buddies scheme. This helps bring individuals together to talk about their beliefs and issues of shared interest. It can be used year-round and works very well in the Inter Faith Week context. See <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-buddies> for more information and practical pointers. A video of three local inter faith practitioners talking about their Buddies experience can be seen at: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wHgNwAQsJyk> and another example, from Interfaith Scotland, here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Hzmbmtn175s>

Scottish Interfaith Week is led by Interfaith Scotland and will this year be held from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. <https://scottishinterfaithweek.org/> 2022 has been designated Scotland's Year of Stories and the theme for Scottish Inter Faith Week will be linked to this.

Dr Natubhai Shah and Leonie Lewis

The e-bulletin does not carry obituaries. However, in this issue, we note with sadness the recent deaths from illness of two trustees: Dr Natubhai Shah MBE and Leonie Lewis MBE. Both were widely known and respected both within their own communities (Jain and Jewish) for their community work, as well as within the inter faith world. Words from IFN about them can be seen at <https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/314735770803187> and https://www.facebook.com/permalink.php?story\_fbid=5092046557512545&id=553910267992886. IFN's Executive Director, Harriet Crabtree, attended their funerals on behalf of the Board. Leonie Lewis had served as an IFN Trustee since 2020. She was also a Trustee of IFN member body Faiths Forum for London. Dr Shah had been involved in IFN's work since its earliest days, serving at various points as an honorary officer. He died shortly before IFN's National Meeting and a remembrance of him was offered at that.

Faith trails and walks

It is that time of year when faith walks and trails begin again. This weekend, for example, saw a Diverse Open Doors Day trail in Bristol organised by the Bristol Multi-Faith Forum which took in a Buddhist monastery, a Greek Orthodox Church, a Black Christian Church, a Muslim Mosque, a Sikh Gurudwara, a Jewish Synagogue, a Hindu Temple, and a Bahai Centre. There was a Spirituality and Mental Health theme and also a link to the Platinum Jubilee. Participants started with langar at the gurdwara.

Next month sees the inaugural East Finchley Faith and Peace Walk, bringing communities together to celebrate the rich history, open spaces and diverse faiths in East Finchley in London. It is being organised by the Barnet Multi Faith Forum and Middlesex University Interfaith Network. The day will be divided into regular stops so you can stay with the walk as long as you can to hear about the work of the venues, enjoy light refreshments and use facilities. Details under Diary Dates.

Find out more about organising faith walks and trails at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-walks-pilgrimages-and-faith-trails>. and open door days at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/open-door-days>. A number of these, such as the Watford Inter Faith Association Interfaith Pilgrimage, take place during Inter Faith Week. If your area does not yet have an annual faith communities' open-door day or faith trail, why not consider arranging one for Inter Faith Week 2022 (13 to 20 November)?

Inter Faith Buddies

Inter Faith Buddies is a scheme designed by IFN to bring individuals together to engage in dialogue.

- The scheme involves two people of different faiths or beliefs keeping in touch on a weekly basis for 6 weeks;
- choosing or developing questions on which to share their thoughts and experiences; and
- if they wish, sharing at an in-person or online event, in an agreed way, some reflections on what they have gained from the experience.

It is an opportunity for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time, about what is important to us, in the context of our wider community. The process may, of course, lead to longer term conversations and new forms of practical co-operation.

This video clip from Surrey Faith Links gives a flavour of the experience:

There is a specific need to get views from ethnic minorities and those who cover themselves outdoors for cultural or religious reasons.

DHSC welcome views on: how guidance or campaigns can be tailored in order to better reach these groups and to take account of religious and cultural diversity; and how health and care professionals, community leaders and faith leaders can work alongside these groups to raise awareness and deliver messages in culturally appropriate ways, and examples of innovative and/or good practice. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Recent Government changes

On 7 July, Prime Minister Boris Johnson announced his pending resignation. He is expected to remain as Prime Minister until a new party leader is elected. Following the departure of a number of Ministers, Parliamentary Private Secretaries and Trade Envoys, the Prime Minister commenced appointment to resulting vacancies.

The Rt Hon Greg Clark has been appointed to the role of Secretary of State for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities (LUHC). Minister of State Paul Scully MP now carries the brief for 'Faith community engagement', 'Integration, anti-extremism, and religious hatred policy', 'Holocaust Memorial' and 'Hate crime strategy and anti-Muslim hatred', among other responsibilities. <https://www.gov.uk/government/ministers>

International Ministerial Conference on Freedom of Religion or Belief

On 5 and 6 July, the UK Government hosted an International Ministerial Conference on Freedom of Religion or Belief. The conference brought together governments, parliamentarians, faith and belief representatives, and civil society to urge increased global action on freedom of religion or belief for everyone. Among those present were many faith leaders and others from the UK.

The conference also brought together members of the International Religious Freedom or Belief Alliance (IRFBA). The UK Prime Minister's Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion or Belief, Fiona Bruce MP is chairing the IRFBA during 2022.

A 'Fringe' programme of civil society events was coordinated by the UK Freedom of Religion or Belief Forum. Events took place in a number of areas, including the cities of Birmingham, London and Manchester. A number of the fringe events were held on an inter faith basis, such as the Freedom of Religion and Belief Welsh Interfaith Conference 2022 <https://www.wcia.org.uk/wcia-news/freedom-of-religion-and-belief-welsh-interfaith-conference-2022/>.

COVID-19

UK COVID-19 Inquiry

The UK COVID-19 Inquiry got under way on 21 July. Its purpose is to examine the UK's response to and impact of the Covid-19 pandemic, and learn lessons for the future. The Inquiry is Chaired by Baroness Heather Hallett, a former Court of Appeal judge.

The final Terms of Reference for the UK COVID-19 Inquiry were published on 28 June. In examining the COVID-19 response and the impact of the pandemic in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, it will look at “the closure and reopening of the hospitality, retail, sport and leisure, and travel and tourism sectors, places of worship, and cultural institutions”.

Further information is at <https://covid19.public-inquiry.uk/>.

Updating of guidance

COVID numbers have recently increased again.

<https://www.ons.gov.uk/peoplepopulationandcommunity/healthandsocialcare/condition sanddiseases/articles/coronaviruscovid19latestinsights/infections> In this context, guidance for places of worship remains important. An example of updated guidance, from the Church of England, can be seen at <https://www.churchofengland.org/resources/coronavirus-covid-19-guidance>.

Faith communities and vaccination

The drive to increase take-up of first and subsequent vaccine doses continues, with further boosters recommended for the Autumn for a number of categories.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/jcvi-provides-interim-advice-on-an-autumn-covid-19-booster-programme>

Faith communities are continuing to play a role in this, for example through providing locations for pop up or mobile clinics, for example Guru Nanak Gurdwara, Luton

Remembering those lost and affirming all who have worked to help others

Remembrance and affirmation events continue to be held for those lost to COVID-19 and the work of those to help others. For example,

Covid conspiracies and antisemitism

On 19 July the Community Security Trust published a new report exploring the antisemitism that is present inside the Covid conspiracy movement. <https://cst.org.uk/>

Hot weather guidance

During July, the UK has experienced unusually hot weather across a number of days and there is the prospect of further such days in August. The UK Government issued advice <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/heatwave-plan-for-england/beat-the-heat-staying-safe-in-hot-weather> as did the governments of the devolved nations:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/heatwave-plan-for-england/beat-the-heat-staying-safe-in-hot-weather>

https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/hot-weather-advice.

The Salvation Army assisted Emergency Services during the heatwave <https://www.salvationarmy.org.uk/news/salvation-army-supports-emergency-services-during-heatwave> and in a number of areas faith groups made cool spaces in their worship places available for people to come in away from the heat, for example <https://www.churchtimes.co.uk/articles/2022/22-july/news/uk/churches-offer-cool-sanctuary-in-heatwave-britain>. In London, places of worship are among those venues listed as 'cool spaces' to be used for respite in hot weather. <https://www.london.gov.uk/what-we-do/environment/climate-change/climate-adaptation/cool-spaces>

Climate Change

Scottish faith communities and COP26

Earlier this month Scottish faith communities sent a letter to COP26 President Alok Sharma calling on him to demonstrate what the Presidency has been doing to honour the Glasgow Pact commitments. The Glasgow Pact includes commitments from 197 nations to build resilience to climate change, curb greenhouse gas emissions and provide finance for both. Religious leaders and faith organisations are concerned that world developments have diverted attention from COP26 commitments and have signed a letter requesting a meeting with Sharma to discuss progress.

The letter was developed by the COP26 Interfaith Working Group and signed by faith leaders and organisations across Scotland. The COP26 Interfaith Working Group is made up of representatives from Scottish faith groups and organisations working on climate issues. The group is chaired by Interfaith Scotland with Interfaith Glasgow acting as Secretariat. <https://interfaithglasgow.org/cop27-open-letter/>

Faith communities and environmental issues

Faith communities continue to engage on environmental issues both together, through routes such as Faith for the Climate and individually through programmes such those highlighted on the FFTC website as well as through:

- Projects such as Eco Church and Eco Synagogue;
- Training opportunities such as the Hindu Forum of Britain's Training Programme on Climate Change Awareness and Environmental Assessment & Management for Temple & Samaj Buildings, funded by the National Lottery Community Fund <https://eamcc.hfb-charity.org.uk>; and the Bahu Trust's training for Imams <https://bahustrust.org.uk/training/imams>;
- Partnerships such as Eco Sikh's work, including Tree Planting of the Oneness Grove – an inclusive forest space, marking the first of a series of collaborations between it and Forestry England Tree Planting with Eco Sikhs & Forestry England – youtube;
- Tree planting by other faith groups such as The Druid Network which have been planting in dedicated groves <https://treesforlife.org.uk/groves/86224/> and by inter faith organisations such as Interfaith Scotland.

Thursday 22 September is 'Loss and Damage Action Day', a global moment to stand in solidarity with those living with the worst impacts of climate breakdown, and to call on wealthy countries and big polluters to pay up for this loss and damage they continue, knowingly, to cause. Faith for the Climate is calling on faith groups around the UK to join in prayer, meditation, reflection and action to mark the day.

Law Commission report on reform of weddings law

On 19 July the Law Commission of England and Wales published its recommendations to reform weddings law, proposing a fairer system that gives couples more choice over where and how their wedding takes place. The project sought to provide recommendations for a reformed law of weddings that allows for greater choice, based on the following principles: Certainty and simplicity; Fairness and equality; Protecting the state's interest; Respecting individuals' wishes and beliefs; and Removing any unnecessary regulation. One of the recommendations in the report is that couples will be able to have a wedding ceremony that reflects their values and beliefs, by: having a religious ceremony in a venue other than a place of worship and without having to incorporate prescribed words into the ceremony; having a religious ceremony led by an interfaith minister that contains aspects of each of the couple's beliefs; having some religious elements, such as hymns and prayers, incorporated into their civil ceremony, as long as the ceremony remains identifiably civil. The full report can be found at <https://www.lawcom.gov.uk/project/weddings/>.

Teaching of RE and Integrated Education in Northern Ireland

On 5 July a High Court judge ruled that the exclusively Christian-focused religious education taught at primary schools in Northern Ireland is unlawful and breaches human rights. The case was brought by a father and daughter in Belfast. Mr Justice Colton said the "unlawfulness identified requires a reconsideration of the core curriculum" in how it sets out the teaching of religious education (RE) and the provision of collective worship. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-northern-ireland-62053430>

On 6 July the UK Government announced a £1.9 million funding packages to support schools wishing to transform to integrated status. The funding will go to the Integrated Education Fund (IEF) and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE), which work to enable a greater number of children from different community backgrounds to be educated together. Roisin Marshall, the chief executive officer of the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education, said: "The Council for Integrated Education empowers school communities to deliberately and intentionally attract children, young people and the adults, who identify as coming from both sides of our divided society as well as those from other religions and cultural backgrounds." <https://www.itv.com/news/utv/2022-07-06/19m-funding-boost-to-help-schools-transform-to-integrated-status>

Study on Faith and Charity

A study on 'Faith and Charity', commissioned by UK NGO Human Appeal, was published in June. Research was conducted to explore why people donate to charities and how their relationship with charitable organisations has changed in recent years. The study showed that more than half of all respondents had knowingly supported a faith-based organisation in the last two years. It also found that two fifths of those who consider themselves religious would be more likely to support an organisation if it was rooted in their own faith, while a further one-in-five would support a charity active beyond their own stated faith. The report can be found at <https://humanappeal.org.uk/about-us/publications>.

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week takes place this year from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. The aims of Inter Faith Week, which is led by IFN, are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between different people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The Week is timed to begin each year on Remembrance Sunday to enable people of different backgrounds to remember together the service of soldiers and civilians of all faiths and beliefs and to reflect on peace.

<https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>

Inter Faith Week is about highlighting the contribution of faith groups to society; spotlighting inter faith cooperation and understanding; and encouraging dialogue between those of religious and non-religious beliefs. It's a fantastic platform to share, learn and build relationships with neighbours, colleagues and service users of different backgrounds, and to come together in service for the common good.

If you've not yet started planning, August is a great month to start to think creatively about activities that can bring something special to the Week!

What might you do? Perhaps an inter faith sports match; an inter faith art, poetry or photography competition; a quiz or speed-faithing event; an 'Inter Faith Week Buddies' scheme; an inter faith pilgrimage or peace walk; a learning activity about different faiths; an inter faith volunteering or social action opportunity; a tour of local places of worship; a social media series about the faith or beliefs of different members of your organisations; a dialogue or panel about issues like climate change or refugees; or an exhibition or stall about the different faiths in your community? There are so many possibilities – those are just a few!

Activity ideas for many different types of organisations can be found at:

<https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/ideas>.

In preparation for the 2022 Week, IFN has been engaging in outreach to university chaplaincies, faith centres and student faith societies. Groups like LSE Faith Centre, University of Bath Chaplaincy and University of Durham faith societies have provided reflections on their experiences of Inter Faith Week and how IFN can improve on the Week going forward. This is part of a wider effort by IFN to increase the involvement of young people in Inter Faith Week. If you represent a university chaplaincy, faith centre or student faith or inter faith society and would be interested in a conversation about Inter Faith Week with the IFN team, please do get in touch at ifnet@interfaith.org.uk.

Some basic information about Inter Faith Week that can be drawn off of for your own bulletin or newsletter can be found at: <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/copy-for-newsletters-inter-faith-week-2022>.

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Interfaith Week <https://scottishinterfaithweek.org/> is led by Interfaith Scotland and will also take place from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. Its theme this year is 'Storytelling', to coincide with Scotland's Year of Stories.

E-bulletin survey responses

IFN is very grateful to all those who took the time to complete the e-bulletin feedback survey circulated with the previous issue, as well as to those who completed the 2021 survey. Your feedback is helping us to continue to develop the e-bulletin, both in the short term and over the longer term.

In total, 77 people responded. The faith and public life updates; IFN news; and inter faith projects, programmes and developments were appreciated by nearly all. Resources and study/training was more highly valued in 2021 than 2022. The section 'calls for information, competitions and nominations' in its current form was not found useful by most respondents in either year.

In both years there was also particular enthusiasm for the longer think pieces that are occasionally included on specific topics (such as the environment or homelessness). These have not been included in the e-bulletin over the last 12 months, but are being reintroduced with the current issue with a short feature on summer relaxation – inter faith style! (see below).

The ways that people interact with the e-bulletin were fairly evenly split between those who read all/most of it and those who jump the sections or articles of interest. There was also a close to even split between those who download the PDF and those who read the web version, although the latter is now edging ahead. IFN is committed to retaining the PDF version across the coming year, but will also be working to ensure that both versions are available before the e-bulletin is circulated (previously, the web version was usually added shortly after the PDF was sent out). Since last year, a growing proportion of readers access the e-bulletin via their phone/tablet (a jump from 15% of respondents to 45%). This may be linked to the growth in use of the web version, which resizes and reflows depending on the device used to access it.

Overall, responses show that the e-bulletin is a valued resource. In both years, over 70% of respondents said that the frequency of the e-bulletin (bi-monthly) was about right, and the majority of respondents thought the e-bulletin contained about the right amount of information (60% in 2021 and 71% in 2022). 72% of respondents in each year thought that the e-bulletin helped them to carry out their work (a number of respondents were individuals reading for personal interest rather than work-related reasons).

Several respondents noted that the e-bulletin could be difficult to read. From this present issue, the text size and colour has been adjusted within the PDF version in ways which we hope make this a bit easier on the eye. However, please do get in touch with us if this does not prove to be the case! Where the web version is concerned, we would like to highlight that the website as a whole is equipped with a high contrast layout which also increases the default size of text on every page. To turn this on, navigate to the bottom of any page on the IFN website and select the 'High-contrast layout' option. You can also increase the text size within your browser.

Several respondents also said that the name 'e-bulletin' felt passé, given that digital communications are now more or less the default. We will be moving this Autumn to a new name for the e-bulletin.

IFN AGM

IFN held its 2021 AGM, virtually on 5 July. The meeting welcomed into membership two new bodies: Durham University Chaplaincy Network and Woking People of Faith. It also elected the Revd Canon Hilary Barber as Co-Chair from the National Faith Community Representative Bodies category, welcomed five new Trustees and offered warm thanks to Trustees standing down.

After the main business of the AGM there was an opportunity, in IFN's 35th year, for member bodies to reflect on what is important about its work and what that might look like in the coming years. There was an opening presentation from IFN Trustee Professor Paul Weller on Freedom of Religion and Belief and the Inter Faith Network for the UK. This was followed by short discussions in breakout groups and then reflections from: Ms Charanjit AjitSingh, Hounslow Friends of Faith, International Interfaith Centre and World Congress of Faiths; Ms Linda Rudge, Chair of the National Association of SACRES; Mr Hassan Joudi, Deputy Secretary General of the Muslim Council of Britain and IFN Faith Communities Forum Moderator; and Dr Susan Siegel, Trustee of Interfaith Scotland and IFN Trustee.

IFN Faith Communities Forum

IFN's Faith Communities Forum brings together national faith community bodies in IFN membership for discussion of issues of common concern.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/about/faith-communities-forum> At its most recent meeting on 14 July the Agenda included: the impacts of recent Government changes; the Independent Faith Engagement Review, with a presentation from Government Faith Engagement Adviser Colin Bloom who led on this; Security of Places of Worship - the resource of NaCTSO, with a presentation from the Head of Business Engagement at the National Counter Terrorism Security Office; Inter faith engagement of faith communities; Issues of interest and concern; and a number of IFN matters.

IFN link meeting for local inter faith groups in the South West

IFN holds meetings for local inter faith groups to share news and good practice and learn from each other's work to strengthen their own and benefit their local areas. Some are for groups from across the UK. Others are for groups within a particular region or a county. They provide an opportunity for sharing of news or programmes and projects being run by each group, including opportunities and challenges. Minutes of previous link meetings can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/about/local-inter-faith-linking>.

The most recent meeting was held on 27 June for local inter faith organisations in South West of England. ## INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Summer relaxation - inter faith style!

Summer is a time when members of local faith communities often come together to relax and enjoy picnics, sports, and other social events.

The Platinum Jubilee and Thank You Day

The lunch and picnic season got rolling with the Platinum Jubilee celebrations for HM The Queen in early June, including the Big Jubilee Lunch and with Thank You Day (which fell on the Sunday of the long Jubilee weekend).

The Platinum Jubilee provided a perfect opportunity for people of different faiths to come together and celebrate with food and fun activities. Several local inter faith bodies, such as Faiths Together in Croydon and Newcastle Council of Faiths, held special Jubilee picnics and teas. An inter faith street party was held at the Britwell Community Centre in Slough, with encouragement from Thank You Day.

National examples included two picnics held by Religions for Peace UK (RfP) Women of Faith Network, one in partnership with Interfaith Scotland and Interfaith Glasgow, the other with RfP UK Interfaith Youth Network. <https://www.facebook.com/UKWFN/posts/pfb>

This year, the Big Lunch, organised by the Eden Project, was the Big Jubilee Lunch. <https://www.edenprojectcommunities.com/the-big-jubilee-lunch> A number of places of worship invited local communities to share a meal together. A shared meal at Westminster Abbey was the culmination of a special Jubilee Walk of Faith where members of different faiths visited different places of worship along the way.

The Great Get Together

The Great Get Together, organised by the Jo Cox Foundation, at the end of June also provided a chance to come together and celebrate what unites them. In London, the Women's Interfaith Network hosted a summer boat trip on the Thames, inviting their members and friends to enjoy the sunshine and celebrate their friendships across faiths.

Picnics

Local inter faith organisations like Reading Interfaith Forum; the Muslim Jewish Forum of Greater Manchester; Guildford and Godalming InterFaith Forum and Sheffield Interfaith have all recently hosted inter faith picnics, inviting members of the community to bring and share food and have informal conversations together.

Gardens

At this time of year, the inter faith and peace gardens that some inter faith groups have created afford relaxing spaces for many happenings. One example is a small Peace Garden in Luton created by Luton Council of Faiths with Edible High Town, Grassroots and Near Neighbours: “a small urban pocket park in the middle of High Town, Luton. It lies within the central High Town Conservation Area and next to a nationally listed Methodist Church, while tucked away from the nearby high street. There is a lawned area, large enough for an audience to sit in, and the garden is fenced and gated, with step-free access. A small mound provides a natural stage and amphitheatre feel. Large trees give dappled shade on a sunny day or protection from light drizzle.” It was the place, in July, for a special story telling event for children held by Edible High Town. <http://grassrootsluton.org.uk/news-events> And, “Inspired by the beautiful work Watford Interfaith Association have done building the gorgeous Peace Garden in Cassiobury Park, this summer”

<http://www.wifa.org.uk/the-watford-peace-garden/>, Watford's Dial Up hosted a poetry and spoken word open mic get together there this month.

Sports

The Blackburn Diocese and Lancashire Council for Mosques hosted their bi-annual inter faith cricket match, which provided an opportunity to share food and fun and build lasting friendships across the different faiths.

Jewish-Christian Glossary

A new Jewish-Christian Glossary has been created by the Church of Scotland and the Jewish community. Ministers and rabbis worked together to define some of the key terms used in both religions to allow users to learn more about their own and each other's religion by discovering key similarities and differences between the faiths.

<https://churchofscotland.org.uk/news-and-events/news/2022/articles/new-glossary-important-step-for-jewish-christian-relations-in-scotland>

NaCTSO Protect UK website and app

The National Counter Terrorism Security Office (NaCTSO) has worked with security service partners to produce evidence-based guidance that is tested and assured and provides the single place of public messaging when it comes to counter-terrorism advice on how to prepare for the unlikely event of a terrorist attack. The guidance comes from a number of research sources.

The main website where the guidance can be found is called Protect UK.

<https://www.protectuk.police.uk/>

As well as guidance, the website also includes free e-learning packages, available to enable any individual to become more informed about the threat from terrorism and actions they can take to deal with those threats.

There is also a Protect UK app which can be accessed via Apple or Android. The app is designed for those who have more of a public facing interaction. It includes quick-time actions, for example guidance on who to contact if you find a suspicious item; and also how to find a local counter-terrorism security adviser.

Welcome Directory for prison leavers

The Welcome Directory is a multi-faith organisation, working to help faith communities to become places where people who leave prison find acceptance. The Directory notes that “Unfortunately, only approximately 20% of prison leavers with faith feel able to connect with new faith communities upon release, primarily due to fear of rejection. We maintain a directory of registered faith communities who are committed to welcoming and appropriately supporting prison leavers with faith. The directory is used by prison chaplains, probation workers and prison leavers themselves, to help them forge connections with welcoming communities upon release.” To find out more on how to be involved, visit <https://www.welcomedirectory.org.uk/> or get in touch via admin@welcomedirectory.org.uk.

Cost of living pressures and faith communities

Warm Welcome initiative

The Good Faith Foundation has launched a Warm Welcome initiative. <https://www.warmwelcome.uk/> Its mission is to support organisations to open their doors and provide a warm welcome for those struggling to heat their homes this winter. Places of worship and faith centres are among those who can register to become a warm welcome space at <https://www.warmwelcome.uk/get-started/signup>.

Government support

Information on support available can be found on the UK Government website at <https://helpforhouseholds.campaign.gov.uk/> and on the following sites for Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland:

Letter to the Prime Minister

A number of faith and secular charity leaders wrote a letter in September calling on the Prime Minister to prioritise support for the poorest in their cost of living announcements.

Responding to the death of Her Late Majesty Queen Elizabeth II

At 6.30pm on 8 September Buckingham Palace announced the death of Her Late Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

Many IFN member faith and inter faith bodies issued statements or tributes in response to Her Majesty's death. IFN highlighted these on its Twitter and Facebook pages and they have also been collated at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/the-death-of-her-majesty->

queen-elizabeth-ii-responses-by-ifn-member-bodies. IFN's Co-Chairs and FCF Moderators issued the following message:

It is with profound sadness that we learn of the death of Her Majesty the Queen.

We express our deep gratitude for her life of service, inspired by her faith.

We convey our deepest sympathies to the Royal Family on their loss.

The Co-Chairs and Faith Communities Forum Moderators of the Inter Faith Network for the UK 8 September 2022

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/a-message-following-the-death-of-her-majesty-queen-elizabeth-ii>.

Faith and inter faith groups were involved in the period of mourning following Her Majesty's death, from taking part in and organising memorial services to providing chaplaincy support to those in the queue to see the lying in state. There were memorial services in a number of cities such as Leeds and Portsmouth.

The official religious services for Her Majesty's death and burial at Westminster Abbey and St George's Windsor were held in line with her Christian faith and her role as Head of the Church of England. A number of leaders of other faiths were invited to attend the state funeral at Westminster Abbey.

Proclamation of Accession of His Majesty King Charles III and meeting with faith leaders

The proclamation of the Accession of His Majesty King Charles III was a strongly multi faith occasion in many areas.

The King's Accession visits also brought opportunities for meeting with faith leaders, for example to the Service of Prayer and Reflection for the Life of The Queen at Llandaff Cathedral and linked tour of Cardiff.

In the week after his Accession to the throne King Charles III held a reception at Buckingham Palace for over 30 faith leaders from around the UK. In his speech to them, he said: "I have always thought of Britain as a 'community of communities'. That has led me to understand that the sovereign has an additional duty – less formally recognised but to be no less diligently discharged. It is the duty to protect the diversity of our country, including by protecting the space for faith itself and its practice through the religions, cultures, traditions and beliefs to which our hearts and minds direct us as individuals. This diversity is not just enshrined in the laws of our country, it is enjoined by my own faith."

Inter faith meeting of Scottish faith leaders

Leaders from Scotland's Baha'i, Buddhist, Christian, Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Sikh communities, and some others, travelled to Iona on a three day pilgrimage. Their arrival coincided with the day of the funeral of Her Late Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and they gathered that evening in Iona Abbey to pray for the Royal family and those who were grieving around the world.

The pilgrimage marked the 20th anniversary of The Scottish Religious Leaders' Forum and included reflection on inter faith relations in Scotland and ways to champion inclusivity and diversity across the nation. It also included a service of commitment.

Children at a local primary school had the chance to meet the religious leaders and ask them questions about their faiths.

Events in Leicester and Birmingham and good relations

During September there were a number of disturbances in Leicester, notably what the BBC reported as disorder which broke out on 17 September amid tensions involving parts of the Hindu and Muslim communities and some others.

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-leicestershire-63038691>

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-leicestershire-63135170>

There was also a demonstration at the Durga Bhawan Temple in Smethwick.

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-birmingham-62982948>

Leicester Council of Faiths participated in a unity event on 20 September organised by the Hindu and Muslim communities at the Jame Mosque in Leicester

<https://tinyurl.com/LCoF200922> and jointly organised a Vigil Service on 2 October

<https://tinyurl.com/LCoF021022>. The Birmingham Faith leaders' group issued a statement on 20 September as did faith leaders in Smethwick <https://tinyurl.com/BFL200922>

<https://www.birminghammail.co.uk/black-country/faith-leaders-unite-friendship-dust-25074652> Unity statements were also issued in some other areas such as the London

Borough of Redbridge. https://twitter.com/Jas\_Athwal/status/1572969158484140032

There were also meetings in a number of other areas such as Preston.

<https://www.blogpreston.co.uk/2022/09/hindu-and-muslim-faith-representatives-meet-in-preston-in-peace-and-solidarity/>

There have been a number of reports that social media contributed to the disturbances. Both Leicestershire Police and West Midlands Police have asked the public to only share information which is known to be true and to be mindful of 'fake news'.

<https://twitter.com/leicspolice/status/1576513699157876736>

<https://www.expressandstar.com/news/crime/2022/09/23/police-issue-fake-news-warning-after-untrue-claims-made-in-wake-of-smethwick-disorder/>

The Mayor of Leicester, Sir Peter Soulsby, announced an independent inquiry into the disturbances. <https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2022/sep/22/leicester-mayor-announces-independent-inquiry-into-city-violence>

On 18 September the Co-Chairs and Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum of IFN issued the following statement:

We note with concern the disturbances in Leicester this weekend. Police have been responding to incidents and faith leaders, the Leicester Council of Faiths, the local authority and others have been working alongside them to tackle tensions, address misunderstandings and misinformation, and to restore and strengthen the good relations for which the City is more widely known.

Nationality has been a focus of some of the disturbances, as it was of disturbances earlier this month after an India Pakistan cricket match. However, media coverage reflects the fact that there are dimensions of the present and prior disturbances and tensions in Leicester which are - or have become - linked by some to Hindu and Muslim communities and that there are related concerns about safety on the streets of individuals of those faiths and of their places of worship. Although the situation primarily affects Leicester, there has been some evidence, for example in the pattern of arrests, of participation of individuals from other areas and concern about potentially wider impacts.

We affirm the vital efforts of all those working in Leicester and in other areas of the UK to tackle tensions where these arise, and to develop greater understanding and stronger inter faith and inter community relations and we call for the necessary resources to be made available to support this work.

of the Inter Faith Network for the UK 18 September 2022*

COVID-19

Faith communities and vaccination

The number of COVID cases has risen sharply in recent weeks.

<https://news.sky.com/story/covid-19-concerning-increases-in-hospitalisations-with-250-rise-in-the-south-west-12713712> Vaccination take up has been dropping and faith communities' continue to encourage people to come forward for that. For example, at the Diwali in Trafalgar Square event COVID-19 booster doses were available.

COVID-19 commemoration

The UK Commission on Covid Commemoration was established in the summer to secure a broad consensus from across the whole of the United Kingdom on how to “commemorate the COVID-19 pandemic and mark this distinctive period in our history at a national and community level”. The Commission held its second meeting in September and is expected to report to the Prime Minister by the end of March 2023. <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/uk-commission-on-covid-commemoration>

Stakeholder meetings are taking place across the UK during October. The Commission is also keen for organisations and members of the public to complete the local Covid Commemoration survey which can be found at <https://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/UKCovidCommemorationActivity/>.

Commission on Bereavement report

The UK Commission on Bereavement recently published its report, 'Bereavement is everyone's business'. This follows consultation and research with a wide range of stakeholders, including faith groups. The report includes 8 'principles for change' and a number of detailed recommendations. There are references to faith throughout the report, including in relation to the support offered by faith groups and the need for sensitivity in relation to religious and cultural practices. The main summary and full report can be downloaded at <https://bereavementcommission.org.uk/ukcb-findings/>.

Hate crime

Figures announced this month for England and Wales show that in the year ending March 2022, there were 155,841 hate crimes recorded by the police in England and Wales, a 26% increase compared with the previous year. This was the biggest percentage increase in hate crimes since the year ending March 2017, when there was a 29% rise.

Religious hate crimes increased by 37% (to 8,730 offences), up from 6,383 in the previous year; this was the highest number of religious hate crimes recorded since the time series began in year ending March 2012. This increase follows two years where the number of these offences had fallen.

Of the religious hate crimes recorded, information on the targeted religion was provided in 8,307 of the offences (95%). In some cases, more than one perceived religion had been tagged on one offence (for example, a piece of graffiti may have targeted more than one religion). 42% of the religious hate crime offences (3,459 offences) were targeted against Muslims. Jewish people were targeted in 23% of religious hate crimes (1,919 offences). 8% of offences were targeted against Christians (701 offences), 4% against Sikhs (301); and 2% against Hindus (161).

The Scottish Government has committed to developing a new Hate Crime Strategy, for publication later in 2022 which will set out its key priorities for tackling hatred and prejudice in Scotland and support implementation of the Hate Crime and Public Order (Scotland) Act 2021. It has convened the Ministerial-led Hate Crime Strategic Partnership Group (SPG), chaired by the Minister for Equalities and Older people, Christina McKelvie MSP. Interfaith Scotland is one of a number of networks represented on the SPG. In September, it organised an event in partnership with CEMVO Scotland and MEND to gather information on the lived experiences of hate crime among Muslims in Scotland.

GCSE and A Level Religious Studies

The number of students in England and Wales taking a GCSE course in Religious Studies has risen to 253,225, an increase of 0.6 per cent from last year. The increase was largely driven by a rise in students taking the short course in England, up 16.5% from 15,672 to 18,257. In Wales, amid an overall 5% drop in pupils taking GCSEs, the number of entries to RS courses fell by 11%.

The Religious Education Council of England and Wales and the National Association of Teachers of RE are calling for more government money to bolster the subject in schools. <https://www.religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/?news=take-action-on-re-say-leading-politicians-as-more-students-take-the-subject-at-gcse>

The number of students taking an A level in Religious Studies in England and Wales has fallen by 447, a 2.7% decrease on last year. The decline follows a 20 year period when Religious Studies had one of the fastest growth rates for A levels in the humanities. The National Association of Teachers of RE and the Religious Education Council of England and Wales have warned that growth is under threat from a five year funding gap. <https://www.religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/?news=a-level-religious-studies-results-prompt-call-for-government-support>

Inter Faith Week 13-20 November

Inter Faith Week takes place this year from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. It is led by the Inter Faith Network for the UK but has its own dedicated website www.interfaithweek.org and social media accounts. You can follow it at: <https://www.facebook.com/ifweek/>, <https://twitter.com/IFWeek>, <https://uk.linkedin.com/showcase/ifweek> and https://www.instagram.com/IFWeek/!

The story of Inter Faith Week

The Inter Faith Network for the UK launched Inter Faith Week in 2009, in partnership for the first year with Government. The Week's aims were crafted with the assistance of its Faith Communities Forum. They are:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, in particular celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The week took its inspiration from Scottish Interfaith Week, about which you can find out more at <https://scottishinterfaithweek.org/>.

Why a special Week?

Special 'days' and 'weeks' have a particular usefulness in highlighting issues and providing a platform for people to make their year-round work better known and to get more people involved. The Week is a fantastic platform to share, learn and build relationships with neighbours, colleagues and service users of different backgrounds, and to come together in service for the common good.

Inter Faith Week takes place in England, Northern Ireland and Wales in November. In recent years, it has been timed to begin on Remembrance Sunday to support and encourage remembering together of the service of men and women of many different backgrounds from the UK and from the countries that became the Commonwealth and to reflect on peace. There are some special resources about that at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>.

A growing impact

Last year saw a growth in overall Week participation of 20% and big rises in participation by some types of bodies, for example schools went up by 143% since 2019 and the number of hospitals and hospices by 225%. A treasure trove of accounts of how different types of organisations used the Week in 2021 can be found in IFN's special report: Inter Faith Week 2021: A Widening Impact. It has sections on faith communities; local and national inter faith organisations; schools; universities and FE colleges; youth organisations; local authorities; police, fire and ambulance services; hospitals and hospices; workplaces; museums, libraries and other cultural institutions; and sports organisations. It also picks up contributions from a range of other types of bodies such as equality bodies and institutions such as the House of Commons (a special exhibition arranged by the Speaker).

Taking part in this year's Week

There is still plenty of time to arrange an activity. You can find ideas for activities at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/events/about>. There is a 'Quick Plan Activities' section with activities for those who want to mark Inter Faith Week but don't have a lot of time to prepare, for example: coming together with friends or colleagues of other faiths to walk together, watch a film together, or bake a special Inter Faith Week cake!

<https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/quick-plan-activities> You might also be interested by the Inter Faith Buddies scheme where two people of different faiths or of a particular faith and of a non-religious belief come together for sharing and learning, on a one-to-one basis across a limited period of time.

<https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/inter-faith-week-buddies>

Registering an activity

If you arrange an activity, please do take a few minutes to register it at www.interfaithweek.org/submit and put yourself on the map! You can list it even if it is not a public event. If you submit your activity on the website, you will also be eligible to receive a free registration pack which contains a poster, flyers, a social media message card, and stickers.

You can also download the Week logo in various formats from <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/branding>.

Message cards and support messages

You can also download a message card at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/branded-ifw-message-boards> and share your own message on social media as the Week approaches.

Scottish Interfaith Week

Scottish Interfaith Week <https://scottishinterfaithweek.org/> is led by Interfaith Scotland and will also take place from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November. Its theme this year is 'Storytelling', to coincide with Scotland's Year of Stories. Follow it on Twitter and Facebook.

Maulana M Shahid Raza OBE

IFN was very sorry to hear of the death of Maulana M Shahid Raza OBE in early September: wise and warm-hearted, a key figure in the development of the Inter Faith Network's work - as an Honorary Officer and as a Trustee of many years - and of good inter faith relations more generally and a key figure in the British Muslim community. His funeral took place in Leicester on 7 September. <https://www.leicestermercury.co.uk/news/leicester-news/tributes-internationally-respected-imam-shahid-7550127>

Working in Partnership for the Common Good: Report on IFN's 2022 National Meeting

IFN has published 'Working in Partnership for the Common Good: Report on IFN's 2022 National Meeting exploring partnership working by faith groups and other types of bodies, rooted in shared values'. This can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/working-in-partnership-for-the-common-good-report-on-ifns-2022-national-meeting>.

The focus of the Meeting was faith groups and other types of bodies working together for the common good drawing on values held in common such as service and justice. It was a chance to hear about and engage with a wide range of examples from different types of organisations working with faith organisations and inter faith bodies for the common good. It also offered an opportunity to reflect on principles that can underpin effective partnership working as well as some of the challenges that can be experienced when developing partnerships. Videos of plenary contributors can also be seen on IFN's website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/ifn-national-meeting-2022-working-in-partnership-for-the-common-good>.

The report was published in early September to mark #FaithInPartnership Week.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Barnet SACRE Interfaith Choir

Barnet Standing Advisory Council on RE (SACRE) has set up an Interfaith Children's Choir. Its first concert was held at Hendon Town Hall in the summer.

The aims of the Choir are to:

- show members of the choir that they can be proud of and loyal to their own cherished traditions while being respectful to adherents of other faiths who have their own paths to follow
- show members of the choir that they can work together in a spirit of cooperation to perform music that can be enjoyed by everyone
- demonstrate to other schools that religiously minded children are normal, talented youngsters who enjoy life and their religious lifestyles
- perform at civic events and to other audiences as caring, community minded individuals who wish to contribute to wider society

There are currently 60 children involved from Christian, Hindu and Jewish schools and they would be pleased to hear from local Muslim and Sikh pupils, as well as pupils from other faiths, who would like to be involved. For more information, email barnet.sacre.i.c@gmail.com.

Week of Prayer for World Peace

The Week of Prayer for World Peace began in 1974 as an inter faith activity when there were few such activities nationally. Each October a week is identified. This year the dates are from 16 to 23 October. The original 'Call to Pray for World Peace' was signed by a number of faith leaders. The guiding principle of the Week is 'The peace of the world must be prayed for by the faiths of the world'. One of the signatories of the original letter was George Macleod, founder of the Iona Community, who said, "Where people are praying for peace the cause of peace is strengthened by their very act of prayer, for they are themselves becoming immersed in the spirit of peace".

Each year a prayer resource is produced to reflect the theme of prayers for the week. This year the theme is 'Continuing Wars and their consequences'. For further information and to receive copies of the resources, email wpwp2021@yahoo.com.

Queen's Green Canopy initiative extended

Following the death of Her late Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, The Queen's Green Canopy initiative (QGC) will be extended to the end of March 2023 to give people the opportunity to plant trees in memoriam to honour Her Majesty. His Majesty King Charles III is patron of QGC, which is a Commonwealth-wide initiative created to mark the Platinum Jubilee. www.queensgreencanopy.org.

Multi faith blessing of new hospital premises

The multifaith nature of spiritual provision at hospitals was reflected in a special coming together by faith leaders from across the Liverpool city region to bless the new Royal Liverpool University Hospital, as staff began the move into the building before welcoming patients. Representatives from the Church of England, Greek Orthodox, Islamic, Jewish, Roman Catholic and Sikh communities read prayers of blessing at the service, which was led by the hospital's chaplaincy.

<https://www.liverpoolworld.uk/news/faith-leaders-bless-new-royal-liverpool-hospital-as-move-in-starts-3861094>

Hospitals around the UK continue to deepen and extend their links with local faith communities, as do hospices. This was very evident in the 2021 Inter Faith Week which saw a growth in participation by these of 79% for that, as well as for boosting religious literacy internally.

Keeping the Faith report

In September the APPG on Faith and Society launched a new report, 'Keeping the Faith 2.0: Embedding a new normal for partnership working in postpandemic Britain'. The research—led by Professor Chris Baker of Goldsmiths, University of London—covered the extent to which COVID-19 has changed the nature of partnership working between faith groups and local authorities, highlighting hallmarks of good partnership working. The report can be downloaded at <https://www.faithandsociety.org>.

FaithAction publications

During #FaithInPartnership Week in September, FaithAction published two reports. These can both be downloaded at <https://www.faithaction.net/working-with-you/faith-in-partnership/>.

The Faith Covenant, developed by the APPG for Faith and Society, is designed to facilitate partnership and understanding between faith communities and local authorities. It is a set of principles for joint working to which both parties can mutually agree. 'The Faith Covenant: What, Why, How' is a primer for anyone (whether in a local authority, or a faith organisation) interested in the Faith Covenant. It contains case studies, top tips, core principles and first steps on the journey to signing.

In 2021 FaithAction was commissioned by NHS England to research and report on the role played by faith-based organisations during the pandemic, and how this might be built upon as Integrated Care Systems develop strategies for engagement. 'First In, Last Out' looks specifically at how faith groups supported and partnered with NHS services during the pandemic, and what this means for the future of health and care partnerships.

Modest dress at work as lived religion

Following the completion last year of the project on 'Modest Fashion in UK Women's Working Life', Kristin Aune, Reina Lewis and Lina Molokotos-Liederman have now published an article on 'Modest dress at work as lived religion: women's dress in religious work contexts in Saudi Arabia and the UK', in Sociology of Religion.

This article explores how women in religious workplaces respond to organisational norms of, and requirements for, modest dress and behaviour, both implicit and explicit. It compares two case studies: women working for faith-based organizations in the UK, and women working for secular organisations who travel for work to Saudi Arabia. The article examines how women adapt to forms of modest dress, how they navigate dress regulation, and how they negotiate habitus and authenticity. ## NWG Network

The NWG Network is a charitable organisation formed as a UK network of practitioners who disseminate its information through their services, to professionals working on the issue of child exploitation (CE) and trafficking within the UK. <https://nwgnetwork.org/> The NWG team is made up of specialists who proactively engage with Local Safeguarding Children's Boards (LSCB's) and their partner agencies, media, researchers and policy writers on child sexual exploitation, training, prevention work, disruption, prosecution and therapeutic care for victims and survivors. They do this by sharing effective practice, developing according to need, and actively seeking effective practice from other countries tackling exploitation and trafficking within the UK.

The NWG Network notes that faith-based groups play a vital role in the lives of many children, young people, and adults. A Faith Lead role has been established at NWG to raise awareness and knowledge among faith leaders and to bring them together to help to prevent child sexual abuse and exploitation within all faith communities. NWG is keen to connect with those faith-based organisations on what currently they are doing in their area and to share good practice to support one another. The Faith Lead, Pav Kaur, can be contacted at pav@nwgnetwork.org.

2021 Census data on religion

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) has published the Ethnic group, national identity, language, and religion topic summary from the 2021 Census in England and Wales. The ONS reports that the main points are as follows:

- The religion question is voluntary; 94.0% (56.0 million) of usual residents answered the question in 2021, an increase from 92.9% (52.1 million) in 2011.
- For the first time in a census of England and Wales, less than half of the population (46.2%, 27.5 million people) described themselves as “Christian”, a 13.1 percentage point decrease from 59.3% (33.3 million) in 2011; despite this decrease, “Christian” remained the most common response to the religion question.
- “No religion” was the second most common response, increasing by 12.0 percentage points to 37.2% (22.2 million) from 25.2% (14.1 million) in 2011.
- There were increases in the number of people who described themselves as “Muslim” (3.9 million, 6.5% in 2021, up from 2.7 million, 4.9% in 2011) and “Hindu” (1.0 million, 1.7% in 2021, up from 818,000, 1.5% in 2011).
- Wales had a greater decrease in people reporting their religion as “Christian” (14.0 percentage point decrease, from 57.6% in 2011 to 43.6% in 2021) and increase in “No religion” (14.5 percentage point increase, from 32.1% in 2011 to 46.5% in 2021) compared with England and Wales overall.
- London remains the most religiously diverse region of England in 2021, with over a quarter (25.3%) of all usual residents reporting a religion other than “Christian”; the North East and South West are the least religiously diverse regions, with 4.2% and 3.2%, respectively, selecting a religion other than “Christian”.

Responses to the figures came from a number of faith community bodies, for example <https://cte.org.uk/churches-respond-to-census-results/> and <https://mcb.org.uk/2021-census-as-uk-population-grows-so-do-british-muslim-communities/>. The Board of Deputies of British Jews commented both on the value of the statistics and the fact that the community could see itself as undercounted. <https://bod.org.uk/bod-news/board-of-deputies-reacts-to-national-census-figures-on-number-of-jews-in-england-and-wales/> The separate material on ethnicity, within which category the ONS had decided not to include ‘Sikh’ as an ethnic category, prompted renewed calls from some within the Sikh community to revisit that decision.

Local faith leaders have also responded to the figures, for example in Peterborough <https://www.peterboroughtoday.co.uk/news/people/peterborough-faith-leaders-react-as-one-third-of-city-say-they-are-not-religious-3939528> and in Birmingham <https://twitter.com/FaithLeadersGrp/status/1598345417904865288>.

Places of worship and the Protect Duty

On 19 December, the Home Secretary set out the foundational policy for the Protect Duty in Parliament, from now on to be known as Martyn’s Law. Martyn Hett was one of the victims of the Manchester Arena bombing in 2017. The aim of the Bill is to make public accessible locations, including places of worship, safer. This follows last year’s Protect Duty consultation which asked what measures might be taken to protect the public from attacks, as well as how to make sure staff are trained to respond appropriately.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/martyns-law-to-ensure-stronger-protections-against-terrorism-in-public-places>

The Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities notes that “There will be a tiered approach which will be linked to the activity that takes place at a location, and its capacity, with proportionality a key consideration. All places of worship will be placed within the standard tier of the Duty regardless of their capacity, except a small cohort across all faiths that charge tourists for entry and/or hire out the site for large commercial events.” And “Duty holders in public buildings within the standard tier will be required to undertake simple yet effective activities to improve protective security and preparedness.”

Further details on what the foundational policy means for places of worship can be found at <https://homeofficemedia.blog.gov.uk/2022/12/19/martyns-law-factsheet/>.

The Government will introduce the Protect Duty when parliamentary time allows. For further information, or to express a wish to take part in stakeholder engagement events run by the Home Office in the new year, email ProtectDuty@homeoffice.gov.uk.

Faith communities responding to the cost of living crisis

With inflation rising to over 10%, costs of many basic provisions and rent and mortgages rising and energy prices particularly so, the cost of living has become very difficult for many, even with available forms of support. In this context, faith communities are working to offer what assistance they can. They are doing so individually but also tackling the issues together. For example, as reported in the Bradford Argus and Telegraph, over 50 community leaders there met earlier this month at a roundtable organised by Strengthening Faith Institutions to discuss what they can do to support the most vulnerable amid the cost of living crisis. They spoke about “ways places of worship can be used to support the needs of local communities, with suggestions on how food and essential items can be delivered to families in poverty, and on how churches, mosques and temples can be used as safe spaces where people can keep warm to avoid having to pay high energy bills”. <https://www.thetelegraphandargus.co.uk/news/23160314.faith-leaders-bradford-speak-cost-living-crisis/>

Creating places of warm welcome

Places of worship and faith centres across the UK have opened their doors as warm spaces for those who are struggling to heat their homes.

Many of these are doing so through the Warm Welcome initiative. The campaign was started by the ChurchWorks Commission and it is operating with a number of Christian, Muslim and other partners, such as the Royal Voluntary Association and the Together Coalition. A list of all warm spaces registered so far can be found at <https://www.warmwelcome.uk>. The mission of the initiative is to support organisations to open their doors and provide a warm welcome.

Others are contributing through/also through local authorities schemes where there are networks of ‘warm spaces’ or ‘warm hubs’. See, for example, the example of <https://www.gateshead.gov.uk/article/21602/Register-to-become-a-Warm-Space-in-Gateshead>, where churches are among the warm spaces and similarly Swansea, <https://www.swansea.gov.uk/SwanseaSpacesPR> with its list of warm spaces/hubs. London also has an extensive network of these, including many places of worship and centres of different faiths such as the Jain Oshwal Shakti Centre and Gurdwara Sri Guru Singh Sabha, the Riverside Church and Al Madina Mosque in Barking, and Leyton and Wanstead Synagogue. Glasgow also has different faith communities participating with participation from a number of churches of different denominations and the Sikh Gurdwara in Pollokshields.

Providing food and other essentials

A number of places of worship run local food banks or collect for a local food bank. For example, the St Neots Foodbank is a collaborative action between ten St Neots churches working under the auspices of the Trussell Trust, a national Foodbank network. Some also provide hot meals for those in need. A Sky News report highlighted that the cost of living crisis has brought an increasing number of non-Sikhs through the doors of gurdwaras for the free langar. <https://news.sky.com/story/cost-of-living-sikh-community-is-serving-up-hot-meals-to-more-people-than-ever-12713552> The news report notes that many Sikh organisations have also ramped up their efforts by distributing food on the streets, to cater for those who need it most.

Other programmes such as Mitzvah Day and Sewa Day have also been working to gather and distribute essentials. Mitzvah Day runs an extensive food bank support programme. <https://mitzvahday.org.uk/project/foodbank-aid-north-london-network/> Sewa Day is active in many areas of the country. In Nottingham it has worked for the third year with Communities Working Together to run a 'shoebox appeal', where presents of hats, scarves, food, gifts and toys, books and toiletries to adults and children who might otherwise not get presents. <https://westbridgfordwire.com/pictures-shoebox-appeal-organisers-blown-away-by-the-generosity-of-the-rushcliffe-community/> Sufra NW London provides a Foodbank but also a wide range of services and community-based activities to empower individuals and families to overcome impoverishment and social isolation.

These are just a few examples of the ways in which faith and faith-linked initiatives have been responding to some of the cost of living impacts. Faith communities and their national and regional structures engage with these and on other social needs and social justice issues through ongoing programmes.

Support for individuals

Information on support available can be found on the UK Government website at <https://helpforhouseholds.campaign.gov.uk/> and on the following sites for Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland:

<https://costofliving.campaign.gov.scot/>

<https://gov.wales/get-help-cost-living>

<https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/information-and-services/benefits-and-financial-support/low-income>

Support for charities and voluntary organisations

The Charities Aid Foundation has launched a Cost-of-Living Resource Hub, in collaboration with a number of partner organisations. This includes practical guidance and tools to help charities navigate the current challenging times. CAF has also launched a £3m Keystone Fund offering unrestricted grants to charities with income under £1m who are addressing social justice or working towards social equity, to help cover core costs, strengthen capacity and build resilience.

The National Council for Voluntary Organisations has appealed for the government to ensure voluntary organisations get continued support from the Energy Bill Relief Scheme beyond March 2023, outlining the risks for communities if the current support package stops. <https://www.ncvo.org.uk/news-and-insights/news-index/call-for-continuing-energy-bill-support-for-voluntary-organisations/#/>

The last issue of the e-bulletin noted that a UK Commission on Covid Commemoration had been established to secure a broad consensus from across the whole of the United Kingdom on how to “commemorate the COVID-19 pandemic and mark this distinctive period in our history at a national and community level”. The Commission held its fourth meeting at the end of November and is expecting to report to the Prime Minister by the end of March 2023. <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/uk-commission-on-covid-commemoration>

A public consultation ran until 5 December and the Commission is still keen for organisations and members of the public to complete the local Covid Commemoration survey which can be found at <https://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/UKCovidCommemorationActivity/>.

The UK Covid-19 Public Inquiry (<https://covid19.public-inquiry.uk/>), the independent public inquiry set up to examine the UK's response to and impact of the Covid-19 pandemic and learn lessons for the future, is also exploring ways in which the scale of the hardship and loss experienced during the pandemic can be commemorated as part of its proceedings. A number of national faith community bodies in membership of the Inter Faith Network participated in a roundtable on 13 December, where this was one of the items addressed, with more engagement planned for the new year.

Christmas sees ‘Together at Christmas’ carol services happening at a number of churches around the UK which, like that recorded on 15 December at Westminster Abbey, hosted by HRH the Princess of Wales, celebrate ‘local heroes’, including those who went above and beyond during the Covid pandemic. <https://www.royal.uk/together-at-christmas-service-2022> The Westminster Abbey service was described as “combining traditional and modern elements to encompass people of all faiths and none”.

Royal visits to new Sikh gurdwara and to Jewish cultural centre

Earlier this month His Majesty King Charles III visited the newly built Guru Nanak Gurdwara in Luton, which he officially opened. The event was attended by many members of the Sikh community, civic leaders, representatives of other faiths and of Luton Council of Faiths and others. The King met volunteers, including those who provide langar and run a weekly Luton Sikh Soup Kitchen outside Luton’s Town Hall. <https://www.lutontoday.co.uk/news/people/king-charles-visit-to-lutons-new-guru-nanak-gurdwara-brought-towns-faiths-together-3944233>

The King also visited the JW3 Jewish Cultural Centre in London for an annual Chanukah party, where he danced with Holocaust survivors. This was part of a tour of JW3, in the course of which he also met with a group of girls packing Christmas packages for asylum seekers, stopped by a hair and beauty course for Orthodox students and was shown the kitchen where volunteers and refugees were preparing food packages for the needy. <https://www.independent.co.uk/tv/lifestyle/king-charles-hanukkah-jewish-community-b2246823.html> <https://www.timesofisrael.com/king-charles-dances-hora-with-holocaust-survivors-at-london-jewish-community-center/>

Hate crime and antisemitism

The most recently published figures from the Home Office (October) showed that for the year to March 2022, religious hate crimes increased by 37 per cent (to 8,730 offences), up from 6,383 in the previous year; this was the highest number of religious hate crimes recorded since the time series began in year ending March 2012.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/statistics/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2021-to-2022/hate-crime-england-and-wales-2021-to-2022>

Examples of disturbing incidents in the last two months include those in Bridgnorth in Shropshire <https://www.shropshirestar.com/news/crime/2022/11/11/appalling-anti-semitic-graffiti-found-in-town-condemned/> and at Heatons Muslims Community Trust in Stockport <https://www.manchestereveningnews.co.uk/news/greater-manchester-news/support-mosque-police-probe-hate-25729472>.

A criminal prosecution against a street preacher arrested for an alleged 'hate crime' in which the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) argued that parts of the Bible are 'abusive' and 'no longer appropriate in modern society' has been dropped. However, as reported in The Times, it has now led to a warning from a religious freedom expert that the CPS is unilaterally trying to extend the law. <https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/street-preacher-was-charged-with-hate-crime-for-quoting-bible-at-lesbians-xbrhgr25r> Also dropped by the CPS have been charges against two men suspected of shouting anti-Semitic abuse in the convoy which drove through Finchley Road in North London in March 2021. <https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-11444671/Fury-prosecutors-DROP-charges-convoy-screaming-F-Jews.html>

While the majority of religious related hate crime targets Jews and Muslims, members of other communities are also targeted. Early in 2022, a body called Sikhguard was created to encourage the reporting of hate crime by members of the Sikh community throughout the United Kingdom. The National Sikh Police Association UK has initiated the project in conjunction with True Vision and other community-based organisations concerned about under-reporting and the need to make the authorities aware of the true extent of anti-Sikh hate. <https://sikhguard.org>

REPORT HATE CRIMES AND INCIDENTS AND WORK TOGETHER TO HELP TACKLE THEM

Report hate crimes and incidents online through True Vision or via 3rd parties eg Community Security Trust (CST), Tell Mama UK; Sikhguard and Stop Hate UK; at a police station; or by ringing the police on 101 (non-emergency) or 999.

The Bishop's Disciplinary Tribunal for the Anglican diocese of Winchester has ruled that the conduct of the Revd Dr Stephen Sizer was unbecoming to the office and work of a clerk in Holy Orders. It concluded that he had "engaged in anti-Semitic activity" when, in January 2015, he posted an article that was "virulently anti-Semitic" on Facebook. Dr Sizer said that he accepted the conclusions and criticisms of his conduct and apologised unreservedly for the hurt and offence caused.

Commission on the Integration of Refugees

At the end of November, a new Commission on the Integration of Refugees was launched. Convened by the founder President of the Woolf Institute, Dr Ed Kessler, this independent Commission aims to:

- Improve the refugee and asylum system, for a society where everyone, including refugees, feels welcome and integrated;
- Bring together opposing views and diverse experiences from across the UK – from refugees and local communities, faith and community leaders, security forces and healthcare professionals; and
- Work to overcome differences to find common ground to fix the broken system with practical solutions.

The Commission is chaired by Lord Alex Carlile, the Commission and is composed of 23 commissioners from across civil society, the public sector, politics, faith communities and academia. The Commission's first publication, produced in collaboration with the Good Faith Partnership, is a review of asylum reform initiatives between 1997 and 2022. ### UK Government Resilience Framework

The UK Government Resilience Framework was published in December (replacing the 'National Resilience Strategy'). The Framework is "a risk-agnostic plan to strengthen the systems, structures, and capabilities which underpin the UK's resilience to all risks, including those which are yet to emerge". The Framework is built around three core principles:

- A shared understanding of the risks we face is foundational: it must underpin everything that we do to prepare for and recover from crises;

- Prevention rather than cure wherever possible: resilience-building spans the whole risk cycle so we must focus effort across the cycle, particularly before crises happen;
- Resilience is a ‘whole of society’ endeavour, so we must be more transparent and empower everyone to make a contribution.

Faith groups are included within the communities referenced in the Framework and it acknowledges that “National, regional, local and grassroots VCS and faith-based organisations have been at the forefront of the response to emergencies”. The Framework can be downloaded at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/government-to-strengthen-national-resilience>.

RE Council campaign

The Religious Education Council of England and Wales has launched a campaign to ensure that “all children in all schools receive a high-quality education in RE/an education in religion and worldviews taught by well-qualified and trained teachers”. The key messages of the campaign are: RE is vital for life in the modern world; RE is valued by the voting public; Too many children are not receiving RE; A national standard is needed; Recruitment of secondary trainees is Insufficient; and Too many primary teachers have no RE training.

Police recruitment campaign and faith communities

The UK Government plans to recruit an additional 20,000 frontline officers in England and Wales by March 2023. The Police are keen for the service to represent the communities that it serves and are looking for talented people from all backgrounds, ages, ethnicities and faiths. They are seeking the support of communities to promote a career in policing by:

- Signposting to the website Why join the Police? | Join The Police \(joiningthepolice.co.uk\) as a place to find out more information on a career in policing and see which forces are currently open for recruitment;
- Highlighting the police network support organisations, such as the Jewish Police Association, the National Association of Muslim Police, the National Sikh Police Association and the Police Pagan Association Police officer support organisations | Join The Police \(joiningthepolice.co.uk\); and
- Amplifying police recruitment content on social media, that addresses the barriers around faith, such as: Feeling supported, career progression, policing is a rewarding career, being a voice for others.

Religion in the workplace

The importance of employees' faith and belief in the employment context has been receiving increased focus. For example, in November and December business psychology consultancy Pearn Kandola published two reports, Religion at Work: Experiences of Christian employees and Religion at Work: Experiences of Hindu Employees (both by Binna Kandola). <https://pearnkandola.com/research/>

The author commented that "Many Hindus do not feel that they are able to express their faith openly. This is significant and demonstrates that organisations still have progress to make in creating truly inclusive cultures" <https://www.businessleader.co.uk/religion-work-why-hindu-employees-religious-holiday-requests-denied/> and that "Many Christians are in fact facing similar issues as those of other minority religions. As our research revealed, they are not exempt from negative experiences at work, such as those involving discrimination and stereotyping." <https://www.churchtimes.co.uk/articles/2022/23-december/news/uk/some-religious-employees-subjected-to-ridicule-and-stereotyping-survey-finds>

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week 13-20 November

Thousands of people took part in the Week and its positive messages has also reached millions through social media.

Canon Hilary Barber and Narendra Waghela, Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, which supports the Week in England, Northern Ireland and Wales, hailed it an 'inspiring success' and said "The Week's growth reflects increasing awareness of the vital importance of people of different faiths and beliefs living together well, finding ways to engage on issues where there may be divergence of views and building on shared values to work for the common good."

Read more about the week at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/news/news>. A full list of activities can be seen on the website here: <https://www.interfaithweek.org/events/calendar>.

Inter Faith Week messages from faith leaders

Inter Faith Network for the UK's Faith Communities Forum invited national faith community leaders to share messages about the importance of religious literacy. You can see their messages at: <https://www.interfaithweek.org/news/reflections-from-national-faith-communities-and-their-leaders-2022>.

Feedback on the Week

If you held an activity for the Week, thank you for making the week such a success! If you have not already responded to the feedback survey, we would be very grateful if you could spare some time to share any thoughts or reflections that you may have on your experience of the Week. ### IFN's e-bulletin renamed 'newsletter'

Following on from the responses to this year's e-bulletin survey, it was noted in a previous issue that we would be moving to a new name for the e-bulletin. 'E-bulletin' was found by some respondents to sound outdated and, while the overall length of content was found helpful by the majority of respondents, the material is more detailed than is commonly the case with bulletin contents. It has therefore been renamed 'newsletter'.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/building-good-relations-with-people-of-different-faiths-and-beliefs> The principles were adopted by its members in 1993 and have been so by new members since that time. The ‘code’ has been used and drawn on by groups around the world.

Support to member inter faith organisations on using social media and on websites

IFN is offering member local, regional and national inter faith organisations one to one sessions on Zoom or the phone to talk through questions about whether/how to use Facebook, Twitter and Instagram, as well as about running and maintaining websites. You can explore any questions - if we don't know the answer we will try and point you to someone who might! These 30-45 minutes sessions are run by IFN's Project Director Ashley Beck and individually tailored. If you would like to book one of the remaining available sessions in January or February, you can email him at Ashley.beck@interfaith.org.uk by 12 January.

Faith and football

Linked to the BBC’s World Cup coverage, BBC Morning Live ran a special feature on Building Bridges in Burnley’s inter faith football tournament. They brought children of different faith backgrounds from Barden Primary School, St John's School CE Cliviger, and Daneshouse FC to take part in an inter faith football tournament at the the Leisure Box Brierfield. Those who took part were given free tickets to go with their families to see Burnley Football Club play at Turf Moor. The feature can be found at <https://www.bbc.co.uk/iplayer/episode/m001g5zv/morning-live-series-4-16122022> 8 minutes in. It includes interviews with the Chair of BBB and parents and pupils.

The Inter Faith Tournament was linked to Inter Faith Week which also saw members of the Berks & Bucks FA visit Singh Sabha Slough FC to meet its youth team, composed of individuals from predominantly Sikh, Muslim, Hindu and Christian backgrounds. This highlighted how sport has the ability to break down barriers and foster inter faith understanding. The club’s main ground is owned by Singh Sabha Gurdwara, the local Sikh temple. Having access to these community facilities is what gave the club the starting point it needed to begin providing accessible football in the local area. <https://www.berks-bucksfa.com/news/2022/dec/08/breaking-barriers-singh-sabha-slough> In Sunderland, a match was held between two teams of Sunderland Samba FC players and friends to celebrate their commitment to bringing people together and to encourage learning and understanding. <https://sunderlandsamba.com/>

Christian Jewish initiative

Lambeth Palace and the Board of Deputies of British Jews are working on a joint initiative involving leaders of Jewish Representative Councils and other local Jewish leaders from the south of the UK together with interfaith advisers from the Church of England who are part of the Church of England's Presence and Engagement Network. The aim is to think about how they can enrich their work locally and create new relationships between communities working together. The first event took place at the end of November and a second day of engagement will take place with northern communities in 2023. Both groups will be brought back together for a final meeting at the end of the first year.

Faith communities and domestic abuse and violence against women and girls

During the Covid-19 pandemic there was a steep increase in the number of calls to Refuge, the UK's largest domestic abuse charity. In response to this crisis, Faiths Forum for London \(FFL\) and Women's Interfaith Network created a multi faith domestic abuse awareness campaign called Faiths Against Domestic Abuse (FADA). Since then the FADA campaign has held a number of online webinars and workshops with speakers including Nicole Jacobs, the Domestic Abuse Commissioner for England and Wales. Partners on the campaign have included Jewish Women's Aid, The Sharan Project, The Faith and Belief Forum and Near Neighbours. The first FADA Week was held in 2020 and the most recent FADA Awareness Week took place from 28 November to 2 December.

<https://twitter.com/faithsagainstda>

There is also a Faith and Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) Coalition which is a partnership of organisations lead by the Safety Across Faith and Ethnic (SAFE) Communities project at Standing Together Against Domestic Abuse. It wishes to highlight the critical role that faith communities and religious groups play in addressing VAWG as they are often the first point of contact or help seeking for those suffering abuse. More about its work can be found at <https://www.faithandvawg.org/h>

Resources

Faith festivals and greetings

In the UK today a range of festivals are celebrated by different faith communities. A number of faith festival calendars are produced each year. One of the most widely used is the Shap Calendar of Religious Festivals (<http://www.shapcalendar.org.uk/>). This comes with a booklet explaining each festival. Their calendar of dates is used, with their permission, on IFN's website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/religious-festivals>.

At <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/faith-festivals-guidance-on-sending-greetings> is the 2023 list of festivals and greetings that has been produced with the IFN's Faith Communities Forum, which brings together National Faith Community Representative Bodies in IFN membership. Each faith community has many different festivals but has chosen two festivals on which greetings from those of other faiths and none would be particularly appreciated.

Guidance on religion and belief in the workplace has been produced by equality organisations and bodies such as the Employers Network for Equality and Inclusion. <https://www.enei.org.uk/category/employer-guides/>

There are also a wide range of consultancies, such as the Faith & Belief Forum (<https://faithbeliefforum.org/programme/faith-inclusion-training-and-consultancy-for-workplaces>) that support employers in this area, underlining the value of religious diversity in the workplace (for example, <https://www.inclusiveemployers.co.uk/blog/the-benefits-of-religious-diversity-in-the-workplace/>) and creating a religiously inclusive workplace <http://www.personneltoday.com/hr/religious-inclusion/>) as well as advising on relevant law and good practice. On the latter area, there is relevant guidance produced both by the EHRC <https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/advice-and-guidance/religion-or-belief-discrimination> and ACAS <https://www.acas.org.uk/acas-guide-to-religion-or-belief-discrimination>.

The Holocaust Memorial Day Trust has produced a guide for faith and inter faith groups on marking HMD. This can be found at <https://www.hmd.org.uk/resource/your-faith-interfaith-group-and-holocaust-memorial-day/>.

FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Illegal migration bill

On 7 March the UK Government introduced the Illegal Migration Bill to the House of Commons. <https://bills.parliament.uk/bills/3429>

This would make asylum claims inadmissible from those who travel to the UK on small boats and under it a home secretary would be required to remove “as soon as reasonably practicable”, to Rwanda or a ‘safe third country’ those anyone who arriving in that way. Those coming this way would also be prevented from ever claiming asylum in the UK.

The opening notes to the Bill include: “Secretary Suella Braverman has made the following statement under section 19(1)(b) of the Human Rights Act 1998: I am unable to make a statement that, in my view, the provisions of the Illegal Migration Bill are compatible with the Convention rights, but the Government nevertheless wishes the House to proceed with the Bill.”

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2023/mar/08/what-are-the-legal-obstacles-faced-by-the-uks-migration-bill-suella-braverman>

Responses of concern have come from a number of faith communities, eg Churches <https://ctbi.org.uk/churches-voice-opposition-to-illegal-migration-bill/>; <https://jpit.uk/response-to-illegal-migration-bill>; Scottish Faiths Action for Refugees <https://twitter.com/WithRefugees/status/1633139798515785730> and the Board of Deputies of British Jews <https://mobile.twitter.com/BoardofDeputies/status/1633488546710405121>.

In October 2021 the Faith Communities Forum of the Inter Faith Network for the UK issued a call, “drawing on the common values at the heart of our different and distinct faith traditions” for safe, humane and dignified treatment of refugees and those seeking asylum. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/a-call-for-safe-humane-and-dignified-treatment-of-refugees-and-those-seeking-asylum>

Safety and Security of Places of Worship

At its meeting on 2 February the IFN Faith Communities Forum agreed a statement on the Safety and Security of Places of Worship. This can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-on-safety-and-security-of-places-of-worship>.

The December issue of the newsletter noted that the Home Secretary had set out the foundational policy for the Protect Duty in Parliament (from now on to be known as Martyn’s Law). The aim of the Bill is to make publicly accessible locations, including places of worship, safer. For further information, or to express a wish to take part in stakeholder engagement events run by the Home Office, email ProtectDuty@homeoffice.gov.uk.

The Home Office is holding a dedicated webinar for faith communities, about Martyn’s Law, on 9 March. The registration link is <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/martyns-law-webinar-for-places-of-worship-tickets-519101836567>.

Investigation into antisemitism in the Labour Party

In October 2020, the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) served the Labour Party with an unlawful act notice, after its investigation into antisemitism found the Party responsible for unlawful acts of harassment and discrimination. As a result, the Labour Party was obliged to produce an action plan to prevent continuation or reoccurrence of those unlawful acts, which was legally enforceable by the court if not fulfilled. The action plan concluded on 31 January. The EHRC confirmed on 15 February that it is content with the actions taken and has now concluded its work with the Labour Party.

Inter Faith Network Newsletter

May 2023 – Special issue

Contents

This edition is a short 'Coronation Extra'. The usual newsletter will be published in due course.

FAITH COMMUNITIES AND THE CORONATION

The Coronation and the events forming the Coronation Weekend will see involvement of faith communities in many ways.

The Coronation

The Coronation of His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty Queen Camilla will take place on the morning of Saturday 6 May at Westminster Abbey.

Although a Christian service, a number of faith leaders and representatives will be involved. The Church of England website notes that "This represents the multi-faith nature of our society and the importance of inclusion of other faiths whilst respecting the integrities of the different traditions."

Faith leaders and representatives from the Baha'i, Buddhist, Hindu, Jain, Jewish, Sikh, Sunni and Shia Muslim, and Zoroastrian communities will be part of the procession into Westminster Abbey.

During the service The King will be presented with four items of regalia by peers from Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Sikh communities.

At the end of the final outward procession, The King will receive the following greeting from leaders and representatives from Buddhist, Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Sikh communities: "Your Majesty, as neighbours in faith, we acknowledge the value of public service.

We unite with people of all faiths and beliefs in thanksgiving, and in service with you for the common good."

The Coronation liturgy can be found at <https://www.churchofengland.org/coronation/liturgy>.

Contributing to a Churches Together in England website feature, IFN Co-Chairs Revd Canon Hilary Barber and Narendra Waghela said:

“The Coronation of HM King Charles III is centred on a Christian service. The Coronation will also see, for the first time, members of other faiths playing an active role in events. These two dimensions reflect the long history of the monarchy and traditions of coronation; the Christian beliefs and role of HM The King; and also His commitment to the continued development of the harmonious coexistence of people of different faiths, beliefs and cultures in the UK and in the Commonwealth. It will be a powerful symbolic expression of how a person’s deep rootedness in one tradition – for HM The King, the Christian faith – can give rise to, and be manifested in, respectful and positive engagement with people of other faiths and beliefs.”

The Board of IFN has conveyed, through its Co-Chairs, greetings to His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty Queen Camilla on the occasion of the Coronation, saying to HM The King:

“We express our gratitude for your highlighting of the important role that the diverse cultures, traditions and beliefs of the faith communities play in the life of the UK and the Commonwealth and the active role that you take in fostering this.

The Inter Faith Network links national faith community representative bodies, national, regional and local inter faith organisations and educational and academic bodies with an inter faith focus. It has worked with them since 1987 for inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK. Your longstanding commitment to positive engagement between people of different faiths has been a continual encouragement to us.

We pray for blessings on your Majesty and HM The Queen throughout your reign.”

Bells at Llandaff Cathedral will ring to celebrate the Coronation for almost two hours before the ceremony at Westminster Abbey. On Sunday, a Coronation Civic Service will take place at St David’s Cathedral, which will be filmed by BBC Wales.

A special Service of Dedication and Thanksgiving will be held at St Giles’ Cathedral in Edinburgh later this year when The King will be presented with the Honours of Scotland.

A cross-community Service of Thanksgiving was held at St Patrick’s Church of Ireland Cathedral in Armagh on 2 May.

There have been many local services with prayers and readings from different faiths, such a county-wide countywide Coronation Service at All Saints’ Church in Northampton on 30th April. <https://www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=100064860183994>

Coronation Big Lunch

On Sunday 7 May the Coronation Big Lunch will take place, overseen and organised by the Big Lunch team at the Eden Project. Neighbours and communities across the UK are being invited to join together in streets, gardens, parks and community spaces to boost community spirit, reduce loneliness and support charities and good causes. Further information is at <https://www.edenprojectcommunities.com/the-big-lunch>.

Local faith and inter faith groups around the UK will be taking part. Faiths Together in Croydon, for example, will be holding a Coronation Big Picnic <https://www.facebook.com/groups/FaitsTogetherInCroydon/posts/3407172289532253/>, Birmingham Central Mosque will be holding a Coronation event <https://twitter.com/5Pillarsuk/status/1652615185843081216> and faith communities will be gathering in Oxford for a Big Lunch <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/coronation-big-lunch-oxford-interfaith-community-lunch-tickets-601584093217>.

Some gatherings have taken place ahead of the Coronation Weekend. These include a pre-Coronation tea for faith leaders at Bhaktivedanta Manor in Hertfordshire <https://www.krishnatemple.com/coronation-interfaith-lieutenant/>

A map of events taking place across the UK can be found at <https://coronation.gov.uk/events/>.

Coronation Concert

On 7 May there will also be a special Coronation Concert staged and broadcast live at Windsor Castle.

The Big Help Out

Monday 8 May has been designated as an extra Bank Holiday will see the launch of the Big Help Out. This is a project which aims to encourage people to try volunteering for themselves and join the work being undertaken to support their local areas.

Volunteering opportunities are being made available through an app which can be downloaded from <https://thebighelpout.org.uk/join-in/>. Organisations who are seeking volunteers to support their work, can register their events at <https://thebighelpout.org.uk/organise-an-event/>. Some examples from faith communities include a beach clean-up led by the Archbishop of Wales, a litter pick led by Bradford Cathedral in collaboration with Don't Mess With Bradford and Bradford city council, the provision of hundreds of hot meals for the homeless in London led by Central Gurdwara London and a gardening project and mural led by the Northern Ireland Interfaith Forum. <https://www.easterneye.biz/faith-communities-in-uk-unite-to-support-the-big-help-out/>

Faith leaders have been encouraging faith communities to get involved in the Big Help Out. Last month a number of faith leaders volunteered at The Passage Charity in London to highlight the importance of faith communities as sources of volunteering. <https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/pfbid0d2snEhY1wYEXCqYSruc5SgMrDgiotrusmWvhybUgfeFV6Reucb4QHojMz3aGt9CdI> A number signed a letter which was published on 30 April in the Times and a number of local papers. <https://www.times-series.co.uk/news/national/23490861.faith-leaders-unite-encourage-communities-volunteer-coronation-weekend/>

SUPPORT THE WORK OF THE INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK

Match funding offered for new Appeal

The importance of inter faith dialogue and cooperation is a theme which has recently been gaining prominence on many fronts, as is religious literacy.

The Inter Faith Network is the UK's inter faith linking body, working since 1987 to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation and contribute to a society where there is understanding of the diversity and richness of the faith communities in the UK and the contribution that they make; and where we live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Please do consider a donation to a new Appeal launched by IFN's Board to support its vital work and enable this to continue at a time of significant financial challenges.

Match funding has been made available for all donations received up the first £15,000.

You can donate at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/donate> or directly by PayPal at www.paypal.me/ifnetuk. Thank you.

Places of Worship security funding schemes

The Home Office has announced that in 2023 and 2024, it will be continuing to provide protective security measures to places of worship in England and Wales under two schemes: Places of Worship Protective Security Funding Scheme; and Protective Security for Mosques Scheme. (The Jewish community receives funding for schools, synagogues and other community sites through a separate scheme called the Jewish Community Protective Security Grant.)

The schemes provide funding for places of worship and associated faith community centres that are vulnerable to hate crime. Places of worship can apply for physical protective security measures, such as CCTV, secure fencing, and intruder alarms. Applicants to the Protective Security for Mosques Scheme are also able to apply for security guarding services. The deadline for applications is 15 August 2023. Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/places-of-worship-security-funding-scheme>.

References to the security funding schemes are included in the UK Government's updated counter-terrorism strategy, CONTEST, which was published on 18 July <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/counter-terrorism-strategy-contest-2023>

Back to the top

Faith engagement with legislation on migration

The Illegal Migration Act 2023 passed into law on 20 July.

When this was introduced as a Bill in March, responses of concern were made by some faith community bodies, with the Archbishop of Canterbury proposing two amendments to the Bill as it entered Committee Stage. These were not accepted. At the start of World Refugee Week in June, 14 faith leaders came together in a film voicing their concerns. This can be found on the Churches Together in Britain and Ireland website at <https://ctbi.org.uk/refugee-week-faith-leaders-show-support-for-refugees/>.

SACREs and Humanists

A High Court decision in May, relating to a case in which the Chair of a local Humanist organisation in Kent was refused a place on the local Standard Advisory Council for Religious Education (SACRE), clarified that local authorities cannot exclude Humanist representatives from their SACREs.

<https://www.bailii.org/ew/cases/EWHC/Admin/2023/1261.html> In July, it was reported that Kent County Council would not appeal the decision.

Multi faith households

Almost 300,000 households across England and Wales have people of different religions living alongside each other, according to analysis of Census data collected and published for the first time.

The proportion is as high as 1 in 20 in some areas of London. The highest figures in England outside London are Slough, Hertsmere and Oxford (both 3.8 per cent). The highest in Wales is Cardiff (1.8 per cent) and Newport (1 per cent).

Faith Friendly Workplaces

A 'Faith Friendly Workplaces' initiative was launched in May last year by the Thames Water multi-faith group. It grew out of a perception that within company Diversity & Inclusion frameworks, faith networks were often badly supported or missing completely, and HR managers felt faith was something that was too complicated and that groups had difficulty defining objectives. Around 20 companies have connected in with this. The Multifaith Centre at the University of Derby is supporting this initiative. In July, a linked summit on faith in the workplace was held at Number 10 Downing Street, where employers spoke with the Prime Minister's advisers about encouraging faith friendly policies. It was announced at that event that a national summit on Faith-and-Belief@Work will be held on 20 November in London. <https://religionmediacentre.org.uk/news/faith-friendly-policies-improve-workplaces-companies-tell-no-10/>

Faiths and climate change

Faith communities continue to engage with the issue of tackling climate change. At national level this has seen such recent actions as the Church of England announcing divestment from fossil fuels. <https://www.theguardian.com/world/2023/jun/22/c-of-e-divests-of-fossil-fuels-as-oil-and-gas-firms-ditch-climate-pledges> as well as joining in cross-faith advocacy and initiatives such as those led by Faith for the Climate <https://faithfortheclimate.org.uk/advocacy/> and the Climate Justice Coalition.

Faith communities are also working to reduce the carbon footprint and improve the environmental sustainability of their buildings. A recent feature by Islamic Relief, for example, highlights its Greening our Mosques project <https://www.islamic-relief.org.uk/greening-our-mosques-leading-by-example/>

Regional and local religious leaders have also been taking forward this agenda – sometimes beyond their areas. The Mayor of Greater Manchester and Christian, Sikh, Jewish, Hindu, and Muslim leaders from the region met the Pope to pledge a commitment to tackle climate change. The group, led by the Bishop of Salford and the Dean of Manchester, had a private audience with Pope Francis at The Vatican. They discussed the work that was already going on in Greater Manchester and committed to take further action. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/articles/cyjplllpv7ko>

#InterFaithWeek will take place across England, Northern Ireland and Wales from Sunday 12 to Sunday 19 November. This will be the 15th Inter Faith Week.

Each year, the Week makes a significant contribution to inter faith understanding, harmony and cooperation. Thousands take part directly in Inter Faith Week activities, and millions encounter the Week's positive messages through social media.

The three Aims of Inter Faith Week are to:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

The Week begins on Remembrance Sunday to encourage the remembering together of service of soldiers and civilians of different faiths and beliefs from Britain and the Commonwealth and to reflect on peace. You can find a special resource about that at <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/remembrance>.

The Inter Faith Week website www.interfaithweek.org has lots of activity ideas (see the Resources section), with examples drawn from the many successful activities held for the Week to date by faith and belief bodies; local inter faith organisations; community and voluntary organisations; workplaces and staff networks; local authorities; emergency services; SACREs; schools, colleges, universities and youth organisations; chaplaincies; sports organisations; libraries; museums and art galleries; hospitals and hospices; and many others. The website is managed by the Inter Faith Network for the UK which leads on Inter Faith Week, in consultation with the national inter faith linking bodies of Northern Ireland and Wales regarding activities in their nations.

The flyer for the Week can be downloaded from <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/flyer>. For printed copies, contact interfaithweek@interfaith.org.uk. Social media assets, such as the Week logo, can be downloaded from <https://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/publicity-and-branding>, where you can also order the colourful and popular Inter Faith Week badges (bulk rates available).

Scottish Interfaith Week, which was the inspiration for Inter Faith Week, will also be held from Sunday 12 to Sunday 19 November. Running since 2004, it is led by Interfaith Scotland. It is designed to provide an opportunity for inter faith groups, faith communities, schools, organisations and local communities across the country to celebrate Scotland's religious diversity by planning events that bring people together to promote dialogue, understanding and co-operation between Scotland's diverse religious communities and cultures. Scottish Interfaith Week takes a different theme each year. This year it is 'Community'. www.scottishinterfaithweek.org

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

IFN funding

In early July, IFN received notification from the Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities that, following a review by ministers of funded programmes across the Communities and Integration portfolio, funding was being offered towards IFN's work for the period from July 2023 to March 2024. This followed a three month period of absence of Government funding and uncertainty about the future of IFN's work after a notification from Government at the end of March that funding would not continue from April. During that period, many organisations and individuals wrote to the Ministers and their MPs about the importance of the work of the Inter Faith Network for the UK and some contributed to an ongoing urgent Appeal. The Board of IFN is very grateful to all who have assisted – and continue to assist – towards sustaining IFN's important work to support the development and deepening of inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK.

Like many other charities, IFN faces steep challenges in resourcing its work. If you are a newsletter reader who sees the significance of IFN's contribution to the continued development of a harmonious, diverse UK marked by inter faith understanding and cooperation, please do consider a donation to support IFN's work.

A Faith Museum in Bishop Auckland will open in October. It will explore "the ways in which faith has shaped lives and communities across Britain through rarely seen objects, national treasures, personal testimonies and contemporary commissions." The Faith Museum is described as having been created in collaboration with inter faith leaders, academic specialists, and local communities and will feature more than 250 objects from 50 institutions and private collections across England, Scotland, and Wales as well as the museum's own collection. It is part of the wider restoration and redevelopment of The Auckland Project, which has been made possible with a £12.4m grant from The National Lottery Heritage Fund. <https://www.prolificnorth.co.uk/news/bishop-aucklands-faith-museum-announces-opening-date/>

Glasgow's St Mungo Museum of Religious Life and Art, established in 1993, was threatened with closure after the pandemic due to funding cuts and loss of income. However, it was saved last year after a campaign. It continues its work to promote understanding and respect between people of different faiths and those of none through its exhibits about the world's religions and through events, from family-friendly activities to talks about culture and religion in Scotland today. It also now has what is described as the first Zen garden in Britain.

Through this research they aim to: understand the perceptions and experiences of safeguarding professionals in statutory bodies and those with safeguarding responsibilities in religious organisations when working with each other; and explore to what extent do professionals supporting survivors of abuse in religious settings understand distinctive aspects of working in this context, and how might better collaboration be promoted between safeguarding officers working for statutory agencies and those with whom they liaise in religious organisations. ## FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

UK Commission on Covid Commemoration report

The UK Commission on Covid Commemoration's final report on how the Covid pandemic should be remembered across the UK was published on 18 September. The Commission has made 10 recommendations to the Government on how to make sure the events of the pandemic and the experiences that people went through are not forgotten. The Commission's recommendations include preserving existing memorials, including the National Covid Memorial Wall in central London, holding a national day of reflection every year and identifying green spaces across the UK to serve as Covid memorial spaces. The Department for Culture, Media and Sport will now work with other government departments and the Devolved Administrations to consider the recommendations and respond in due course. The full report can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/the-uk-commission-on-covid-commemorations-final-report>.

A Level and GCSE Religious Studies and teacher recruitment

The Religious Education Council of England and Wales (REC) has reported that 15,438 Religious Studies A level entries were recorded in England and Wales this year, a decline of 4.5 percent from 2022. However, between 2003 and 2022, A level Religious Studies has been one of the fastest growing subjects at A level, with an increase of 39 percent in the number of entries to the subject. <https://religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/2023/08/fall-in-a-level-rs-entries-sees-calls-for-action-for-specialist-teacher-recruitment/>

The REC also notes that the number of students in England and Wales taking a GCSE course in Religious Studies has remained stable at 253,906, up by a margin of 0.3% from last year. <https://religiouseducationcouncil.org.uk/2023/08/religious-studies-remains-a-popular-gcse-despite-specialist-teacher-recruitment-challenge/>

The REC warns that a shortage in specialist teachers means some schools, particularly in the Midlands and North East, are now struggling to offer the subject at A level. The latest UCAS data showed that applicants to train to teach the subject have fallen by a third.

A group of cross-party peers, MPs, and religious educators wrote to Secretary of State Rt Hon Gillian Keegan MP, calling on the Government to address the crisis in teaching and recruitment of Religious Education teachers, including underfunding and a need for the introduction of training bursaries.

On 12 September, a House of Commons Education Select Committee Inquiry into teacher recruitment, retention and training heard evidence from the National Association of Teachers of RE (NATRE) about a number of subjects that had repeatedly missed their Department for Education recruitment targets, of which Religious Education was the only one without financial incentives to encourage recruitment into training.

Edinburgh Council Education Committee religious representatives' voting rights removed

Councillors have voted to remove voting rights from unelected religious representatives from the Church of Scotland, the Roman Catholic Church and Edinburgh Interfaith Association who sit on Edinburgh Council's Education Committee. The voting powers dated back to 1918 when control of Catholic schools was handed over to the state from the church and different faith groups had expressed a strong desire to see them retained.

National Content Standard for RE in England published

The Religious Education Council of England and Wales published, in September, a National Content Standard. This provides clarification and a benchmark for 'excellence in religion and worldviews/religious education (RE) in England'. It is a non-statutory benchmark for syllabus providers and other bodies to evaluate their work. It provides a standard by which different RE curricula, content, pedagogy, and provision can be benchmarked.

The document has been developed around extracts from a draft resource released in May 2022 which has been the focus of subsequent consultation and scrutiny. The final version of the resource will form a handbook for curriculum developers in the subject and is due for completion in Spring 2024. The RE Council has partnered with a range of contributors in the national RE sector in this project.

Hate crime

SikhGuard, a national platform designed to encourage members of the Sikh community to report incidents of hate crime was given a formal launch in Nottingham in August at an event organised by Nottinghamshire Police in Siri Guru Singh Sabha Gurdwara Sikh Temple. SikhGuard (sikhguard.org) aims to make it easier for people from within the community who have experienced abuse to come forward and report it to the police.

CST report on Antisemitic incidents

In August the Community Security Trust published its report on Antisemitic Incidents from January to June 2023. Antisemitic Incidents Report January-June 2023

It shows 803 instances of anti-Jewish hate recorded across the UK in the first six months of this year. This is a 2% decrease from the 823 incidents reported in the first half of 2022. 26% of the incidents were of abuse online - an increase of 37% from the online incidents recorded in the first half of 2022.

Tell Mama report on Anti-Muslim Hate

Tell Mama have published a report on case numbers and classifications of anti-Muslim hate cases covering a decade from 2012-2022, in the course of which there has been a doubling of verified and confirmed anti-Muslim hate cases reported to Tell MAMA. The report looks at the nature of these and factors linked with them.

Leicester unrest

A year on from disturbances in Leicester, three panellists have been appointed by Secretary of State for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities (DLUHC) Rt Hon Michael Gove MP to sit on an independent review chaired by Lord Ian Austin, Dr Samir Shah CBE, Professor Hilary Pilkington and Dr Shaaz Mahboob. Speaking on the appointments, Lord Austin said: "Leicester has a proud history of diversity, tolerance and community cohesion which makes what happened last year all the more troubling. We want to listen to people in Leicester to understand last year's events, what can be learned from them and how communities in the city can work together to prevent problems in future."

A DLUHC spokesperson said that the panel would look to establish the facts of the unrest and analyse its causes, with a view to making “practical recommendations” on how to avoid such events in future. It is expected to report next year.

SOAS University of London Director Professor Adam Habib is supporting a separate independent public inquiry and related research into “violence between members of South Asian communities that took place in the East Midlands city of Leicester in September 2022”. It is chaired by Juan E. Méndez.

Charity Commission social media guidance for charities

The Charity Commission for England and Wales has published new social media guidance for charities. The guidance “makes clear that social media can be a highly effective way for a charity to engage its audiences and communicate about its work but that there are risks involved, which trustees should plan for. The new guidance is clear that charities using social media should have a social media policy in place and should ensure the policy is followed. This is standard practice in many charities and across other sectors and industries, and can help an organisation avoid problems and address issues swiftly if they occur.” The guidance aims to help trustees understand their risks, how their legal duties apply, and what to consider if issues arise.

Special Feature – Faith friendly workplaces

There has been increasing interest in how to develop ‘faith friendly’ workplaces. This has been developing over a number of years. For example, both the Equality and Human Rights Commission and ACAS have produced guidance with this purpose.

<https://www.equalityhumanrights.com/en/religion-or-belief-workplace>
<https://www.acas.org.uk/acas-guide-to-religion-or-belief-discrimination>

Many networks and working groups have been emerging across the last year, such as a Faith and Belief Network at Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust and the Religion and Belief Working Groups launched at the Atomic Weapons Establishment. New single faith networks are also emerging. Most recently, a new trade union faith and belief network was launched at the TUC Congress in Liverpool in September. Its purpose is to encourage dialogue between unions, faith organisations and community groups and it aims to explore common ground on the dignity of labour and trade union rights, and in-work poverty.

The growing number of initiatives reflects an increasing awareness by organisations and their employees of the significance of religion and belief – both in terms of staff wellbeing and good workplace relations but also because religious diversity can strengthen organisations, including their understanding of clients’ needs.

As well as new networks emerging, many companies are seeking to strengthen their work in the area of religion and belief. CBREUK, for example launched, during Inter Faith Week last year, 'Holding Faith', described as its first ever practical guide to faith, religion and belief in the workplace, noting that it hoped that “the guidance sparks meaningful conversations and helps break down barriers when it comes to supporting colleagues of faith”. <https://tinyurl.com/yh3dk9t8>

As noted in the last issue of the Newsletter, a new initiative, ‘Faith Friendly Workplaces’ has been formed which is drawing together staff workplace networks from companies around the UK. This emerged from the organisation ‘Transform’ and is being supported with research by the Multi Faith Centre at the University of Derby. A meeting about faith in the workplace was held at 10 Downing Street in July where employers talked with the Prime Minister’s Advisers about encouraging faith-friendly policies and there are plans for a summit in the coming year.

Inter Faith Week offers a great opportunity for companies and staff to explore religion and belief issues and to start, develop and deepen initiatives.

For the 2021 Week, the Inter Faith Network provided a special Inter Faith Blog for the Employers’ Network for Equality and Inclusion on this. <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/workplaces> Here are just a few ‘top tips’ from the Blog for employers and employees based on our work in this area.

Consider how your company/workplace is responding to faith and belief issues

- What faith and inter faith networks are operating in our company or workplace? Would it be helpful to support new networks into being?
- How are we encouraging religion and belief literacy in the workplace?
- Is our corporate climate one that is ‘faith and belief friendly’, where people feel comfortable to bring that aspect of their identity to work?
- Workplace provision – How are we responding to needs for example appropriate catering options, prayer/mediation space, and pastoral/spiritual support?
- Are we recruiting in a way which encourages diversity in the applicant base?
- How strong is the religion and belief dimension of our equalities policy and implementation?

- How may our company/workplace benefit from its diverse workforce, including those of different faiths and beliefs?

Encourage and enable people to bring the faith and belief dimension of their lives to work

People work best when they feel that they can bring their whole selves to the work place. Where people feel that they are welcomed and that inclusion of faith or belief is apparent, it can have a positive impact on a person's wellbeing and approach to work and colleagues.

Create/encourage staff networks to develop inter faith understanding and good relations within the workforce

Faith and belief are not always fully understood. Developing networks can help increase religious literacy and foster stronger relationships and good relations in the workplace. You could:

- Encourage single faith based staff networks (e.g. Hindu, Muslim or Christian network)
- Support the setting up of a multi faith staff network

Remember to allow people to self-define and to explain faith or non-religious belief from their own perspective: people practise their faith in a range of ways.

Hold special events to increase understanding and build good inter faith relations

You could:

- Run a webinar for/with your offices around the country on religion and belief issues and the importance of good relations
- Use a platform such as Coffee Roulette or a programme like the Inter Faith Network's 'Inter Faith Buddies' to encourage one to one conversations
- Enable or support particular dialogues, such one between a Muslim and Jewish network, on issues of common interest
- set up occasional online talks – for example about particular topics like faith festivals such as Easter, Wesak or Vaisakhi, or highlighting some of the perhaps less well know traditions such as Baha'i, Pagan, Jain or Zoroastrian faiths
- Hold a discussion about the ways in which religious literacy and dialogue might contribute to and strengthen the realisation of your corporate values.

And don't forget to schedule events in a faith aware way! Check out a multi faith calendar such as the Shap calendar to ensure that events don't clash with particular festivals and talk with your staff of different faiths about questions of timing.

Inter Faith Week

This year Inter Faith Week will take place across England, Northern Ireland and Wales from Sunday 12 to Sunday 19 November. This will be the 15th Inter Faith Week.

Events and activities

Now is a great time to begin planning an activity for the Week! There are lots of activity ideas and resources to help you run an event at Resources - Inter Faith Week. Another great resource is 'Strengthening Cooperation and Understanding: Inter Faith Week 2022'. This is packed with examples and pictures of how the Week was marked by faith and inter faith organisations, local authorities, emergency services, universities, colleges, schools, hospitals and hospices, sports bodies, museums, libraries, and many others.

A Zoom 'tips and planning session' will take place on 4 October (further information under Diary Dates).

Please let us know about your events and activities

IFN maintains an interactive map and calendar listings which will show events happening by town/city across the country. This adds to the buzz of the Week and helps media and others find out what's going on.

If you arrange an activity, please do take a few minutes to tell us about it at www.interfaithweek.org/register. If you register your activity on the website, you can request a free Inter Faith Week registration pack (subject to availability).

The Inter Faith Week logo, flyer, poster, and other branding materials can be downloaded at <http://www.interfaithweek.org/resources/publicity-and-branding>.

Hate crime and security concerns

Levels of reported antisemitic and Islamophobic incidents rose sharply from 7 October.

The CST (Community Security Trust) reported on 13 December the highest ever total of antisemitic incidents (2,093) reported to it across a sixty-eight-day period from 7 October – a 534% increase on the same period last year -

<https://cst.org.uk/news/blog/2023/12/13/antisemitic-incidents-13-december-update> and Tell MAMA reported on 14 December that it had recorded 1,350 anti-Muslim cases between 7 October and 6 December, by contrast to 177 cases during the same period in 2022 (a 663% increase) - <https://tellmama.org/tell-mama-saw-more-than-a-seven-fold-increase-in-anti-muslim-cases-since-october-7/>.

Publicly reported incidents targeting Jews and Muslims have ranged from defacement of posters, antisemitic placards, hateful graffitiing in places such as schools, attacks on premises such as restaurants and physical attacks and threats of attack. There has also been a virulent swirl of verbal attacks and misinformation on social media.

IFN's Board addressed this increase in hate crime in the UK as part of a statement on standing together against hate crime, <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/standing-together-against-hate-crime>, which includes the following:

As well as responding through reporting hate incidents and raised security, it is vital that we stand together and respond in solidarity where people would seek to divide through inflammatory rhetoric or intimidation.

Views on situations and actions in the UK and internationally may differ (indeed may differ profoundly, with people deeply affected by events); what cannot and must not waiver is our commitment as people of different faiths in the UK to maintaining a safe environment for our lives together and to sustaining and continuing to develop relationships of trust and respect.”

As at all times, IFN encourages people to stand up to hate and stand with those who are at risk and feeling vulnerable to hate crime. Information on reporting hate crimes is below. Faith and inter faith groups have a very important part to play in responding to hate crime and community tensions. This is reflected in IFN's guidance, Looking after one another: the safety and security of our faith communities

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/looking-after-one-another-the-safety-and-security-of-our-faith-communities-2023>.

The Jewish festival of Chanukah has recently taken place and the safety of public Chanukah menorahs has been a focus of concern. In the case of one local authority, the London Borough of Havering, display of a chanukiah outside the city hall was initially 'paused' due to security concerns in the light of increased hate crimes with the council citing "escalating tensions from the conflict in the Middle East". The decision was later reversed. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-england-london-67601261> Elsewhere in London, two public Chanukah menorahs were vandalised. <https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/world/two-menorahs-attacked-prompting-met-investigation/ar-AA1lvYmO>

In November, the London Borough of Hounslow Council postponed, at short notice, a planned hosting of the Board of Deputies of British Jews' Jewish Living Experience exhibition saying "... due to the current situation in Gaza and associated increase in reported hate crimes, there is significant heightened risk to personal safety across London and consideration of this had to take precedence."

On 26 November, a march against antisemitism, organised by the Campaign Against Antisemitism, took place in London. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-67537351>

REPORTING AND RESPONDING TO HATE INCIDENTS

Report hate crimes and incidents online through True Vision or via 3rd parties eg Community Security Trust (CST); Tell MAMA; Sikhguard; and Stop Hate UK; at a police station; or by ringing the police on 101 (non-emergency) or 999.

Community and inter faith impact and response

There has been an impact on inter faith relations and community relations, both in terms of inter faith engagement by local and national faith communities and within different sectors such as workplaces, schools, FE colleges and universities.

<https://www.cipd.org.uk/views-and-insights/thought-leadership/insight/support-workforce-israel-gaza/>

<https://solutionsnotsides.co.uk/learning-resources>

<https://feweek.co.uk/how-colleges-can-foster-safe-engagement-with-the-israel-palestine-conflict/>

Across the UK, many efforts have been being made to retain important links and connections. IFN's website carries examples of a number of local and national inter faith vigils and statements <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/inter-faith-statements-vigils-prayer-gatherings> for example:

- Prayers for peace events, such as those in York <https://www.yorkpress.co.uk/news/23881998.york-interfaith-group-hold-event-israel-hamas-conflict/> and in Derby <https://multifaithcentre.org/events/city-wide-prayer-for-peace>.
- Local vigils, such as one in Blackburn <https://theshuttle.org.uk/peace-vigil-for-israel-and-palestine/> and at a national level, such as one organised by Together for Humanity, held opposite Downing Street on 3 December <https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/vigil-london-archbishop-of-canterbury-b2457728.html>.
- Statements by faith leaders such as those from the Birmingham Faith Leaders Group <https://twitter.com/BishopAnneH/status/1714771225224827192>; faith leaders in Bradford https://twitter.com/toby\_howarth/status/1712063234331619381/photo/1; the Muslim Jewish Forum of Greater Manchester <https://www.muslimjewish.org.uk/Past-events/Gaza-statement-2023-10-11.html>; Oxfordshire faith leaders <https://www.oxford.anglican.org/violence-and-hatred-can-never-be-the-solution.php>; and Scottish faith leaders <https://www.gov.scot/news/leaders-reaffirm-inter-faith-solidarity-in-scotland/>.

There have also been discussions between local faith leaders, such as at a meeting of Jewish and Muslim leaders at the Abdullah Quilliam Mosque in Liverpool. <https://liverpoolexpress.co.uk/liverpool-faith-leaders-to-strengthen-understanding/>

There have been a number of events held to explore how to remain in dialogue and building on commonalities, as well as inter faith responses focusing directly on events in Israel and Gaza, such as the Woolf Institute's 'How to keep on talking' webinar <https://www.woolf.cam.ac.uk/blog/how-to-keep-talking-the-woolf-institute-addresses-interfaith-relations-in-light-of-the-latest-misery-in-israel-gaza>, workplace dialogues such as one held by Barts Health Interfaith and Belief Network, and podcasts such as <https://leedssanctuary.org.uk/2023/12/04/the-leeds-sanctuary-podcast-justice-international-conflict-and-local-communities/> with local Muslim and Jewish contributors.

Inter Faith Week, last month, provided a number of contexts for engagement by Jews, Muslims and others of a kind that has lessened in many other contexts since 7 October. Some, such as the Chair of Northampton InterFaith Forum, which held activities to mark the Week, commented on the message of solidarity sent by coming together at this time. <https://www.northamptonchron.co.uk/whats-on/things-to-do/interfaith-debate-and-discussion-about-justice-4421574>

Note: There have also been many actions taken by the Jewish and Muslim communities relating to the Hamas Terrorist attack; the Israel Hamas war; hostages; and the deaths of civilians. These have ranged from vigils for hostages taken from Israel to marches to advocate for ceasefire; and materials produced to support pupils of that faith community in schools or give guidance on legal parameters for protests. IFN's focus is UK inter faith relations and so the focus of the report above is on the UK. Even on that basis, this piece cannot be comprehensive of all developments and readers are referred to other publications for more in depth coverage.

Inter faith engagement of The King

One of the events that took place in Inter Faith Week was a reception hosted by the Archbishop of Canterbury for His Majesty King Charles, at Lambeth Palace Library. The King spoke with a number of faith leaders and community representatives about their experiences at the present time. IFN's Co-Chairs and Executive Director were honoured to be present. Reports on that reception can be seen at <https://www.royal.uk/news-and-activity/2023-11-18/the-king-marks-inter-faith-week-with-faith-leaders-at-lambeth-palace> and <https://www.archbishopofcanterbury.org/news/news-and-statements/archbishop-canterbury-welcomes-king-and-uk-faith-leaders-lambeth-palace>. The visit was described by the Archbishop of Canterbury as a 'wonderful encouragement to remain united in partnership and friendship – as many people of faith are doing across the country' in the context of 'challenging times for faith communities in the UK, particularly with the ongoing war in the Middle East'.

The King met again with a different range of faith leaders and community representatives at a specially convened discussion at Buckingham Palace on 13 December about inter faith relations. The backdrop of many of the contributions was the impact of current events on those. You can read more about that at The Royal Family Facebook 13 December and <https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/andrew-smith-charles-israel-hamas-buckingham-palace-b2463469.html>. IFN's Executive Director highlighted, during the discussion, the importance of conversations at local level, such as those within local inter faith bodies and bilateral groups; education for religious literacy (including RE); opportunities for learning and dialogue - including about difficult issues; and faith community cooperation on social issues.

Scottish Government Hate Crime Delivery Plan

In Scotland, the law currently recognises hate crime based on prejudice towards the following groups: Disability, Race, Religion, Sexual orientation and Transgender identity. In November the Scottish Government published its Hate Crime Strategy Delivery Plan. This sets out the activity that the Scottish Government and partners will undertake between 2023 and 2026 to support delivery of the commitments within the Hate Crime Strategy for Scotland that was published earlier this year.

Faith community 'warm spaces'

Places of worship and faith centres across the UK have again opened their doors as warm spaces for those who are struggling to heat their homes. Many of these are doing so through the Warm Welcome initiative, an initiative of the Good Faith Partnership. A list of all warm spaces registered can be found at <https://www.warmwelcome.uk>. The mission of the initiative is to support organisations to open their doors and provide a warm welcome. Information on setting up and registering a warm space can be found at <https://www.warmwelcome.uk/spaces>.

In November, the UK Health Security Agency published Warm spaces in England: an evidence review and toolkit for local organisations. This provides a framework for organisations seeking to develop or evaluate a warm space for their local population during the winter. The toolkit also includes case studies sharing examples of best and promising practice as well as signposting to resources to support organisations in developing their warm space offer.

Faith groups and food for those in need

A number of places of worship run local food banks or provide free meals, for example the Sikh Soup Kitchen in Birmingham <https://www.facebook.com/thesikhsoupkitchen/> or collect for a local food bank such as this recent Diwali donation to a local foodbank <https://london.ctvnews.ca/let-s-celebrate-diwali-with-the-community-london-food-bank-receives-significant-donation-1.6656445>.

The Trussell Trust works with the support of many churches in the UK <https://www.trusselltrust.org/get-involved/church-support> and the Church in Wales has a Food and Fuel Project <https://www.churchinwales.org.uk/en/about-us/our-campaigns/food-fuel/>. Other programmes such as Mitzvah Day work with different foodbanks, such as Foodbank Aid in North London. <https://mitzvahday.org.uk/project/foodbank-aid-north-london-network/>

In some areas, faith communities run homelessness projects, such as this one set up by Merton Faith in Action which provides hot food, showers and a night shelter <http://www.mertonfaithinaction.org/> and this one run in the Manchester region by Muslim Charity <https://muslimcharity.org.uk/project/uk-homeless-project/>.

Some local inter faith groups, such as Faiths Together in Croydon, have received food donations via local schools and other groups to pass on to families in need. <https://twitter.com/WhitgiftSchool1/status/1736794258634363157>

2023 Equality and Human Rights Monitor

In November the Equality and Human Rights Commission published The Equality and Human Rights Monitor 2023. This charts how Britain is performing on equality and human rights. It is split into chapters for the protected characteristics in the Equality Act 2010, including one on religion or belief. Its key findings for the sector, in the order presented in its summary, are:

- Outcomes for Muslims in Britain have improved in higher education attainment, employment, reduced economic inactivity and median hourly income. However, these are still poorer outcomes than for most other religious groups. Adult and child poverty and severe material deprivation remains high among Muslims.
- In Britain, educational and employment outcomes for Hindus have improved. Hindus are the most likely group to have a degree level qualification and, along with Jewish people, to have higher hourly earnings.
- Overall prevalence of religious hate crime in England and Wales has not changed, while other types of hate crime have fallen in the long term. Sudden increases in racial or religiously motivated offences have been seen around major political or terrorist trigger events, including the EU referendum, July 2017 terrorist attacks and the Black Lives Matter protests and counter-protests in summer 2020.

- There has been significant emerging case law clarifying the scope of protections for beliefs and expression of beliefs, and the extent to which provision of services can and cannot be restricted on the basis of religion and belief.

Faith communities and elections

The Prime Minister has said that the next General Election will be held in 2024. Ahead of that, a number of bye-elections are being held.

Earlier this month the Charity Commission and Electoral Commission chairs shared advice for charities, including faith-based charities, engaging in public debate.

<https://charitycommission.blog.gov.uk/2023/12/01/charity-commission-and-electoral-commission-chairs-share-advice-for-charities-engaging-in-public-debate/> This notes that charities also need to know about the new Non-Party Campaigner Code which came into effect on 1 December. This notes that electoral law requires charities to register as non-party campaigners if they spend over a certain amount on regulated campaign activities in the 12 months leading up to the next election.

Campaigning undertaken by charities must align with their charitable purposes and further them. The guidance for charities on campaigning and political activity produced by the Charity Commission for England and Wales sets out a framework when considering any campaign for a charity. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/speaking-out-guidance-on-campaigning-and-political-activity-by-charities-cc9> The Commission also has additional guidance on campaigning and political activity at the time of elections and referendums. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/speaking-out-guidance-on-campaigning-and-political-activity-by-charities-cc9/charities-elections-and-referendums>

Similar guidance for charities in Northern Ireland is at <https://www.charitycommissionni.org.uk/charity-essentials/charities-and-politics/> and in Scotland at https://www.oscr.org.uk/media/2899/v14\_faqs-charities-and-campaigning-on-political-issues.pdf.

Faith community support for asylum seekers and refugees

Faith groups help asylum seekers and refugees through many routes from community sponsorship, to provision of essentials and, in some instances, engagement with Government over relevant policies. In a recent example of the latter, leaders from faith and belief institutions across London asked the Home Office to re-examine a recent change in practice which has meant that, since August, refugees are having much less notice that their asylum support will end than the stated policy of 28 days.

<https://www.london.anglican.org/articles/faith-leaders-call-on-home-office-to-re-examine-seven-day-evictions-practice/>

There are a number of agencies and initiatives in this field – some of which in the UK, such as Scottish Action for Refugees, City of Sanctuary and Citizens UK, have a direct link to faith communities or significant involvement from faith organisations. Such initiatives often see faith communities working side by side in inter faith response.

Payments for bereaved parents who have been supported by local faith groups

The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) is looking to share information with bereaved parents who lost their partner between 9 April 2001 and 8 February 2023 and may be eligible for a backdated government payment even if they no longer have dependent children. The DWP has worked with several national bereavement support charities but think they may be missing bereaved parents who could have turned to their local community religious/faith-based groups for support.

In February the Government extended eligibility for Bereavement Support Payment (BSP) and Widowed Parent's Allowance (WPA) to cohabiting parents with dependent children. These payments can be backdated to 30 August 2018. These benefits were previously only available to bereaved parents who were married or in a civil partnership. DWP opened a 12-month window for cohabiting parents to backdate their claims. The deadline for backdating claims is 8 February 2024.

Review of RE in Northern Ireland recommended

The final report of the Independent Review of Education in Northern Ireland was published earlier this month. The Panel undertaking the Review concluded that there are a number of areas which need particular consideration at pace by the Curriculum Taskforce in the short term and the Curriculum Council in the longer term. These include Religious Education. It notes that: "It may be that the outcome of litigation ongoing at the time of the publication of our Report may make the drawing up of a new religious education syllabus an immediate necessity. However, we consider that the increasing diversity of Northern Irish society makes it highly desirable that a review be undertaken in the near future, regardless of the legal processes."

Scottish People's Panel key findings

In November Research findings from the Scottish Government's 'People's Panel' on community resilience were published. The 'People's Panel for Wellbeing: 2022 and beyond' was set up with the aim to enable members of the public to provide up-to-date and relevant views, opinions, experiences, and ideas on the wellbeing of people in Scotland. This panel specifically focused on the COVID-19 recovery period, whilst also addressing other significant issues such as the cost-of-living crisis and community resilience. The 'key findings' from the research note that many saw the value of local communities. They were recognised as a source of information through speaking to neighbours, attending community cafes and local faith groups.

Religious representatives' voting rights removed in Scotland

It was noted in the last issue of the Newsletter that Councillors had voted to remove voting rights from unelected religious representatives who sit on Edinburgh Council's Education Committee. East Lothian Council has this month voted to do the same. The decision followed a consultation in October in which 84% of respondents said religious representatives should not retain their vote.

Special feature - Inter Faith Week

This year Inter Faith Week took place across England, Northern Ireland and Wales from Sunday 12 to Sunday 19 November. This was the 15th Inter Faith Week.

Across the Week, more than 1,000 activities are known to have taken place, making it the biggest Week yet! And we are still hearing about more activities and events each day. Thousands of people took part in the Week and its positive messages has also reached millions through social media.

Canon Hilary Barber and Narendra Waghela, Co-Chairs of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, which leads on the Week in England, Northern Ireland and Wales, said:

“Inter Faith Week has become an increasingly important fixture in the public calendar. Across the last week, hundreds of activities have taken place which have helped to highlight and encourage understanding about different faiths and beliefs; strengthen good inter faith relations and social cooperation for the common good.”

With concern about tensions and a rise in antisemitic and anti-Muslim hate incidents in the UK, very welcome was the conversation of HM The King with faith leaders and community representatives at an Inter Faith Week reception for him hosted by the Archbishop of Canterbury. A number of those who held activities to mark the Week have commented on the particular importance of coming together at this time.”

You can read more about the Week in the press release here. A full list of activities can be seen on the website here.

Inter Faith Week messages from faith leaders

Many faith leaders issued messages for the Week here.

Feedback on the Week

If you held an activity for the Week, thank you for making the week such a success! If you have not already responded to the feedback survey, we would be very grateful if you could spare some time to share any thoughts or reflections that you may have on your experience of the Week. Your responses help us to evaluate and accurately report on the Week, and to continue to develop it in the future. They also help IFN's broader work to support good inter faith relations in the UK. The link to the survey can be found at <https://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/IFW2023/>.

communities to better serve their residents. More information is at <https://www.faithaction.net/working-with-you/appg-on-faith-and-society/>.

Councils marking religious festivals

A number of local authorities in the UK, such as Leeds City Council, have programmes to mark a range of religious and community festivals by lighting up buildings. Norwich City is an example of a Council which has recently begun a programme to do so. It began by displaying a Menorah on its City Hall to mark Chanukah and Council officers are exploring how the council should mark Eid and Diwali, amongst other festivals.

IFN includes religious festival dates on its website by kind permission of the Shap Calendar Group. The dates for 2024 have been made available by Shap and are now on the IFN website at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/religious-festivals>.

In March 2017 the IFN Faith Communities Forum agreed a document setting out two festivals from each community on which greetings from those of other faiths and none would be particularly appreciated. ### STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF BOARD OF IFN ON LETTER FROM SECRETARY OF STATE RT HON MICHAEL GOVE ON FUNDING FOR THE INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK

On Friday 19 January IFN received a letter from the Secretary of State for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities, Rt Hon Michael Gove MP, saying that he is 'minded' to withdraw the offer of fresh funding (for July 2023 to March 2024) that was made to IFN on 7 July 2023 because IFN has a Trustee who is a member of the Muslim Council of Britain and that this posed a reputational risk to Government. IFN was given until 26 January to respond.

A statement about this was issued, on behalf of the Board of Trustees of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, on 24 January. The statement includes the points from IFN's Co-Chairs' response to the Secretary of State. It can be found at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-on-a-letter-received-by-ifns-co-chairs-from-secretary-of-state-levelling-up-housing-and-communities-rt-hon-michael-gove-mp>.

This potential non granting of the funds offered, subject to conditions, in July last year puts IFN's work and its very existence in jeopardy.

Inter Faith Network for the UK likely imminent closure Read more

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK LIKELY IMMINENT CLOSURE

On 7 February, the Board of the Inter Faith Network for the UK took, with great regret, an in principle decision to move towards closure of the organisation.

That will be confirmed, on 22 February and greater detail provided subsequently – unless by that time the funding offered by the Government on 7 July 2023 for work from July 2023 to March 2024, subject to conditions, is made available or funds at an equivalent level are received from other quarters.

The background to this decision can be seen in a statement issued by IFN’s Board on 24 January, following a letter of 19 January from Secretary of State Rt Hon Michael Gove MP saying that he was ‘minded to withdraw’ the funding offered in July 2023. The Board’s statement can be seen here, and key points made by its Co-Chairs in response to Mr Gove’s concerns about IFN having a Trustee who is a member of the Muslim Council of Britain can be seen here.

Continued uncertainty regarding Government funding to the Inter Faith Network has had a hugely damaging effect on the charity. Continuing to operate without the £155,000 offered over six months ago has not proven possible, despite other fundraising efforts and IFN’s widely acknowledged importance as a trusted and effective UK-wide body working to deepen understanding about and between different faiths and inter faith cooperation and to share information and good practice.

The Board is grateful to all the many individuals and organisations who have written to MPs and Ministers, started or signed petitions, made donations, and in other ways shown deep and often humbling support to IFN across the last year. It is also grateful to those parliamentarians who, on a cross-party basis, have offered support across this period – as well as across the period April to June 2023 where no funding was given following a 31 March letter from DLUHC saying that there would be no funding from 1 April.

In preparing for IFN's likely closure, the Board will be looking across the coming weeks, with input from members and others, at whether and how particular strands of IFN's work, including Inter Faith Week, may be taken forward for the future, as part of ensuring that positive inter faith relations in the UK can continue to be promoted effectively, particularly in the challenging environment we collectively face.

IS ACTION STILL POSSIBLE TO SAVE THE INTER FAITH NETWORK AND ITS WORK?

There are two weeks until the Board meets on 22 February to make a final decision on closure. As the press release explains, that decision rests on whether funding has been secured. There is still time to raise your voice about this.

Writing to MPs and the Secretary of State

A number of individuals and organisations have been writing to their local MPs to ask that they raise urgently with the Secretary of State, Rt Hon Michael Gove MP, the matter of IFN's funding. Some are also writing to the Secretary of State directly asking him to release the funding offered last July.

You can find contact details for your MP at

<https://members.parliament.uk/members/Commons> Details for the Secretary of State are: The Rt Hon Michael Gove MP, Secretary of State for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities, Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities, South West Quadrant, 2nd Floor, Fry Building, 2 Marsham Street, London SW1P 4DF and Ministerial.Correspondence@levellingup.gov.uk

Public statements, open letters and social media posts

Some organisations have chosen to make public statements about the position IFN finds itself in, or to post open letters on Facebook or X (formerly Twitter) to the Secretary of State and others with influence.

Many individuals and organisations have been posting on X, Facebook, LinkedIn and elsewhere about their shock and concern about the Secretary of State's decision and/or noting their support for IFN. If you are doing this, it can be particularly helpful to note the ways in which IFN has added value to your or your organisation's inter faith work. You could also choose to tag the Secretary of State and/ or his Department.

Some organisations and individuals have also let IFN know that they will be contacting the press, either to send them copies of statements/ open letters, or to try and place opinion pieces about the value and importance of IFN and its work. It is also possible that, as the news of IFN's position becomes more widely known, some member bodies may be approached by journalists for comment directly. If you intend to engage with the press and would like IFN to check the accuracy of any material ahead of this, please contact the IFN office by emailing ifnet@interfaith.org.uk.

Online petitions

One local inter faith practitioner has set up a petition on the Change.org website. You can view and sign the petition at <https://www.change.org/p/urge-michael-gove-to-maintain-funding-for-the-interfaith-network-in-the-uk>

SUPPORT THE INTER FAITH NETWORK'S WORK TO INCREASE INTER FAITH UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION IN THE UK

The Inter Faith Network for the UK works for inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK. As of 8 February, its closure looks imminent, for the reasons explained in this newsletter.

If Government funding does come through in time to save the work of the Inter Faith Network, or if other major funding is instead secured by 22 February, your gift would be used to continue IFN's work.

Donations can also be made by cheque payable to 'The Inter Faith Network' and sent to: The Inter Faith Network for the UK, Mary Sumner House, 24 Tufton Street, London, SW1P 3RB.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK BOARD ANNOUNCES CLOSURE OF CHARITY DUE TO WITHDRAWAL OF GOVERNMENT FUNDING – 22 FEBRUARY 2024

The Board of Trustees of the Inter Faith Network for the UK met today. It has, with much regret, agreed that the charity will close.

This is linked to withdrawal by Government of funding for July 2023-March 2024 offered in July 2023, subject to conditions. In a letter to IFN’s Co-Chairs from Secretary of State Rt Hon Michael Gove MP of 21 February, it was confirmed that the offer of funding was being withdrawn. This was for reasons foreshadowed in an earlier letter from him to them of 19 January, to which they had responded in detail (see statement of 24 January <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statement-on-a-letter-received-by-ifns-co-chairs-from-secretary-of-state-levelling-up-housing-and-communities-rt-hon-michael-gove-mp>).

Mr Gove’s letter of 21 February notes that: “The Government has had a policy of non-engagement with the MCB since 2009. Whilst I recognise that the MCB was already a member of the Inter Faith Network when the previous offer of funding was made, I find their membership regrettable and it is deeply concerning that an MCB member could be appointed into your core governance structure. This increases the proximity between government funding and an organisation (the MCB) with which the Government has a long-standing policy of non-engagement. This is even more important in the case of funding for a prominent and nationally active organisation such as the IFN, which would carry too great a risk of compromising the credibility and effectiveness of that policy.”

The Board has sought with energy to diversify IFN’s funding base. However, the kind of work done by infrastructure and backbone bodies - such as linking, sharing good practice and fostering dialogue - is not eye-catching and easy to fund and does need some financial support from Government. IFN’s Board was glad to receive from Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities in July 2023 the offer of £155,000 fresh funding for the period July 2023 – March 2024 (approximately 50% of its budget this year). It is deeply disappointed that despite IFN having stood ready throughout the process to have dialogue with the Government, no opportunity was offered for that and that – over seven months after the offer of funding (subject to conditions) – withdrawal of funding appears necessary to Mr Gove for the reasons that he outlines.

As IFN's Co-Chairs had earlier explained to Mr Gove in a response of 22 January to his letter of 19 January, "It is fully understood that Government can choose not to engage with bodies for reasons that it is not required to make public. However, it would be difficult for a charity to do so where a body has not been proscribed, had legal action taken against it or unless there were to be a clear issue of reputational damage (not always, of course, a straightforward matter to judge)."

IFN's Co-Chairs also commented that: "It is not easy to see how IFN's purpose (the value of which it has always been believed the Government appreciates) could be achieved by sowing division - and division would certainly be sown if there was an attempt to expel from membership, without its having been proscribed, found guilty of illegal actions or in some way acted so as to bring reputational damage to IFN, an organisation that has among its members (and therefore represents) over 500 national, regional and local Muslim organisations, mosques, charities and schools. Although the Government can choose not to engage with it, that is not a sensible option open to the IFN if it is to achieve the purposes for which the Government funds it in the first place."

The background to IFN's engagement with the Department over this matter of funding can be seen via links on the homepage of the IFN website at www.interfaith.org.uk.

The matter has been repeatedly raised by Parliamentarians, including through an Adjournment Debate on 10 January and an Urgent Question from Rt Hon Sir Stephen Timms MP on 22 February, with cross-party contributions about the importance of IFN's work. There have also been letters to MPs and Ministers from across the UK, as well as articles and statements by national faith community bodies, local inter faith groups and others, and a petition set up by a local inter faith practitioner.

Neither the careful and considered response of IFN's Board, nor the widespread support and concern at the potential loss of the Inter Faith Network for the UK have led Mr Gove to reconsider his position.

Therefore, the organisation is now on the path to closure and IFN Trustees and staff will be working to bring the organisation's work to a close and to preserve its legacy in ways that enable others to build strongly on that in the future.
