Organisation(s) holding the event:

Multi-Faith Centre at the University of Derby

Short description:

The translation of the Bible into vernacular languages was one of the distinctive features of the Protestant Reformation. Though not the first, even in German, Luther's translations of 1522 and 1534 were hugely influential. Since his time there has been an enormous profusion of widely varying translations, prompted by different interests and perspectives, as well as by new discoveries. Even the question of which books should be included has been controversial. This talk will explore the diversity of the plethora of translations - especially those in English. What can we know about the 'originals'? And what is lost - and gained - in translation? Join us for a lecture on this topic given by Emeritus Professor Jonathan Powers.

AWAZ the Voice of Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) People and Communities in Cumbria

Short description:

Hidden Stories Shared Lives is a heritage project that aims at collecting and sharing oral histories of migration in Cumbria and celebrating diversity and lust for life. As part of the project we were trying to build a picture of the people who have chosen Cumbria to be their home and who with their life experiences have added new threads to the rich tapestry of this county. The Everyday Life Portraits exhibition is a result of the artistic cooperation between artist Jane Dudman and people interviewed for the project. The exhibition comprises informative and creative parts where a collection of stories and everyday objects give us an artful picture of Cumbrian diversity and the everyday life of people who came from far and wide.

Short description:

This event is taking place during Interfaith Week. The University is collaborating with the St Philip's Centre and The Chaplaincy to engage students in an informal discussion about the city and getting involved in the community through various faith and community-driven initiatives (eg: support for the homeless, refugees and asylum seekers). The event will take place over the lunch period. We've invited speakers from various faith backgrounds to talk about their respective initiatives and ways in which students can get involved. Students will also be given the opportunity to ask questions and sign-up to the various volunteering opportunities at their disposal.

Within the current context of the need for fresh responses to hate crime, and despite progress within the domains of scholarship and policy, escalating levels of hate crime and the associated rise in tensions, demonisation and hostility towards 'difference' cast doubt over the effectiveness of existing measures and their capacity to protect victims. This session draws from extensive fieldwork conducted by the panel members to examine, among other things, the nature, impact and implications of hate crime. Speakers include Professor Neil Chakraborti, Head of Department and Director of the Centre for Hate Studies, Department of Criminology, University of Leicester; Kim Sadique, Senior Lecturer in Community and Criminal Justice, De Montfort University; and Dr Irene Zempi, Lecturer in Criminology, Nottingham Trent University.

Short description:

For faith leaders and paid or unpaid pastoral workers from faith communities in Leicester and Leicestershire to discuss the issues and share skills and good practice around helping people who disclose domestic violence. We know that domestic violence happens within families and relationships in all communities, and sometimes pastoral workers are the people who are confided in. Our vision is that this event will mark the start of continued training and support for faith groups. One goal is for every local faith organisation to have a trained Community Champion for domestic violence by the end of 2018. This event is supported by Leicester City Council.

Name of activity: Building Communities with LEGO®

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Speke Training Education Centre

Short description:

This project has been born out of work with children of refugee families in the North West. When considering the areas that make them feel isolated when they try to become integrated in their new homes most of these children claim the lack of understanding around their religion is a cause for distrust and can lead to upset and aggression. Delving further highlighted a lack of understanding of religious traditions of new arrivals in the UK. This led us to develop a programme that would allow for discussions and encourage understanding of a range of faith traditions and practices whilst using LEGO® to encourage young people to get involved and work collaboratively, in effect using LEGO® to build understanding and relationships. The young people will take part in challenges to build some great LEGO® models, complete a range of challenges that will test their building skills and improve your understanding of different faiths. LEGO® challenges have been devised by psychologists, theologians and teachers and will encourage understanding a range of world religion philosophies and also build awareness of the similarities within the Abrahamic religions, as well as the traditions of other world religions.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Initiatives of Change UK

Short description:

You are warmly invited to a Stories of Trust event to celebrate Inter Faith Week. We will hear stories from young faith leaders sharing how faith responds in global crises and how it can strengthen communities. On a personal level, youth from different faith perspectives will share how faith impacts them day to day, in light of such crises. This event will give young people the opportunity to represent their faiths, celebrate diversity and share our common humanity. It will highlight the good work done by local inter faith groups which enables interaction and sharing between people of different faith backgrounds. This will be an honest conversation, undertaken in an open and listening spirit. Part of Initiatives of Change's message is that when this type of dialogue occurs between people of different backgrounds, it enables healing, partnerships and common action. Join us for an inspiring evening with young people to celebrate our faith diversity and commonality!

Short description:

To mark Mitzvah Day and Inter Faith Week, 12 Jewish, Muslim, Christian and Humanist volunteers, including Rev David Stephenson from All Saints West Dulwich are helping Care4Calais and the Dunkirk Refugee Women's Centre. Thanks to so many people's generosity, we took 5 cars packed with donations. The interfaith initiative was instigated by Jewish Labour Movement. After sorting items in the Care4Calais warehouse and dropping donations at the Women's Centre, we went to Dunkirk. It was cold and pouring with rain. We handed out coats, jumpers and cake to over 150 refugees. Most queuing were young men, who told us how they're hounded by police, have fled war and are desperate. There were little children with parents and a 15 year boy. All polite, many spoke English, none had a bed for the night. We ran out of items. We left cold and damp, in the knowledge we would at least get a hot shower, meal and undisturbed sleep. You can give directly to Care4Calais <http://care4calais.org>
