To celebrate Inter Faith Week we'd like to invite you to Harlington Hospice to learn more about our work and the care we provide to people with life-limiting illness throughout the London Borough of Hillingdon. There will be an opportunity to hear from Councillor John Morgan, His Worship the Mayor of Hillingdon as well as our patients, practitioners and staff who will talk about the care we provide, how this makes a difference to those living with life-limiting illness and how the support we provide to their families and carers provides a lifeline at a difficult time in their lives. We will also share more details about our plans to build a new 20-bed in patient hospice unit here at Harlington and understand more about the role that faith leaders can play in providing care. During the evening we'd also like to learn from our guests about the role faith communities can play in supporting End of Life care in the borough and how our services can be strengthened for all communities.

This week, we are organising Inter Faith Week. The aims of this are to strengthen good interfaith relations, increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities represented in our school, in particular celebrate and build on the contribution which their members make to our neighbourhoods and to wider society and to increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs. A range of activities are planned, including guest speakers in assemblies, for example, the Street Pastors, members of the Hindu community in Newbury and the Muslim community. The highlight of the week is the interfaith panel made up of representatives from religious and non-religious backgrounds. Year 9 and 13 students will get to ask them questions about their beliefs and practices as well as ask their perspectives regarding current affairs. Year 7 will get involved in a treasure hunt throughout the week as well as a quiz on Wednesday with lots of prizes to be won!

Organisation(s) holding the event:

The Faith & Belief Forum

Short description:

Faith and belief can be integral to a person's identity, how they see the world, and what is important to them. Knowledgeable and inclusive workplaces, which understand lived experiences and are able to meet employees' needs, are essential to enabling individuals, teams, and organisations to thrive. Yet faith and belief inclusion is often overlooked, sometimes out of fear of 'getting it wrong'. We can help. This Inter Faith Week, you are warmly invited to join The Faith & Belief Forum at our training space in Kentish Town for networking and discussion over breakfast. Presentations will explore the common myth that talking about religion is necessarily awkward and uncomfortable, and how this idea harms employers and employees. Get to know The Faith & Belief Forum's key principles for faith inclusion and how they can support workplaces to open up rather than close down sensitive conversations, enabling you to meet the needs of your diverse teams and support everyone to thrive at work.

University of Leeds

Short description:

In our multi-cultural society, we regularly interact with people who have different religions, faiths, or non-religious core-beliefs. Unfortunately, UK culture has historically avoided talking about this topic, resulting in wide-spread misinformation, prejudice, and discrimination. It's time to create a more healthy dialogue around personal faith and belief, but it's not easy to know how to get started. This session invites representatives from different UK institutions to share their experiences of supporting organisational and cultural change. We will hear from the Office of National Statistics, the National Physical Laboratory, and University of Leeds, including time for questions from the audience. Penny Owen (Environment, Social and Governance Director at NPL) will be joined by Steve Martin-Drury - Statistical methodologist and member of the ONS All-Belief Network at the Office for National Statistics; Sebastian Wood - Principal Research Scientist at the National Physical Laboratory (NPL), and co-founder of the NPL Faith and Religious Diversity Group; and Maria Hussain - Lecturer in Business Management at Leeds University Business School and a Senior Fellow of the Higher Education Academy who also Co-Chairs the Muslim Staff Network at the University of Leeds.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Centre for Muslim-Christian Studies Oxford

Short description:

On the 10th anniversary of the death of Bishop Kenneth Cragg, we are hosting a panel discussion with Q&A. Cragg was an eminent scholar of Christian-Muslim relations and an original Christian thinker who read the Qur'an and Bible comparatively. He devoted his life to the interaction between Muslims and Christians as an active churchman and pastor who spent time in the Middle East. He was a prolific writer over a wide variety of genres, from academic papers to translations of Arabic texts, to poems and prayers for interfaith occasions. Cragg was also influential in bringing Islam to the general readership of the Anglican Church from the mid-twentieth century onwards.

Organisation(s) holding the event:

The Parkes Institute for the Study of Jewish/non-Jewish Relations, University of Southampton

Short description:

In post-war occupied Germany British and American Christians encountered Jews who had survived the years of Nazi persecution. In liberated concentration camps and Displaced Person centres, through interfaith campaigns and the immigration movement to Mandate Palestine, army chaplains, relief workers, and interfaith activists listened to survivor testimony. They witnessed the rebuilding of Jewish community life, debated their understanding of antisemitism, and advocated causes which could shape the future of Jews in Europe and elsewhere. This lecture will explore some of these unique stories of Christian-Jewish encounters in the wake of the Holocaust.

Name of activity: His Blood Be Upon Us: Revd Dr Tom Wilson's Book Launch

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Wesley's Chapel and Leysian Mission
St Philip's Centre

Short description:

The book explores the antisemitic potential of Matthew's Gospel in the Christian New Testament. It begins with a detailed discussion of the occasion of the text, before discussing key questions (Matthew's fulfilment theology, and the use of polemic in the text). Three crucial texts are examined in detail. The book discusses the reverberations of the "blood cry" arguing the deicide-focused interpretation of Matthew 27:25 is foundational to subsequent blood libels, which are also discussed. The final chapters explore how to preach from Matthew's Gospel with Jewish people in mind, including offering sample sermons to stimulate the reader's thinking about how they might teach from a controversial Matthean text in a way that denies the possibility of perpetuating Christian antisemitism.

Short description:

An online presentation showcasing the Baha'i- perspective on the purpose of religion - including readers from a variety of faith backgrounds. Religion should unite all hearts and cause wars and disputes to vanish from the face of the earth; it should give birth to spirituality, and bring light and life to every soul. If religion becomes a cause of dislike, hatred and division, it would be better to be without it... Any religion which is not a cause of love and unity is no religion.

Name of activity: Science and Religion: Moving Away from the Shallow End

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Nottingham Trent University Faith

Short description:

Join us for this special Science and Religion event to discuss the very latest research study in this area in the UK during Interfaith Week 2022. Our keynote speaker Nick Spencer has led on this ground-breaking report Science and Religion: Moving away from the shallow end which draws on a three-year project in which the researchers conducted over a hundred in-depth interviews with leading academics and science communicators and commissioned a YouGov public opinion poll of over 5,000 UK adults. For years the conversation on this topic has fixed on a limited number of (scientific) topics - evolution, Big Bang, neuroscience - and often on the loudest voices there. In short, the 'science and religion' conversation is needlessly shallow and needlessly noisy. This event will draw on the latest research, stimulate conversation and bring out the more nuanced and complex relationship between science and religion. Panel Members Ahmed Peerbhai - Islamic Faith - Imam from Masjid Al Khazra Mosque in Basford, Nottingham; Adeolu Adewoye - Baha'i Faith - Senior Lecture Biosciences, Nottingham Trent University;

Short description:

Spurring Colonialism and Slavery: Protestants and Catholics United in their Use of Psalm 132. When we think about Catholic and Protestant interpretation of Scripture during the contentious period of the 16th-17th centuries, we have come to expect difference and conflict. Yet the reception of Psalm 132 manifests a unified interpretive stance that promotes a unified aim: colonialism and enslavement. This presentation explores the ways in which European religious and political rivals took Psalm 132 as a goad and guide to conquer new lands and peoples.

This Week is Inter Faith Week at our school. We started the week with an assembly discussing some of the similarities and differences between Islam and other religions. We also had a very important reminder on how we should learn about other religions and respect them. On Friday we welcomed some guests from the Christian faith, Jewish faith and Sikh faith to discuss their faith in an assembly with the juniors. Parampreet Singh from the Sikh Gurdwara in Cardiff represented the Sikh faith (online); Reverend Emma Ackland from the Anglican Church in Barry, represented the Christian faith; and Diana Soffa, a member from the Cardiff Jewish progressive community represented the Jewish faith. This was followed by a Q&A session by the children for our guests.

Name of activity: Reorienting Christian Understandings of Judaism: Insights from Biblical Scholarship

Organisation(s) holding the event:

Leo Baeck College

Oxford Interfaith Forum

Union Theological Seminary, USA

Short description:

Biblical scholarship involves seeking understanding of venerable documents by exploring their literary, socio-cultural and historical contexts in order to understand their meanings in the past and for the present. This presentation explores what it might mean for Christians to draw upon the resources of recent biblical scholarship as a catalyst for reorienting their understanding of Jewish life, past and present, in relation to their own faith. It will unfold in four sections: Key developments in biblical scholarship: an argument for recalibrating how Christians have understood Judaism; Recent scholarly perspectives on the Pharisees: a case in point; Peering behind and beyond the scholars' methods: new perspectives on "old" texts ; and Church life and biblical scholarship: becoming "religious-critical" interpreters of Scripture.
